FRAUDULENT INVOICES.

The seventh section of the first of the new tariff resolutions, has been amended in committee of the House to read as follows :— "Any person who sends or brings into Canada, or who being in Canada has in his possession any bill heading or other paper appearing to be the heading or blank capable of being filled up and used as an invoice, and bearing any certificate purporting to show or which may be used to show that the invoice which may be made from such bill heading or blank is correct or authentic, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and liable to a penalty of $500 and imprisonment for a term not exceeding twelve months, and the goods which may be entered under any invoice made from any such bill heading shall be forfeited, unless lawful excuse and proof shall be given by the person accused." The stringency of the original resolution was intensified by one amendment and modified by another. The draft of it submitted in the budget left an option between fine and imprisonment on the one hand, but on the other made no provision for the admission of evidence that might exculpate the possessor of prohibited invoice forms from fraudulent intent. In both these respects the resolution is altered. Now the penalty includes both fine and imprisonment, as well as confiscation, while conviction is not necessarily inevitable upon the unqualified prima facie evidence of possession. The latter amendment is a good one. In placing the onus of disproof upon a man suspected of fraudulent intent because of having prohibited forms in his possession, it perhaps strains the principle that every man is held to be innocent until he is proven guilty. There is warning enough, however, in the fact that such a legal power exists, to deter any man of good intentions from harboring such papers about his office. The acceptance of prima facie evidence as convincing that criminal intentions are entertained is not thus apt to be inimical to the liberty of any innocent man.

It is well that the law should be made very express upon this form of customs fraud. Through the use of duplicate invoices the revenue has been robbed of large sums every year, and honest traders have been outstripped by unprincipled rivals. The loss to the revenue is a serious consequence of this form of fraud, a consequence that falls upon every citizen of the country, inasmuch as what is withheld by dishonest men has to be made up by the general body of the people. The revenue, however, is apt to be very well looked after, and its interests no doubt furnished the motive to the Finance Minister's action in the submitting of this resolution. The interests of general trade, not immediately under the care of a Departmental head, would perhaps not have sufficed of themselves to induce this legislation, yet the demand of those interests was quite as peremptory for such protection as was that of the revenue itself. From whatever impulse, however, the Government has been moved to recommend this amendment to the Customs Act, the amendment itself is one that must be hailed with satisfaction by all honest men who trade in imported articles.

For several years past there have been importers in this country who manufactured the documents which they submitted at the port of entry for the release of goods shipped to them. The exporters must have generally been parties to the fraud. The latter would keep their dishonest Canadian customers supplied with invoice blanks in all respects similar to those used by the foreign shippers in their legitimate business. These blanks the importer here, if dishonest enough, could fill himself, accurately copying the genuine invoice for the inventory of the goods shipped, but substituting lower prices in his spurious invoice. The correct inventory would serve to indicate the goods that were in bond for him, and the lower values would be a basis for a lower total for duty. Thus an unprincipled man, through the connivance at least of foreign shippers could evade a portion, sometimes a considerable one, of the duty he ought to pay, and thus gets his goods cheaper than the upright man who presented a genuine invoice at the customs house. Sometimes, indeed, foreign shippers would be overt accomplies, and obligingly send two invoices made out in their office, one a statement of what was actually to be paid, the other paper to be used only in getting goods out of bond. Most of the merchandise that thus got into the country at an undervaluation came from shippers in the United States, though exporters from other foreign countries have been guilty of supplying invoice forms to their customers here. A hardware firm in this city, Risley & Kerrigan, came to grief through detection of their Customs frauds. One member of that firm had to flee the country, as the law was even at that time potent to punish such rascality. Several Montreal importers were also shown to be addicted to the use of bogus invoices, and many, never found out, in various parts of this Dominion used them. It was a very fertile source of injury to honest traders, and it is a good thing for the country that the practice is likely to be stopped.

What the tariff resolution aims at the punishment of is not misrepresentation of value. The law was competent to punish for that before, where proof of the offence was available. The tariff resolution quoted above aims to stop such misrepresentation, by punishing for the having in possession, papers that on the face of them imply fraudulent intent. Such forms are declared in the new measure to be illicit property, and unless the possessor can prove that he has them for a harmless purpose, he will suffer the penalties of fine and imprisonment.

We are not assured, however, that this provision against customs frauds will prevent all those that are possible under the shelter of double invoices. Already, we are aware, exporters have been known to furnish duplicates filled out by themselves with the genuine and the spurious figures respectively. That could be done again, and is apt to be resorted to now more than ever. The resolution is silent with reference to duplicate invoices that are both filled in a foreign country. Of course no law here could be framed for the punishment of the citizen of another state, and the local user a fraudulent duplicate, no matter where contrived, is subject to penalties that are already provided for the punishment of the crime of misrepresenting the value of goods taken out of bond.

No matter where the false invoice is made, the importer who makes use of it has to perjure himself to get the reduction the thing has been fabricated to secure. He has to make the following affidavit, in which there is no loophole for a casuist to make any reservation :

I, A.B., do solemnly and truly swear that I am owner, consignee or importer, as the case may be, of the goods mentioned in the invoice now produced by me and hereunto annexed and signed by me, and that the said invoice is the true and only invoice received by me or which I expect to receive of all the goods imported as therein stated, for account of A. B.; that the said goods are properly described in the said invoice and in this entry thereof, and that nothing has been on my part, nor to my knowledge on the part of any other person, done, concealed or suppressed, whereby Her Majesty the Queen may be defrauded of any part of the duty lawfully due on the said goods; and I do further solemnly and truly swear that the prices of the goods as shown in the said invoice and as aggregated in this Bill of Entry now presented by me, exhibit the fair market value of the said goods at the time and place of their exportation to Canada without any deduction or discount for cash, or because of the exportation thereof, or for any other special consideration whatever, and that to the best of my knowledge and belief the prices so exhibited were the prices of said goods for consumption at such time and place. So help me God.

The man who can gulp down the above in reference to a false invoice is a person the trading community and the revenue need protection against, and the protection contemplated in the legislation pending is not overmuch.

One thing in particular should be impressed upon clerks—the necessity of careful attention to small customers.

He who is steadily a source of profit to his employers in the selling of merchandise must be accounted a first class salesman.

LIMITED PRICES.

There is at the present time a strong sense of the need for a re-adjustment of business conditions. That sense finds reiterated expression in trade editorials, communications to the press, the proceedings of trade and commercial organizations, and even in legislative measures. There are many ills incidental to business in the present order of things. Price-cutting, inferior goods, short weight or measure, bankruptcies, the over-crowding of trade, are various outcomes of the perverted action of one condition that must always be retained, namely competition. No effort successfully directed to the expulsion of any one of these evils can fail to modify the blighting strength that unregulated competition now has. Any such effort deserves encouragement, and shall get it from us so long as it works to drag business methods out of the slough that headlong dishonest rivalry has left them floundering in.

The concurrence of manufacturers in a mutual agreement to limit the prices of their wares is a movement in the direction of reform. Many people rail at combination in any circumstances, but it is the result of the natural recoil from a loose system of competition. Traders themselves provoke combination as a self-defensive resort of abused trade. That measure of it which preserves a just scale of prices is to be hailed with welcome by all traders. There is wanting a standard of prices to which the square-dealing man may look for protection against the slaughterer who aims only to appropriate a trade that he has not the sagacity to develop for himself. In the absence of such a standard there is no premium put on uprightness or originality of method. If there is no line definitely marked out which the trader is to keep beyond, there will always be strong inducement to unprincipled men to leave other callings and enter commercial ones. Manufacturers and wholesale dealers have long exercised the right of limiting the freedom of their customers in other respects, and why should they not in this important one? They limit the credit, often the insurance of customers. They would equally, and by a more radical provision, protect themselves against loss if they limited prices.

Several classes of manufacturers have adopted a scale of prices which they agree to exact the payment of from all who buy from them, and to insist upon the latter exacting a fixed increment upon from all the next series of buyers. These manufacturers use order-forms that contain a pledge which bind the buyer to observe the conditions of the limited price-scale. All the Canadian woodenware and match makers have adopted limited prices. The Kingsford Starch Co. has. The Truro Condensed Milk Co. has. Many other important manufacturers have also determined to put an end to price-cutting in the products of their workshops. The request to do so comes from the traders. Although the traders cut, yet they wish there were some authority which curtailed their license to do so. This plan of requiring all wholesale and retail customers to sign a selling-contract not to cut supplies is what is wanted. The violation of that contract is followed by the withdrawal of the offender's name from the list of the company's customers.

A fault that was and is yet responsible for much price-cutting will be removed by a general adherence to limited prices. That fault was the estimating by wholesalers of a traveller's ability by the unqualified test of the number of his sales. Under a system of limited prices the profits of his sales will be the touchstone by which a traveller is tried. And it should be. To try him by the number of his sales simply is to encourage him to sell low that he may sell much. There is no class of men who should more ardently wish for limited prices than the travellers. When limited prices are inaugurated every traveller will feel that his hand has not to be forced down by his competitors on the road. He will be thrown on other resources besides the versatility of his prices, and will thus be driven to develop all the sides of a good travelling salesman's character. There will be better travellers, better trade, fewer failures, a reduced number of dealers, and a sounder financial condition. The system of limited prices is an influence that will do much good if it is generally taken hold of. The abuse of it is a degree that is not yet of concern. There is one actual evil present. Let the eradication of that engage us, without prejudice from any theoretic evil that may threaten.

It is a very candidly admitted fact that travellers do not push business on special lines, on which there is liberal profit. Why? Because such sell too high, though it is on such that travellers can make most money for their employers. They prefer to sell what goes at too near cost-price. The traveller, under the era of practically unlimited prices, was becoming the outgrowth of cheap selling. It is not to be wondered at. Physical life does not more accommodate itself or succumb to climatic changes, than does business method adapt itself to or collapse under the prevailing spirit of business.

THE QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY.

The twenty-fourth of May falls this year on Saturday. The anniversary which is due on that day will be celebrated with the same absorbing interest as it has been since it became a national holiday. The public will take a day off for the celebration of the Queen's birthday. There will be a suspension of one day's business, the annual tribute of industry to the popularity of the occasion. It is for the business men throughout the country to regulate the amount of the sacrifice that is to be offered up this holiday. It the celebration takes place on the day of the anniversary, it will involve a much greater loss to trade than if it were postponed to the following Monday. Saturday is the great business day for all the country towns, the insular, and some of the frontier cities. It would pay some dealers to close the other five trading days of the week rather than close on Saturday. What the trade wants to do, therefore, throughout the towns and cities of Canada, is to seek to have the merry making put off by municipal proclamation to the 26th inst. A petition to the city or town council will not be ignored. Monday is a day the trading public can better afford to give up to pleasure. The same crowd on business bent on Saturday would increase rather than curtail the trade on Monday if they came on the latter day merely as pleasure seekers. It is better, therefore, to have two crowds, one to do the usual weekly trade, the other to enjoy themselves and spend a little on a unusually dull day. The interests of traders are apt to be backed by hotel-keepers, who have also a considerable Saturday trade from the purveyors to the market, who have the wants of themselves and their horses to be supplied. The hotel-keepers, therefore, want both days as well. They very often have a good deal to do with the getting up of sport programmes, and their co-operation will help the success of the petition.

TOBACCO PACKAGES.

The Hon. Mr. Costigan's notice of motion to amend the Inland Revenue Act was the occasion of some comment in these columns last week, the direction of his amendment as it affected the tobacco trade having been foreshadowed in the Empire's despatch, in which the fact of the notice was accompanied by a few explanatory remarks. Since then the bill has been introduced, has received its second reading, and contrasts in no essential respect with the prepossessions of it that were gathered from the Empire's Ottawa correspondence. The compensation which it seeks to provide for the manufacturers of packages weighing four pounds or less is in the form of a reduced excise, the duty on these low weighted packages of plug tobacco being fixed by the Bill at 19c. This releases the manufacturer of small package tobacco from one-twentieth of the duty he would pay if his packages contained above 4 pounds. The more the measure succeeds in transferring tobacco-consumption to the grades now sought to be licensed, the nearer will the internal revenue shrink to nineteen-twentieths of what it formerly was from plug tobacco. To whatever extent the tobacco revenue falls short of what it would be if no change were made, to that extent the general public are taxed for the benefit of the manufacturer that Mr. Costigan's legislation aims to create or succor. And why should the general public, of whom many use no tobacco and many pay full excise on the tobacco they do use, be taxed for this purpose? Virtually by this measure an increased duty is put upon the manufacturers for whose tobacco the most widespread demand has been established. It is a case of internal protection, conceded to makers for whose wares no sufficient spontaneous demand existed, against native makers the form of whose product was solely determined by the demand. And what reason has the Minister for interfering in this extraordinary way with the workings of natural economic laws? His reason is that he may preserve the integrity of his Departmental Regulations. Those Regulations he has been asked to modify, so that proof of honest possession may avail to protect the dealer from the penalties against contraband trade. The principle that proof of lawful acquirement and intent should protect a man from prosecution has been embodied, by Sir John Thompson himself, in a recent amendment of the tariff resolution against the dual invoice evil. If the Minister of Justice is of the opinion that there should be an alternative supposition of innocence still provable after foreign invoice forms have been found, there should be one also when unstamped tobacco is found. The circumstantial evidence in one case is the possession of papers that cost nothing, but for which no honest purpose is easily imaginable; in the other, it is the possession of uncertified merchandise, which, however it was got, has a considerable value, and the having of which is explicable upon other probabilities than that of fraud. Of the two forms of prima facie evidence, the latter is certainly the less conclusive. Why, therefore, should the benfit of doubt reservation not be admitted in Mr. Costigan's regulation against trade in unstamped tobacco? Simply because Mr. Costigan has determined that the ingrained nature of things shall be made plastic sooner than he shall alter his inflexible Regulations.

It is proposed to incorporate the Canadian Interior Conduit Co., Limited, for the purpose of manufacturing conduits and tubes for containing electric light, telegraph and telephone wires. The chief place of business will be Toronto and the capital stock, $150,000. The names of the applicants are H. P. Dwight, of Toronto; Thomas Leggat and Charles G. Clouston, of Montreal; John H. McClement and Edward H. Johnston, of New York.

Unlike daily papers and general periodicals, this paper places advertisements before the eyes of just that portion of the industries most calculated to avail themselves of the announcements therein, and, therefore is of more value to the Trade than any paper published in this or other cities. Manufacturers and wholesalers please take note of this, and then act accordingly. It is the only paper in Canada that reaches this trade direct.

TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

The April meeting of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association was held in the Association's newly engaged room in Richmond Hall. Mr. Mills, the president, was in the chair. The following other members were present:—Messrs. Thackray, Berwick, Williamson, McCulloch, Mara, Partridge, Roberts, Clarke, Saunders, Binnie, Lindsay, and Barron.

The minutes of last meeting were read, and upon motion of Mr. Mara, seconded by Mr. Williamson, were adopted. All the officers, but the Vice President, responded to the roll-call.

NEW MEMBERS.

Mr. Armitage, of Shuter street, whose name had been formerly proposed was elected a member of the Association.

The Secretary then proposed the names of Mr. Gardner, Sackville street, and Mr. Black, Berkeley street, and moved that the usual rule of procedure be suspended and these candidates be elected at once. The motion, seconded by Mr. Williamson, was carried, and the candidates were declared elected.

PEDLARS' LICENSES.

The Executive Committee submitted the following recommendations on the question of pedlars' licenses:—

1. That growers of produce be permitted to sell in quantities not less than a bag or barrel, and be prohibited from carrying weights, scales, and measures, except one single bushel measure. That the possession of weights and measures, other than that specified be considered as evidence of intention to peddle in small quantities.

2. That pedlars on foot, carrying a pack, a basket, etc., be charged $10 per annum for license, each foot-pedlar to carry a badge attached to his person in full view, and bearing the letters L.P. (licensed pedlar) with the year issued indicated in large figures. That the penalty attached for a first offence be not less than the cost of a year's license.

3. That pedlars with one horse and wagon pay $50 a year for license, the wagon to bear a number on the side and carry one person only. That each additional passenger engaged on such wagon be charged as a foot pedlar, and carry a foot pedlar's badge attached to his or her person as stated in 2. The penalty to be attached for wagon without a licensed number for the current year, and also for using unlicensed help.

4. That pedlars with two horses to a wagon pay $75 a year for license, the wagon to bear a number upon the side, and one person only allowed upon the wagon license. That each extra person pay a foot pedlar's license, and carry a foot pedlar's badge. Penalty to be attached to be the same as in 3.

That the crying of wares upon the streets, the ringing of bells, blowing of horns, etc., be prohibited.

Upon the motion of Mr. Williamson, seconded by Mr. Partridge, the report was received.

With reference to the alterations in the city by-laws which the report recommended, the secretary said his committee had been led to suggest them from a study of the peddling provisions in the by-laws of many Canadian and United States cities which he had been in communication with. The proposed amendments to the peddling by-law would still leave this city, compared with others, moderate in its attitude towards the pedlars. The committee had called on Mr. Awde, the market inspector. That official informed them that section 1 of the proposed amendment would be ultra vires of the City Council. The grocer had the liberty under a Dominion statute to sell in what quantities he pleased, and as the bulk of the Dominion representatives in Parliament were from agricultural constituencies, it was unlikely the city could get the Municipal Act so amended as to be able to regulate the quantities in which grocers should sell. To regulate the matter without parliamentary authority the city would require a charter, and this it was difficult to get. As to the other sections of the report, Mr. Awde had advised that the Council be petitioned to act upon them. He would suggest that the grocers get a strong petition from householders praying for an abatement of the pedlar nuisance, and thal along with this a unanimously signed petition from the grocers themselves, asking the Council to fix the fees, etc., as recommended in the above report. Mr. Awde was of the opinion that householders would willingly sign, as they were annoyed beyond description by calls from pedlars.

Mr. Berwick said it would be a considerable expense to get the householder' names to a petition.

Mr. Thackray said that each grocer could get the names of people coming to his store, and thus all the grocers could aggregate a large number of signers. Several members said they could muster large lists individually.

Mr. Clarke referred to a former time when the grocers got up a petition signed only by themselves, to have the peddling question reformed, and reminded the meeting that the pedlars had gone among the householders and got a petition that swamped that sent in by the grocers.

It was moved by Mr. Partridge, seconded by Mr. McCulloch, that the submitting of the recommendations to the City Council, and the securing of the petitions advised be left to the Executive Committee.—Carried.

FOR SLOW PAY CUSTOMERS.

Upon the question brought up at the last meeting, of further elaborating the scheme for protection against delinquent debtors, Mr. Thackray presented the following report from the Executive Committee :

1. That the three months' list be printed in one sheet, and sold to members at ten cents a copy, each member buying to return the monthly lists he holds for the same period.

2. That two forms of letters be printed, numbered 1 and 2, one thousand of each, and one thousand envelopes for enclosing them. That the letters bear the official seal of the Association and the written signature of the Secretary, and be sold to members of the Association for transmission to slow paying customers, at a rate, to be decided upon, sufficient to cover the outlay.

Moved by Mr. Williamson, seconded by Mr. Roberts, that the report be received.—Carried.

Mr. Mara took exception to the returning of old forms. If the new ones were to be paid for, why should the old ones be surrendered ? This, it was agreed on all hands was immaterial. The returning was waived.

Mr. Partridge objected to having the lists printed. In their present form he held they were very convenient.

Mr. Clarke asked how many grocers gave reports. He feared that some grocers withheld information that should appear on the delinquent list, and availed themselves of the information freely given by their brethren in the trade. This would be a very selfish course.

Mr. Thackray said that everybody seemed willing to give information. Some did not, but he was assured it was owing to neglect, not intentional holding aloof. He received fresh names every month. What he wishes to bespeak however, was greater despatch in the furnishing of their lists by several members. They needlessly delayed him.

Renewing the question of having the lists printed, Mr. Thackray said one advantage would be that new members could be furnished most conveniently with back information in that form.

The report recommending the printing in connection with the delinquent list was finally adopted, with the fining of the fee for each letter left to the Secretary.

CIVIL SERVICE DEBTORS.

The committee reported that delay had been occasioned by the tardiness of the Tailors' Association to reply to the Grocers' proposals for a concerted memorial from the trade. Nothing had yet been done, and he feared the bakers and grocers would have to move in their own strength.

THE TOBACCO QUESTION.

The question of seizures was first discussed. The secretary submitted the correspondence upon this question between himself and Mr. Miall, which we published last week. The unsatisfactory nature of the Commissioner's reply, which was merely a reiteration of the Secretary's statements, was commented upon.

Mr. Costigan's proposed legislation to amend the Inland Revenue Act was next considered in its bearing upon the tobacco trade. Members expressed with earnestness their disapproval of Mr. Costigan's neglect to keep the promise he made to submit to the trade any alterations he proposed.

Mr. Thackray said that not now would the trade have been informed of the drift of Mr. Costigan's alterations, had it not been that he himself was enabled to see a copy of the bill after its second reading, and he owed it to Mr. McLean, of the GROCER, that he saw it then.

Mr. Mills said that chewing tobacco absolutely spoiled in small packages.

Mr. Berwick said it was very high-handed of the Minister to ignore the trade.

It was moved by Mr. Mara, seconded by Mr. Roberts, and carried unanimously :

"That the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association has learned with regret that the Hon. Mr. Costigan has not submitted his Bill for the amendment of the Inland Revenue Act re tobacco regulation, for criticism to the Joint Committee of the Wholesale Grocers' Guild and the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association, as promised by the Honorable Minister and Assistant Commissioner Miall, during their interview with said Joint Committee."

It was moved by Mr. Clarke, seconded by Mr. Partridge :—

" Resolved that the Secretary be instructed to write the city members with a request that they cause to have delayed the passing of the Hon. Mr. Costigan's bill for the amendment of the Inland Revenue Act re Tobacco Regulations, until this Association and the Wholesale Grocers' Guild have had time to learn its provisions."—Carried.

ACCOUNTS.

A small account of rent, and another for stamps, cards, etc., were passed.

The Chairman referred to a piece of plate that had been sold by auction, at a former meeting, to Mr. Johnston, for $3.75. It had been overlooked that the same article had been sold on the night of the "At Home" to Mr. F. Britton for $7.75. Consequently the article had been paid for twice. A warrant for the refund of the $7.75 to Mr. Britton was ordered to be drawn on the Treasurer.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The Secretary reported enquiries from Picton, Berlin, Oshawa, and Wallaceburg,

SUNLIGHT LARGEST SALE IN THE WORLD SOAP

Winner of THREE GOLD MEDALS in 1889---Paris, France, Ghent, Belgium, and Ottawa, Canada.

The Wide-Awake Grocer, even if he gets a smaller profit out of SUNLIGHT Soap than he does out of Inferior Soaps, recognizes the fact that the increased volume of business done by reason of keeping the BEST article, more than compensates for the smaller profit. The aim of every Grocer should be, to earn a reputation for selling THE BEST.

respecting the formation of local associations. These had been replied to.

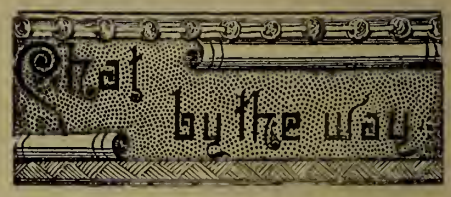
The Secretary informed the meeting that he had been asked to look after a matter here for a Hamilton grocer. A manufacturer's agent had borrowed $15 from the Hamilton grocer, and gave a draft for it upon his own office. The draft was afterwards accepted, but subsequently was returned by the bank dishonored. The Secretary had written to this agent, advising him that immediate payment would be discreet, but had got no response yet. It was, therefore, brought now before the attention of the Association, as at next meeting that body might have the case to pronounce on. Members were anxious for the name of the misdemeanant, but this the Secretary withheld, stating that the name would be given as a protection to city traders, if it were found he showed no disposition to atone for his act of fraud.

AFTERNOON MEETINGS.

Mr. Mara thought it would be a good idea to send a circular to the trade to ask if they would prefer the afternoon to the evening as the time to hold their monthly meeting. This might improve the membership of the Association.

After some further discussion of the matter, Mr. Partridge gave notice that he would move at next meeting that the Association meet in the afternoon. The Secretary was instructed to test the feeling of members in the matter before next meeting, so as to have the question ripe for discussion.

SUNDRY QUESTIONS.



Inquiries were made by members as to what course should be taken by the trade upon the strike. Should credit be withheld or curtailed? It was stated that three years ago, the grocers had suffered through their neglect to provide for their own protection. Many bad debts incurred then were on their books yet. The matter was left pending.

Mr. Mara asked what a stone weight meant. He had been led to make this inquiry by the recent discovery that some dealers known to him were selling 12 lbs. of rolled oats to the stone, instead of 14. The fact that a barrel would hold 196 lbs. or 14 stone of nearly any other kind of meal, and only 180 lbs. of rolled oats may have determined certain grocers to put up light stones for their customers. This practice enabled them seemingly to undersell competitors.

Mr. Partridge condemned the practice in unsparing terms, and was sorry the culprit he had in mind was not present to hear the feeling of the meeting. That feeling was informally but indignantly expressed.

Mr. Mara referred to another form of dishonesty of which an instance had come under his notice. A commission man had offered to supply a certain grocer with pickled eggs at 6c. a dozen to mix with fresh eggs that the grocer might thus sell at a cut price. This also was strongly reprehended.

The meeting then adjourned.

The firm of Leslie & Manson, of Blake, has been dissolved by mutual consent, and all accounts due the old firm will be paid to John Leslie, who will carry on the business in future.

Mr. R. J. Hamilton, Galt, with Messrs. Elliott Bros., soap manufacturers, Galt, has succeeded Tench & Elsey in the grocery business, and is doing a good trade. Tench & Elsey succeeded A. Childs in the same business in that town, and will take care of the large trade built up by their predecessor. Mr. Childs has bought out the store on the corner of Duke and Bay streets, Hamilton, and is sure to succeed there.

A despatch from Chicago says that the lard people of that city are furious because of the latest move of the Canadian Parliament in the way of a protective tariff on lard,

Messrs. S. F. Glass, of London, and D. Macdonald, of St. Johns, Que., interviewed the Minister, relative to securing an increase in the duty on crockery.

Thomas Stephenson, Esq., of Omemee, was thirty-six years in business in that place last Good Friday. He is still a vigorous man.

Mr. Talbot, who has been conducting a grocery and dry goods business in Wingham for a number of years, is about leaving that town.

It is understood that the Government has decided to place oats in the same category as wheat and other cereals upon which a reduced rate of toll is allowed for passage through the St. Lawrence and Welland Canals when bound for Montreal or ports east of that city. Foreign oats for export will have to be bonded in passing through Canada.

A deputation of pork packers, consisting of Messrs. F. W. Fearman, Hamilton; J. Park and J. Flavelle, Toronto, waited upon the Minister of Customs last week to explain some of the technicalities of the trade in connection with pork cuts

The lumbermen have protested against the increased duty on pork. A large deputation of them waited upon the Minister of Customs and Finance last week and urged their objections, which are unlikely to prevail.

G. A. Adams, E. Cleghorn, London; J. W. Young, Toronto; A. Turner and R. W. Steele, Hamilton, had an interview with Hon. G. E. Foster relative to the position of case liquors under the tariff, claiming that liquor under proof should be allowed up to 25 per cent. and duty charged on the actual measurement. They also contended that liquors in bond previous to the new tariff going into effect should be allowed to be entered under the old tariff, and that goods actually en route for Canada and sold in advance to Canadian consumers should be placed on the same footing.

The following order in Council appeared in the last number of the Canada Gazette, modifying Sec. 52, Chap. 99, Revised Statutes:—"All pork which the Inspector finds on examination to be fat and merchantable, except when classified as Mess, shall be cut in pieces as nearly square as may be, and not more than six nor less than four pounds in weight, and shall be sorted and divided into seven different sorts to be denominated respectively Mess, Extra Prime, Prime Mess, Prime, Cargo, Short Cut Clear, and Short Cut Back Pork. Short cut clear pork shall consist of the fat part of the shoulders of fat hogs with the lean taken off, and packages containing pork of this description shall be branded on one of the heads 'Short cut clear pork.' Short cut back pork shall consist o the back pieces of heavy hogs, and packages containing pork of this description shall be branded on one of the heads 'Short cut back pork,' and that the modified classification hereby prescribed shall take effect on and after the 1st day of August, 1890."

GROCERIES.

A condition of the country roads that is described by old travellers to be equal to the worst they ever experienced has told on trade very markedly this week. There is little circulation of staple country products in even local markets, and consequently little money has moved. The tightness of money has affected both the buying and the paying. The stagnation caused by bad roads is the ruling influence upon country trade, while the strike is strongly felt in the weakened pulse of city business. The prices of sugar are for the moment firm, and dried fruits, particularly Valencia raisins, grow scarcer. Improving roads are expected to give an impetus to the trade of the coming week.

CANNED GOODS.

The integrity of established prices has not been broken by any further irregular selling. The demand is unflagging and fairly strong. Its present groove is principally along the line of corn, peas and tomatoes in vegetables, and along that of peaches and strawberries in fruits. Of the latter, the better grades for table use are the strongest in current market favor. Messrs. Sloan & Crowther made this week the largest sale of tomato catsup that is known to have been made to any retailer in one transaction. An east-end grocer got the lot, which included 419 cases. The outlook for all canned goods is rather bright. Prices, it is almost certain, will be sustained till the end of the season, and in some grades the short supply will most probably cause an advance.

COFFEE.

The conditions of the market are materially those of last week and of several preceding weeks, the difference being that the same features become more deeply ingrained by the stringency of the same conditions. Rio prices cannot be relaxed by anything short of a fresh supply, and it looks as if that had to be grown before it would come. In Brazil the supply appears to be as short as it is alleged to be, and in New York there is not enough to modify prices, though there may be a shortage which cannot restrain an advance. Java and Mocha coffees are as secure in their prices as ever. There is a lowness in the stock of them that is the guarantee of their continued firmness. Plantation Ceylon is receiving a fair amount of attention, and is firm at 27c. Rios are 23c., Mochas are 28c., and Javas are 34c.

DRIED FRUITS.

All kinds of fruit are very strong. The stock of Valencias continues to shrink into smaller proportions and to stiffen prices accordingly. In former seasons of low supply the place of the Valencias was amply filled by Eleme raisins. That is not the case this spring, as Eleme raisins are as scarce as Valencia. Valencias may be expected to go farther up the price scale. The season of strongest consumption is at hand, the season when milk is plentiful. Then a very general article of household diet, rice-pudding, will stimulate the call for Valencias. Off-stalk are now 7½ to 8c. Layers are 9½ to 9¾c. Sultanas are 11 to 12c. Malagas are $1.35 in quarter-boxes of blackbaskets, $3 to $3.15 in London layers, $2.35 to $2.61 in loose muscatels. Eleme figs are 10½ to 11c. Four-crescents are 14c., 5-crescents are 15c., and 7-crescents are 16c. Natural figs in bags are 4¾ to 5c., and 6½c. in boxes. Currants are 5⅝ to 5⅞c. in barrels, 5¾ to 6c. in half-barrels, Bosnia prunes are 5 to 5½c. in hogsheads, 5¼ to 5½c. in barrels, and 5¾ to 6c. in kegs. Sphinxes are 8¼ to 8½c. for A, 8 to 8¼c. for B, 7¾ to 8c. for C, 7¼ to 7 1-2c. for D, and 7 for U. Atlas are 7 1-2c. for B and 7c. for C. French are 5¼ to 5 1-2 in kegs.

SUGAR.

The advance of 1-16 in New York of which private advice reached here on Monday has been attended by a hardening of Canadian prices, which hold at last week's quotation. Where prices will ultimately rest when the market has settled it is hard to say, but there is no reason on the surface to expect them to be lower. Dark sugar is hard to get, and when obtainable brings prices that good bright can be got for. There is a quiet trade. The transitional state of the market discourages buying, and retailers largely entertain the hope that further fluctuations may be downward. The drawbacks to trade noted in the summary check sugar selling very notably as well.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

A very quiet trade has been done. M syrup is now on the market in half barrels at 5⅝ to 3¾. An American syrup equal to Redpath's B, is also in stock at 3⅝ to 3¾ in barrels. Extra superior in barrels is 4 to 4⅛, and in half barrels is 4⅛ to 4¼. Treble X in half barrels is 4⅜ to 4½. Corn syrup, No. 25 in barrels is 4⅜ to 4½, in half barrels is 4½ to 4⅝. V in barrels is 4½ to 4⅝, and 4⅝ to 4¾ in half barrels. Trinidad or Antigua molasses is 36c. in hogsheads, 38c. in barrels, and 40c. in half barrels.

TEAS

Just now there are exceptionally good values in Congous, and very good in greens. The reason is that the English market is depressed on account of an expected change in the duty. Until the English budget is brought down, dealers, therefore, are buying cautiously. This contraction of the English market eases prices in other countries, and enables Canadian dealers now to be stocked with good grades at relaxed prices. In Japans the market is getting low in 15 to 18c., medium grades, for which there is a good demand. Indian teas are moving steadily, and the retail trade are buying much more freely. The London market is firm and there has been a general advance for good liquoring teas. Teas "for price" are about ¼ dearer, and Pekoes and Broken Pekoes from 9d. to 11d. mark about ½d. rise, and over 1s. Teas with good liquor and appearance have attracted distinctly more competition. Ceylon teas are quiet, The better tone noticed in London last week, has developed into a further slight advance for all descriptions, the rise being most marked in Broken Pekoes and Orange Pekoes with quality and point.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

Already is the prospect opened up by the spring market, the features of last year's butter trade are seen reappearing in this. The stock of absolutely bad butter that began to course into trade last spring and kept up a steady current until October, was no worse than what the market has begun to reek with now. Dairy tub can find a good market at 15, 16 and 17c., if it is brought on in acceptable condition. Little of it is, and what does appear is graded into many classes a cent being scaled off for successive shades of quality down to 7c. a pound. At that low figure and from two to three cents in advance of it there is a large amount of dairy tub bought. The best of the old butter brings only about 12 to 14c. New packages are worth 18 to 19c. There is very little of fresh coming in. The week's contribution from the Brockville dairies has been a lot of very middle-grade butter. A few tubs of good creamery have sold at 18 to 20c., and some Morrisburgh creamery found sale at 14c. Store packed is shunned, and is taken at from 6 to 12c. Large rolls are in poor supply. They run from 14 to 17c., but there is an excess of bad making in the limited quantity that gets to the market. Pound rolls are wanted at from 20 to 22c. There is a fair supply of them. The demand for dairy tub is low. There is a very great contraction in this week's demand. For this the strike may to a large degree be responsible.

Cheese has not undergone any change. There is the same course of demand, and the same steadiness of prices, the wholesalers not having to go to the makers for present business. Good early summer is 8½ to 9½c. Choice September and October is 10½ to 11c.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—Bring $2 to $4, according to condition. The higher figure is very firm for choice broken lots. Car lots do not offer, as stocks have shrunk into too small a compass for such large make-ups. There are some very fine Russets and Northern spies coming on the market. Store lots are $3.50 to $4.50 according to grade.

BEANS—A very slack interest is manifested, and neither buyers nor sellers are seeking the market in fair number. Prices run from $1.40 to $1.60.

DRIED APPLES—A slight improvement in the market is apparent this week. Prices are not changed, however, but last week's are firmer at 5 and 5 1-2c.

EVAPORATED APPLES—Are unchanged. New bring 10 to 11c. Old 7 to 8c.

EGGS—Are worth 10 1-2c. The market is abundantly supplied. Local consumption is active, but price is not specially firm.

HAY—The almost impassable state of the roads has shut off the wagon supplies on the streets, and prices for farmers' deliveries have shot up. No. 1 is worth $15 to $17.50. No. 2 is $10 to $12. Pressed hay on track has advanced slightly, No. 1 bringing $10, and No. 2 $8.

HIDES — Cured bring 4¾c,, with no strengthening of that price. No. 1 green are 4c. No, 2 are 3c., and No. 3 are 2c

HONEY—The usual spring lethargy, imparted by the arrival of maple syrup is still on the honey trade. Prices are unaltered, however. Good comb brings 12 to 14c., and clear is worth 11½ to 13c.

MARKETS—Continued

HOPS—First-class new are 15 to 16c. and yearlings are 10 to 12c.

OATS—The street market has improved, chiefly in consequence of the hindrance to arrivals in the condition of the roads. Farmers get 36 to 37c. on the street; in car lots they bring 34c., and buyers find them scarcer.

ONIONS — What few transactions are heard of are at $3 to $3.50, but scarcely anything is done, and the crop seems to be about all marketed.

POTATOES—A momentary firmness in last week's prices is all the change that has come over the situation. The cause is a temporary one, namely, bad roads. Potatoes bring 55c. on track, and 60 to 65c. out of store.

SEEDS—Prices are steady at last week's quotations. Red clover is $4 to $4.20. Alsike is $6.50 to $6.75. Timothy is $1.75 to $2. Corn for ensilage is 60 to 70c. Seed wheats are extremely scarce.

SKINS—Sheep are $1.25 to $1.60, No. 1 calf is 6c., No. 2 is 5c.

STRAW—Tight-pressed oat is $5.50. In loads on street it is $7 to $9. It is getting scarcer in immediate supply, but the time of strongest demand is past.

TALLOW—Rough is 1¼ to 2c. Rendered is 5 to 5¼c.

WOOL—Good fleece wool is only occasionally offered. It brings 27c. Pulled brings 30c. for extra-super., 25 to 26 for super., and 24c., for lowest.

FISH.

Trade is now almost stationary, being between the Lent demand and the incoming of the lake fish, when consumption sets in afresh. The dull season lasts about three weeks. Nothing new has come upon the market, and the stocks of dried fish are practically laid aside. Spring salmon is 18 to 26c. Finnan haddie is 6c. Sea herring are $1.60 per hundred by count. White fish are 7c.; salmon are $12 per barrel; small cod are 5c. per pound; steak cod are 7½c.; haddock are 5½ to 6c.; pike are 4½c.; pickerel are 6½c.; flounders are 5c.; tulepes are 7c.; Labrador herring are $5 to $5.50 per barrel, and $3.25 to $3.75 per half-barrel; Shore herring are $4 per barrel, and $2.25 per half-barrel; boneless cod are 6 to 8c. per pound; boneless fish are 6c.

GREEN FRUIT.

There has been but a fair trade since last week. The Florida stock of oranges is about run off. Russets are all that are now quotable, and they bring $4.50. Valencias are growing in scarceness and are firm at $6. Messinas have gone up rapidly, quoting now at $4 to $4.25. The reason for the stiff advance is that much of the stock is musty, suffering in transit. California navels are $6, and Washington navels are at the same figure. The Riverside seedlings are ouf of stock, having received a brisk call since their appearance in the market.

Messrs. Cleghorn & Son received last Friday a carload of 350 boxes of Riverside seedings, and had disposed of the whole shipment before Monday night. The Mediterranean sweets are also sold out, and are too dear to import now. Lemons in 300's are $4 to $4.25, and in 360's are $3.50 to $4. Yellow bananas are $1.50 to $1.75, and reds are $2. Pineapples are $3 to $3.25 per dozen, and grape fruit is $3.50 a box.

PROVISIONS.

BACON—Long clear is 8½c. Breakfast is 11 to 11½c. for bellies, and 10 1-2 to 11c. for backs. Roll is 9½c.

DRESSED HOGS—Are firm at $5.75 to $6.25. The improved prices are bringing more stock upon the market than is usual at this season.

HAMS—Smoked are 11 to 12c. Sweet pickled are 10 to 10½.

LARD—In 50-pound tubs is 9½c., and in 20 pound pails is 10c.

MESS PORK—The agitated condition of the Chicago market makes prices unsettled this week, and quotations which rule at the moment are not apt to be authentic.

SALT.

There is nothing of any importance to note in this week's salt market. The prices are the same as that of last week except land salt, which has declined 50c. per ton. The following are the prices reported by the Toronto Salt Works: 1 car bbls. salt at $1.37; 3 cars sacks 68c.; 1 car dairy at $1.18; land salt $6.50 per ton. Smaller quantities have sold at, ¼ sacks 45c.; bbls. $1.45; sacks 85c.

DRY GOODS.

The state of trade in dry goods lines has been very much the same as in the grocery business. The bad roads in the country prevented traffic, made money scarce and therefore checked business. The firmness of prices is maintained. Travellers continue to keep the current of trade running, but report dullness in all quarters.

Messrs. Stanway & Bayley are offering old Valencia raisins at $1.25 per box.

A repntation for truthfulness is indispensable to permanent and satisfying success.

Master the whole business and the way to fortune has been mapped out.

MONTREAL

MONTREAL MARKETS.

APRIL 16, 1890.

GROCERIES.

Business the past week has been rather quiet, generally speaking, although several good orders have been received for shipment by boat when the river is clear. Payments have been very slow.

SUGARS.

The sugar market is decidedly firm for granulated at 6 1-2c.; round lots at 1-16 less has been refused. Yellows are a little easier and quoted at 5¼c., with bright grades up to 5¾c. New York market stiffer. Raw material is very scarce. The beet sugar market in Europe continues to advance notwithstanding the heavy stock. Reports from there state that never before has there been such a heavy consumption of sugar as at the present time, owing no doubt to the good wages paid the working class. In new York, were it not for the Spreckles, prices would rule higher, our market following.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

There is very little sale for syrups now, maple syrup being on the market. The sale last week of 600 puncheons Barbadoes molasses, the Tiffin estate, at 31 1-2c. for the first 300, and 30¾c. for the balance has weakened the market here, which is now quoted at 35c. for single puncheons and 32½ for larger lots. There has been an advance at the Islands to 14c., against 12c. of last week, but it is thought this price cannot be maintained.

TEAS.

There is nothing new to report in teas since our last report. Market quiet.

COFFEES.

The coffee market continues firm with some enquiries. Mocha is at 30 to 32c.; Java, 28 to 30c.; Jamaica, 22 to 24c.; Plantation Ceylon, 27 to 29c.; Maracaibo, 24 to 25c.; Rio, 22 to 24c.; Guatemala, 24½ to 26½c.; Santos, 22 to 24c.

RICE.

Trade of the usual nature at steady prices. The following are quotations: Mount Royal Mills, A and B. $3.60 to $3.75 per 100 lbs.; Patras 4½ to 5c. and Japan 4 to 4½c.

DRIED FRUIT.

Valencia raisins have been quite active the past week with another advance, 7½ to 8¾ as to quality. London layers $2.75 to $3. Sultanas are quoted at 10 to 13 with stocks low. Currants continue firm at 5¼ to 5 1-2 for Provincials. The market is getting very bare of prunes, dealers not caring to replenish stocks, but there is a steady demand for French at 4¾ to 5 in kegs and 7 to 7 1-2 for Bosnia. Eleme figs 10 to 14c. Dates 5¼c. Dried apples 6 1-2c.

NUTS.

Trade has been fair at steady prices. Taragona almonds, 14c.; Ivica 12c.; Pecans 12 to 12½c; Brazil nuts 11c.; Grenoble walnuts 15 to 15½c., and French 10c.; Filberts 10c. for Sicily and 9½c. for Turkey; green peanuts 8½ to 9c.

CANNED GOODS.

Canned goods are moving off fairly well but there is nothing special to note. Following are the packers' prices:—Corn $1.20; marrowfat peas, $1.15; sweet peas, $1.25; tomatoes $1.20; stringless beans 85c.; butter beans 90c.; apples, 3 lb., $1.05, per gal. $2.25. $2.35; pineapples $2.25 to $2.40; strawberries $2.35; peaches $2.15; plums $1.75; pears $2; green gages $1.70, $1.75.

Lobsters are very scarce and have advanced to $8 per case, but there is no demand at this high price. The American canned meat packers have partly met the extra duty by reducing this price, making the advance very moderate, which is about 5 per cent, all round above former prices.

MAPLE SYRUP AND SUGAR.

There is a quiet, steady trade doing in sugar at unchanged prices. We quote sugar 8c. per pound for choice bright small blocks, and 7 to 7 1-2c. for colored. Syrup in bulk, 5 1-2 to 6c., and in tins, 65 to 70c.

GREEN FRUIT.

Business is on the increase since Easter, and prices are away above what we were receiving this time last year. Oranges, Valencia, $5 per case; California, $2.50 per box; Messina, $3 per box; Florida, $4.25 per box. Messina lemons, 360's, fair to good, $2.75 to $3; do. fancy, $3.50 per box. Pineapples, $1.25 to $2.75 per dozen; do. ex-fancys, $3.50 per dozen. Bermuda onions in crates, $3.50 to $4; strawberries, 75c. per quart; bananas, fair, $1.25 to $1.75; do. large fancy $2 to $2.70.

FLOUR, GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

There has been excitement unparalled for months on the local Wall street. The sharp advance in pork, which ran up from $11.35 to $15.75, put many thousands of dollars into the pockets of Montreal holders, while the great boom in May wheat, which has advanced rapidly all the way from 76½c. to 91c. on Saturday and a further advance of several cents since, has proved a veritable bonanza to the customers of several of the largest brokers' offices. One firm holds 300,000 bushels for customers at prices away below 90; another 150,000 bushels, and so on. The profits made on the advance in pork vary from $50,000 to a few hundred, the former figure having been made by a large speculator. Other handsome sums realized are as follows: $12,000, $10,500, $6,600, $3,000 and several lots in the thousands.

The rapid rise in the market is ascribed by some to bad crop reports from the Central States and Europe, and by others to the operations of some heavy Chicago holders who have cornered the market.

There is a great improvement in the market, values being much firmer and the demand more active. We advance quotations still further to-day, the general rise being 5 to 10c. per barrel. On 'Change 400 brls. patent spring sold at $5.40; 1,200 strong bakers' at $5.10.

EGGS.

The egg market showed an easier tendency to-day under large arrivals and the change to warm weather. Sales were reported at 12c., dealers generally showing a diposition to dispose of stock quickly.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

There is absolutely no movement in butter beyond the usual slow jobbing trade. We quote: Finest creamery, 23c.; Townships, 12 to 20c.; Morrisburg, 12 to 18c.; Western, 11 to 16c.

The cheese shipments on Montreal account last week were 17,400 boxes. The clean up, as far as can be seen, of the stock. We quote 10 1-2 to 11c.

MONTREAL NOTES.

A meeting of the provisional directors of the newly-incorporated Montreal Exhibition Company was held on Saturday, when it was decided to open a subscription list at once. The directors subscribed for $1000 worth of stock each, and Mr. S. C. Stevenson, secretary of the company, was busy to-day canvassing for subscriptions among those who signed the provisional list. Mr. Stevenson reported that he met with very gratifying success. As soon as $50,000 is subscribed the directors will meet again to decide upon the date of the autumn exhibition.

Robert McNabb & Co., whiteware manufacturers, 1831 Notre Dame street, made an assignment Monday on the demand of Isaac Holden, of Bridgeport, Connecticut. Their liabilities are over $60,000. The principal creditors are: The Merchants Bank of Canada, $25,000; Imperial bank, $8,800; Gillespie, Roach & Co.. $6,600; Ross, Foster & Co., $6,390, and Cantlie, Ewan & Co., $3,900. Mr. W. Alexander Caldwell has been appointed provisional guardian, and he has called a meeting of creditors for the 22nd instant.

L. Chaput, Fils & Cie. have a special line of gruyere and gorgonzola cheese they wish to dispose off. Write them for quotations.

A deputation composed of representatives from the leading bankers in the Dominion was appointed, at a meeting of bankers yesterday afternoon, to confer with the Minister of Finance upon the Banking Act. and to meet him in Ottawa at such time as the Minister may appoint. It was the general impression of the meeting that it was most desirable that the Banking Act be pushed through this session, and the hope was expressed that the protracted debate on the tariff or any other business would not so delay matters that this bill could not be taken up and passed. Among the important measures debated was that of security for banking circulation. In the evening the visiting bankers were entertained by Sir Donald A. Smith, at his residence.

Mr. Joseph Pope, Sir John A. Macdonald's private secretary, has officially notified the Council of the Board of Trade that canal tolls on oats for export only will be reduced for the present season to the same rate as is now charged on wheat and other cereals. The announcement was received with satisfaction on 'Change, and several members this morning sent the announcement by wire to Chicago merchants, who have been making enquiries as to the shipment of oats via the St. Lawrence.

Messrs. Richard Tew & Co.'s travellers have been detailed to their respective territories. Each route is a link in a chain that extends across the Canadian section of the continent. In every centre of trade samples will be exhibited superior to those of any former season. Prices are low, owing to the sagacity of the firm's buyer in capturing the foreign market before the advance consequent upon increased wages and dearer coal. Messrs. Richard Tew & Co. can thus afford to give the trade some fine bargains.

TRADE SALES.

The fancy goods, crockery and wall-paper stock of D. J. Hawley, Trenton, amounting to $2,135, was sold on Tuesday at Suckling, Cassidy & Co.'s warerooms to J. W. Butcher, Peterborough, at 41c. in the dollar for lot 1 and 36c. in the dollar for lot 2.

At the same time, and by the same auctioneers, the men's furnishing stock of James S. Grant, Queen street, Toronto, amounting to $2,456, was sold to T. Bell, city, at 37c. in the dollar.

At the same time, and by the same auctioneers, the dry goods stock of Wm. Hall, Queen street west, city, amounting to $1,500, was sold to Carson & McKee, city, at 55c., in the dollar.

Suckling, Cassidy & Co. announce the following sale for Tuesday, the 22nd inst.: 1. The general stock of J. V. Watts, Walsh, amounting to $2,370, along with two stores and a dwelling in Walsh; 2. The stock of the Canadian Window Shade Co., amounting to $4,698.

The grocery stock of the estate of H. R. Walker, grocer, Clinton, has been sold to Messrs. McMurray & Wiltse for 67 1-2 cents on the dollar.

Mr. Lawrence, of Shefford, Que., reports that the weather has been very unfavorable for maple syrup and sugar making. As the season is advancing, the general opinion is that the production in the Eastern Townships will fall short of the average this year.

The Inland Revenue Department has recently issued a bulletin of about thirty pages which is devoted exclusively to the subject of baking powder and which shows that the majority of the goods in the market are adulterated and unfit for use. Prof. A. McGill, who has had charge of this important work for the Government, says that "imperial baking power is an excellent baking powder." A word to the sensible housekeeper should be suffcieut.

TENDERS.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Indian Supplies," will be received at this office up to noon of MONDAY, 21st April, 1890, for the delivery of Indian Supplies, during the fiscal year ending 30th June, 1891, consisting of Flour, Beef, Bacon, Groceries, Ammunition, Twine, Agricultural Implements, Tools, etc., duty paid, at various points in Manitoba and the North-West Territories.

Forms of tender, containing full particulars relative to the Supplies required, dates of delivery, etc., may be had by applying to the undersigned, or to the Indian Commissioner at Regina, or to the Indian Office, Winnipeg.

Parties may tender for each description of goods (or for any portion of each description of goods) separately or for all the goods called for in the Schedules, and the Department reserves to itself the right to reject the whole or any part of a tender.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted Cheque in favor of the Superintendent General of Indian Affairs, on a Canadian Bank, for at least five per cent. of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the party tendering declines to enter into a contract based on such tender when called upon to do so, or if he fails to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted, the cheque will be returned.

Each tender must, in addition to the signature of the tenderer, be signed by two sureties acceptable to the Department for the proper performance of the contract based on his tender.

This advertisement is not to be inserted by any newspaper without the authority of the Queen's Printer, and no claim for payment by any newspaper not having had such authority will be admitted.

SECRET OF BUSINESS SUCCESS.

Discussing the principles and practice that underlie conspicuous business success, and in enforcing the central thought that business is brains, our sprightly contemporary Harness says: "One great secret of success in business—the secret, in fact, of success on a large scale—is to conceive of it as a matter of principles, not merely as a series of transactions. There are great merchants as there are great statesmen, and there are small merchants as there are small politicians, and the difference between the great and the small men is very much the same in both professions. The small politician works by the day and sees only the one small opportunity before him, the small merchant does the same thing—he is looking for the next dollar. The statesman, on the other hand, is master of the situation, because he understands the general principles which control events; this knowledge enables him to deal with large questions and shape the future. The great merchant does the same thing; his business is not a mere money-getting affair; not a mere matter of barter, but a science and an art; he studies the general laws of trade, watches the general conditions of the country, investigates present needs, foresees future wants, and adapts his business to the broad conditions of his time and place. He puts as much brains into his work as does the statesman, and he ends by being, not a money-getter, but a large minded and capable man.

RESOLUTIONS OF DRY-GOODS MEN.

The dry-goods section of the board of trade met on Monday afternoon. There has been so much complaint for a long time past that retail merchants do not carry enough insurance on their stock that the dry-goods section has deemed it necessary to take action in the matter. When a retail dry goods merchant is burned out and his stock is not insured at all, or insufficiently insured, the wholesaler is bound to suffer, as in such case the goods are seldom or never paid for. To partially remedy this evil the members of the section passed a resolution to the effect that they would refuse to grant settlements to any firm that neglected to insure its stock to at least 60 per cent. of its value.

A resolution was also passed recommending a conference with the various trade centres on the question of shortening credits.

A committee was to have reported to the section on the question of the best means of disposing of bankrupt stocks, but as the chairman of the committee is at present absent in England the presentation of the report was deferred till another time.

In regard to the returning of goods by the retail trade to wholesale houses there was satisfaction expressed that the circular sent to retail merchants had been in a marked degree effective. The members present reported that a great deal more consideration was being shown on the part of retailers and that the goods returned had measurably decreased.

There were incidentally brought before the notice of the meeting certain articles in a Toronto newspaper and a couple of Montreal trade journals. It appears that the Toronto contemporary published an article relative to the dry goods trade of Toronto severely reflecting upon the Montreal dry goods merchants' methods of doing business, The statements were at once taken up, and bitterly commented upon by the Montreal journals in question. Every member of the section, while not endorsing the statements of the Toronto paper, at once deprecated the spirit with which the controversy had been carried on by both sides, as being calculated to create ill-feeling between the merchants of both cities, and as being detrimental to those amicable relations that should exist between them.

THE CANNED GOODS LAW.

Her Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate and House of Commons of Canada, enacts as follows:—

In this Act the expression "package" means every can, tin or package in which articles or goods are put up for sale, and which are closed by being hermetically sealed. 48-49 V., c. 63, s. 1.

Except in the case of goods packed previously to July 20, 1885, every package of canned goods sold or offered for sale in Canada, for consumption therein, shall have attached thereto or imprinted thereon a label or stamp, setting forth in legible characters the name and address of the person, firm or company by whom the same was packed, or of the dealer who sells the same or offers it for sale.

Every such package containing goods prepared from products which have been dried previously to being so prepared, shall, in addition, be labelled or stamped with the word "soaked," which word shall be plainly printed diagonally across the face of the label in large, legible type at least half an inch in height and three-eighths of an inch in width.

Every person who sells or offers for sale any such goods in violation of any provision of this section shall, on summary conviction before a justice of the peace, for a first offence incur a penalty of two dollars for each such package, and for a subsequent offence a penalty not exceeding twenty dollars and not less than four dollars for each such package in respect of which any such provision has been violated. 48-49 V., c. 63, s. 2.

Every person who places on any package any label, brand or mark which falsely represents the quantity or weight of the contents of such package, shall, on summary conviction before a justice of the peace, incur a penalty of two dollars for each package on which the quantity or weight is so falsely represented; provided always, that a variation under the rate of three per cent. shall not be deemed a violation of the provisions of this section. 48-49 V., c. 63, s. 3.

Every person who places on any package any label, brand or mark which falsely represents the date when the article or goods contained therein were packed, shall, on summary conviction before a justice of the peace, incur a penalty of two dollars for each package on which such date is falsely represented. 48-49 V., c. 63, s. 4.

WHAT A HARDWARE MAN ADVISES.

"There are very few persons," said a hardware dealer, "who understand how to take care of wood floors. I hear complaints continually that hardwood floors crack and break off in slivers, and thus soon become rough. Such floors have been washed up or scrubbed with strong alkali soaps or washing fluids, which will ruin a floor of oak in a short time. A hardwood floor should be swept up and polished at least once a week with an iron-backed polishing brush. By this process in a short time the floor will have attained a beautiful glassy surface, from which any dust can be easily removed with a hair broom or one of the pretty Japanese brooms with bamboo handles."

The polishing brush is an important article in any house where there are hardwood floors. It is very heavy and is drawn backward and forward by means of a long handle. Such brushes cost $5 and $6, but wear a lifetime. The largest size is too heavy for a woman's use. If an egg or any such substance drops on the kitchen floor, the spot should be washed up and oiled with raw oil, and avoided for a few days until the oil has become oxidized. When a floor is waxed this polishing brush becomes a necessity, as no hand rubbing is heavy enough to take its place —New York Tribune.

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal :

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

Editor of CANADIAN GROCER.

DEAR SIR,—I have read and re-read the various letters in your paper re Collection laws, but up to the present writing have seen nothing which would, in my opinion, cure the evil. I am satisfied that a large amount of the bad debts made in any community could be avoided if the merchants were only banded together. The jealousy which exists between merchants of the same town seems to me to be the obstacle. Now let these merchants band together, with the honest intention of protecting each other, and the obstacle is removed.

Let us examine the working of such a union. On my street there are six men doing business in the grocery line. Five out of the six make up their minds to warn each other. Mr. A. comes along, and after dealing with the first grocer for a while, leaves him, owing, say, $10. He then approaches the second grocer, but owing to combination Mr. second grocer has been warned, and so long as Mr. A. pays cash he can get goods, but as soon as he wants credit, Mr. second grocer is opening no new accounts. The others on the street are in the same position. The first debt of $10 may or may not be collected, but it is the only bad debt made. Drop the warning and the $10 loss would grow among these five merchants to thirty or forty dollars, and very likely more. The sixth grocer not being warned is at a disadvantage, and he very soon finds that he is getting more than his share of bad pays. Obviously he must soon come in and share in the protection. As soon as these six men are banded together Mr. Bad-pay must leave for new pastures. Now here is organization on a very small scale, and as far as I can see, with only one bad feature, and that is each man knows a certain amount of his neighbor's business. How shall we get rid of this bad feature? Answer—Engage an outsider to collect the names from each of these six grocers. Pledge him to not convey the creditor's name to each other, and you have the best means for preventing bad debts. I verily believe prevention to be better than cure. If this should lead to merchants banding together in one or more towns, Mr. Editor, I am satisfied your space has not been wasted.

RETAIL ASSOCIATIONS.

In every department of business there are two classes of difficulties to be coped with: namely, those that spring solely from the dealer's trade intercourse with his customers and creditors, and those that are engendered by the opposition of rivals. Of the former class, a few prominent ones are: bad debts, delayed payments, the produce trade, the proneness of customers to take offence, jealousy, exacting attentions, fault finding with measure, quality or price, outrages on patience, hard work. These troubles are sufficient to task the tact and energy of any man, and he who realizes how much they demand of him cannot complain that the cup of his trials is not full enough. But when to these are added the vexations that arise from the strife between dealer and dealer, the cup becomes a bowl. These latter are numerous, discouraging, and for the most part contaminating in their tendency. A few with which every business man is familiar are: price cutting, overbidding for produce, compromises, bankruptcies, laying in bankrupt stocks, the deterioration of goods, dishonest shifts to recover on slaughtered prices, antipathy between traders. These are demoralizing, and the friction they directly induce is in itself great and aggravates ten fold the weight of those worries which are the outcome of dealings with the public.

All dealers must have the former set of cares. The causes of them are graven in the very constitution of human nature. But the fact that such trials are inevitable should plead for the amelioration of those conditions that are the effect of reckless competition. Men who are locally engaged in the same trade should take steps to eliminate as far as possible every influence frustrating to trade. They must co-operate for this purpose, and in co-operating they disburden their lot of the most mischievous ones their mutual antagonism produced. The trade has ballast enough in the load of difficulties it has to carry in its relation to the buying public. To lighten itself farther of these, it needs to concentrate. Therefore, not only does local combination among men of the same trade tend to sink the hindrances to progress that are begotten of rivalry, but it greatly strengthens traders against the trading public. It strengthens them in the following ways:—that they are reciprocally pledged not to undo each other for the benefit of customers; that they fund the trade experience of the community, so that each member can inform himself of what he does not locally know; they place each other on guard against bad customers.

Grocers everywhere should form into local associations. They lose money, they waste energy, they injure trade the longer they abstain from union. In these days all industrial and trading communities are knitting together for the protection of their interests. Labor, manufacture, trade, capital, in all their departments are combining. The farmers form their granges, the mechanics their unions, the manufacturers their combinations, the great corporate bodies their trusts. Society is becoming an aggregate of associations rather than of individuals. This is a time when common interests need to organize to hold their own. The grocers in this town or that should not remain scattered. They are at the mercy of the public which finds its interest in stirring them one against the other. The public knows that by a little gossip from one grocer to the other it can inflame the competitors to the most foolish attacks on each others' trade. A good association will prevent this.

Why should business interests not be organized as well as purely civil ones? If the smallest municipality had not its own system, its officers, its revenues, its punishments, its protection, it is hard to imagine in what state of chaos a town or even a township would be. The best provincial constitution, ably administered, would not prevent local outrage and disorder. Similarly in a disorganized state of local trade there is too much license. Men do things that the most loose ties of association would prevent. In every town where there is no grocers' association one should be started. Let no man fear to take on himself the initiative. Let none dread the openne s that is entailed. What is private to a man's business is as much so in his connection with an association as in his isolation. It involves no communications that are relative to one's standing or one's internal economy.

A TEN PER CENT. COLLECTION LAW.

A bill has been introduced in the legislature of New York to provide for the collection of debt. The bill gives merchants the right to demand of employers 10 per cent. of the wages of employes, to apply on previous obligations. Labor organizations protest against the measure, because it makes no allowance for sickness, disability or ill luck. The opposition comes from a source that could not be expected to yield encouragement. The grounds of the opposition are not all stated by the labor organizations. The most stubborn antipathy to such a bill proceeds from those who do not wish to be forced to pay their debts. Yet there are not in the social system any associations of men who are more exacting in their demands upon the law for their protection than are labor organizations. Their members are always preferred creditors, they are to be paternally legislated for against avoidable chanres of accident; the conditions of their labor are to be fixed by law. In short labor organizations avail themselves to the full of all legislative means to deliver them from the tyranny or fraud of their employers. We have no fault to find with representatives of labor looking after their interests, and as far as it is judicious for those interests to be explicitly guarded by law we approve of their being so guarded. But of all citizens, we think those industrially engaged should be the last to resist in their organizations the application of business men for legal warrant to collect debt owed by members of such organizations. The object of such industrial organizations are supposed to be moral as well as material. They exist, it is believed, for the advancement of those associated together in them. They are not supposed to be "right or wrong" the defenders of all their members' acts. Those acts should be legitimate subject of inquiry in all such fraternal communities, and as the acts are good or bad should individual members be supported or censured. There is nothing by which a man should forfeit his standing in an association if persistent refusal to pay his debts is not a reason. The labor communities after getting the states guarantee that they will be paid their earnings, should not obstruct the commercial movement which seeks to get the same protection against the dishonest ones of their members. It is a condemning comment upon their honesty that they do take such a stand. It puts them in the position of appearing to be composed of more dishonest than of honest men.

Such opposition might be expected to withstand a similar movement in this country. The plan unfolded in several former numbers of this paper by the letters of "A Country Merchant," is practically that sought to be passed by the trade in New York. The fact that such an idea has been launched from the speculative into the practical stage in the United States makes its feasibility here more admissable. The scheme outlined in Country Merchant's letters has many claims upon the attention of all general dealers in the country. They should take hope from the progressive advance of the same scheme across the line, and should give it their support. The matter ought not to be dropped. It should be taken hold of from all quarters.

THE BUTTER TRADE.

It appears to be as necessary as it ever was to appeal to the trade to do its utmost to improve the character of Canadian butter. Already the market is loaded with the low-grade stuff of which Canadian producers have been so lavish in the past. It was hoped that the new butter of the spring make would redeem in some measure our name as a dairy people, and would be the earnest of a year's production far ahead of anything we had ever done before. The extremely low rates to which prices are graded are a disappointing response to such a hope. Very low prices have come early, they are at present maintained by an abundance of inferior butter, and there is a discouraging prospect that these prices and the class of butter corresponding to them will be monotonously common features of the year's market.

The trade does not make the butter produced in this country, but to an enormous degree it can regulate the character of it. There would be no bad butter get to our commission houses here if none were admitted through the portals of trade, that is, if the country stores would not afford market for it. If the initial step into trade were prevented, the tons of this stuff that pollute our cellars every year, would either be consumed by the makers or would never be produced. Once in trade the vilest butter goes through the whole circulation, bringing loss to every concern which touches it. So much is this stuff on the increase that it seems there will have to be uses for it discovered, and if the character of the production can not be elevated, our hopes must turn towards the ingenuity of man, which may devise some purpose to absorb the worst of it. It seems to be in poor demand as wagon grease, or as any other sort of mechanical lubricant. Carloads of it finally get out of trade at almost no price, and the whole trade current of such butter has been marked at every stopping point by loss.

Who is to blame? The retailer is, for opening the channels of trade to such butter. The defence of the retailer is, that he would alienate custom if he refused to buy bad butter in every case, that his rival would buy it and thus attach the whole trade of the maker, that butter has to be taken when money is scarce, in short that the butter trade must be a losing one, and that there is no help for it. Truly the situation of the butter question is discouraging enough to make those despair who would aspire to solve it. There is only one solution and that involves heroic treatment. It involves the giving up by every trader of whatever advantage the retention of the bad butter trade seemed to bring with it. There is too much mutual mistrust among traders to expect that such a surrender is practicable unless organization is first established. If the trade unanimously took such an attitude, the result would be that farmers' wives would study to make better butter and would succeed, or they would give up the attempt and make way for the creameries. The latter would be the more desirable result, as it would release the general merchant from all the embarrassments of the butter trade, which is harassing under the most favorable condition.

EDUCATE YOUR CUSTOMERS.

We were talking with a retailer the other day on the subject of cutting prices, and his ideas seem to possess considerable merit. He said, "When I find a certain line of goods cut below a living profit, I do my best to win my customers from using that line. Of course it does not work in every case, but a great deal can be done in that direction. Only the other day a customer came in for a certain electric soap. Its price to bear a living profit is 7 cents, but cutters gave 4 for 25 cents and I was expected to do the same. I offered my customer another brand at 5 for 25 cents which gave me a decent margin. I succeeded in inducing a trial. What was the result? My customer claims the soap I sold her last to be fully equal to the other, in fact she can see no difference, she is well pleased, so am I." The GROCER advises its readers to try the same plan.

LONG TERMS AND CUTTING.

To the Editor Canadian Grocer.

I want as a grocer to endorse what our friend of Minden said about compromises. In this town we have business men so-called, some cutting one line of goods and some another, till at last they fail or make some one else go under, they don't seem to care which. I think the manufacturers and wholesalers are to blame for this. The fruit jar trade is ruined here because the goods are sold, to be delivered 1st of June, payable in four months from that, and if the buyer is short, a renewal of part of note. Then some one gets tired looking at jars and starts to run them, and we all follow suit or get left. Vinegars are pushed out in the same way. Why don't they hold their goods and sell them to us as we want and not as they think we want. Let them make goods one month and wholesale men won't have to be hunting for the sheriff so often to their own sorrow and to that of the retail man who is trying to act square.

A. Wilson,
St. Catharines.

Our correspondent draws attention to two practices which are related to each other as cause and effect, namely, long credit and price cutting. It is generally enough recognized that long credit has another tendency that is inimical to honest trade, the tendency to make the debtor a procrastinator or an evader of his liabilities, as it is the case that the more distant is the time of maturity usually the more loath or unable to pay is the debtor. The effect of it, however, as a generator of price cutting has not been strongly enough felt to make a contemplation of that effect a motive in the regulation of time. When the interval between the buying and the paying date is long, the stock is not bought with the same eye to limitations of the supply as if the day of payment were closer. Short terms beget buying in smaller instalments, so that what is bought rarely becomes an eyesore because of its being a long time in storage. Cutting, therefore, is not so likely to be started. In the case of fruit jars it is not obvious why the terms should be specially liberal. The use of them is confined mostly to one season, and the trade in them is correspondingly short and usually brisk while it lasts. The circulation of money usually revives shortly after the preserving season is over, so that pay should be looked for early. When time is up collection should be inevitable, or postponed only for some serious reason. Wholesalers are not only the suppliers to the retail trade; they are in some sense protectors of it. They can organize that trade very largely by the measures they take for their own interests. Cutting, for instance, would be checked to an astonishing degree, if the terms were always strict and close.

It appears that though the duty on molasses has been reduced, the actual tax upon importations has been increased owing to the placing upon the hogsheads of a duty that was not there before.

CREDIT BUREAUS.

Almost every line of trade, sooner or later, experiences a want which is expressed by some such phrase asa "credit bureau." Each merchant has his own credit department, more or less distinct from other parts of his business, as determined by the size of his trade and the general organization maintained, and when he reflects that every other man in the same line of business is doing the same thing, using practically the same names and employing the same general methods he is very likely driven to the conclusion that a single credit department conducted by a disinterested person for the benefit of his trade as a class would not only be a great convenience, but also an important economy in the business. Further he is led to reflect that what he knows about any one customer, is very likely to be erroneous in some important particular owing to the way in which information is ordinarily secured, and that accordingly if the record as far as that man is concerned could be based upon the reports of a number of houses doing business with him it would be far more reliable. He becomes quite enthusiastic. He continues to build the air castles. "Here are six of us in the same business," he says, "all covering about the same territory. Now, if I should report to the central credit bureau all I know about each of my customers and each of the other five should do the same about theirs, and these reports should be carefully collated and arranged, the loss from bad debts both to myself and my competitors would be very much reduced. My expenses would be lessened, for it does cost money directly and indirectly to watch so many customers, to know at all times just what their standing is, and one well equipped credit bureau could do it for all of us, at far less expense than the aggregate cost of each doing it for himself."

So far so good. The merchant at once talks to his competitors in the same line of trade and after a time the majority of them are persuaded it is a good move and accordingly the bureau is organized and starts off with a grand flourish. But we will stop right here with our fable and complete the picture by a statement of facts illustrating how such things almost invariably work out. A local association of certain manufacturers was formed several years since, comprising in its membership ten or a dozen firms. The territory covered by these manufacturers was very nearly identical, and the lines of goods manufactured by them more nearly corresponded in general features than is usual in such cases. The object of the association was, of course, to serve general interests. The question of prices was to be fixed from time to time, and incidentally the members agreed to sustain a co-operative credit bureau. Each was to contribute to this at the outset a list of his customers and to answer concerning all of them several questions with respect to standing, business habits and general record, and from time to time thereafter was to send in reports of customers who failed—who allowed drafts to be returned and who did anything whatever calculated to influence their credit rating. In turn, each manufacturer was to have the use of all the records of the bureau in establishing his own scale of credits. Very elaborate and in all respects adequate preparations were made for the receipt of this information and for carrying out the scheme in all its details, but somehow it failed to work. The original lists were sent in—in part at least—but right there the machinery came to a stop and it has never moved since. No one of the dozen manufacturers has ever reported a customer delinquent or slow, or bankrupt, or anything else, and yet the trade of the district referred to goes on just the same.

One of the manufacturers interested in this scheme showed us a few days since the books and records of the bureau. He gave the information on which the above is based and many other interesting facts, to only one of which will reference be made at this time. Turning to a name, he said :—"There is a customer who is rated 'fair pay' by one of the manufacturers in this little scheme. We know he is not fair pay—not by any means. We know he has no claim whatever to credit. We know further that he is 'into' the firm reporting him 'fair' for a large amount, which they have been carrying for a long time, and that they are seeking some way to get out. They would no doubt like some of the rest of us to help sustain the burden, and that was the reason of rating this man 'fair pay.' As it is, knowing all the facts, the rest of us sell him for cash only. The other concern can't unload on us in that way." This tells the whole story, and the other facts presented in the conversation only corroborated it.

Competitors are competitors. They are never partners, and in the struggle for existence or for profits, as the case may be, there is no hesitation among competitors to choose the best for No. 1, leaving the poorest for No. 2. The history of various trades shows wrecks of enterprises of this kind all along the road, and where better results have been secured than those described it has only been by taking the credit bureau further away from the intimate association usually attempted and making it nearer an independent business effort. Here, however, success is by no means assured, for with the improvement and development of the general commercial agencies the last few years they offer facilities which special agencies cannot furnish, and their cost to subscribers is relatively far less than the cost of any special effort that can be made. The idea in starting a new credit scheme for any branch of trade is, "We will have it all to ourselves. We will weed out the irresponsible and tricky retailers, who cheat us out of our goods. We will establish a black list, etc." It dont work that way. The man that is first caught does not feel disposed to stand the loss. His leading thought is to unload, and he succeeds in this so often as to come to consider the provision or at least opportunity for unloading a necessary and proper part of good business management. Agreements may be made to do differently, but human nature is stronger than any agreement that can be made, and human nature, after all, is the ruling power. —Iron Age.

A CORRECTION.

Victoria, B. C., April 11, 1890.

EDITOR OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,
Toronto.

DEAR SIR,—In your issue of April 4th, under the head of "Green Fruit Packages" you enumerate Florida, California, and Washington Territory oranges. In regard to Washington Territory you are away off. All they raise there is the same as in British Columbia. I do not imagine you are in the real estate business in Washington Territory, so take it as an error, and I believe you will agree with me, when I say that next to British Columbia, Washington Territory raises the biggest trees on earth, but would draw the line on oranges, so be good enough to tell that yarn to some other subscriber. At the same time I congratulate you upon your paper, which I find of great benefit to my business.

Yours truly,
J. C. DEVLIN.

We thank Mr. Devlin for his courteous correction. The error was obvious upon after consideration, but was not noted for alteration in the next issue and so was not recalled. The reference of oranges to Washington Territory was the result of a confusion of names. There are oranges from near Riverside in California which are called 'Washington navels,' while there are others from the same state called 'California navels,' grown near Los Angeles. The fact that the former came from the Pacific coast of this continent easily led to the association of them with the Pacific territory called Washington. We are as glad to make the correction, as we are to be reminded of it.

One thing in particular should be impressed upon clerks—the necessity of careful attention to small customers.

MAPLE SYRUP MEASURES.

A besetting annoyance that yearly re-appears in the maple syrup trade is the stubborn adherence of producers and many dealers to an obsolete standard of measurement. Years ago the accepted unit of measure was the wine gallon, but for a long time now that has been legally superseded by the Imperial gallon. Practically it has not been superseded, however. Producers stick to the wine gallon, and many dealers illegally seize upon the advantage there is in the discrepancy between the wine and the Imperial gallon, and quote prices based on the former. Their quotations are lower than those of the man who regards the law and sells by Imperial measure. Their prices, however, are likely to be higher, as the wine gallon holds barely three Imperial quarts, while the legalized gallon holds four Imperial quarts. The wine gallon weighs about 10 pounds; the Imperial gallon weighs 14 pounds. Every buyer of maple syrup can insist on the Imperial standard of measurement, and can prosecute the man who sells him what are called gallons and are not Imperial gallons. Prices are from 90c. to $1.25 per Imperial gallon. The higher quotation represents the finest Eastern Townships product, made directly from the sap. The lower and contiguous figures represent prices of syrups that are made from an intermediate sugar product. The prices by the wine gallon we do not recognize and do not quote.

RETAIL GROCERS' CONSTITUTION.

For the benefit of many towns from which we have received inquiries upon the subject, we publish the Constitution of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association. It will expedite organization, where that is contemplated, to have a convenient basis at hand.

CONSTITUTION.

Article I.—Name. This Association shall be called "THE TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION."

Article II.—Object. The object of the Association shall be the promotion of the interests of the trade and the members thereof.

Article III.—Membership. Sec. 1.—None but retail grocers will be admitted as members.

Sec. 2.—There shall be no honorary members.

Article IV.—Subscription. The annual subscription fee shall be $2, payable half-yearly, in advance.

Article V.—Admission. Any qualified person may become a member of this Association by motion at any regular meeting, notice of which has been given at the previous regular meeting.

Article VI.—Officers. The officers of this Association shall be President, Vice-President, Recording Secretary, Financial Secretary, Treasurer, Inner Guard, and also Four Directors who with the Officers will form the Executive Committee.

Article VII.—Duty of President. It will be the duty of the President to preside at all meetings of the Association except when wishing to speak on any question; to maintain order and decorum; to sign all cheques which must also be countersigned by the Treasurer, and to call special meetings on the written request of ten members of the Association.

Article VIII.—Duty of Recording Secretary. It will be the duty of the Recording Secretary to keep a correct record of the proceedings of each meeting, conduct the correspondence of the Association, notify all members of special meetings, and perform such other duties as may be required of him by the Association.

Article IX.—Duty of Financial Secretary. The Financial Secretary shall keep a correct account between the Association and its members, charge and collect all fees, and at the close of each meeting pay over to the Treasurer all moneys he may have received.

Article X.—Duty of Treasurer. The Treasurer will receive all money from the Financial Secretary and deposit the same within three days in some chartered bank in the name of the Association, and pay all orders drawn on him by the Association.

Article XI.—Duty of Inside Guard. The Inside Guard will take charge of the door and admit members of the Association only, except by permission of the Association.

Article XII.—Election of Officers. Sec. 1.—The election of Officers will be by nomination and ballot and will take place at the first regular meeting in each year.

Sec. 2.—Any office may be declared vacant by motion of the Association, the occupant of which has been absent three consecutive regular meetings, without giving a satisfactory reason.

Article XIII.—Quorams. Sec. 1.—Eleven members will form a quorum of the Association.

Sec. 2.—Five members will form a quorum of the Executive Committee.

Article XIV.—Hour of Meeting. Sec. 1.—The hour for opening each regular meeting will be 8 p.m.

Sec. 2.—The regular meetings will be held on the second Monday in each month.

Article XV.—Order of Business. The meeting shall be opened by the President taking the chair, when the Order of Business shall be as follows:—

1. Reading and adoption of the minutes of the last meeting.
2. Officers roll-call.
3. Motions of which notice has been given.
4. Admission of new members.
5. Reports of Officers or Committees.
6. Nomination and Election of Officers.
7. Unfinished business.
8. New business.
9. Remarks in the interest of the Association.
10. Adjournment.

Article XIV.—Any member rendering himself unworthy of being a member of this Society, or compromising in a grave manner the honor and good name of the Association, will be suspended or expelled as the majority of members at any regular meeting may decide; such member to be notified to appear and defend himself from the charge.

Article XVII.—Members wishing to withdraw from the Association must give notice of their intention at least one month in advance, and will be responsible for all liabilities contracted until the date of said notice.

Article XVIII.—This Association will exist so long as twenty members thereof adhere to its Constitution and By-Laws and remain on its Roll of Membership; and such members may legally dispose of the funds of the Society as they may see fit.

Article XIX.—Parliamentary Rules of Order and Procedure shall govern all our meetings.

Article XX.—Notice of one month must be given of any motion to annul or amend any Article of these By-Laws, and such motion shall require a two-thirds majority of those present and voting.

A COMMERCIAL POLONIUS.

A commercial traveller when he first went on the road got the following advice from the head of the firm :—"John, my son, you are "going to sell goods; let me give you a poin- "ter or two. Don't over-eat, to keep even "with the hotels; post your letters yourself, "don't leave them with the hotel clerk. You "will find a surprising number of the men "you want to see are away on a jury, or at "home sick, gone to the city to buy goods, "gone fishing, or to a funeral, or a pic-nic, "but peg away and don't get discouraged. "When you catch your men they will tell "you times are hard and the season back- "ward, that you have come too early, or too "late, that they have just bought, that your "styles are old and unpopular, that Jones "offered the same goods last week for less "money, etc., but don't get rattled, don't "write home as if you had made a discovery; "it is an old story. You go to sell goods; "peg away. Do the best you can, and you "wont fail, that's all. Good luck to you."

On reading the foregoing, tea-mixer Laertes, of a Front street firm, sat him down on an empty chest, by the side of his mill, and thus unburdened his poetic soul :—

Most sagely spoken great Polonious!
And clear does thy same fatherly advice
Bring back the same old chestnuts of my boss
When first my "Grip" I grasped in willing hand
And wandered forth, heart light, this great land through,
In quest of orders. But, alas, how oft
Are sapient words too glibly uttered, and
By those who never have nor ever could Sell aught of goods but bottles and old rags!
'Tis easy thing to sit in cushioned chair
And, rocking to and fro, look wise and great
And say "John do thou this and don't do that."
But tis an equine of another shade
To "beard the lion in his den and face
The Douglas in his hall." Methinks I see
The Boss himself upon the Road, I smile
To see him enter John Smith's store, I see Him place his "Grip" on counter high and gaze
With all important look around the shop,
I hear him ask in dulcet tones for Smith.
And then I see Old Smith himself get up
And stretch his six feet two of solid meat
Behind the old box stove, and bellow out
"Well, sir and what's your business here to-day?
"Oh! so! You're Brown himself, of Brown & Co.?
"I'm glad you've come, been thinkin' hard of late
"'Bout goin' to town and raisin' cain with you.
"No use to talk to Bob, your man, he's straight "And square, an' but for him ye' wouldn't get "A continental red from old John Smith.
"You're here now and we might as well square up
"An' let me tell you what I think o' you:
"—You charged me just about as much again
"For that last lot of tea I got, as I "Can buy it for elsewhere—You think I'm green,
"And don't know tapioca from white beans.
"Your sugars' salted, coffee full of peas,
"Your oats are bran, your lard naught else but grease,
"You charge me for old boxes that are worth
"For kindling wood, per cord, say eighty cents,
"And when I dare presume to send them back
"You write me a few printed lines, to wit,
"These boxes surely were not shipped by us
"Tho' had they been no charge we would have made
"And so, dear sir, we cannot entertain
"The thought of paying you for them again,
"You want your pound of flesh, and more than that
"Unlike old Shylock, want my life blood too,
"You're sharp on discounts, interest is your forte,
"And charge me, should I be but ten cents short.
"You hear me Brown, take my advice, go home "Think long, think well, considerate be, and know
"That Smith knows what is what, and's not so green
"As you smart city chaps decide we are.
"Well? No, say nothin' t'aint no use, I'm done,
"We're full up, all lines, stocked, we're low in none."

And then I see the Boss with lowly head
Depart from thence and seek the nearest bar,
Fill up on something red, and then fill out
A Great North Western blank to Brown & Co.,
"No trade, six drummers here, rain pouring down,
"Tell Bob to pack his kit—I'm sick—C. Brown."

P. S. What Smith said in reality was more forcible than elegant, and even the elastic poetic license will not permit Laertes to express himself, besides no feet or measure could be adapted to his unrythmic flow of adjectives.

P. P. S. The Boss hasn't travelled since!!!

SUNLIGHT LARGEST SALE IN THE WORLD SOAP

Winner of THREE GOLD MEDALS in 1889---Paris, France, Ghent, Belgium, and Ottawa, Canada.

The Wide-Awake Grocer, even if he gets a smaller profit out of SUNLIGHT Soap than he does out of Inferior Soaps, recognizes the fact that the increased volume of business done by reason of keeping the BEST article, more than compensates for the smaller profit. The aim of every Grocer should be, to earn a reputation for selling THE BEST.

Allen Bros, Mount Forest, were among the visitors to THE GROCER last week.

Mr. I. C. Sanford of Brighton, an old and prominent business man of that place, died April 5th, 1890.

Messrs. Allan Bros. of Mount Forest, favored the GROCER with a friendly call one afternoon last week.

The new Parkhill salt well company has been finally organized, and will do business under the firm name of W. H. Hutchins & Co.

At Hamilton the other day, R. O. Fielding was sentenced to three months in the Central Prison for forging the name of Mr. Rusk, a Woodstock grocer.

Mr. E. Cody, Embro, when in the city last week, called at THE GROCER office to renew his subscription. He says he is very fond of the paper and could not get along without it.

Mr. Wm. Trott is one of the successfull grocery merchants of St. Thomas. He said to a GROCER reporter that when he could not take advantage of the discounts offered he would quit business.

The grocery store No. 589 Talbot street, St. Thomas, has changed hands twice in the past six months. Mr. Secord selling out to W. F. Charlton, who in turn sold to Mr. E. M. Oill the present proprietor.

Neil McKay, a Halifax merchant, was killed at Lake Ainslie, C.B., a few days ago, He had been gunning and the gun slipped in the bottom of the boat, exploded and the whole charge went through his body.

"Trade is good and I have no reason to complain," said Mr. W. B. Hogarth, Tilsonburg. "You had hard work to get me to take the GROCER a year ago at one dollar, but there are two now without a murmur."

The Canada Gazette contains notice of application to be made for the incorporation of the Ottawa Canning Company. Their chief place of business is to be Ottawa. The proposed capital stock is $20,000, divided into 200 shares of $10 each.

The lately organized salt firm at Parkhill, consisting of Messrs. R. H. Hodgins, Lucan, W. H. Hutchines, Parkhill, and Mr. J. Carter, of Courtwright, have commenced active operations and expect to be able to supply salt to the public on after the first day of June next.

Mr. McKenzie of the Royal Baking Powder Co., Toronto, accompanied by Mr. Small, M. P. and Mr. J. H. Beaty, interviewed Hon. Mr. Bowell in reference to the duty on baking powder. Mr. McKenzie claims that the increased duty will operate largely against his business.

Mr. A. G. Bobier, who keeps a produce commission warehouse in Jarvis' carriage factory building London, when he came down to business the other morning found that his place had been broken into either on Saturday or Sunday night and 200 pounds of butter stolen.

Mr. Corby, M.P., speaking with regard to the statement that our farmers could not raise hogs heavy enough for the requirements of the lumbermen, says that on Monday a carload of 80 hogs, averaging 400 pounds each, was shipped from Belleville to Montreal, as they were too heavy for the Belleville market.

Mr. Cockburn presented a petition from the citizens of Toronto to the Government praying that more effective provision be made for the establishment of a system of weigh scales, to be placed in charge of licensed weighers at all grain buying stations, elevators and markets in the Dominion. The petitioners recite that farmers and other producers are put to great inconvenience and loss in many localities by reason of the fact that in many villages and towns no adequate provision is made for the official weighing of grain and other produce by responsible and impartial weighers.

Messrs. Ross & Wilkins are prosperous grocery men of Tilsonburg. They also carry full lines of boots and shoes. Mr. Ross is senior member as well of the firm of Ross & Scott, produce dealers. They buy all kinds of grain and other farm products. They handled last year about 6,000 bushels clover seed, and are the largest pork buyers in that section of the country. They are well and favorably known throughout Canada and the States.

There has been an average increase in the Newfoundland tariff of 5 to 10 per cent. Hereafter fresh beef will pay a duty of one and a half cents per barrel; cattle, live weight, one cent per pound; butter and butterine, three cents per pound. This is for the special benefit of the St. John's oleomargarine factory. Cheese, three cents per pound; hay, leather, cut nails, straw, etc., 20 per cent.; cigars, 10 per cent. ad valorem and six dollars per thousand.

business at Leamington until about six months ago, when he pulled up stakes, and was next heard of in Chicago. He returned for a brief visit home last week, and was just about leaving again for the other side when arrested. He is said to have some means.

Our representative called on the leading grocery men in St. Thomas last week. All report improvement in business, and feel confident the worst is over, especially for those that have a "business." The following subscribers to the GROCER were called on: Messrs. Egan Bros., Waddle Bros., Wyatt & Chaplow, W. Precious, G. A. Smith, G. A. Boghner, Wm. Trott, Jas. Begg, J. & J. McAdam, wholesale, A. McKenzie, E. M. Oill. All had a good word for the GROCER and said it was doing good.

The grocery store of John Lewis, Hagersville, Ont., was broken into on Saturday night and groceries valued at about $50 carried away. Constable Kinsley took the case in hand, and by noon on Sunday had the theives under arrest and in the lock-up They gave their names as Patrick Muldoon, aged 25 and John Penderguest, aged 18. The constable found his men in a barn about a mile and half north of the village. The stolen goods were buried in the straw in the barn. The captured men confessed the crime.

Mr. W. Strachan and Mr. J. G. Savage of Montreal, have pointed out to Mr. Bowell that according to the terms of the tariff their soap-boiling business would be seriously handicapped. Fat refuse can be imported duty free when used for the manufacture of soap, but is subject to a duty otherwise. Well, the fact is that all the soap manufacturers extract the lard oil from this refuse and find a sale for it to the woolen manufacturers. Under a strict interpretation of the tariff the fats would be subject to duty when treated in this way. Messrs. Strachan and Savage were accompanied by Messrs. Curran and Pope in their interview with the Ministers. Mr Pope said the views of the deputation were supported by 30 woollen manufacturers.

The Inland Revenue Department has recently issued a bulletin of about thirty pages which is devoted exclusively to the subject of baking powder and which shows that the majority of the goods in the market are adulterated and unfit for use. Prof. A. McGill, who has had charge of this important work for the Government, says that "imperial baking power is an excellent baking powder." A word to the sensible housekeeper should be suffcieut.

GROCERIES.

The steady fine weather of the last eight days has wrought an improvement in the condition of the roads and has thus told favorably upon the state of trade. This has been a much brighter week in the wholesale calendar than the one it was the immediate successor of. Still there has been nothing particularly active in business. Farmers have been favored by the fine weather as well as have traders, and although the former could the better market their produce because of it and thus help along the diffusion of money, yet they have more availed themselves of it to begin seeding In many parts of the country the fields are now dry enough for ploughing, and this suspends traffic to some extent. A good many have laid in supplies to tide them over seeding, and will on this account be less active buyers, as well as for the reasons shown above they are less active sellers. Trade, however, is not marked by any unlooked for characteristics. It is expected to be rather quiet at this season, and it is quiet.

CANNED GOODS.

There is very strong enquiry now for strawberries and tomatoes. The latter have been in steady call for some time. The special attention to strawberries is a consequence of the decline in the stock of peaches and plums. These are going rapidly out of supply. The demand for canned fruit is now sharpened by the exhaustion of home-made supplies. Households which put down their own fruit usually have it all consumed by this date. This throws them upon the canners' fruit, and since most of that now unsold is strawberries, these get the full benefit of the improved demand. Lobsters are getting exceedingly scarce. Some large dealers are refusing orders. There is no sign of weakness in the prices. These seem at present more likely to gain than to loose in the course of time. On vegetables alone is there a stock that makes a fluctuation difficult to calculate. These, however, are running off fairly fast, and are apt to be worth at the end of the season as much as they are now.

Messrs. W. Boulter, of the Bay of Quinte Canning Company, Picton, and W. A. Ferguson, Delhi Canning Company, have just returned from Chicago, where they have sold three car-loads of canned peas, and can sell more if they desire at the same prices. This action was taken by them to relieve the Canadian market, which was slightly over-stocked with peas. It is thought that what now remains will be required for home consumption. If not, it is expected that further exports will be made. The prices obtained are satisfactory, and will afford a fair margin of profit.

W. Boulter & Sons have sold all their strawberries to a Front street house.

CHEMICALS.

Cables are 5s. per cwt. lower on cream of tartar. Tartaric acid is, however, cabled firm.

COFFEE.

Rios are still at 23c. There is a reserve of them in stock thus long, simply because general trade is rather quiet, and the course of buying in coffee as in all things runs slowly. The above price may be expected to be increased upon. The only features in the coffee situation generally are those pointed to in the Rio market, scarcity and firmness. Java stocks are light, and prices are strong at 34c. Mochas are firmer at 27 to 28c. Plantation Ceylons are 27c. There is a very fair demand for them.

DRIED FRUITS AND NUTS.

Valencias have gone up farther. The cost of them, off-stock, laid down here, is 8½c. The remnant of the stock bought last autumn and winter is now selling at 8 to 8½c., and for select, off-stock 9½c. The Valencia layers are firm at 9½ to 9¾c. Sultanas are unchanged at 11 to 12c. Malagas are $1.35 in quarter-boxes of blackbaskets, $3 to $3.15 in London layers, $2.35 to $2.61 in loose muscatels. Eleme figs are 10½ to 11c. Four-crescents are 14c., 5-crescents are 15c., and 7-crescents are 16c. Natural figs in bags are 4¾ to 5c., and 6½c. in boxes. Currants are 5⅝ to 5⅞c. in barrels, 5¾ to 6c. in half-barrels, Bosnia prunes are 5 to 5½c. in hogsheads, 5¼ to 5½c. in barrels, and 5¾ to 6c. in kegs. Sphinxes are 8¼ to 8½c. for A, 8 to 8¼c. for B, 7¾ to 8c. for C, 7¼ to 1-2c. for D, and 7 for U. Atlas are 7 1-2c. for B and 7c. for C. French are 5¼ to 5 1-2 in kegs.

Cable advices from Trieste report cask prunes at equivalent to 6 3-16c. laid down in New York.

Warren Bros. & Boomer report the arrival of new Brazil nuts. They are held at 14 to 15c.

SUGAR.

Since last report the prices of yellows yielded and recovered ⅛. The refiners are now firm for last week's prices on both yellows and whites. The New York market has improved, refined having advanced 3-16 since our last report. The tendency of the New York market is to advance still farther. Raw is now in Toronto stocks. Medium and bright in sacks sells at 5½ to 5⅝. The market for white is firm, as beet and cane are both stronger. The present is a slack time in consumption, and any upwardness there is in prices is not apt to be set moving until the demand sets in its mid-spring and early summer rate.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

The condition of the market is substantially unchanged. The stock of syrups is of the grades reported last week, and is sold at the same prices. M syrup is in half barrels at 5⅝ to 3¾. An American equivalent for Redpath's B, is selling at 3⅝ to 3¾ in barrels. Extra superior in barrels is 4 to 4⅛, and in half barrels 4⅛ to 4¼. Treble X in half barrels is 4⅜ to 4½. Corn syrup, No. 25 in barrels is 4⅜ to 4½, in half barrels is 4½ to 4⅝. V in barrels is 4½ to 4⅝, and 4⅝ to 4¾ in half barrels. Trinidad molasses is 36c. in hogsheads, 38c. in barrels, and 40c. in half barrels. The trade in both syrups and molasses has been very light during the week.

TEAS

The English budget was announced shortly after our last report went to press. It bears out to a slight degree the expectations of those who refrained from buying in the belief that there would be a reduction of the duty on tea. The reduction has been made, 4d. per pound now being the Customs tax in place of a former 6d. This has precipitated buying which was suspended for some time before the appearance of the budget. The issue of this greater activity in the English market is not expected to be felt here, although there is a reported advance of a cent a pound on Congous. Such a slight difference will not be apparant to consumers, as the quality needs to be very delicately shaded to preserve old prices. The abundance of low grade Congous on our market is a result of the English duty being specific. This makes the importation of the high grades of tea as cheap as that of the lowest. Consequently English trade has kept above the lower grades, and the low prices of these found them a market here. The Japan low grades are also abundant and good for current values. There has been a steady business in Indian teas, cheap Pekoes being chiefly in demand. There has been no change in the London market, prices continue steady at the rise noticed in our last, which has been fully maintained. The local enquiry for Ceylons is increasing. The London fine flavored Pekoes and Broken Pekoes generally have advanced a 1d. per pound, and good medium about ½d., while common show very little alteration.

The first shipment of new Japan teas was made from Yokohama, Thursday, for San Francisco. It consisted of 1,000 packages.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

There is a large proportion of old tubs coming in. In few cases is any of it good. The quantity of exceedingly bad butter is very large, and buyers hold heavy supplies that they cannot get 6c. a pound for. Prices for the low grades run from 5 to 8c. The market for these is very weak, and they are accumulating in the stores of local city buyers. Very good tubs bring 10 to 13c. Not much that is offering brings that price. The supply of Brockville dairy has been rather low, and the quality not high. The pound rolls are worth 18 to 19c. They are scarce, and there is an increasing proportion of them that do not come up to the standard that is generally reached in this make. Large rolls runs from 13 to 15c. There is more evenness in the quality and the quality can be relied on as very good in the large rolls. The demand for good butter is far from being met. Not only is the supply of new unequal to the call for it, but the stock of old is unexpectedly large. Country buyers seem to have held to realize in spring, and have suffered loss and swamped the market with little better than dairy refuse.

Cheese remains steady in price and in the course of the trade between retailers and wholesalers. Early summer is 8½ to 9½c. and early autumn is 10½ to 11c.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—There is a very dull sale for any kind. The quality of the fruit marketed is deterioriating in proportion to the bulk, an the bulk is shrinking weekly. There are some fine apples yet, but there are many times more of medium quality. Prices run from $2 to $4. There is a declining inquiry for any kind. Out of store they run from $3 to $4.50.

BEANS—There are few offers and few inquiries. Any business that is doing is at last week's prices, $1.50 to $1.60.

DRIED APPLES—The opportunity of those who have any is slipping away. The season of consumption is nearly past. Twenty barrels of old ones changed hands last Monday at 4½c. New are 5 to 5½c. The stock of old seems to be large.

EVAPORATED APPLES—New are worth 9 to 10c. Old are 7 to 8½c. There is a very moderate trade in them.

EGGS—Are 10c. There is a very free supply, and a good demand. On the street 10 1-2c. are paid.

HAY — Farmers' supplies have greatly fallen off, owing to the arrival of the seeding season. Prices for loose on the street are therefore still high. Good, in farmers' wagons brings $17. Pressed No. 1 is worth $10 on track, and No. 2 is $8.

HIDES—There is no change in prices though those yet quoted are firmer. Cured are 4¾c. Green are 4c. for No. 1 ; 3c. for No. 2, and 2c. for No. 3.

HONEY—There is still a dull trade. There is no change in prices. Good comb is 12 to 14c., and clear is 11 1-2 to 13c.

HOPS—The market is dull. Yearlings are yet in liberal supply at 10 to 12c., and new are 15 to 16c.

OATS—On the street are 37c. On track they are 34c. They are becoming scarcer.

ONIONS—The remainder of the crop yet unmarketed is below the average quality. Prices are firm at $3 to $3.50.

POTATOES—The long standing 55c. is a much firmer price now than it has been for many weeks. The arrivals are not so numerous, and the demand is more animated, both for trade and consumption. Out of store prices are 60 to 65c.

A car-load of potatoes was shipped Saturday last, to Brockville, from Packenham, which brought 35c. on the track.

SEEDS—Prices have acquired stiffness during the week, owning to reduced stocks here and advances abroad. The trade is also now brisk. Red clover is $4.05 to $4 20. Timothy is $1.92 to $2. Alsike is $6 to $7.20. For corn the prices are, 65c. for select yellow horse tooth, 70c. for red cob ensilage, 75c. for giant prolific sweet ensilage.

SKINS—Sheepskins are not usually affected in price at this season. They remain at $1.25 to $1.60. Calfskins are still 6c. for No. 1, and 5c. for No. 2, but these prices have gained in firmness since last week.

STRAW—Tight pressed oat is $5.50 to $6. Bundled oat is much dearer, altogether on account of the cessation of arrivals on farmers' wagons since seeding began. Ruling prices are $11 to $11.50.

TALLOW—The old prices are still good, 1¼ to 2c. for rough, and 5 to 5¼c. for rendered.

WOOL—Good fleece wool is still at 22c. A misprint in last week's report quoted 27c. for it, Of pulled, extra-super is 30c. super 25 to 26c. and lowest 24c.

FISH.

The trade is at a stand still at present, owing to dried and sea fish going out and fresh fish not having arrived, yet, in large quantities. Of the latter, trout and white fish have the chief run at present. Lake fish are expected in next week. The new arrivals are Lake Erie herring which sell at $2.50 per hundred, by count. There are a few sea fish to be had yet which sell as follows :—small cod 5c. ; steak cod 7½ to 8c. ; haddock 6c.; spring salmon 17 to 18c. Lake fish are quoted at 8 to 10c. for white fish and salmon trout ; 8c. for pickerel, and for pike 4½c.

GREEN FRUIT.

The stock of Florida oranges is all but exhausted. The golden russets that are yet on the market here sell at $4.50. Valencia, are run low as well, and quote here at $6.50 to $7. Messinas have the market now, and the wastiness in the lots that reach our market helps to make them dearer. They quote at $4 to $4.50. California and Washington navels are firm at $6. Lemons in 300's are $4 to $4.25, and $3.50 to $4 in 360's. Yellow bananas run from $1 to $2.50, according to the size of the bunch. The reds run up to $2, and are scarce. Pineapples are $1.50 to $3.50 per doz. according to the size. There is a fair demand for all sorts of green fruit.

Valencia oranges are cabled from Liverpool at 16s. but there is no good stock obtainable.

PROVISIONS.

BACON—Long clear is 8½c. Breakfast is 11 to 11½c. for both backs and bellies Roll is 9½c.

DRESSED HOGS—Are $6.25 in lots, and $6.70 on street. The packing season is over and prices are expected to go up.

HAMS—Smoked are 11 to 12c., according to size. Sweet pickled are 10½ to 11.

LARD—In 50-pound tubs is 9½c., and in 20 pound pails is 10c.

MESS PORK—The market is yet unsettled, but present prices are very high, a consequense of the boom in Chicago and the determination of the duty here. Quotations just now are $16.50 to $17, and about the same for short-cut.

SALT.

The salt market is quiet at present, as there seems to be no demand for it. The prices are quite firm, except land salt, which has advanced 50c. per ton. The following are the prices reported by the Toronto Salt Works for the week : 1 car bbls. salt at $1.37; 2 cars sacks 68c.; 1 car dairy at $1.18; land salt $7.00 per ton. Smaller quantities sell at, ¼ sacks 45c. ; bbls. $1.45; sacks 85c.

DRY GOODS.

Raw cotton advanced on Tuesday to 12⅝. This is but another addition to advances that have taken place from time to time during the last several weeks. It will make the prices of manufactured goods stronger if these stocks are declining in factories and warehouses. Among the woolen mills some talk is heard of an intention to close here and there sooner than allow any yield in present prices. The week's dry goods trade has been better than we were able to report in last issue, but it is still below the activity that is usual at the same season in other years.

ENGLISH BARLEY.

The government, for convenience of prompt distribution, has placed a few cars of prize prolific two-rowed barley, just arrived from England, with The Steele Bros. MONTREAL MARKETS.

APRIL 24, 1890.

GROCERIES.

The market has been featureless the past week. The quiteness mentioned in our last continues, but cannot last more than a few days or till the arrival of the ocean vessels, when things will brighten up, and prices in some lines may be lower. Payments have been fairly well provided for.

SUGAR.

The sugar market continues firm and unchanged. The advance looked for last week did not take place and prices remain as follows : Granulated 6½c; Yellows 5⅜ to 5¾c.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Syrups continue quiet. Molasses unchanged at 35c. for single puncheons and 32½ for larger lots. Advices from Barbadoes state that the market there is advancing, but it can only be temporary. None have been bought on Montreal account as yet, as buyers will not pay those high prices.

COFFEES.

The coffee market continues firm with some enquiries. Mocha is at 30 to 32c.; Java, 28 to 30c.; Jamaica, 22 to 24c.; Plantation Ceylon, 27 to 29c.; Maracaibo, 24 to 25c.; Rio, 22 to 24c.; Guatemala, 24½ to 26½c.; Santos, 22 to 24c.

DRIED FRUIT.

The dried fruit market has been very quiet the past week. Valencia raisins continue active and are quoted for prime 8 to 8½c. laid down. London layers $2.75 to $3. currents are firm and a shade higher, selling at 5½ to 6c. Fine prunes cannot be had on the market. Eleme figs 10 to 14c. Dates 5¼c. Dried apples 6½c.

NUTS.

Trade has been fair at steady prices. Taragona almonds, 14c.; Ivica 12c.; Pecans 12 to 12½c; Brazil nuts 11c.; Grenoble walnuts 15 to 15½c., and French 10c.; Filberts 10c. for Sicily and 9½c. for Turkey; green peanuts 8½ to 9c.

RICE.

Advices from Hiogo re the Japanese crop says: "the excitement has been unabated, and the crop is entirely in the hands of the speculators. It is generally admitted that the shortage is fully 25 per cent., which of course justifies a considerable in values. The weather has been unusually mild for the season, with little snow, and the farmers are alarmed, because they say cold weather and snow kills the Locust and other insects, and they fear much of next season's crop will be eaten up with them when warm weather comes. Exportation has almost entirely ceased, and instead Japan is importing from Burmah and Siam. Quotations are nominal." The above conditions of the Japanese Rice market must have the effect of advancing prices in all other rice growing countries and at the points of consumption as Japan exported largely. A further advance in other East India Rice seems certain.

CANNED GOODS.

Canned goods continues to move off freely, but there is considerable cutting by packers. Several lots of tomatoes have changed hands, one at $1.12½. Following are the packers' prices :—Corn $1.20; marrowfat peas, $1.15; sweet peas, $1.25; tomatoes $1.20; stringless beans 85c.; butter beans 90c.; apples, 3 lb., $1.05, per gal. $2.25. $2.35; pineapples $2.25 to $2.40; strawberries $2.35 ; peaches $2.15 ; plums $1.75 ; pears $2 ; green gages $1.70, $1.75, to which add 10 per cent. as wholesalers price. Lobsters are still at $8 per case, but none selling. Salmon, $1.50.

GRAIN AND FLOUR.

GRAIN—The markets are slow, but as a rule, are steady. We quote as follows:—Wheat, No. 1, hard Manitoba, $1.15; No. 2, hard Manitoba, nominal; peas, per 66 lbs., 72½ to 73c.; oats, 33 to 34c.; barley, 40 to 45c.

FLOUR—There is no change to report. There is a good deal of business in a jobbing way, and values are firm. We quote:—Patent winter, $5.20 to $5.40; patent spring, $5.40 to $5.55; straight roller, $4.60 to $4.75; extra, $4.20 to $4.40; superfine, $3.75 to $4.00; fine, $3.25 to $3.50; city strong bakers, $5.15 to $5.25; strong bakers, $4.95 to $5.10; superfine, bags, $1,85 to $2.00; extra, bags, $2.10 to $2.20; fine, bags, $1.45 to $1.60; oatmeal, standard, per bag, $1.80 to $1.90; oatmeal, granulated, $1.95 to $2.05; oatmeal, rolled, $1.85 to $1.95.

EGGS.

The market is stronger, as high as 12½c. having been paid for lots and the jobbing price is 13c.

HOG PRODUCTS.

The following are the quotations:—Western mess, $16 to $16.50; Chicago short cut, $17; Canada short cut, $17; lard 8 to 8½c. per pound; bacon, 10½ to 11c.; hams, 11½ to 12c.

MAPLE SYRUP AND SUGAR.

The demand is a very limited one. We quote syrup in cans at 60 to 65c., in wood, 5 to 6c. per pound, and sugar 7½ to 8c.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

Butter—Unchanged. Old butter nominally at the following quotations :—Finest

TRADE SALES.

The following trade sales took place at Messrs. Suckling, Cassidy & Co's rooms on Tuesday:—Canada Window Shade Company's stock, worth $4,600, to Hess, Anderson & Co., at 42 1-2c. in the dollar. S. J. Lyons, of Aylmer, general stock of dry goods, valued at $6,266, to Mrs. M. Sterrett, at 65c. on the dollar. Duffett & Co., 338 Yonge street, general dry-goods, valued at $3,200, to Frank Kean, of Orillia, at 50c. on the dollar. W. C. Myers & Co., Thornbury, general stock, valued at $6,052, sold to Mrs. Rattan at 63 1-2c. on the dollar.

The Globe Tobacco Company, of Windsor, has received a $7,000 order for tobacco cigarettes from Ireland.

Mr. John Hannah has purchased the Herbison creamery plant, and will have the Goderich creamery in full operation by May 15th.

The creditors of Enos Scott, Alymer, have decided to offer the pork factory, valued at $10,000, and Mr. Scott's $8,000 residence for sale at auction.

Letters patent have been issued by the Ontario Government incorporating, among others, the Brant Dairy Association (limited), with a capital stock of $3,000, and the London Gun Club (limited), with a capital stock of $1,000.

At the London Police Court on Monday, James Egan, Inspector of Weights and Measures, charged Messrs. Bowman & Kennedy, of that city, with allowing scales to go out of their possession without having a Government test and stamp on the same. The Magistrate imposed a fine of $5, subject to the approval of the Government authorities.

Among the tariff changes was "starch 2c. per pound, the weight of the package to be included in the weight of starch." Some of the trade took this to mean that the weight of the packing case would be taken. This would have made a material difference in the prices of foreign starch. Mr. T. O. Leonard, of Kingsford's Oswego, was here last Friday, and had an interview with the local customs authorities. He telegraphed the Commissioner of Customs, Ottawa, in reference, and received the following reply : "Only inside packages to be included in the weight of starch." This apparently leaves the starch duty about where it was before.

HECK'S COLUMN.

"I'm through stock taking," a man said to me, to-day. "Just finished this morning." At this moment a customer came in, and I started around the store to pick up some items for our paper while he was busy selling his goods. Now, I would like to tell you merchants that it was one of the worst mixed up, dirty looking lot of goods that I have seen for a long time. Why I made a note of the fact, was this. Here was a man who had just finished stock taking, and not one article in any decent sort of shape. I can understand, in a busy season, how goods may be a little out of place, but when stock taking is just over, and business is quiet, as he says, I think that stock should look neat and tidy. Now this customer was asking for a certain line of goods. The merchant knew he had them in stock, but knew not where they were. He had eight dozen of one line, and seven dozen of another that would do just as well, but neither could be found. If that stock had been assorted and kept in shape I know one sale that could have been made by that man, as it was, the customer had to go elsewhere. I tried to tell that man how he might have made that sale by keeping things in shape, but he had no time to listen to me or to put it in shape. He would rather sit on his front door step and watch the people passing by (his store) on the way to some fellow merchant's place where things could be got and got in a hurry.

The old proverb that it never rains but it pours is being exemplified in the case of McGill University, which is now having a veritable run of luck. Following closely upon the magnificent gifts of Mr. W. C. McDonald, the millionaire tobacco merchant, comes the anouncement that Mr. Peter Redpath, who has already founded the Peter Redpath Museum, and who for the last few years has been living in England, is about to donate a large sum of money to the University for the purpose of erecting a large Convocation hall and a gymnasium and dining hall.

SWEETNESS AND LIGHT.

Mr. Charles S. Parsons, well known to the trade along the Northern and T. G & B. Railways, as traveller for Messrs. Sloan & Crowther's wholesale grocery, is now off his route. He is in the midst of a honeymoon tour among the eastern cities of the United States. He was married on Tuesday the 15th inst. to Miss McCausland, daughter of Mr. Jos. McCausland, of 487 Jarvis street, Toronto. The only guests present were the families of the contracting parties. The quiet character of the wedding was a tribute to the feelings of relatives who had been bereaved several weeks before.

On the Saturday before the nuptials, the office-staff, and Mr. Parsons fellow-travellers, in the service of Sloan & Crowther, waited on the Benedict-elect with a handsome testimonial and a right brotherly address. The testimonial of comradely regard was a very handsome piano-lamp. Mr. Parsons' acknowledgment was in fitting terms. We gladly join with his business associates in wishing him bon voyage on the sea of matrimony.

MERCANTILE INSURANCE.

In the Council Chamber of the Board of Trade a paper was read by Mr. Henry Lye on Mercantile Insurance as a preventative of business demoralization and bad debts. Mr. Lye said :—

"Every new idea of justice or equity, every advance from anarchy towards order, every amelioration of the conditions of society by the application of liberal principles has been stigmatized as an impracticable innovation and assailed as the work of a fanatic or destroyer and an enemy of his fellow-men."

The main argument of the paper was that in regard to mercantile affairs there ought to be a system of insurance such as obtains for life and fire losses. The speaker pointed out the method by which this might be done. Mr. Lye spoke of business morality, and maintained that as a general rule men in business are neither extravagant nor dishonest, and that the failures in business are not caused by those faults so much as by those circumstances outside and beyond their control. A mercantile insurance company, guaranteeing bad debts, would at the outset require from the applicants such information as would warrant the transaction. These "informations" would be a combination of such as are furnished to the different Insurance Companies and the mercantile agencies. Mr. Lye concluded by hoping that the members would overlook its red rag appearance and discuss it camly, and that they would see in it a scheme by which mercantile business would become free from its present danger.

The chairman called for discussion, and Mr. James Scott said a few words in high praise of the paper and called for opinions from the mercantile men present.

Mr. Davidson said the scheme of business insurnace seemed reasonable and workable and it was certainly desirable. The duty of the business man was first to avoid bad debts and next to get some one else to pay for them.

Mr. Headly hoped the paper would be printed and widely circulated. Mr. Hugh Blain said the scheme was one he had no doubt would be hailed with delight by business men, if found practicable. The discussion was continued by Messrs. Donaldson, McCabe, H. E. Eddis, Johnston, Belleville, and the Chairman, who said that the great thing to be guarded against was immorality in business, and there was no reason why a good, clean, moral risk should not be taken in business as in either fire or life.

In answer to the vote of thanks Mr. Lye said there could be no doubt that the proposal, though an innovation, was one that would ultimately come to the front.

The paper will be printed for circulation among business men.

Mr. P. A. Black, general merchant, in the neighborhood of Owen Sound was in the city last week.

The highest average per cent. of sugar obtained from the sugar beet in Europe is said to be a little over 14 per cent. Mr. Spreckles obtained in California last year 17 per cent., and 385 analyses made in Nebraska gave an average of 16-1-10 per cent.

The British Columbia Sugar Refinery, lately incorporated, owns the new refinery in Vancouver, B. C. The capital stock is half a million made up of $100 shares. The trustees for the first three months are Messrs. J. M. Browning, B. T. Rogers, J. C. Keith, and H. Abbott, of Vancouver, and F. Angus, of Victoria.

Mr. W Quick, a Bowmanville grocer and butcher, got up an attraction in his store window in the shape of a live stock exhibition. He formed a pen, and put a calf, lamb, and some young pigs therein. Towards evening the calf kicked at the lamb and broke the plate glass window, which cost about $60.

The C. P. R. has issued a new all rail and lake tariff from eastern points to Manitoba, the North-west and British Columbia. The principal feature of the tariff is a reduction of from two to twenty-three cents per 100 pounds on freights to Winnipeg. This reduction will enable Winnipeg wholesale merchants to compete to more advantage with eastern houses for the western trade. The tariff to points west of Winnipeg remains unaltered. The tariff has been adopted by the Northern Pacific.

On Friday night Messrs. C. C. Lee & Co's. store, Alliston, was burglarized and goods to the amount of some $500 were taken. A diligent search was instituted on Saturday with the result that the greater portion was recovered. Monday evening Mr. Lee, accompanied by a constable, proceeded to track the burglars and endeavor to obtain information as to the disposal of the balance of the goods. They sighted the supposed thief about two miles south of the town and gave chase for some distance. As they closed on him he turned and fired, the ball grazing Mr. Lee's ear. The pursuit was abandoned.

We have received an advance copy of the official report of the Ontario Merchants' Convention held in Hamilton last summer. Embodied with it is a draft of the constitution proposed for the Business Mens' Associations that are expected to be the outgrowth of the Convention. The proceedings of a meeting which is so generally looked to to usher in an era of business reconstruction and commercial stability are very deserving of careful preservation. It is well that the published record of them should not be confined to journalistic reports, otherwise a very fleeting impression will be made. Published at this time they recall the minds of all traders to the good resolutions of last August, and engage the attention anew to the questions then considered. Copies of the report will be sent by Mr. C. R. Smith, Hamilton, upon the receipt of 10 cents. The trade should be supplied at once. Send 10 cents and get a copy.

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,
MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.
To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:
GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.
The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

MANUFACTURING TO CUT TRADE.

TO THE EDITOR CANADIAN GROCER.

SIR,—The retailer who inspired your article, of last week, under the heading of "Educate Your Customers" is on the right track. I have tried the plan he speaks of, and find it a very good one. If it were more generally adopted it would have a tendency to make manufacturers look closer after the man who makes a run upon his own particular line. It occurs to me that some lines of soap badly want looking after. I was induced some years ago to buy a popular brand of soap, 3 lb bar, with 20 bars in a box, but when introducing it to customers I found that some one else was selling the same soap from 2 to 5 cents per bar less. Upon looking into the matter I discovered that the firm were putting up three different weights of that soap, wrapped with the same label, so that while I was offering an honest 3 lb bar, my competitors were selling a bar considerably under weight. Now, what I object to is the manufacturer putting up a popular brand in three or more sizes. If he make a 3 lb bar under a certain brand let him stick to it. If he wants to put up a 2½ lb let him give it another name or mark the weight upon the label. The public are continually being imposed upon in this way, and it is the cause of much friction between the merchant and his customers.

The maker may say that he adopts this practice to meet the demand. All rot. The fact is that he yields to the temptation offered by some prominent cutter to make a lighter bar, in order to secure a big order, and the cutter proceeds to deceive the public by professing to sell at a price less than his neighbours. Perhaps some one or more of your subscribers will give us their views upon the matter.

Yours, etc.,

CORNER STORE.

This letter draws attention to another of the manifold forms in which the cutting principle works for the undoing of trade. Here the manufacturer varies the mode of his response to the imperative demand of price-cutting traders. Usually the call upon him for low prices is met by a lowering of the quality, and successive calls are answered by successive degrees of debasement until the minimum point is reached. On this ultimate level all dealers at last meet on equal terms. Nothing cheaper can be produced, and selling then has to go on with no resources at the command of dealers but what lie in their own capabilities. Since this has to become the case finally, why should it not be the case primarily? Why can not dealers compete without odds in their favor just as well when good quality is produced as when the very vilest is yielded? There would be great benefit to the consuming public in competition being carried on upon this higher plane. There would be much more development of real shrewdness in the business character of our day if such manlier competition existed. They are the weak ones of business who have to invoke the manufacturer's arts to enable them to hold their own against rivals. Their facility in filling their stores with cheap goods that find temporary sale, can be called enterprise only by a misuse of the term. They simply shun a fair trial of strength.

It is usual for traders who cut largely to urge in palliation the character of the demand. Manufacturers who make goods slightly better than worthless apologize for their wares by the statement that they are determined by a very low-grade trade. The series can be extended no farther. The earth does not upbraid the manufacturers for causing it to yield poor raw material. We have the best of material, we have good skilled labor, we have means to afford the best products of both, and why is it that those who have the selling of these products, should in their mad haste to outsell each other, prevent the public from getting the best our resources afford.

Everybody must deprecate the readiness with which manufacturers lend their influence to depress quality to a low standard of price, the price usually being established not by the demand of consumers but by traders over anxious for custom. We are familiar with the usual form in which the manufacturers yield to this trade demand. But the method indicated by our correspondent is novel, and we cannot say clever. To reduce quality a few degrees is a subtle way of fooling the consumer, as unless when the difference between standard and deteriorated quality is considerable it is not apt to be generally detected. It is different with putting a greater number of bars in a box than the conventional number. The area of the box not being enlarged, the size of the bar must be contracted. The fact that smaller bars are made cannot be preserved a secret. One dealer can get them as well as another. So that in the end, this basis of price cutting is like the deteriorating method: it is one upon which all traders can meet equally in the end.

The making of prices to suit the cutting trade becomes a criminal practice when it takes to such shifts as that "Corner Store" complains of. When a brand has become so strong a favorite with the consuming public that they will buy very largely of the soap stamped with it, the manufacturer has added to the original motive of honor which he should be swayed by, that of gratitude to those who make a market for his soap. Both these motives should restrain a man from attempting to cheat the public.

Every label should be registered, not merely for the protection of the manufacturer, but for that of the public. If such label becomes in time the token of a reputable class of goods or the moral guarantee that a certain quantity is contained in the package stamped with it, the placing of that label upon goods defective in the quality or quantity which it was the established complement of should be punishable. In one way it is punishable, and the penalty should not be stayed. The sound element of the trading community should not buy of manufacturers caught in perpetrating a fraud under the cover of a name that they have made a trusted one. Reputable dealers should spare no pains to divert the current of custom to other goods, and let such practices be met with a declining trade.

The Retail Grocers' Association of this city some time ago found that a certain line of soap was being sold at incredibly low prices. Representations were made to the manufacturers who at once promised that such underselling should be stopped. This illustrates the value of belonging to such a body. The protest of an individual trader might be futile to check this evil, but that of a strong organ of trade can not fail to be treated with careful attention. It is not known to us that the basis of the cutting the Association protested against was light weight bars, but that or any other mode of defrauding traders and consumers could be stopped by organized action of the trade.

WHAT IS PROFIT ?

Profit is that which remains in the hands of the storekeeper after all of the various expenses of doing business are paid. Selling goods at an advance over the invoice price is not always profitable. The cost of transportation, store rent, clerk hire, fuel, lights, waste, spoilage and leakage must all be taken into consideration, and the merchants who expect to do business and live must sell their goods at such an advance as to cover all these expenses and leave something besides. There are changes in styles that have to be considered; there are losses incurred by bad debts. There is the expense of carrying an over-supply of unsaleable goods; in fact, there are hundreds of things to be considered by every merchant who embarks in business and who expects to be successful in his undertakings. There is fierce competition to be met, and how to do this and make a living profit taxes the ingenuity of the storekeeper to the utmost.

It is becoming almost imperative upon storekeepers to reduce the running expenses of their business to the utmost possible limit. One excuse for trusts is the allegation that they are formed for the purpose of doing business at a reduced expense; but the trouble with them is that when they once get command of the market they want to run it exclusively for their own benefit, so it seems that some other way will have to be devised for lessening the cost of production and distribution.

There are too many men engaged in mercantile business, without doubt, and there is not a living profit for all of them, so fierce and close is competition. There are houses which have been in business for years and which at one time flourished and grew rich, but now are on the decline on account of the fierce competition which they are compelled to encounter, and which compels them to do business at a loss or go out of it. Not long ago a prominent and long established firm in this city made an assignment, having become cramped for funds on account of doing business for sometime on a losing basis. Firm after firm which has existed for years has been wound up because it seemed clear to the managers that ultimate failure was inevitable if the business was indefinitely continued. It would seem at the present time that only the merchants who buy close and run their business economically can make a success of merchandising. This fact shows the importance of being posted. Storekeepers cannot scan the market reports too closely if they expect to make a success of merchandising. They must be energetic, possess original ideas and conduct their business as nearly as possible upon a cash basis. They must keep posted on all trade news so as not to fall behind the age. In almost every branch of business there are goods which have to be sold at a very trifling advance over the invoice price, and the grocer or general storekeeper who makes a handsome profit from the conduct of his business during the year must not only be a hustler, but a shrewd and ambitious manager. The most successful business men to-day are close readers of their trade papers.

WHOLESALE TRADE WITH CONSUMERS.

The established arrangement whereby the retailer's stock is made the medium through which the wholesaler's goods shall reach the consumer, seems not to be without its nonconformists. In "Heck's Column," and in a communication just to hand from another reliable source, as well as in former reports commented upon at the time, we learn that there is still a good deal of net-spreading by certain wholesalers to catch a share of the trade with consumers. Such wholesalers are evidently at some disadvantage. They seem unable to run off their stock through the conventional channels of trade, and have come to deem it not INFRA DIG. of their standing to peddle their goods. Peddling wholesalers cannot find the purely wholesale role profitable. They should make no pretence of remaining in it. Trading as wholesalers, such dealers have the untaxed right to send travellers through the country to develop trade. The Municipal Act should be so amended, that any township, village, or town would be empowered to pass a by-law requiring all such travellers who canvass for consumers' trade to take out a pedlar's license or be punished for violation of the local license law. The Municipal Act already authorizes municipal councils to impose a license for the right to canvass consumers for tea, dry goods and jewelry. The carrying of goods is not a necessary matter. The soliciting of trade, the exhibiting of samples, the after delivery, the buyers not being wholesalers or retailers, are the circumstances that make a man eligible to be charged for a pedlar's license, if the municipality choose to adopt a by-law against such trade. They are amply competent under sub-section 4 of the 495th section of the Municipal Act. The fault with this sub-section is, that it is not comprehensive enough to take in peddling travelers that we know of. They happen not to be engaged in selling tea, dry goods, or jewelry. The Municipal Act should be extended to embrace all trades where there may be wholesale travellers and there may be pedlars. The movement for the amendment of the Act in this direction must begin with the retail trade. Theirs are the interests that suffer from the absence of municipal power to make wholesale pedling in lines not already specified an illegal thing.

It is singular that legal power is needful to stop such methods of dealing. From the information supplied by a travelling representative, we find that wholesalers who have retail custom, resort to the pedlars' methods right in the constituency of their customers' trade, and after selling full retail orders they go out and forestall their customers' sales by seizing upon the same themselves. If there are wholesale establishments so little self-respecting and so dishonorable as to do this, there must be retailers meek-spirited enough to stand it. The life could be withered out of such a practice if the trade blew the breath of disproval on it, and condemned it not merely by complaint but by an everlasting withdrawal of trade from such wholesalers. The traveller that is found doing such undermining of a local tradesman's business should not be spared the hearing of righteous indignation against his conduct, and the report of it should dog his heels everywhere he goes.

How easy it is for imformation to reach every trader, when local associations exist. A communication from one body to another or to a dozen others will spread abroad the fruit of an injurious act with certainty and exactness. Such local bodies are bureaus of information, not merely of what they collect locally but from outside sources. They give a defensive and organic constitution to retail trade which is now in a most primitive state. The helplessness of the small dealers against wrong practices of wholesalers is only a sample detail of the unsatisfactory position in which the want of organization leaves those who are the legitimate purveyors to the wants of consumers. The retail trade is the machinery through which the consumption is kept supplied, and that machinery is in serious want of system. Local engineers should therefore be examining the local situation, and making plans for the improvement of it. By organization and intercommunion, the trading faculty throughout the country would soon be able to extinguish traders who disgrace the wholesale name by first stocking and then intercepting the business of their customers.

CIGAR BOXES.

Mr. Costigan's amendment to the Inland Revenue Act contains a clause that has not been referred to in the former articles upon the Bill which have appeared in these columns. That clause is a substitute for the 263rd section of the Inland Revenue Act, which required that the stamps on all cigar packages, etc., should be destroyed. The clause in Mr. Costigan's measure which repeals this reads as follows : "Whenever any stamped box, bag, vessel, wrapper or envelope of any kind, containing tobacco or cigars, is emptied, the stamp or stamps thereon, and, in the case of cigars, the package also, shall be destroyed by the person in whose hands the same is." The punishment to fit the crime of breaking the above clause is a fine of $200. This mild enactment should be bound on the eyebrows of every citizen who still clings to the taxed joy of a good smoke. Every such consumer will in time be brought to consider, that he may sooner light his cigar with impunity in a powder magazine than leave empty the casket on which the excise officers have once laid their consecrating hands. Such package once dedicated to the service of holding cigars upon which the voucher on one of its angles certifies that revenue has been paid, must forthwith be consumed, but the decree says not what shall be done with its ashes. The law applies to dealer or consumer. The dealer would be in a bad fix who happened to upset one of these boxes, and completely empty its contents upon his counter. Then there would be a pair of breaches of the Inland Revenue Act. On the one hand, or leg, the dealer would be punishable for having cigars in his shop that were not in a lawfully stamped package; on the other, he would be liable for having in his possession an empty but undestroyed cigar box.

The harmless and convenient little boxes in which cigars come into stock are no more to be useful in their thousand and one incidental ways. They will be destroyed as soon as they are emptied. The Inland Revenue Act will need further amendment to protect against the fraud of making counterfeit boxes. If any manufacturer of any other article, say toilet soap or candies, should make boxes identical in shape, weight and material to those used for holding cigars, such boxes would be apt to create grave embarrassment to the Department of Inland Revenue. These packages stripped of their labels would exactly resemble cigar boxes so stripped. It might save further legislation prohibiting such boxes to be made, for the Department to prescribe all the details of the packages cigar-makers are to use, aud then have these get their boxes patented. That would catch any miscreant who might chance to make a similar box, and would plug up the only loophole now visible for any escape from the penalty of using empty cigar packages.

A HARD CASE.

A subscriber to the GROCER, Mr. A. W. Cunningham, Garden River, informs us in a communication accompanying a subscription remittance, that it is reported he is in business difficulty. In this relation he refers to a transaction with a wholesale boot and shoe firm in London, in which he appears to have been misled and very harshly treated. His account of the matter shows that he was urged to give an order at a time when he was not anxious to do so, that he was promised an extension if he should be unable to pay when payment was due, that he bought on the understanding such extension would be obtainable, that he could not raise the money when due, asked and was refused the extension, was required to furnish $200 at once, and was promised three months' time for the rest. The $200 was sent by return mail, and the receipt of it was followed very soon, without notice, by the reference of the remaining part, $83 to the Division Court. Mr. Cunningham, believing that he was not liable for payment until the three months' were up made no effort to stay proceedings, resolving to base his defence upon the written promise he had. Judgment, however, was given against him.

This case has a lesson or two in it. One is that no verbal by-contract made at the time of sale should be depended on to reduce the stress of the main contract, which is formally executed between buyer and seller. The unreliableness of reservations and privileges that are orally made at the time of sale is in direct proportion with the facility and liberality with which such saving conditions are thus irresponsibly granted. The easier the extra terms that are conceded by word of mouth at such a time, the more valueless they are. To make a sale there are men who would yield any point as a matter of momentary convenience, but will not commit themselves to written terms. It is only in such terms that the dealer has any guarantee against rigorous collection. He should pin his faith to nothing but these, unless he gets some release in the course of maturity. Those who give such to a customer in arrears are not usually in the habit of promising them when the contract is made.

Another lesson is, never buy goods when you are not led to do so by a sense that you need them. The defendant in the case tells us that he did not wish to deal with the firm, but finally yielded to the persuasions of their traveller. That won't do. The dealer in this case had no former experience of this house to support the faith in their promise which he so readily gave. He should have bought, not because he was urged, but because he wanted to buy.

What can be given in the way of business, in which the will of the selling party is bound, is all that should be expected, all that should be depended on. But the firm in the present case not only exacted the full pound of flesh, but seems to have done so in flagrant violation of its twice-pledged word not to do so. This is hardly honorable. Such a case will be apt to teach the trade generally to suspect travellers who make easy special terms. That will be one good issue of the matter, at all events.

THE SALMON INDUSTRY.

Mr. B. Young, president of the British America Salmon Packing Company, which operates on the Fraser and Skeena rivers in British Columbia, was in Ottawa the other day, having just arrived from England. Speaking to the Empire, Mr. Young says the first shipments of last season's pack arrived in London while he was there. The pack is always sold in advance, and he regetted that prices were dull for the coming season, being a dollar a case less than last year—a case containing 48 one pound cans. Last year was a good year, the best in fact in the history of the industry. Judging from the past this year will be a fairly good year, next year will not be as good, and 1892 will be, comparatively speaking, a failure. The sixteen canneries on the Fraser turned out last year 300,000 cases. In 1888, the bad year, it was only 80,000. This year Mr. Young estimates the pack at 150,000 cases. The Skeena river has six canneries, with an output of 60,000 cases last year. Besides these there are several other canneries on the Pacific coast. The dulness of the market, he thought, might perhaps be due to the unprecedentedly large catch of 1889.

Probate has been had of the will of the late Thomas Kelso, wholesale grocer of Belleville, who died on March 17. The personality is $20,412, realty $30,000 and insurance $10,000. The widow, so long as she lives, is to receive the interest on the principal. After her death the estate is to be equally divided amongst the six children as they reach the age of twenty-one years.

One thing in particular should be impressed upon clerks—the necessity of careful attention to small customers.

HOW TO WIN FORTUNE.

This is the theme discussed by Mr. Andrew Garnegie in the New York Tribune of Sunday last, in his usual penchant and practical manner. Every line of his letter is worth careful thought. He believes the young man of to-day has a chance to rise and points out that "the difficulties are not insuperable, nor greater than have hitherto existed. They are not such as to discourage but only such as to stimulate the ambitious; and this is always to be taken into account, that if the race in the industrial and business world be the harder to win, the prize is infinitely greater."

The names of the leading industrial, mercantile, commercial, and financial establishments,are given and the oft-repeated story told that all of them were started and brought to their present high position by men from the ranks. The millionaires who are in active control started as poor boys, and were trained in that sternest but most efficient of all schools—poverty.

The absence of the college graduate in every department of affairs is considered; the prize-takers have too many years start of the graduate, they have entered for the race invariably in their teens—in the most valuable of all the years for learning anything—from fourteen to twenty; while the college student has been learning a little about the barbarous and petty squabbles of a far-distant past, or trying to master languages which are dead, such knowledge as seems adapted for life upon another planet than this, as far as business affairs are concerned—the future captain of industry is hotly engaged in the school of experience, obtaining the very knowledge required for his future triumphs.

"I do not speak,' says Mr. Carnegie," of the effect of the college education upon young men training for the learned professions, but the almost total absence of the graduate from high position in the business world seems to justify the conclusion that college education as it exists is fatal to success in that domain. The graduate has not the slightest chance, entering at twenty, against the boy who swept the office, or who begins as shipping clerk at fourteen. The facts prove this.

"There has come, however, in recent years, the polytechnic and scientific school, of course of study, for boys, which is beginning to show most valuable fruits in the manufacturing branch. The trained mechanic of the past, who has, as we have seen, hitherto carried off most of the honors in our industrial works, is now to meet a rival in the scientifically educated youth, who will push him hard—very hard indeed. Three of the largest steel manufacturing concerns in the world are already under the management of three young educated men—students of these schools who left theory at school for practice in the works while yet in their teens. Walker, Illinois Steel Co., Chicago; Schawb, Edgar Thompson Works; Potter, Homestead Steel Works, Pittsburg, are types of the new product—not one of them yet thirty.

QUALITIES ESSENTIAL TO SUCCESS.

Workingmen have a prejudice against showing their employers that the wages they earn suffice to enable them to save; but this is a mistake. The saving workman is the valuable workman, and the wise employer regards the fact that he does save a prima facie evidence that there is something exceptionally valuable in him. It should be the effort of every corporation to induce its principal workers to invest their savings in its shares. The day of the absent capitalist stockholder, who takes no interest in the operation of the works beyond the receipt of his dividend, is certainly passing away. The day of the valuable active worker in the industrial world is coming. Let. therefore, no young, practical workman be discouraged. On the contrary, let him be cheered. More and more it is becoming easier for the mechanic or practical man of real ability to dictate terms to his employers. Where there was one avenue of promotion, there are now a dozen. The enormous concern of the future is to divide its profits, not among hundreds of idle capitalists who contribute nothing to its success, but among hundreds of its ablest employes, upon whose abilities and exertions success greatly depends. The capitalist absent stockholder is to be replaced by the able and present worker. The Tribune has asked me to go further, and state the qualifications necessary for the promotion of young practical men. George Elliot put the matter very pithily: "I'll tell you how I got on. I kept my ears and eyes open, and I made my master's interest my own."

DANGERS TO YOUNG MEN.

There are three great rocks ahead of the practical young man who has his foot upon the ladder and is beginning to rise. First, drunkenness, which, of course, is fatal. There is no use in wasting time upon any young man who drinks liquor, no matter how exceptional his talents. Indeed, the greater his talents are the greater the disappointment must be. I do not mean by drinking liquor, the taking of a glass of beer or wine at meals. It is not necessary for a man to be a total abstainer in order to be temperate. The rule should be: never enter a barroom and never drink liquor except at meals.

The second rock ahead is speculation. The business of a speculator and that of a manufacturer or man of affairs are not only distinct but incompatible. To be successful in the business world, the manufacturer's and the merchant's profits only should be sought. The manufacturer should go forward steadily, meeting the market price. When there are goods to sell, sell them; when supplies are needed, purchase them, without regard to the market price in either case. I have never known a speculative manufacturer or business man who scored a permanent success. He is rich one day, bankrupt the next. Beside this, the manufacturer aims to produce articles, and in so doing to employ labor. This furnishes a laudable career. A man in this avocation is useful to his kind. The merchant is usually occupied distributing commodities; the banker in providing capital.

The third rock is akin to speculation—indorsing. Business men require irregular supplies of money, at some periods little, at others enormous sums. Others being in the same condition, there is strong temptation to indorse mutually. This rock should be avoided. There are emergencies, no doubt, in which men should help their friends, but there is a rule that will keep one safe. No man should place his name upon the obligation of another if he has not sufficient to pay it without detriment to his own business. It is dishonest to do so. Men are trustees for those who have trusted them, and the creditor is entitled to all his capital and credit. For one's own firm, "your name, your fortune, and your sacred honor"; but for others, no matter under what circumstances, only such aid as you can render without danger to your trust. It is a safe rule, therefore, to give the cash direct that you have to spare for others and never your indorsement or guarantee.

One great cause of failure of young men in business is lack of concentration. They are prone to seek outside investments. The cause of many a surprising failure lies in so doing. Every dollar of capital and credit, every business thought, should be concentrated upon the one business upon which a man has embarked. He should never scatter his shot. It is a poor business which will not yield better returns for increased capital than any outside investment. No man or set of men or corporation can manage a business man's capital as well as he can manage it himself. The rule. "Do not put all your eggs in one basket," does not apply to a man's life-work. Put all your eggs in one basket, and then watch that basket, is the true doctrine—the most valuable rule of all.

While business of all kinds has gone, and is still going rapidly, into a few vast concerns, it is nevertheless demonstrated every day that genuine ability, interested in the profits, is not only valuable but indispensable to their successful operation. Through corporations whose shares are sold daily upon the market; through partnerships that find it necessary to interest their ablest workers; through merchants who can manage their vast enterprises successfully only by interesting exceptional ability; in every quarter of the business world, avenues greater in number, wider in extent, easier of access than ever before existed, stand open to the sober, frugal, energetic and able mechanic, to the scientifically educated youth, to the office-boy and to the clerk—avenues through which they can reap greater success than were ever before within the reach of these classes in the history of the world.

When, therefore, the young man, in any position or in any business, explains and complains that he has not opportunity to prove his ability and to rise to partnership, the old answer suffices :

"The fault, dear Brutus, is not in our stars,
But in ourselves, that we are underlings."

COTTON SEED.

Was there ever such a history as that of the cotton seed, now one of our staple products? For seventy years despised as a nuisance, and burned, and dumped, as garbage, then discovered to be the very food for which the soil was hungering, and reluctantly admitted to the rank of utilities, shortly afterward found to be nutritious food for beasts, and thereupon treated with something like respect. Once admitted to the circle of farm industries it was found to hold thirty-five gallons of pure oil to the ton, worth, in its crude state, $14 to the ton, or $40,000,000 for the whole crop of seed. But, then, a system was devised for refining the oil up to the value of $1 a gallon and the frugal Italian placed a cask of it at the root of every olive tree, and then defied the borean breath of the Alps. And then experience showed that the ton of cotton seed was a better fertilizer and a better stock food, when robbed of its thirty-five gallons of oil, than before; that the hulls of the seed made the best of fuel for feeding the oil-mill engine; the ashes of the hulls, scooped from the engine's draft, had the highest commercial value as potash, and that the "refuse" of the whole made the best and purest soap stock to carry to the toilet the perfumes of Lubin or Colgate.—National Soap Review.

HECK'S COLUMN.

Now that the Retail Grocers' Association, of Toronto, are giving the pedlar nuisance a thorough investigation, and trying to place higher license on them, the country merchants begin to talk as well about their pedlars. So do towns which are not county towns. All through the Dominion we find towns that are not county towns, as large, and in some cases larger than the county towns. As I understand it the county towns have power to grant their own license, where the towns, not county towns, are excluded from this clause. Now that allows the pedlar to enter towns not county towns, but protects the county towns from such. They (the pedlars) having to take out a separate license to enter that place. The secretary of an outside grocery association, in speaking about this to me, puts it in good form. He says, personally, he does not mind the pedlar selling his goods, but it is the way he does it. He says many things about the merchants of the town he is working in, to injure their trade. The license taken out is a county license, but little pedling is done in the county outside of these towns, not county towns. This I think will show merchants a new thought in regard to the licensed pedlar, and the smaller towns should themselves get to work and remedy this. You grocers who are troubled with the pedlar let others hear your complaints, and if in no other way do it through the medium of these columns.

If the merchants complain, and that for a just cause, it is right that I should try and see them out of their difficulty. No merchant ever speaks to me without saying something. A good many have one thing to contend with that should be stopped. What they are now troubling over is this: Why does the traveller sell to any outside of the trade? Now I have never seen the travellers selling outside the retail trade, but am of the opinion that it is done by some, and can only say that a first class house would not do such an act. The retail merchant may be classed as the wholesaler's agent in the town he is doing business in If the wholesalers sell goods to outsiders it is not right. Some merchants suggest that if they do sell why not invoice them the goods and allow them the profit on the sale. One merchant was telling me where a hardware man had sold a dry goods merchant nails, locks, etc., to build a new barn. He also sold tools to mechanics' at factories, and the same day sold the retail merchant a supply that would take months to get rid of, as the consumers are being supplied by the wholesale trade. The merchants do this grumbling. Why not tell the travellers as well as myself? They do not all sell outsiders, and in justice to yourselves, patronize the house that does not do this stealing of your trade on your grounds.

A large brick building is being erected by the Hamilton Vinegar Works, to be used for the purpose of storing alcohol.

The proposal of the Hamilton fire, markets, and police committee to raise the market fee from two to five cents on baskets of butter, eggs, etc., did not carry, as it was decided to be in opposition to the Municipal Act.

Silver Star Stove Paste, is an article put up by Messrs. Dally Bros, Hamilton. They are meeting with grand success in introducing it to the trade. This paste has been perfected only after much labor and great expense, and a long time experimenting, and not until a guarantee could be given of its merits was a box allowed to go out to the trade. The paste gives a high and very black polish, the contrast being very striking with nickel-plate finished stoves. Sample box on application.

The Hamilton markets, fire and police committee have raised the market fee on baskets of butter, eggs, etc., from 2 cents to 5 cents and decided to provide fifteen large uniform tables for fruit hucksters north of the City hall. Fruit stands will not be allowed anywhere else in or around the market.

Mr. Geo. Primmer,a Petrolea grocer, met with an accident on Tuesday, of last week, which might very easily have been attended with far more serious results. While standing on a high step-ladder attaching a hook to the ceiling over the front door, a passer-by ran against the ladder knocking it over and throwing Mr. P. to the sidewalk with considerable force. Although Mr. Primmer is a very heavy man, he escaped with a severe shaking up and a bruised side, which was painful for a few days but not serious.

and black yarn, although both are for the same purpose and were formerly charged 12½ per cent.

The following changes in the tariff as proposed in the budget have been made in Committee of the House:

Seeds were reduced from 15 to 10 per cent.

Lead pencils from 35 to 30 per cent.

Plumbago from 25 to 15 per cent.

Liquid and mixed paints from 25 per cent. and 5 cents per pound to 30 per cent.

Salt meats taxed under the new tariff 3 cents per pound are, it is announced, to be reduced to 2 cents.

In lard the weight of the package shall be included for duty only when the package is tin.

An important change in the spirit duties leaves the rates as already fixed, namely, $1.75 per gallon on rum, whiskey, and all alcholic liquors, and $2 a gallon an imitations of brandy, cordials, and liqueurs. But it changes the manner of calculating the quantity upon which duty is to be collected. The proposition fixes the above duty for every gallon of the strength of proof. When the importation is of a greater strength than that of proof, the same rate is to be collected, but upon the increased quantity there would be if the liquors were reduced to the strength of proof. When the liquors are of a less strength than that of proof, the duty is to be as above, but computed on a reduced quantity of the liquors in proportion to the lesser degree of strength. No reduction on quantity, however, is to be computed or made on any liquor below the strength of 15 per cent. under proof. All such liquors shall be computed as of the strength of 15 per cent. The arrangement really allows what was not provided for before, a reduction in the duty collectable upon liquors below proof.

GROCERIES.

The course of trade current last week was very regularly and evenly continued in this. The circulation of money has not been quickened, as there is more putting in of the new crop than marketing the old. This was the case, though in a less degree, last week. There is less buying as well as less selling by agricultural consumers just now, and this is very distinctly felt in wholesale trade. The stiffness of prices for dried fruits, for Valencia raisins particularly, and the problematical situation of the sugar question, are still the chief features of the market. Payments have not been specially prompt, but they are up to the usual standard for the time of year. There is nothing to distinguish the spring trade so far from that of former springs.

CANNED GOODS.

There is a better feeling in the market for canned vegetables. Tomattoes are firmer but no higher ; there has been a good demand and sales of 100 case lots of 1888 have been made at $1.10 ; for 1889's $1.15 to $1.20 is asked. Corn and peas steady at $1.15 to $1.20. Peaches are in good demand : dealers have been selling at $2.25 for 2's and $3.-25 for 3's, with pies in 3's at $1.75. Fish dull. New lobsters are offered at equal to $2 here. Meats unchanged; Armour's are now quoted duty paid here. Bids for round lots have been freely made at 5 to 10c. below Association prices, but they were not closed with in any case. The scarcity of tomatoes appears likely to be an early feature of the market.

Fish—Salmon, 1's. $1.40 to $1.70 ; Lobster, clover leaf, $2,25 ; Lobster, other 1's, $1.75 to $2 ;Sardines, French ¼s, 9 to 11c. ; Sardines, French ½s, 14 to 22 ; Sardines, American ¼s, 6 to 8c. ; Sardines, American ½s, 9 to 11c. Fruits and vegetables—Apples, 3's, 90c. to $1.05 ; Apples, gal., $2.05 to $2.25; Corn, 2's, $1.15 to $1.25 ; Corn, cream 3's, $1.75 to $1.80 ; Peaches, 2's, $2.20 to $2.40 ; Peaches, pie, $1.35 to $1.60 ; Peas, 2's, $1.15 to $1.30 ; Plums, greengages 2's, $2.40 to $2.55 ; Plums, blue 2's, $2.25 to $2.40; Strawberries, 2's, $2.35 to $2.45 ; Tomatoes, 3's, $1 to $1.20.

COFFEES.

The market is rather dull, and the supply is light in most stocks. There is no new Rio in. Prices continue stiff. Those of green coffees are as follows : Rio, 20 to 22c.; Mocha 25 to 28c.; Java, 25 to 28c.; Porto Rico 20 to 22c.

DRIED FRUIT.

A very cheap brand of Valencia rasins was offered this week at 7¾c. but this does not mean any loweriag for choice. The latter are firm at 8 to 8½. The Valencia layers are unchanged at 9½ to 9¾c. A shipment of fine Sultanas was reported in store on Monday. They run at 11½ to 12c. The movement of Elemes has been fair. The price of Malagas in quarter flats of black-baskets, is $1.35, in London layers, $3 to $3.15, and $2.35 to $2.60 in loose muscatels. Currants are 5⅝ to 5⅞c. in barrels, and 5¾ to 6c in half-barrels. Prunes are very firm and are now in light supply. Casks of Bosnia are 5 to 5½c., 5¼ to 5½c. in barrels, and 5¾ to 6c. in kegs. Sphinxes are 8¼ to 8½c. for A, 8 to 8¼c. for B, 7¾ to 8c. for C, 7¼ to 7 1-2c. for D, and 7 for U. French are 5¼ to 5 1-2 in kegs. Atlas are 7 1-2c. for B and 7c. for C. Casks imported now would cost 5⅝c. laid down here, so,as in the case of Valencia raisins prices are lower than first cost would now be. Natural figs are 4¾ to 6½c. 14 oz. boxes are 8 to 9c. Eleme figs are 10 to 17c. Dates are 5½ to 6¼c.

SUGAR.

Yellows rule at 5⅜ to 6½c., and granulated at 6⅞ to 7c. There is an active demand for raws at 5⅜ to 5⅝c., and there is freer offer of arrivals. Private advices from New York report the market active and higher. The week's local trade has been on average with that running since the settlement after the advance.

M. P. Licht has raised his estimate of the beet crop 40,000 tons, but the markets of the world were so firmly held that the increase of this small percentage of the total production had little or no effect upon values.

Further purchases of refined have been made in New York for export to Australia.

Total stock in all the principal countries is 1,494,795 tons against 894,856 tons at same time last year.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

There is rather a dull trade in syrups. The favor in which maple syrup stands at this season affects the buying. M syrup is in half barrels at 5⅝ to 3¾. An American equivalent to Redpath's B, is in sale at 3⅝ to 3¾ in barrels. Extra superior in barrels is 4 to 4⅛, and in half barrels 4⅛ to 4¼. Treble X in half barrels is 4⅜ to 4½. Corn syrup, No. 25 in barrels is 4⅜ to 4½, in half barrels is 4½ to 4⅝. V in barrels is 4½ to 4⅝, and 4⅝ to 4¾ in half barrels. Trinidad molasses is 36c. in hogsheads, 38c. in barrels, and 40c. in half barrels.

TEAS

The opening of the Japan market finds prices about the same as they were when last year's trade began. New stock is not yet on the Canadian market. The prices of Congoes and Hysons are very steady. The local business in Indian teas continues steady. In London the market was good for sellers. The general demand lifting the price a little for all kinds. There was a strong demand for grades under 8½d. and for fine Pekoes. Telegrams from India report that the effects of drought are being felt in Assam, Darjeeling and the Dooars. The season will probably be a late one. Ceylons are steady with fair local enquiry. The London market for these is firm with tendency to rise, especially for Broken Pekoes of good quality.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

There has been no new feature developed in the market by the last week's trade. The ruling elements are still abundance, lowness of grade, and cheapness. The cellars of country dealers have been evacuated of all their long-standing store, and they must in some cases be considerably the sweeter of the riddance. There is no call for this congestion here of low grades, and holders are endeavoring to start business by coming down to extremely reduced figures. The inducement of their prices has not made a market for their wares yet, and the low grades are staying. This class of butter comes from all parts of the country, there never was a market for it at any season, and it is on sale now in its strength, not because there is any chance of a better market, but because it has to be got off, if possible, before the supply of new butter begins to equal the demand. Prices for the old tubs are from 5c. up to 10c. Tubs of Brockville dairy go from 10 to 13, but there is not much of it that is good. New tubs, of choice, in good condition bring 15c. There is a lack of new, however. Large rolls are depreciating every week. They are getting very rubbishy. The best price they command is 14c. and a very small proportion of them get up to that price. Tons of them are bought at 10c. There is very much of the best old tub butter made up into these large rolls, but the disguise does not decive buyers. Pound rolls go from 14 to 18c. There is good butter and there is rather poor butter marketed in this shape. There is an increasing quantity of butter thus made, and this along with the large share of it that is but medium brings prices down.

The cheese market is still that between wholesalers and retailers, and there is no change in prices. Manufacturers' prices have not yet got into local trade here. Early summer makes are 8½ to 9½c. Early autumn cheese is 10½ to 11c.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—The demand is weaker. The supply also is lighter, so that both sides of the market are somewhat, and about equally changed. This fact leaves prices unaffected, the class of apples being about the same as were in last week's stock. Prices are from $2 to $4 in broken lots. Out of store they sell from $3 to $4.50.

BEANS—The balanced condition of supply and demand has not been disturbed. Both are weak. The old prices hold, that is, $1.50 to $1.60.

DRIED APPLES—Show a slightly improved market. There has been a better run of buying since the close of last week. Prices are 5 to 5¼c.

EVAPORATED APPLES—The large stock of old that still lies on the market rules the prices of the new evaporating. The old are 7 to 7½, and the new are 9½ to 10½c. The trade has mended since last week.

EGGS—Are getting fairly plentiful, and quote for the moment at 9½ to 10c. with no immediate change in prospect. They have been extremely scarce on this market for the past ten days, owing to the active demand for export. American buyers have been bidding 11c. here for car load lots, and sales were made east of here at 11½. free on board cars.

HAY—The farmers' attention is now almost entirely given up to their fields, and the arrivals upon wagons are growing fewer and fewer. Prices for such deliveries as do come in thus are therefore still good. No. 1 timothy is $14 to $15, and No. 2 is $8 to $10. In carloads, pressed is $10 for No. 1, and $8 for No. 2.

HIDES—A carload of cured moved out of the market on Monday at 4⅞, and this is expected to be developed another eighth before next week is over. Butchers' have also gone up a quarter, quoting 3¼ for steers' and 4¼ for cows'.

HONEY.—The price of comb honey is 12 to 14c. and of clear is 11½ to 13c. The movement of trade is slow. Maple syrup has the lead in favor yet.

HOPS—Yearlings are 10 to 12c. and new are 12 to 15c.

OATS—Street loads bring 39 to 41c. They were a cent better than the highest of these prices on Monday. Farmers have got down fairly close to the reserve they usually hold for summer feeding, and moreover are now to busily engaged otherwise to take time to do much marketing. This is good for prices. In carloads prices are also good, in response to the former of the above mentioned circumstance, 38c. being freely paid.

ONIONS—There is not the basis of a trade, inasmuch as virtually there are no onions. Prices would not improve if there were a continuing bare supply, as the limit has been reached that consumers will pay, viz., $3.50.

POTATOES—Firmness is still the feature of the old price, 55c. by the car load and for some loads 57 has been paid. The demand has an improved tone, and the supply is well regulated. In store lots they bring 60 to 65c.

SEEDS—There is a fair business done at present, and prices are steady at last week's level. Red clover is $4.05 to $4 20. Timothy is $1.92 to $2. Alsike is $6 to $7.20. For corn the prices are, 65c. for select yellow horse tooth, 70c. for red cob ensilage, 75c. for giant prolific sweet ensilage.

SHEEPSKINS—The market continues good, and the supply is but fair. Select heavy bring $1.50 to $1.60. Lower grades run from $1.25 upwards. Calfskins are 6c. for No. 1, and 5c. for No. 2. These figures are still very firm.

STRAW—No. 1 on the street is $7 to $9, and $5.50 to $6 on the track.

TALLOW—Rough, is 1¼ to 2c., and rendered is 5 to 5¼c.

WOOL—Pulled, extra-super is 30c. super 25 to 26c. and lowest 24c. Fleeces are 22c.

FISH.

Now that the lake fish are beginning to come in, the demand is very good, but the supply at present is small. Large quantities are expected in by next week, so that the trade will be well supplied. The fish that have the chief run at present are trout and whitefish. The pike and pickerel stock is now sold out, and will not be replenished until the close season is over. The following are the prices the lake fish sell at; whitefish, 6 to 7c.; salmon trout, 8 to 10c.; British Columbia salmon 17 to 18c.; lake herring, $2.75 to $3.00 per 100 by count.

GREEN FRUIT.

There is a very good average demand for all kinds of green fruit. The stock of Florida oranges upon the market has been recruited by a light shipment, which however is not important enough to affect the market. The price is up to $5, which would not have been more than reached in the absence of the new supply. Valencias are going off the market at $6.50 to $7. California and Washington navels are scarce, and firm at $6. All orange stocks are running low except the Messinas, and the difficulty of getting these upon the market in good condition makes them high. They are worth $3.75 to $4.75, and in some cases $5. Fancy lemons, 300's are $5, and 360's are $4. Yellow bananas are $1.75 to $2.50, and red are $2 to $2.50. Pineapples are $2.75 to $3.50 per dozen. In no respect is the New York market well stocked with green fruit.

PROVISIONS.

BACON—Long clear is 8½c. Breakfast is 11 to 11½c., backs and bellies quoting alike. Roll is 9½c.

DRESSED HOGS—There has been a very fair supply on the market for the season, and although the packers are closed, prices are high. They run from $7 to $7.20.

HAMS—Smoked are 11 to 12c. Sweet pickled are 10½ to 11.

LARD—50-pound tubs is 9½c., and 20 pound pails are 10c.

MESS PORK—Brings $16.50 to $17. This includes Canadian short cut.

SALT.

The salt market is still keeping quiet. The stock on hand is moving off slowly. Prices keep quite firm. Barrel salt has advanced 1c. per bbl. The following are the prices reported by the Toronto Salt Works for the week : 2 car bbls. salt at $1.38; 1 car sacks

DRY GOODS.

This week's trade moved along with no momentum more than operated in the trade of last week. There is a dull spring trade plainly set in. Trade has no favorite channels. In all lines it is slow moving. There is a very economic buying policy still pursued in the country. The prices of all staple goods are still firm.

MONTREAL

MONTREAL MARKETS.

MAY 1, 1890.

GROCERIES.

There has been no change of a positive or interesting character in the grocery trade during the week. All lines of staple goods have remained practically unchanged and consequently there is little new to report. Prices, however, have been well maintained throughout. Payments have been fair, yet there is a disposition in some quarters to complain over the quietness of business. Merchants here state that the Ontario provincial elections while pending will have an adverse influence on trade, that is to say it will distract the attention of merchants throughout the country.

SUGAR.

Refined sugar has been on the quiet side, there being no more than the ordinary volume of business. Prices have remained steady and unchanged. Granulated has ruled steady at 6½c. at the factory, with the usual advance for guild figures. The lowest grade of yellows has sold at 5¼c., and the range is from that to 5¾c. for bright.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Syrup has continued quiet and unchanged. In molasses round lots of Barbadoes have sold below late quotations, as low as 31c. being mentioned. The jobbing price, however, is 22½c, with 35c for single puncheons.

TEA.

There has been a somewhat better business in tea. The lower grades very firm, 14 to 18c. have been in demand, and have met with considerable enquiry. Stocks of such are light and firmly held. In blacks there has been more business on English account, at prices ranging from 5d. to 1s. 5d. It is remarked that the reduction of the duty in Great Britain has actually caused an advance of one half-penny on low grade teas in the London market, for what reason, brokers' here, cannot say.

COFFEE.

The market has been quiet and steady, but wholesale dealers claim that less is selling than last year at this time. Cables today report the European markets steady, but the outlook is uncertain. Jamaica has sold a trifle below last quotations at 21c. for lowest grade. Mocha 30 to 32c.; Java, 28 to 30c.; Jamaica, 21 to 23c.; Plantation Ceylon 27 to 29c.; Maracaibo, 24 to 25c.; Rio, 22 to to 24c; Guatemala, 24 1-2 to 26 1-2c.; Santos 22 to 24c.

DRIED FRUITS.

Raisins have continued very firm as the available supply is concentrated in few hands and there is little prospect that the stock will be increased to any material extent by further importations. Valencias are firm at 8 to 8 1-2c. as to quality, in fact for strictly prime 8¾c. has been paid. Stocks are unusually light and to buy in the London market would mean at least 9c. there. London layers $2.75 to $3. Prime Sultanas in light supply at 12 to 12½c. cheaper grades 10½c. Currants have ruled firm. Round lots in barrels 5⅜ to 5½c. and up to 6c. for smaller quantites or packages. Eleme figs 10c. to 14c. Dates 5¼. Dried apples 6 1-2c.

NUTS.

There has been no change, but trade has been fair. Taragona almonds, 14c.; Ivica 12c.; Pecans 12 to 12½c; Brazil nuts 11c.; Grenoble walnuts 15 to 15½c., and French 10c.; Filberts 10c. for Sicily and 9½c. for Turkey; green peanuts 8½ to 9c.

SPICES.

Penang pepper (clean) is quoted 12½ to 13c. Cloves have ruled strong lately and holders have advanced prices materially.

CANNED GOODS.

Salmon and lobsters have been in demand but other lines have been comparatively neglected. As before complaints continue current of cutting by some packers, who, it is said, require to raise money. Nominal association prices, however, have remained as before. Several car loads of salmon for future delivery have been sold at $1.35. Lobsters have continued firm at $7.25 Tomatoes have been cut as low as $1.10. Following are the packers' prices:—Corn $1.20; marrowfat peas, $1.15; sweet peas, $1.25; tomatoes $1.20; stringless beans 85c.; butter beans 90c.; apples, 3 lb., $1.05, per gal. $2.25. $2.35; pineapples $2.25 to $2.40; strawberries $2.35; peaches $2.15; plums $1.75; pears $2; green gages $1.70, $1.75, to which add 10 per cent. as wholesalers price.

GRAIN AND FLOUR.

Grain has continued firm, with business on spot light. On through account, however, considerable has been done. Wheat, No. 1, hard Manitoba, $1.15 to $1.16; No. 2, hard Manitoba, $1.13; peas, 69 to 70c. per 66 lbs., in store; 72 to 72½c. afloat May delivery; oats, 36 to 36 1-2c.; corn, 50 to 51c. duty paid; corn, cargoes in bond 41 to 42c.; feed barley, 40c.; good malting do., 52 to 54c.

Flour has been more active and firm as the first lower ports boats are loading. Patent winter, $5.15 to $5.25; patent spring, $5.50 to $5.60; straight roller, $4.75 to $5.00; extra, $4.40 to $4.60; superfine, $3.75 to $4.25; fine, $3.25 to $3.75; city strong bakers, $5.20 to $5.30; strong bakers, $5.15 to $5.25; superfine, bags, $1,65 to $2.00; extra, bags, $1.90 to $2.10; fine, bags, $1.45 to $1.60; oatmeal, standard, per bag, $1.90 to $2.00; oatmeal, granulated, $2.00 to $2.15; oatmeal, rolled, $2.00 to $2.10.

HOG PRODUCTS.

There has been a good steady jobbing business. Canadian short cut, $16.50 to $17. Mess pork, western, $16.50 to $17. Hams, city cured, 11 1-2 to 12c. Lard, western, 9 1-4 to 9 3-4c. Lard, Canadian, 8 1-2 to 8 3-4c. Bacon, 11c.

EGGS.

Have been in good demand, but prices have slightly declined to 12 to 12 1-2c. per dozen.

BUTTER.

Best new dairy from the Townships has sold at 18 to 19c. with choice old at 17c. Old common stock is a glut on the market. Some of it has sold as low as 6c. for western thus again practically demonstrating the folly of farmers and dealers holding butter for above market prices when it is fresh.

HAY AND FEED.

Pressed hay more active. Extra $9, No. 1 $8, No. 2 $7 per ton in car lots. Feed quiet. Moville $20 to $21, bran $16.50 to $17, shorts $18 to $19 per ton.

UNJUST DISCRIMINATION.

The legitimate handlers of teas, the grocers, are loud in their complaints against the unjust discrimination exercised by the government in allowing Canadian merchants to sell tea to the United States free of duty. The merchants of the United States on the other hand are required to pay an ad valorem duty of 10 per cent. on all teas sold to Canada. The consequences of this unjust and unjustifiable law are just now being seriously felt here by the retail trade, as Canadian merchants are placing teas on sale in Detroit in dry goods and other stores on a commission. They seem determined to make the most of a good thing. This evil should be suppressed. If the government persists in imposing a duty on teas from the United States it should likewise demand it from Canada. It is a bad rule that does not work both ways. The protection of all trade in its borders by the United States Government is one of the prime essentials of equity, and when her citizens are made to pay the penalty of unjust discrimination in favor of competing countries this principal is violated to the detriment of our own commercial interests. Trade with Canada should be conducted upon mutual bases. The merchants of the United States demand this as a proper consideration of their legitimate rights, and more than any other section of the common country does Michigan by reason of her close proximity to Canada and the existing fac lities under which this damaging traffic in tea is being carried on. Let the merchants of Detroit enter their protest against so palpable and flagrant abuse of their just rights and trade privileges.—Detroit Grocer and Trade Reporter.

CORRESPONDENCE

TO THE EDITOR CANADIAN GROCER,

DEAR SIR,—On looking through the proposed changes in the Tariff, we noticed several items bearing against our Factory, among others, and the most important, was placing 10 per cent. on mustard-seed, which for some years has been free.

We export the best English seed, in large quantities, for the manufacture of our several brands of mustard, and have, after some years of patient industry and considerable expense in perfecting our machinery, been enabled to place on the market a mustard superior in flavor and quality to any line previously offered to the trade. There is also a considerable loss in the process of manufacture, leaving a residu' in the shape of bran of from 20 to 25 per cent. This bran is waste, and is of no value for any purpose in this country. We drew the attention of the Finance Minister to the injustice and injudiciousness of doing this, and pointed out that should the Government so insist, it would throw the trade back into the hands of the cheap mustard makers in the United States, and which we, with others in this country, have been endeavoring for years to keep out. We are glad to learn, that on the point being fully discussed in committee, the Government in the interest of the Canadian trade, have decided to let the seed remain as before on the free list.

Yours truly,
W. G. DUNN & CO.

Hamilton, April 28, 1890.

SOME ARTICLES WHICH FOREIGN COUNTRIES PUT UP.

"We no longer have the monopoly in canned goods," said one of the leading manufacturers to a New York Star reporter. "Nearly every nation has learned the wisdom, and, above all, the profits of putting up goods in this manner, and has gone into the business on a large scale. The public has not yet awakened to the fact, as the imports of these goods are still comparatively small, but they are familiar to every man in the trade.

"In Mexico and Central America," he said, "the wonderful peppers for which those lands are famous are put up in cans, and the manufacturers are beginning to send them out over the world. Most of their output goes to the West Indies, Spain, Portugal, France and Italy, where it meets with a ready sale. A small amount comes to New York and other cities in the United States, where it is purchased chiefly by Spaniards or Spanish-Americans. The peppers thus treated are of many kinds, the large red, and long green, the small red and the small green. When canned they are ready for use upon the dining-table.

"The Chinese," he continued, "can bamboo tips, ginger and special vegetables. The former looks exactly like asparagus tips upon a large scale. An average bamboo tip is about ten inches long and three inches in diameter. It slices like a boiled potato, and has a taste something like that of the yam It is a great luxury with all the Oriental races and brings anywhere from twenty cents to a dollar a pound. The Japanese, who make fish their main article of diet, cook and preserve fish very much as Italians and Frenchmen do sardines, only the Japanese sardine boxes are never less than a cubic foot in size, and their sardines from a half pound to two pounds in weight. The fishes thus treated are half familiar in appearance to American eyes, belonging to the same classes as the bluefish, herring, mackerel and sea bass. The Central Americans are beginning to can green turtle and terrapin. They have not become very skillful as yet, but now and then turn out first-class goods. The industry is bound to get ahead, as turtles thrive wonderfully well in that part of the world. Brazil has started the canning of pineapples and cocaanuts. They have adopted a novel system in spicing and sweetening these two fruits, which make them admirable preserves, but not preserved fruits.

HOW TO SHOW GOODS TO STRANGERS.

In selling goods at retail, system in manipulating the goods that are being shown is no less important than tact in handling customers. Of course, much depends upon the salesmans' judgement of "human nature," but a safer reliance than that, even, is strict adherence to certain fixed rules in showing goods, especially if the customer be a stranger. The experienced salesman who prides himself on his knowledge of character, will probably pooh ! pooh ! the idea of observing any uniform methods in exhibiting goods to customers, preferring to "size them up" and take their wants, whims and wishes entirely in his own hands, telling them just what they need and urging the articles upon them with all his powers of persuasion. In a majority of cases this plan is successful, but it also fails in many. A better rule to follow and one which a novice in selling goods can generally succeed in, is when a strange customer comes in, and asks for any article, to begin by showing the cheapest thing in that line there is in stock. If the customer proves to be a fastidious one and a good judge of goods, he will ask to be shown something better. Then show a grade or two better, and keep on showing grade after grade, in regular order, until the desired quality shall be found. In pursuing this course with the customer he will sometimes "flare up" at the clerk's "presumption" in showing him "trash," and with lordly mein assure him that he is "able to pay for the best goods in the house," and that such he wants to have shown him. If he thus shows his mettle the salesman is sure of his game. But let him not be influenced by the customers harmless bluster. Instead of at once showing him the best thing, let him be shown an article several grades higher, and if he again kicks then is the moment to bring out the best and most expensive article in the house. If the article be a really good, first-class one, and it suits his fastidious "jags," the price will hardly be haggled about, because, having assumed such haughty airs about the quality of the goods he wanted, if he be really a man of pride, he will be ashamed to object to the price.

An old salesman who has tried both the "sizing up" plan, wherein his knowledge of human nature was brought into full play, and the rule above laid down, in which little or no exertion of the faculty of judging men is required, is of the opinion that his greatest success in selling goods was achieved through adherence to the latter, during the final years of his experience in retailing, and he recommends its observance in all cases where the customer is not known by the salesman who may be assigned to wait on him.—Chicago Apparel Gazette.

THE CANNED GOODS LAW.

Her Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate and House of Commons o Canada, enacts as follows:—

In this Act the expression "package" means every can, tin or package in which articles or goods are put up for sale, and which are closed by being hermetically sealed. 48-49 V., c. 63, s. 1.

Except in the case of goods packed previously to July 20, 1885, every package of canned goods sold or offered for sale in Canada, for consumption therein, shall have attached thereto or imprinted thereon a label or stamp, setting forth in legible characters the name and address of the person, firm or company by whom the same was packed, or of the dealer who sells the same or offers it for sale.

Every such package containing goods prepared from products which have been dried previously to being so prepared, shall, in addition, be labelled or stamped with the word "soaked," which word shall be plainly printed diagonally across the face of the label in large, legible type at least half an inch in height and three-eighths of an inch in width.

Every person who sells or offers for sale any such goods in violation of any provision of this section shall, on summary conviction before a justice of the peace, for a first offence incur a penalty of two dollars for each such package, and for a subsequent offence a penalty not exceeding twenty dollars and not less than four dollars for each such package in respect of which any such provision has been violated. 48-49 V., c. 63, s. 2.

Every person who places on any package any label, brand or mark which falsely represents the quantity or weight of the contents of such package, shall, on summary conviction before a justice of the peace, incur a penalty of two dollars for each package on which the quantity or weight is so falsely represented; provided always, that a variation under the rate of three per cent. shall not be deemed a violation of the provisions of this section. 48-49 V., c. 63, s. 3.

Every person who places on any package any label, brand or mark which falsely represents the date when the article or goods contained therein were packed, shall, on summary conviction before a justice of the peace, incur a penalty of two dollars for each package on which such date is falsely represented. 48-49 V., c. 63, s. 4.

TENDERS.

SEALED TENDERS marked "For Mounted Police Provisions and Light Supplies," and addressed to the Honourable the Minister of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, will be received up to noon on Tuesday, 3rd June, 1890.

Printed forms of tender, containing full information as to the articles and approximate quantities required, may be had on application at any of the Mounted Police Posts in the North-West, or at the office of the undersigned.

No tender will be received unless made on such printed forms.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted Canadian bank check for an amount equal to ten per cent. of the total value of the articles tendered for, which will be forfeited if the party declines to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or if he fails to complete the service contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the check will be returned.

No payment will be made to newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority having been first obtained.

OF LONDON, CAPITAL, £50,000.
Under the auspices of the Indian Tea Districts Association.
The object of the company is to push the sale of their product, feeling certain that when systematically brought to consumers' notice its merits will be so manifest as to give it the front rank in public favor, as is the case in Great Britain.
Roundly, the annual consumption in that country is 80,000,000 lbs. during last crop year This is the best answer to the twaddle about the excessive quantity of taunin in Indian tea. Consumers in England are no fools : they know a cup of good tea.

Offer for sale all grades of REFINED SUGARS and SYRUPS of the well-known brand of Redpath

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,
MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.
To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal :
GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.
The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

Messrs. Ceo. Childs and L. Hebert, representing the Wholesale Grocers' Guild of Montreal, interviewed several senators and urged that Mr. Wallace's bill to amend the Combines Act be rejected. They claimed that the bill, as amended by the senate last year, is satisfactory, and that the proposed amendments would not be in the public interest.

The Inland Revenue Department has recently issued a bulletin of about thirty pages which is devoted exclusively to the subject of baking powder and which shows that the majority of the goods in the market are adulterated and unfit for use. Prof. A. McGill, who has had charge of this important work for the Government, says that "imperial baking power is an excellent baking powder." A word to the sensible housekeeper should be suffcieut.

REGULATED PRICES OF SOAP.

Very familiar to the experience of grocers and general merchants is the troublesome fact, that the trade in laundry soap has for some time rested upon a most unsubstantial basis. Bars were made in many varieties of form, size, hue and brand, and there was no getting at comparative quality until the question had been settled by house wives and laundry maids. Then when the run of the demand got started in the grooves of a few favored brands, the more neglected ones were forced on the market by low prices. These came to be largely what sold soap. When that came to be recognized, more soap-makers met the demand by producing grades of soap that could be sold at low prices. The dealer who held to reliable brands that maintained their excellence throughout, found it difficult to hold his own against competitors stocked with low grades. These could undersell him. Also there was variety enough among these low grades to give considerable diversity to the trade that was confined to cutting dealers. If one low priced soap was found by the consumer to be poor, he could try another at an equally cheap figure. The fact that cheap soaps were numerous itself intensified the cutting evil, as producers would further vie with one another for a market that their onslaught upon established prices had created. The dealer in soap made for conservative prices would consequntly be more and more left to the class of custom that prefers quality to cheapness. There are fewer people in this class than would be supposed, if we are to judge from the practical buying of consumers. They may want quality, and are usually amenable to the conviction that it is within their reach at absurdly low prices.

It needs but a cursory glance through the advertising columns of some of the newspapers published in the provincial towns to learn the extent to which competition is run in soap. It seems as if in the eyes of the majority soap were an unqualifiable commodity as if it meant the same thing wherever it was named. Soap is soap, they appear to reason, and therefore the cheapest is the best. There is a saving remnant of the public among whom good soap alone is sold. But there are many for every one of these who buy the cheapest. The vendor of good soap cannot educate them. He can point to the injury done to the hands and to fabrics by adulterated cheap soap, but he cannot induce such people to see there is more economy in pure soap.

If dealers are thus unable to regenerate the state of consumption, and since in fact the majority of dealers are working in the opposite direction, where is reform to come from? Plainly from the source of production, if it is to come at all. The makers have been probably less to blame for the low quality of much of our soap than have the consumers, and the consumers have been less to blame than the traders. The bulk of the responsibility for so much low priced soap is traceable to the trade. It is the old story of one dealer trying to surpass his rival in the lowness of his figures. Ignorant ideas of economy on the part of consumers, complaisance on the part of producers are but abetting conditions to a purpose that was begotten among the trade. Producers were numerous enough to maintain the manufacture of low grades, as such being what was mostly called for they had to endeavor individually to suit the demand, as the one who did not would alienate his trade to some other manufacturer.

The evil at last shows signs of effecting its own cure. The manufacturers, grown tired of the competition for a vitiated demand and finding no money in such business owing to the paring of profits that sort of competition enforced, have at last come to a truce. They will strive no more to put a mine under one another's prices. All the manufactories of laundry soap in the province, except one, and that one produces no very cheap soaps, are now pledged to a uniform set of prices. This practically means that the day of trashy laundry soap is past. The fixing of a scale of prices necessitated the grading of soap. Laundry soap will therefore now be made in three grades. No three-pound bars will be sold at less than 4¼c. per pound by the manufacturers, who will take 10 per cent. off for the wholesale trade. No bars will be made below the weight of eight ounces.

This establishment of soap standards and adjustment of prices by the manufacturers is the thing that has long been wanted. It may be looked for to suppress the cutting evil. It works, as all movements towards limited prices do, towards correcting evils that grew up in trade. A fair profit is now provided for. The understanding was not arrived at too soon. The soap making business had begun to suffer from the effects of trading methods upon it. Four factories went out of the business in a short time in Montreal. More might soon expect to be hurried out of it if some such attempt as the present one were not made for the regulation of trade.

Labor organizations and there sympathizers paraded the streets of Winnipeg, one evening last week, three or four thousand strong, headed by a military band. The demonstration was held cheifly to help the cause of store clerks, who are agitating to have stores closed at seven o'clock. The procession stopped in front of the stores of two merchants who had refused to sanction the closing movement, and the band played the Dead March in Saul, while the crowd hooted and hissed. A public meeting was afterwards held, and various labor topics were discussed. All the labor unions have notified those merchants who refuse to close their stores at seven o'clock that there patronage will be withdrawn.

THE TOBACCO REGULATIONS.

Above two weeks ago the Secretary of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association wrote to Mr. John Small, M.P., for East Toronto, requesting his mediation with the Hon. Mr. Costigan, to obtain the admission in Mr. Costigan's recent amendment to the Inland Revenue Act of some provision for the protection of those engaged in the tobacco trade. The protection sought was against the chance of wrongful seizure to which every trader is exposed who has tobacco in other than a stamped package. Here is a copy of Mr. Small's reply :

OTTAWA, 23rd APRIL, '90.

DEAR SIR,—In reply to yours of the 19th I will say that I again saw the Minister. He says that it is not the intention to impose heavy penalties, and that parties committing an infraction of the revenue laws will be notified, not prosecuted unless they persist.

Yours very truly,
JOHN SMALL.

J. F. THACKRAY, Esq.,
Toronto.

We think the majority of the trade would prefer to have this pledge of protection embodied in the measure that the Minister had at the time in hand. Nothing that is of great moment to so many people should be a matter of grace with the head of a Department. A Minister may promise that a law shall be modified in its administration, but such Minister can at the utmost speak for himself, for the time he holds office and has the power to influence the operation of the law. His successor has neither legal nor moral check to restrain him from rigorously enforcing the letter of such law. Nor is it always a fact that a Minister speaks correctly for himself. His mind may change, or he may forget, so that his action of next year may be at variance with his promise of this. For example, the promise of Mr. Costigan himself, made to the combined committee he met here, is now understood by him differently from what it was by the other parties to that conference.

The concession signified in Mr. Small's letter is therefore too contingent upon circumstances not fixed in law to be appreciable. Its value may be considerable or it may not be, as events may happen. It is conditional upon memory and honor, and is limited at the utmost to the length of time one man shall be in a particular post. For whatever it amounts to, however, it is due to Mr. Small's instrumentality. Mr. Small's services were in response to the request of the Retail Grocers' Association here, to which body, therefore, the initial impulse which effected this amelioration is to be credited.

A customer secured is a promise of greater salary in time.

A repntation for truthfulness is indispensable to permanent and satisfying success.

THE LATE JOHN P. MOTT, Esq.

We herewith present our readers with an excellent portrait of the late John P. Mott, a name well known to every grocer throughout the Dominion, as the great cocoa and chocolate manufacturer.

Mr. Mott was borne in Preston, Nova Scotia, and at the age of fourteen went to live with his uncle, Mr. Walter Baker, of Walter Baker & Co., Dorchester, Mass., the well-known cocoa and chocolate manufacturers, who instructed him in and brought him up to his own business.

When Mr. Mott had mastered the trade in all its details, Mr. Baker anxious to secure his further services, offered him a share in the business as an inducement for him to remain with him, but he, either not satisfied with the terms, or unwilling to expatriate himself from his native province declined the offer and returned to Nova Scotia, starting in connection with his father in Dartmouth, a chocolate manufactory and the grinding of spices, etc. After a continuance of from ten to twelve years, this partnership was dissolved, his father and his other brothers continuing the business in the old premises, while Mr. John Mott started out for himself in the same line in another part of Dartmouth. It was by judicious speculations during the war between the North and South that he laid the foundation of his fortune. He was a shrewd, active, sagacious and far seeing business man, who laid his plans well, carefully and prudently, and whose speculations in consequence seldom turned out otherwise; and, though keen at a bargain, he was withal a man of the strictest integrity, one with whom one liked to do business and whose word no one ever doubted or questioned. In addition to the efficient prosecution of his legitimate business, he engaged largely in shipping, and in other provincial enterprises, which proved eminently successful and remunerative, and at the time of his death he was president of a large iron manufacturing company, carrying on business in New Glasgow. He was also the owner of a large amount of paying railroad stock in the neighbouring Republic. The making of money was with Mr. Mott a passion that dominated him as law or physic absorbs the devotees who select those professions as avenues leading to fame and distinction. But the accumulation of wealth was only the means to an end. He did not seek it in order that he might hoard it up with miserly care, but rather that he might have the wherewithal to dispense to those in need. Mr. Mott left a handsome estate, estimated at some $700,000; None who had any claim to be remembered were forgotten, while his benefactions to the different charities and benevolent institutions were not limited by creed or sect. Besides legacies to his employees, he left provision for their comfort and support when they became incapaciated for work. But though he has gone, the lesson of his life remains; and if from it the rising generation shall learn that pluck, self-reliance, patience, perseverance and a strict attention to business, coupled with unswerving integrity, without adventitious aids, can in this free and rising Dominion carve a road to fortune, he will not have lived in vain, while he has set to our moneyed men, who have made their fortune in the country, an example, which, in the disposition of their wealth, they will do well to emulate.

THE LATE JOHN PRESCOTT MOTT, OF HALIFAX N.S.

At the suggestion of the Salmon Canneries, Association, of British Columbia, it is probable that a change will be made in the weekly close time. The hours as fixed by the regulations are from 6 p.m. Saturday to 6. a.m. Monday. The canners contend that this arrangement keeps the factory hands idle on Monday, and necessitates Sunday work in order to pack the catch of Saturday, while on Monday they have to submit to enforced idleness. By making the close time from 6 a.m. Saturday to 6 p.m. Sunday, the boats can go out on Sunday night. thereby keeping the factories going on Monday. The proposal to allow an unlimited number of boats on the Fraser river does not appear to meet with favor.

THE QUARTERLY DELINQUENT LIST.

The Delinquent List which Secretary Thackray instituted and compiled for the first three months of the current year is now fully elaborated, and is available in print to every member of the Toronto Association for ten cents. The number of names upon it and the amount of unredeemed credit it represents, show that the active Secretary has pulled his drag-net to good purpose through the members' books. A casual glance through its systematic order must elicit admiration for the clear and convenient method which has been adopted for the presentation of the matter. A glance too is sufficient to astonish one at the amount of the spoil which the dead-beats have managed to gather off the organized portions of the grocery trade in this city. How much they have plundered grocers not in the Association, it is hard to estimate, but there is little doubt there is a much larger amount on books whose owners have not yet been drawn into the Toronto body. Unless such grocers speedily join, they may expect to be victims to a larger extent, as the listed debtors will seek pastures new, and endeavor to trade with those who have no record of them. So far as trading longer with members of the Association goes, that is out of the question, for such delinquents are gazetted, and could not be better known among the members if the seal of the Association were indelibly stamped on the brazen cheek of every one of them.

This very dead-shot method of killing off the parasites of the grocery trade, will do more we predict to extend the membership of the Association than any other function of that organization. There should be no lapse of it, therefore, until every city grocer is enrolled. The idea should be retained, and the secretary well supported by the Association and by individual members in the carrying out of it. The more the list swells, the more will grocers gravitate to the one body which possesses it.

A tribute to the usefulness of the list is to be found in the good natured fault finding of some members who had subscribed from five to thirty dollars to collecting agencies for information that now reaches other people for the bare membership fee charged by the Association. The subscribers to the collecting agencies feel that it is hardly fair for others to be admitted almost gratuitously to information that was so costly outside of the Association.

Mr. Setchell, of Messrs. Cleghorn & Sons' fruit importing house, has been over a good part of Ontario lately In that portion of our constituency, Mr. Setchell says he finds the GROCER widely read and authoritatively quoted. His observation leads him to regard it as potent influence in the trade activities of the country.

Restore goods to their proper places as soon after usiug as possible.

THE MONTREAL RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

The regular monthly meeting of the Montreal Retail Grocers' Association was held in the Mechanics Hall last Thursday evening. President Fraser in the chair. Among others present were Messrs. Fournier, Connaughton, O'Shaughnessy, Gauthier, Delahanty, Elliott, Manning, and Duncan. The minutes of the last meeting were red and confirmed.

It was moved by Mr. Elliott, seconded by Mr. O'Shaughnessy that Mr. J. E. Manning be appointed treasurer in place of Mr. Vollieres, who had resigned. The motion was carried unanimously.

A lengthy disscussion then took place as to whether the present Secretary could retain his position in the Association, as he is now engaged in a wholesale house. The matter was left in the hands of the Executive Committee.

The Secretary then read the following petition which was afterwards presented to the Council, on Monday, by Ald. Gauthier and referred by them to the Finance and Market committees respectively, who it is hoped will take action in the matter.

GENTLEMEN,

The undersigned members of the Grocers' Association of Montreal, and others, beg to respectfully submit,

That they carry on in the City of Montreal, a useful, even, indispensable trade, being the dispensers of the first nccessaries of life.

That they carry on their trade in stores whose rental is generally high, and forms one of the heaviest charges of their expense account.

That they are charged besides, with the property tax, school tax, water tax, and business tax.

That they have to meet all these charges out of their receipts, which curtails considerably their profits.

That the corporation of the City of Moutreal rents, in the several city markets, viz:—In Bonsecours market, St. Antoine, St. Lawrence, St. Ann's and St. Gabriel markets, shops or stalls where traders are allowed to sell groceries.

That the rent of these stalls is very low aud does not come up to the rental of the smallest grocery shop outside.

That the traders occupying these stalls do not pay any property tax, school tax, water rate, or business tax.

That they are therefore in a position to compete with unjust advantages with the undersigned and other grocers' who have to pay taxes.

That these traders being located in places where your petitioners' clients do generally go for their meat, fish, etc., have no regular customers, but live on the customers of the regularly established grocers.

That the undersigned believe it the duty of the corporation to protect the interests of your petitioners who contribute largely to the civic revenue, instead of allowing such an unfair competition to be made to them in the very buildings owned by the corporation.

That markets have been established for the sale of meat, fish, vegetables, grain, and fruit, and not for the sale of groceries.

Wherefore your Petitioners humbly pray that you will kindly put a stop to the unfair treatment they complain of by taking steps to prohibit the selling of groceries in the public markets.

And you will do justice.

The committee on the license By-law here reported. They had prepared a petition to the Finance Committee of the city council which reads as follows :

Gentlemen,—The undersigued members of the Retail Grocers' Association of Montreal beg to humbly submit:

That they, as most of the other retail grocers of Montreal are obliged to pay for a liceuse to sell spiritous liquors:

That this license fee is computed on the basis of the rent of the premises occupied by them as grocery stores.

That the collector of the Provincial Revenue determines the amount of the said fee on a certificate of valuatiou of rental, determined by the city assessor:

That in certain cases where the grocers have their private dwellings over the store and have rented the store and dwelling in the same lease the assessor certificate gives the valuation of rental for both, whereas in other cases when the grocers dwellings is in different buildings the certificate shows only rental of the stores.

That consequently those who belong to the former class have to pay a higher license fee in proportion to their business than the grocers who belong to the latter class which is contrary to equity.

Wherefore the undersigned humbly pray that you be pleased to instruct the city assessors to put a separate value for rental when occasion shall arise, on the store occupied as a grocery store, and on the dwelliug which may be attached to it, so that the certificate when delivered shall show only the rental of the store.

This was signed by officers and members of the association.

It was moved by Mr. Connaughton, seconded by Mr. Delahanty, that the Executive Committee be appointed a sub-committeh to prepare and revise the constitution and add any further amendments they consider necessary, and report at next regular meeting.

Ald. Gautheier, here spoke at some length on the advisability of the association having an official organ, in which full reports of their meetings and other association work might be chronicled, as it added both tone and power, making the Montreal Retail Grocers' Association known throughout the land.

President Fraser fully concurred with the previous speaker, and spoke of the great interest THE CANADIAN GROCER had taken in their work for some time past, and thought this valuable paper should be made the official organ.

It was therefore moved by Mr. Gauthier, seconded by Mr. O'Shaughnessy, that THE CANADIAN GROCER and Le Prix Courant be made the official organs, and that the association subscribe for each of these journals to be addressed to the Secretary.—Carried unanimously.

There being no further business the meeting adjourned.

LOCAL BUSINESS MEN'S ASSOCIATIONS.

We publish below the constitution which has been devised as the basis of local organization in Business Men's Associations. A uniform structure is a prime necessity when concerted action is to be aimed at, and when each local body is to be regarded as an off shoot of the central body. Likeness of constitution assimilates distant business communities, and sets their reforms running in the same channels. The tributary mite of the smallest village association becomes an element of force in the large movement which it along with other mites is capable of making. The central association will regulate and steady the action of the several local apparatus, and conform the proceedings of all to a common end. The constitution of the central body will be published in our next issue.

PREAMBLE.

Whereas, comparison of ideas and methods and concert of action are assential to the well being of any community; and

Whereas, we believe that a Business Men's Association will accomplish these objects; therefore,

Resolved—That we, business men of .....and vicinity, duly assembled on . .....do hereby organize ourselves into such an association, and adopt the constitution and by-laws following :

CONSTITUTION.

Local and County Organizations.

ARTICLE I.—Name.

The name of this organization shall be .....Business Men's Association, which shall be affiliated with and be auxiliary to the Ontario Business Men's Association, and duly organized according to the provisions of the Constitution.

ARTICLE II.—Objects.

The principal objects of this Association shall be as follows :—

SECTION 1.—To encourage well directed enterprises; to promote the growth of the District, Town or City and the progress, extension and increase of its trade.

SECTION 2.—To increase acquaintanceship and foster the highest commercial integrity among those engaged in the various lines of business represented.

SECTION 3.—To take concerted action in matters pertaining to the general good of business men were individual effort is powerless, such as securing needed concessions in freight, express and insurance rates, observance of national holidays, short hours in business, immunity from inferior and adulterated goods, short weights and measures, and unjust values or discriminations by any class or corporation.

SECTION 4.—A collection department may be maintained for the collection of doubtful accounts and the listing, for the purpose of protection only, of delinquents who abuse the confidence of business men and evade the payment of just debts.

SECTION 5.—To compel the peddler to assume a portion of the burden borne by the merchant.

ARTICLE III.—Membership.

SECTION 1.—Any firm, individual owner, part owner or manager of an established, honorable business may become a member of this Association when recommended in writing by two members in good standing and receiving three-fourths vote of the members present at any regular meeting, signing the constitution and by-laws and paying to the Secretary the sum of.....membership fee, and.....quarterly dues in advance.

Obligation.

SECTION 2.—Every person becoming a member of this Association shall be honorably bound to conform to the rules, regulations and by-laws.

Non-payment of Dues.

SECTION 3.—Any member of this Association, who shall neglect or refuse to pay his dues, or any assessment ordered by the Association, for three months after such sums become due, shall thereby forfeit his membership.

ARTICLE IV.—Officers.

SECTION 1.—The officers of this Association shall consist of a President, Vice-President, Secretary-Treasurer and an Executive Committee.

How elected.

SECTION 2.—These officers shall be elected annually and shall hold their office for one year and until their successors are duly elected and qualified.

Duties of Officers.

SECTION 3.—The President shall perform the duties usually incumbent upon such office and see that all committees serve faithfully, and at the annual meeting he shall present a report of the proceedings of the Association for the year, its present condition, and any suggestions for its future management, which may be gained from his experience.

SECTION 4.—In the absence of the President, the Vice-President shall preside.

SECTION 5. — The Secretary-Treasurer shall receive all moneys due the Association from any source; keep a record of all meetings; conduct all correspondence; keep a list of all members in a book provided for that purpose; notify all committees of their appointment; forward proper notification sheets to delinquents, and do such other clerical work as the Executive Committee may direct, as hereinafter prescribed in the by-laws.

SECTION 6. — The Secretary-Treasurer shall receive all moneys and pay all orders only when countersigned by the President.

SECTION 7.—The Executive Committee shall consist of three members when the membership is under ten, and of five when the membership is ten or over, of which the President and Secretary may be two. It shall have charge of all matters of general interest to the local Association not otherwise assigned; decide upon the disposition of delinquents' names reported by the Secretary; arbitrate upon disputed accounts in a just and impartial manner; provide rooms for the Association; audit all bills and examine the books and accounts of the Secretary and Treasurer, previous to each annual meeting, or oftener if required.

ARTICLE V.—Committees.

SECTION 1.—At the first regular meeting, subsequent to the annual meeting, the Association may elect five standing committees, namely: Manufacturing, Transportation, Insurance, Trade Interests and Entertainments. Each committee shall consist of three members and shall hold office for one year or until their successors are elected.

Duties of Committee.

SECTION 2.—The Committee on Manufacturing Interests shall use all possible efforts to secure the location of mills, factories and other plants, and encourage the development of existing industries, and shall have authority to call to their assistance sub-committees from the members of this Association.

SECTION 3.—The Committee on Transportation shall endeavor to secure any needed concessions in freight, express or other rates, and recommend favorable and rapid transits through large shipments, and measures to improve the facilities for travel to and from the place.

SECTION 4.—The Committee on trade interests shall have charge of all matters pertaining to the best interests of trade, its enlargement in the City, District or Town by well directed measures; plans for the improvement of tributary country roads; the regulation of any abuses through wise agitation or local legislation; the encouragement of a high standard in dealing; the buying of first qualities of goods; the offering for sale in this market of the best products; the discouragement of any and all demoralizing tendencies, and measures to secure the improvement of facilities for mails between this place and neighboring towns. May organize plans to purchase any Bankrupt Stocks and divide same up in lots amongst Merchants, so as to prevent their slaughter and cause the least irritation to trade from their sale; also, to get agreements from week to week, between Merchants, as to the maximum price to be paid for dairy produce.

SECTION 5.—The Committee on Entertainment shall present some interesting subject at each meeting; shall have charge of all entertainments given by the Association not otherwise provided for, and shall have charge of extending the hospitalities of the town if occasion requires.

SECTION 6.—Both officers and committees may at any time make such recommendations to the Association as may seem to them to be desirable.

ARTICLE VI.—Compensation.

No compensation for services shall be paid any officer except the Secretary-Treasurer, such compensation, if any, shall be fixed by the Executive Board.

ARTICLE VII.—Meetings.

SECTION 1.—The annual meeting of the Association shall be held on the..... .....of each .....

SECTION 2.—The regular meetings of the Association shall be held on the..... .....of each month.

SECTION 3.—Special meetings shall be called by the President on the written request of three members, by giving due notice to the members and specifying the object of the meeting.

ARTICLE VIII.—Amendments.

By-laws may be altered or amended by a two-thirds vote of those present at any regular meeting, provided a written notice of such alteration or amendment has been presented at the preceding regular meeting.

ARTICLE IX.—By-laws.

By-laws not in conflict with the constitution may be established for the government of the Association, on the two-thirds vote of the members present at any meeting.

BY-LAWS.

ARTICLE III.—Ontario Dues.

SECTION 1.—On or before October 1st of each year, the Secretary shall remit to the Ontario secretary the per capita dues for as many members as he has on the membership book.

SECTION 2.—New members shall be remitted for monthly.

ARTICLE IV.—New Members.

The President and Secretary shall constitute a committee to solicite the membership of business men who have not joined the Association.

ARTICLE V.—Ontario Convention Delegates.

This Association may choose one delegate to any Ontario convention, in accordance with the Constitution of the Ontario B. M. Association (ie) for each five members or part thereof.

ARTICLE VI.—Delinquents.

SECTION 1.—It shall be the duty of every member of this Association to report to the Secretary the name and address of every person who shall, without good cause or excuse, persistantly neglect or refuse, after due notification and demand, to pay his just indebtedness to such member.

SECTION 2.—That no injustice may be done to, or advantage taken of any debtor, by any member of the Association, it shall be the duty of every member, before reporting a person to the Association as a delinquent, to send him the first official notification sheet. known as the "Blue Letter," setting forth the fact that he owes the writer a stated sum and that he is granted fifteen days from the date entered on such letter in which to pay the debt, or to satisfactorily arrange for its payment; that if after the expiration of the fifteen days thus granted, the debtor shall have failed to pay or to have arranged for payment, the member shall report him to the Secretary (giving in each case his full name, occupation and place of residence), when that officer shall mail him the second official notification sheet, setting forth the fact that he is indebted to the member named in the sum stated, and that unless he pays, or arranges to pay the amount within ten days he will be reported to the Executive Committee as a delinquent; and in the absence of extenuating circumstances, that committee shall then place the debtor's name on the Delinquent List.

SECTION 3.—Said Delinquent List shall be kept in a book by the Secretary, and shall show the name of the debtor only and the amount of debt; the contents thereof shall not be divulged by any member or officer of this Association to any person not a member, but the same shall be kept secret for the exclusive use and benefit of members in their business to aid them in discovering beforehand, those persons who are not worthy of credit.

SECTION 4.—If the debtor denies the indebtedness and honestly sets up what he considers a valid defence to the claim of his creditor, no matter whether the Executive Committee consider it valid or not his name shall not be placed on the Delinquent List. In that case, the Committee shall only determine whether the debtor is honest in his belief that his defence is good or not.

SECTION 5.—Every member shall be honorably bound to refuse credit to any one whose name appears in the Delinquent Lists. Any member trusting a man whose name appears on the Delinquent List shall be fined $10.

Reinstatement of Delinquents.

SECTION 6.—Upon payment of an account or accounts upon which a name was consigned to the Delinquent List, the Secretary only is authorized to remove the delinquent's name from the List when notified by the creditor.

ARTICLE VII.—Expulsion.

Any member of this Association who shall be placed on the Delinquent List, or any member doing an act which tends to bring the Association into disrepute, may be expelled by the two-thirds vote of the members present at any regular meeting, after thorough investigation, and due notice being given.

ARTICLE VIII.—Bills and Accounts.

All bills and accounts against the Association shall be presented at any regular meeting or referred to the Executive Committee. If approved by the Association or Committee, they shall be allowed and delivered to the Secretary-Treasurer with their endorsement.

ARTICLE IX.—Assessments.

Any assessment to be made upon the members of this Association for special purposes, shall be made only upon a two-thirds note of all members present at any regular meeting, when notice has been duly given at a regular meeting one month previous and each member notified through the mail twenty-four hours previous to the action to be taken.

ARTICLE X.—Amending By-Laws.

By-laws may be amended by a two-thirds vote of the members present at any regular meeting.

ARTICLE XI.—Visiting Members.

Only those who are members of a local Association shall be admitted to any regular meeting, unless by special action of the meeting their admission is approved.

The city council of Hamilton, has fixed the license for street vendors of foreign fruit at $40. This reform will tend to drive the Italian hawkers of bananas, etc., from that city to Toronto, where the license fee is a nominal charge.

Mr. Wm. Tummonds, grocer, Port Perry dropped in to see us one day last week. The short chat we had with him and the renewal of his subscription to the GROCER, showed that Mr. Tummonds takes an intelligent, practical man's interest in the leading trade questions of the day. We hope there are enough traders of his views in Port Perry to make the establishment of an association there an early reality.

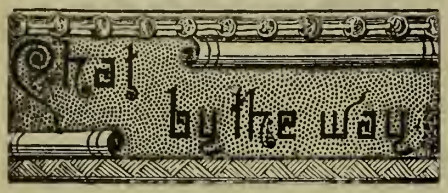
CANADIAN BAKING POWDERS

Some of the American baking powder companies have been endeavoring to obtain a reduction in the import duty on baking powders. They have not received much encouragement from the Government, and it is more than likely that no alteration will be made. It is only recently that the duty was increased 2c. per lb. This was of course received with very great satisfaction, and very properly too, by the manufacturers of baking powders in Canada. So far we have heard no complaints from the retail trade, nor are there likely to be any. As long as the Canadian manufacturer in any line is able to put up as good an article as anything imported, Canadians well prefer to see him get the trade. There are some special lines which are manufactured here and on the American side, but the quality of the American article is such that the trade here must have it. This is not the case with baking powders. The best brands of Canadian baking powder are fully as good as the best imported. Canada is committed to a protective policy, and baking powder manufacturers are entitled to and will receive the protection they require.

LONDON BRUSH FACTORY.

The manufacture of brushes tn Canada has been an industry of considerable importance for some years, more especially since the inauguration of the National Policy. Among the leading brush manufacturers west of Toronto is Mr. Thomas Bryan, proprietor of the London Brush Factory. Mr. Bryan began business in 1872, since which time he has built up a very large trade, extending now as it does over the whole of the Dominion. He manufactures all kinds of brushes, including bass brooms, ceiling brooms, hair brooms, hearth brooms, window brushes, foundry brushes, tanners brushes, printers' brushes, brewers' brushes, horse brushes, dandy brushes, scrub brushes, stove brushes, shoe brushes, mops, etc. Mr. Bryan also manufactures paint, varnish, and kalsomine brushes, which, in common with all the others are of very superior quality. He manufactures a full and complete line of oval, round, and flat paint and whitewash brushes, a specialty being made of mill and machine brushes, painters' brushes of every decription, and all brushes used by the hardware trade. In addition to what he manufactures Mr. Bryan is an extensive importer of patent carpet sweepers, feather dusters, and artists brushes, his stock of artist, bristle, camel hair, fitch or bear, and badger hair brushes being complete. Mr. Bryan enjoys an excellent reputation for the class of goods he manufactures and for the stock he keeps, being second to none in the Dominion. With regard to his machinery and facilities for the manufacture of brushes, they are not surpassed; and skilful workmen only are employed.

Rivalry, open, fair, good natured and enterprising, is the life of business.



SUNLIGHT LARGEST SALE IN THE WORLD SOAP

Winner of THREE GOLD MEDALS in 1889---Paris, France, Ghent, Belgium, and Ottawa, Canada.

The Wide-Awake Grocer, even if he gets a smaller profit out of SUNLIGHT Soap than he does out of Inferior Soaps, recognizes the fact that the increased volume of business done by reason of keeping the BEST article, more than compensates for the smaller profit. The aim of every Grocer should be, to earn a reputation for selling THE BEST.

TORONTO NOTES.

Messrs. Powis, of Mackenzie, Powis & Co., wholesale grocers, Winnipeg, and G. F. Galt, of Galt Bros., were here this week making their usual spring purchases.

J. L. Grant, the Ingersoll pork packer and cheese dealer, has sent out three Englishmen, from Liverpool, to open a retail store in this city for the sale of hog products and such cuts as cannot be used at the factory. It is understood that he will open out near Gerard, on Yonge street. If this store is a success he will start branches in other parts of the city. This is rather hard lines on the established retail dealers here, many of whom we have no doubt are his customers.

HECK'S COLUMN.

Of course you all read the article on "What is Profit?" last week. It struck me at the time that few merchants know what is loss. I mean in this way: You do not know how much you lose each year by not being better posted, and buying more closely. You will try hard to sell a dollar's worth of sugar, and neglect the two ounces of spices. Which pays the most? Some man outside the trade might see this, so I leave it for yourselves to answer. Is it gain to call a bill of goods, $2.75, when it comes to $2.76? I have often seen merchants doing this. If a customer is short a few cents in paying his or her bill, just charge the balance to their account. You cannot afford to allow that, it is loss, It is essential that you study what is loss. There are many ways and hints I might give, but we are crowded for room this week. I shall endeavor to lengthen out the subject in the near future. It is loss to pay for an advertisement and not change reading matter frequently. It is read for a few times, but people get tired of reading the same matter week in and week out. I see some merchants have their Xmas fruit and goods for sale yet. I suppose your trade has not been rushing this spring, but is it policy to let your customers see that you keep old state goods on hand?

GROCERIES.

A quiet and steady trade has been transacted. The withdrawal from active marketing on the part of farmers is a more pronounced feature than it has been since the opening of seeding. This has had an effect both on current trade and payments in the country. Consequently remittances from retail sources have been slow and often but partial. The election exitement also has an effect on trade. The summer awakening will be due towards the close of the present month. Then the surplus products not now marketed will be brought into trade, and the season's consumption will take a start. The leading characteristics of the week are scarcity of dried fruit, and of low grades of refined sugar.

CANNED GOODS.

The feature of the week in canned goods is extensive cutting on the part of several members of the Association. Prices were well maintained until last week when they gave way on corn especially, but also peas, tomatoes and other lines. Prices of retail lots remain about the same but corn looks weak and we would not be surprised to see a break of 10 to 20c. In tomatoes we have more confidence and think purchases at $1.10 to $1.15 pretty safe, and it is not improbable that they will go to $1.25 before the end of the season. Gallon apples are also good stock.

The surplus of old stock that has heretofore embarrassed the trade in selling the latest crop, is not likely to reappear at the beginning of the packing season for the current year. Tomatoes and apples are getting into a very small compass. Peaches have almost gone out of stock, and strawberries are close after them. Corn and peas are still in good supply, though stocks are being rapidly reduced. Salmon is quiet and lower at $1.40 to $1.60. Lobsters are in strong demand, but there is a very guarded response on the part of holders, as the latter are readier to decline than accept orders at the current prices.

Lakeport Preserving Company shipped on Friday night 500 cases canned peas to Rochester. They have also shipped a small lot of beans.

Mr. W. Boulter, of Picton, was in Toronto on Saturday and sold two carloads of mixed canned goods to go to Winnipeg and one to Vancouver, B. C.

Messrs. Sloan & Crowther shipped an assorted carload of corn, peas and tomatoes to British Columbia the other day.

Large sales have been made by the Ontario Canning Company, Hamilton, which has sold and shipped four carloads of assorted goods to Winnipeg. This firm was the largest holder of tomatoes, and they now have only 100 cases on hand.

There is a good deal of trouble on the Columbia river between the union and non-union fishermen. A fight occurred there the other day in which several men were killed. This simply shows the power of the Fishermen's Union and what they will resort to exact their prices of raw salmon $1.00 to $1.25 per salmon. American dealers are now convinced that the ports on the Columbia river will be extremely short as the canners cannot pay these prices and compete with Alaska and British Columbia.

The Chicago Grocer of last week says :— Our old friend, Col. W. Boulter, Esq., president of the Canadian Packers' Association, of Canada, and Mr. Wm. A. Ferguson, of Delhi, Ont.,the chairman ofthe Association's executive committee, called on the Grocer last week. They are engaged in the business of carrying "coals to Newcastle," as they are placing some Canadian canned goods (peas) on this market. This is enterprise, surely.

COFFEES.

A quiet demand has run through the week and has not effected any change in the condition of the market. Stocks are low in all lines, and prices are stiff. There is a shipment of Rio just on its way into trade but it is not going to affect the market in either direction. Java, Mocha and Plantation Ceylon are at the prices last reported, and are experiencing the same relative attention. There is nothing in the present view that will change the tendency of the market towards greater firmness. The demand need not materially increase prices, as the slackness of stocks works to that end of itself.

DRIED FRUIT.

The ruling conditions at present are decline in the stock of prunes, of raisins and of currants. Everything under this department is growing scarcer and getting firmer. On Tuesday it was reported that currants had gone up one-eighth of a cent in New York. The report was attended by the statement that English buyers were upon the New York market, laying in supplies for English trade. This would certainly stimulate prices, as England is one of the largest consumers and one of the chief distributors of currants. Stocks however, are shrinking into small proportions here. Valencia raisins are following closely after the Malaga, which are entirely off the market, except in the form of quarter flats of blackbaskets, and London layers. Prices are stationary at the points indicated in last report, viz.: 8 to 8½c. The stock of Elemes is also light, and is receiving increased attention on account of the dearness of Valencias. Sultanas are firmer. Prunes are getting into small limits and prices are moving onward. The ten-pound boxes of Eleme figs come in for the only demand now active for this class of fruit.

SUGAR.

The same quiet rate of trade coursed through the week that has been going on for some time. Prices are unchanged, but refiners are hopeful of an improvement. They feel that the situation will mend with waiting, as the time of sugar consumption is not here yet. There is a strong demand for low grades and raws. There are few good raws on the market, most of them on the spot being dark and heavy. There are no low grades of refined to be had.

The stock of sugar at Havana and Matanzas, April 25, was 151952 tons against 85624 tons last year.

M. Licht's report of April 19th, 1890, gives the following estimate of the European Beet Sugar production of the 1889-90 campaigns, as compared with preceding campaigns, as follows : in tons 1889-90, 3,630,000 ; 1888-9, 2,785,844 ; 1887-8, 2,481,950 ; 1886-7, 2,750,-206 ; 1885-6, 2,229,973.

It was reported, on Tuesday, that a cargo of sugar belonging to the Canada Sugar Refining Company, Montreal, went down at Gibralter. The cargo, which amounted to 8,000,000 pounds, was due at Montreal in about three weeks.

Messrs. Warren Bros. and Boomer have received a shipment of bright raws at 5½ to 5¾c in bags.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

The demand for all sorts of syrups falls off at this season, and is now very quiet. The attention given to maple syrup and the cheapness of butter are circumstances that work against trade in refinery syrups. Prices are steady at the quotations of our list. Molasses is also in poor demand. It is used more in winter than at any other time of the year. The prices are not affected by the slack demand as stocks are low.

TEAS

Trade is but fair. Stocks are now moderately full in most lines. There is a scarcity, however, of low grade Japans. That scarcity is not likely to be modified by supplies from the last crop. The new crop of garden Japans is now beginning to move, but will not be here for a month. Low-priced Congous have gone up 1d. in England. There is a fair demand for greens, though most orders are of a sorting up class. At the beginning of the month several lines of blacks of good value changed hands, one round lot selling on the street at 11½c. There has been a good business done in Indian teas. In London, considering the small clearances before the declaration of the Budget, there has been good all round buying at rather better paying for common descriptions, while good to fine are in most cases dearer. There is a good local demand for Ceylons. There has been good competition in London, especially for the best lines, which occasionally show nearly 1d. per pound advance.

RICE AND SPICES.

The call for rice is yet a few weeks in the future. It usually gets its maximum attention in the harvesting and threshing season, although the consumption of it is pretty steady from the latter part of May. There is nothing in the prices. Spices sell slowly and in a few lines. Pepper and nutmegs are more favored by the present demand. Prices are steady.

NUTS.

From the beginning of the fall fairs, through the holiday season, and on till late in the winter consumption is very active, and rarely leaves very large stocks in the country by the first of May. All stocks are very light now, and the demand is very slack. The fullest stocks are in filberts, and for these there is the least call.

PETROLEUM.

Trade has fallen off very much during the last few weeks, and will continue to fall off until the autumn. The long daylight reduces the consumption of petroleum to a very noticeable degree.

DRUGS AND CHEMICALS.

The city trade has fallen off very much within a month. One reason assigned is the check on consumption which is due to the strike. Among west end dealers this is very largely recognized as depressing influence to trade, as in that part of the city there is a large proportion of mechanics who belong to crafts now idle.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

Dealers are still overloaded with old tub butter, and the value of this keeps low. There are few sales to relieve the congestion from which the market has suffered since early in April, and the majority of these few have been at prices rarely above 5 to 7c. The range of the quotations for old tubs is 5 to 8c. There is some on the market that it would be difficult to give away. Of new dairy tub very little has yet been offered. Such as has been found ready sale at 17c. Even this class of butter is not choice, so far as can be judged from the specimens of it handled here. There is a free supply of large rolls, and there is a further shrinkage in the proportion of good butter in them. The prices run from 11 to 14c. The pound rolls are plentiful. There is a very good lot of butter coming upon the market in this shape, but the abundance of it keeps prices from going very far upwards. It is worth 15 to 18c. In creamery butter there is only an occasional transaction, stock being very low. Prices are 21 to 23c. The Brockville dairy butter is not in very liberal supply, nor is the quality up to a high standard this week.

Cheese is unchanged. Business is quiet and very steady. The summer make is 8½ to 9½c. The early autumn goes at 10½ to 11c.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—Are still quotable at $2 to $4 for broken lots. There is a large proportion of wasty stock in the lower grades. The country is now almost depleted, with the exception of the reserves held by odd buyers, who are waiting for fancy prices. It is said that a large store of russets in fine condition are held by a Niagara owner, who is holding out for $6. Apples here are $2.50 to $4.50 out of store.

BEANS.—In small lots are $1.50, and in jobbing lots $1.30 to $140. The demand is very quiet, and the crop is nearly consumed.

DRIED APPLES—The market has slightly improved. Stocks have been growing lighter of late in response to a better demand. Prices are 4½ to 5c. The old are going at about ¼c. less than the new.

Messrs. Warren Bros. & Boomer shipped two cars of dried apples to the North West this week.

EVAPORATED APPLES—There is now an active inquiry. Prices are firm, and stock is going freely into consumption. Old are 7½ to 8c.. and new are 10½ to 11c.

EGGS—Are not coming in very liberally. They are too few for the demand, and the price, 10 cents, is developing a strength that will be apt to carry it a point higher.

HAY—There is a very good demand for No. 1, which brings $10 to $11 on track. For No. 2 there is difficulty in finding any market, as cattle feeding is now about over. This grade of hay quotes nominally at $5.50 to $6.

HIDES—Green have gained another quarter. They are getting scarce, and are better, as they improve at this season. The grubby condition engendered by stabbing has disappeared. Prices are for No. 1 steers 5½, cows 4½; No. 2 steers 4½, cows 3 1-2; No. 3 steers3 1-2, cows 2 1-2. Cured have gone up to a moderately strong 5 1-4c. They are scarce.

HONEY—There is a very listless trade interest just now taken in honey. Prices, however, remain as they have ruled since late autumn, 12 to 14c. for comb, and 11½ to 13c. for clear.

HOPS—The demand is sluggish, and the stocks large. The quantity of yearlings is yet considerable. These are 10 to 12c. New hops are 12 to 15c.

OATS—The arrivals have been freer this week than at any time since seeding operations began. On track they are 38c The market has been steadily good ever since an active demand from Manitoba and Montreal was felt here.

ONIONS—Do come upon the market still, but in small instalments, and largely in poor condition. The demand for good ones is strong. Sharlot onions are $3.50. Yellow Danvers, which are scarcer, are $4.

POTATOES—Have a better market. On track, here, they are 57 to 62c. in car lots. There is a falling off in the supply, due, not perhaps to scarcity, but to the fact that farmers are busy. Lots not of store go at 70c. At outside points the market is strong. In the north and west they go at 50 to 53c., and on the Midland at 55c.

SEEDS—We are now between seasons, and trade is slack, as it always is at this time. All prices are consequently easier. Red clover is $4.00 to $4.15 ; timothy is $1.87 to $1.95 ; Alsike is $5.10 to $6.90 ; select yellow horse tooth corn is 60c.; red cob ensilage is 62c., and giant prolific sweet ensilage is 70c.

SKINS—The market for old ones is nearly done, because there are virtually no more to offer. The new skins will soon be on the market, and there will be little doing until these do come. The prices are still standing at $1.25 to $1.60. No. 1 calf is up 1 cent, now quoting at 7c., and No. 2 is stationary at 5c.

STRAW—No. 1 is $5.50 to $6 on track. There is a plentiful supply.

TALLOW—Rough, is up to 2c., and rendered is 5 to 5¼c.

WOOL—Pulled is 30c. for extra-super, for super is 25 to 26., and lowest is 24c. Fleeces are 22c.

FISH.

The demand for fish is pretty strong, but the supply is behind-hand. Of the fish that are in stock, trout and whitefish are rather scarce. The stock is expected to be fairly full next week. This is the class of fish in which the strength of the demand chiefly runs. Spring salmon is still in considerable favor and the market is very well stocked. The prices are, whitefish, 7c. per pound; salmon-trout, 7c.; British Columbia salmon, 17 to 18c.; Lake herring, $2.75 to $3.00 per hundred by count. Spring salmon, 16 to 18c.

GREEN FRUIT.

The Florida oranges are kept upon the market by occasional shipments of India River fruit. They are firm at $5. Stocks of Valencias have also been recruited, and there is now plenty of them on this market. A good demand, however, maintains prices at $6.50 to $7. Messina oranges are $3.75 to $4.50. They are also in good supply, but the trouble still is on account of bad condition in the arrivals. California and Washington navels are $6. Lemons, 300's are $4.50, and in 360's are $4. The demand for them has not been particularly active, and will be in obeyance for but a short time now, as the warm weather greatly stimulates consumption. The demand for bananas is easier, and prices are also lowered. The run at $1.50 to $2 for reds and $1.75 to $2 for yellows. Pineapples are $2 for No. 1, $2.50 for fancies, extras are $2.25. These prices show how greatly the demand has relaxed in correspondence with increased supplies.

PROVISIONS.

The trade in provisions has been very good. What has given a stimulus to it has been the lowness of prices relatively to those of former years, and those that are anticipated. There is a general looking for higher prices, which urges present buying.

Bacon—Long clear is firm at 8½c.; breakfast is 11½ to 12c. for bellies, and 11 to 11½ for backs ; roll is 9½c.

DRESSED HOGS—There has been but a fair supply during the week and the market has been good. Prices are firm at $7 to $7.25. There is a freer state of arrival promising for next week, but it is not expected to moderate prices.

HAMS—Smoked are 11 1-2 to 12c. Sweet pickled are 11c.

LARD—In 50 pound tubs is 9 1-2c., and in 20 pound pails, 10c.

MESS PORK—Heavy is $16, shortcut is $17.

Mr. James E. Baillie has obtained the Ontario Government contract for the supply of pork to the Crown Lands Department.

SALT.

The market is quiet, and unchanged in prices. The stock on hand is moving off slowly. The Toronto Salt Works report the following sales :—1 car bbls. salt at $1.37; 250 sacks at 68c. ; and 1 car dairy at $1.18. Small lots sell at $1.45 for coarse salt in bbls.; 85c. for sacks, and 45c. for ¼ sacks.

DRY GOODS.

A very quiet trade, unqualified by any features to distinguish the week's businesss from that done in any other of the past several weeks, is the record. The active season is approaching. At present there is much beside trade engaging the farmers. These have yet a scarcity of money which directly affects remittances.

MONTREAL

MONTREAL MARKETS.

MAY 8, 1890.

GROCERIES.

With the opening of navigation a slight improvement is noticed in trade generally, but it has not yet reached the point that may be called fair. Prices have undergone no material change. The packers combine having fallen through, canned goods, that is corn, peas and tomatoes are being offered at all ranges. Payments the past month have been slower than for the previous six months, some houses seem to think that payments will be good after the Ontario elections, that is that there will be lots of money about that time.

SUGAR.

The market for refined sugar remains unchanged, prices being well maintained, although refiners are very anxious to sell granulated, some are sacrificing yellows to do so. Quotations are, granulated 6¾ to 7c.; yellows 5¼ to 5¾c.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Syrups and molasses have ruled quiet the past week, and prices remain as before.

TEA.

The tea market is firm with good enquiry for 16 and 18c. New Japans to arrive are quoted at 21c. for choice; 19c. for finest, and 18c. for fine f.o.b., which is about $2 lower than last year, but the exchange will about equalize the advance.

COFFEES.

Quotations are : Mocha, 30 to 32c.; Java, 28 to 30c.; Jamaica, 21 to 23c.; Plantation Ceylon, 27 to 29c.; Maracaibo, 24 to 25c.; Rio, 22 to 24c.; Guatemala, 24½ to 26½c.; Santos, 22 to 24c.

DRIED FRUITS.

The dried fruit market continues very firm. Valencia raisins, which are very scarce are quoted at 8 1-2c. London layers $2.75 to $3. Prime Sultanas 12 to 12½c. with cheaper grades at 9c. Prunes are reported higher in N. Y. Currants continue firm at 5⅜ to 5½ in barrels and up to 6c. for smaller quantities. Eleme figs 10c. to 14c. Dates 5¼. Dried apples 6 1-2c.

CANNED GOODS.

The fact of the break in the packers combine has led to considerable movement in canned goods. On this market, for some time past, all the packers with the exception of one or two have been cutting with the result that these one or two could not sell and had to follow suit. Corn has been selling all the way from 90c. to $1.10; peas from $1.10 to $1.15, but tomatoes, which are very scarce, are being held firm at $1.10 to $1.15. Fruits are being held pretty nearly at former prices. Salmon and lobsters have been in active demand. Comparatively speaking lobsters are out of this market, but small lots are held at $8 to $8.50 per case. Old salmon is being got rid of as quickly as possible in view of new stock and is quoted at $1.50. New to arrive is quoted at $1.40.

SALT.

The market for Liverpool has just opened here with Liverpool at 47½ to 50c. and F. F. at $1.20 to $1.25.

GRAIN AND FLOUR.

The grain market is quiet but steady. No business was reported. Wheat firm; coarse grains unchanged. We quote: Wheat, No. 1, hard Manitoba, $1.20; No. 2, hard Manitoba, nominal; peas, per 66 lbs., 72½ to 73; oats, 33 to 34c.; barley, 40 to 45c.

The flour market is firm, and the demand is fair. Values are steady and tending upward. The sales reported on 'Change to-day were: 125 barrels patent winter at $5.50; 125 at $5.25; 125 straight roller at $5; 125 at $4.90; 500 bags choice superfine at $2.15; 205 superfine at $2. We quote:—Patent winter, $5.25 to $5.50; patent spring, $5.75 to $5.90; straight roller, $4.80 to $5.00; extra, $4.50 to $4.70; superfine, $4.00 to $4.40; fine, $3.25 to $3.75; city strong bakers, $5.45 to $5.50; strong bakers, $5.25 to $0.00; superfine, bags, $1.80 to $2.00; extra, bags, $2.10 to $2.25; fine, bags, $1.60 to $1.75.

EGGS.

There is nothing to note concerning eggs. The cool weather keeps up the demand, which continues equal to the supply. Prices from 11½@12c.

LOCAL PROVISIONS.

The local provision market continues unchanged. A quiet jobbing trade is being done at quotations, dealers being very firm in their views. Canadian short cut, per brl. $16.50@$17; Mess pork, western, per brl. $16.50@$17; Short cut, western, per brl. $16.50@$17; Hams, city cured, per lb. 11 1-2 to 12c.; Hams, canvased, per lb. 12 1-2 to 13c.; Lard, western, pails, per lb. 9¼c. Lard, Canadian, in pails, 8 1-2 to 8¾c.; Lard, C. O. P. 10 1-2c.; Bacon, per lb. 11c.; Tallow, com. refined, per lb. 6¼ to 6 1-2.

GREEN FRUIT.

Values are somewhat unsettled, as the big trade sales will fix the price for the future The prospects for these sales seem to be very good, as not only has the stock been landed in fine order but quite a number of outside dealers are known to be in the city already. We quote:—Valencia oranges, $7.50; Messinas, $4.00 to $4.25 per box; Floridas, $7.50 per box of 150; lemons, $2.25 to $3.50; cocoanuts, $5 per 100; yellow bananas, $1 to $2.25; pine apples, 10c. to 22c. apiece.

MAPLE SUGAR AND SYRUP.

Syrup is getting scarce, and small cans bring 70c., large 85c. per can. Sugar is worth 7½ to 8c. for fine small cakes.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—What to do with the old butter is becoming daily a more difficult question to answer. A car-load lot which some time ago was shipped on consignment to a lower port, has been brought back here with only 47 packages out of it. We quote as follows:—Old fall creamery, 19 to 20c.; summer, 14 to 18c.; old Townships, 10 to 14c.; old Western 7 to 12c.

CHEESE—There is no movement.

TO THE GROCERY TRADE.

The undersigned has been appointed Agent in the United States and the Dominion of Canada by

The Associated Tea Planters, Ltd.

OF LONDON, CAPITAL, £50,000.

Under the auspices of the Indian Tea Districts Association.

The object of the company is to push the sale of their product, feeling certain that when systematically brought to consumers' notice its merits will be so manifest as to give it the front rank in public favor, as is the case in Great Britain.

Roundly, the annual consumption in that country is 80,000,000 lbs. during last crop year This is the best answer to the twaddle about the excessive quantity of tannin in Indian tea. Consumers in England are no fools : they know a cup of good tea.

Supplies will be held in Canada and the States and the undersigned, or his assistants, will make regular calls on the Trade. Samples will also be promptly forwarded on application.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Mr. F. J. Gibson, of Bryant Gibson & Co., pickle and sauce manufacturers, has been in Montreal the past few days.

Mr. W. P. Innes, of the Simcoe Canning Co., has been in Montreal for some days on his annual trip.

Mr. John A. Moir, the well known canned goods broker, has removed to the Union Buildings St. Francois Xavier street, where he has secured larger and better appointed offices.

L. Chaput, Fils & Cie will receive in a few days per S. S. Michican, a large lot of sago and tapioca, which they are quoting to the t ade at a very low figure.

Mr. C. E. Sontum, of B. T. Babbit the great soap Manufacturer of New York, is at present in Montreal, introducing to the trade a larger package of their 1776 soap powder, to retail at 5c.

The S. S. Sicilian had on board a consignment of 15,000 cases of oranges and lemons for Messrs. Hart & Tuckwell of this city, probably the largest single consignment ever passed by the customs.

The city is at present invaded by the fruit men from all over Canada attending the fruit sales. Toronto, Hamilton, London, Brantford, Seaforth, and other places are represented.

Turner, Rose & Go., are advertising in another column their removal to the well-known grocery stand at the corner of St. Peter and Commissioners' streets. The premises have been refitted throughout, and are now the most desirable in the city.

The annual meeting of the Canada Cotton Company was held in Montreal, on the last day of April. The pcesident, Sir Donald Smith, occupying the chair. He read the annual report, which stated that the production had been on a larger scale than the previous year. The operations showed a satisfactory profit. The renewal of 8 per cent. bonds at 6 per cent., effected without a single dollar of expense, amounts to a saving of $6,000 per annum in the interest account. The report was adopted and the old board was re-elected.

It would appear that the English syndicate business is likely to find root in Canada as well as in the United States, and that all the Canadian cotton mills are to be absorbed. At least this was the rumor current in St. Francis Xavier street, the other morning. the figure named is $10,000,000. Mr. A. F. Gault is at present in England and it is affirmed that to accomplish such a result is the object of his visit.

There are now 300,000 bushels of American corn in barges in the canal basins awaiting transhipment to the steamships, a larger quantity of that grain than has ever arrived here by barges previous to the commencement of ocean navigation. Upwards of 100,000 bushels more are now on the way down from Kingston. The "Sardinian" and the "Oregon" began to take in their outward cargoes this afternoon, and when the "Lake Nepigon" and "Grecian" begin to load, the barges will be unloaded and return at once to Kingston. Both the St. Lawrence forwarding companies have already as much grain at Kingston and Ogdensburg, or on its way to those ports en route to Montreal as will keep their barges busy for the rest of the month.

About $12,000 damages were done by fire in the grocery of Mr. A. Corbeil, 1564 St Catharine st at 5 o'clock Monday morning, and Mr. Corbeil hinself and his two sisters who live above the store with him, had a very narrow escape. A policeman noticed smoke coming out of the store windows and tried to rap up the family. But when Mr. and the Misses Corbeil went to the front door they found nothing but fire and smoke and were driven back. Then they tried the back door and there again their exit was cut off by fire, so that they were obliged to seek refuge on the third story, where they remained at a front window until No. 6 ladder waggon arrived and rescued them from there perilous position. Mr. P. O. Cerat of the fire commision examined the premises and attributes the fire to rats gnawing at match boxes. Mr. Corbeil is insured for $5,000.

MUST PAY CASH FOR BREAD.

The principal bakers in Montreal have held two organizations meeting lately. They aim at doing away with the present credit system and substitute a strictly cash business. The flour merchants are the immediate cause of this movement, as they have refused point blank to supply bakers' who do other than a cash business. It will thus be seen that the bakers have no alternative but to insist of cash down for their bread. The bakers are in real earnest in their endeavors to adhere to a strictly cash basis as ruin has been staring them in the face by credit system. The plan of selling tickets to customers has been suggested as one likely to prove successful. One leading baker stated a few days ago that he has been carrying an account for a private family to the extent of $1,300. This last is an illustration that something ought to be done, and that right away.

MONTREAL TRADE SALES.

The revival of the auction trade sales is one of the most notable and important developments of the city's advancement as the commercial metropolis of the Dominion. Twenty years ago large tea, grocery, and drygoods sales were held here. They were attended by country merchants, who looked forward to these periodical auctions to supply their stocks. Then commercial travellers began to take orders in every town, as railways opened up the country and it soon became unnecessary for a trader to journey to Montreal. The trade sale business drooped, the Government auction tax damaged it, as prices were close and competition keen. The inauguration of the fruit trade sales a few years ago again brought the matter up and their rapid increase from a sale of 1500 or 2000 boxes to whole cargoes of 15,000 to 30,000 boxes, awakened attention to this mode of selling. Mr. Potter, the trade auctioneer, who conducts all these sales of cargoes of lemons and oranges and of teas, agitated persistently for the removal of the one per cent. auction tax, and succeeded in getting the matter put strongly before the Government by the Boards of Trade, English and French, and the Provincial Government abolished the duty. The railways, both the Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk, reduced their rates so as to make it an object not only for western as well as eastern Canadian merchants to come here, but Chicago and western American cities found it worth while to send buyers to the sales of Mediterranean cargoes. New York and Boston also have purchased. The fact is now established that during the season of spring and early summer, the fruit by the St. Lawrence route lands in splendid condition and keeps well. The steamship companies trading here and there agents take great care in handling the fruit, and everything is being done to cultivate the trade. The first arrival of the season is here now. The SS. "Avlona" will have her cargoe disposed of on May 7, another ship the "Sicilian," about two days later, then the "Barcelona" and other steamers. These sales are conducted with great rapidity and despatch, in regular New York style. The fruit is sold for spot cash and delivered at once. Direct cargoe sales of teas are looked for soon, conducted in the same manner. The route from Japan to Vancouver, thence by C. P. R. special fast freight to Montreal, must enable a large importer, to place fresh teas for public competition in a manner to draw just as large attendances and realize as successful results. The last sale of teas held by Mr. T. J. Potter was successful and every pound of tea in the catalogue sold without reserve. This sale was the first of the kind that had been held for many years. Large sales of other merchandise, such as boots and shoes, dry goods etc., are looked for. It is felt that Montreal should, to a moderate extent, at least, follow New York's example, and make trade sales a great feature of her business. It is the natural distributing point and with fair freight and passenger rates, by land and water, push, enterprise and good management liberal advertising, and honest dealing, it is considered success would be assured.—Star.

TENDERS.

SEALED TENDERS marked "For Mounted Police Provisions and Light Supplies," and addressed to the Honourable the Minister of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, will be received up to noon on Tuesday, 3rd June, 1890.

Printed forms of tender, containing full information as to the articles and approximate quantities required, may be had on application at any of the Mounted Police Posts in the North-West, or at the office of the undersigned.

No tender will be received unless made on such printed forms.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted Canadian bank check for an amount equal to ten per cent. of the total value of the articles tendered for, which will be forfeited if the party declines to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or if he fails to complete the service contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the check will be returned.

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

The Inland Revenue Department has recently issued a bulletin of about thirty pages which is devoted exclusively to the subject of baking powder and which shows that the majority of the goods in the market are adulterated and unfit for use. Prof. A. McGill, who has had charge of this important work for the Government, says that "imperial baking power is an excellent baking powder." A word to the sensible housekeeper should be suffcieut.

Goods conveniently located save time, money and temper in showing.

THE DUTY ON LIVE HOGS AND PORK.

The duty on live hogs, which has hitherto been 30 per cent., was changed last week to 2 cents per pound. It was thought necessary to make this change, in order to make the impost upon the live animals proportionate to the increased duty which under the recent tariff changes was levied upon hog products. The alteration was proposed by the Finance Minister, who explained that the 30 per cent. duty on the live hog was not equivalent to the 3 cents per lb. on the one class, and the 1½ cents. per lb. on the other of the dead product. This would equalize the duty and prevent the animals from coming into the country and being made into meat to be sold in competition with the Canadian product. It was shown that last year the number of hogs imported alive and slaughtered in bond yielded 4,854,475 lbs. of saleable product, on which an ad valorem duty of 20 per. cent. had been paid. This appeared to show that the duty even last year was considered lighter on the living animal than on the products, otherwise the products and not the live animals would have been shipped. Such an alternative of evading the payment of the duty contemplated upon pork that would compete with what was of native growth should not be left open, otherwise the additional protection given upon the products of our own producers would be unavailing. The products of the number of swine slaughtered in bond last year were consumed in our own country.

When the Tariff bill was under discussion previously, there was a difference of opinion as to the kind of pork that would come in under the duty of 1½ cents. per pound and 3 cents per pound. The Minister promised to bring down the definition. He did so the other night, and the following definition was embodied in the Bill : Barrelled pork in brine made from the sides of heavy hogs when the hams and shoulders are cut off and containing not more than sixteen pieces to the barrel of 200 pounds weight, shall be designated heavy mess pork. Upon this the duty is 1½c. per lb. Upon other pork the duty is 3c. per lb. The method of distinguishing mess pork from other barrelled pork is by actual inspection.

After considerable travail the duty on hogs and hog products has therefore been settled, so as to reconcile as nearly as possible the interests of the farmers and the lumbermen, and so as to equate the duty on the live animals and on the products.

WHOLESALE PEDLARS.

London, Ont., 5th May, 1890.

THE EDITOR OF HARDWARE.

SIR,—The encroachment of wholesale dealers upon the rightful trade of their recognized customers is a very real evil. It needs no argument to show that such a mode of doing business is evil in principle, for the practice of the thing is now present with us and its effects speak for themselves. There are travellers going through the country today who first canvass the trade of each town for replenishing orders, and then set out to supply painters, carpenters, and other workmen who use hardware articles as material or tools. Such mechanics are among the best local customers of the retail trader, when their trade is not thus taken up by wholesale dealers. The retailer is thus robbed of the best class of the current demand. His business shrinks while his stock accumulates, as it usually happens that in ordering he has reckoned upon the very trade that has been seized, and so is left with goods for which there is no call. When the time matures for remitting payment to the wholesale house, such retailer finds himself pinched to get the money, or perhaps fails to get it. What happens if he cannot get it ? The screws are put on, and he has to resort usually to some shift that puts off the hour of failure, or fail at once.

My own rule is to buy from no house whose representative has sold to consumers. It is not merely upon my experience of such travellers that I withhold my trade from their house. Substantiated accusations from brother retailers at two or three leading centres of trade suffice to convict a man of this practice and to bring upon him the forfeiture of my trade. It is only necessary for every trader to have such a reliable connection to be able soon to "spot" the peddling traveller. Such a reliable connection is no doubt the most useful when it takes the form you recommend in your leading article of last issue, namely that of association.

Yours truly,

B. OYCOTT.

Retailers have good reason for being incensed against wholesale hardware dealers who thus purloin their trade. It may, however be a good thing for retailers that some such irritant exists, as the friction of it may result in a large movement towards organization. In the letter of "B. Oycott" we are glad to see such an ultimate solution of the matter is looked to, and that the nucleus of organization—the exchange of confidential information—is already employed against the injustice. Those peddling travellers are poachers upon retail traders' preserves, and they can be checked only by one of two ways. One way is by organization, the other is by such an amendment of the Municipal Act as we suggested in our last. The latter would be a sure way if it were attainable and operative. Its attainment is doubtful, and its operativeness is dependent upon the question whether if the municipal power were conceded, the local council would pass the by-law. Once in force, certainly no traveller would go to the expense of buying a license in every township, village, town, and city. He would drop trade with consumers. Organization, however, has no such drawbacks as a means of extinguishing the evil. It should therefore be speedily adopted. Organization into Business Men's Association should be effected everywhere. Each department of trade could deal with the questions special to itself, and the hardware section could soon settle the evil now arraigned. A little mutual confidence, a little unanimity would soon do away with the interlopers who have thrust themselves between the retailer and the consumer.

THE VIADUCT SCHEME.

With singular unanimity the press of our city has supported the scheme proposed by the Board of Trade for the solution of the Esplanade difficulty. It is therefore the more surprising that a periodical of the age of the Monetary Times should be discovered throwing mud at those engaged in the furtherance of this important question. In a recent issue that journal undertook to lecture the Citizens' Association, and, following the example of the Wells Correspondence, assumes and asserts that an attempt is being made "to carry the viaduct with a popular hurrah," that "shouting at public meeting cannot help us to a decision," "no amount of talk can avail in the least," "there is something like a general consensus of opinion in favor of a viaduct, or rather there is a very strong acclaim in its favor," "it can scarcely be said that the preference is based on an intelligent comparison of cost, benefits, and advantages." And from a lofty pedestal of bloated self conceit, the same journal sapiently concludes with: "The only way the City Council can be effectually aided in this difficult case is by practical businesslike suggestions, which can be considered on their merits, and we trust in future those willing to render such aid will not lose sight of this essential fact." What reason can the Monetary Times offer for assuming such an impervious tone towards our citizens who are, at great personal sacrifice, striving to guard the city's rights? Personal sympathy for one who has made an egregious blunder should not induce a fairly sensible paper to plunge into such abject folly. When the statement is made that "it can scarcely be said that the preference is based on an intelligent comparison of cost, benefits and advantages," it bears upon it the stamp of ignorance, and shows clearly that the writer does not know the facts. Will the Monetary Times point out the features that have been overlooked in reaching an intelligent comparison of the costs, benefits and advantages? Those taking part in the effort to solve the problem will, we believe, gladly take up and fully consider the overlooked features. We venture to say, however, that never in the history of the City has a question been so fully and so carefully discussed and considered in all its aspects as this Esplanade problem, and we venture to say further, that several members of the Citizens' Association know more about this affair than the entire staff of our contemporary several times over. The writer says: "Either bridges or a viaduct we must have," and, "other things being equal, the viaduct would probably be preferable. But the difference is not so manifest, cost and all considered, as to justify sober people in shouting for the viaduct and condemning the rival scheme by a tumult of noise." Does this enlightened journal know that the City Council Committee rejected a resolution to procure the cost and damages of the bridge scheme, the Mayor declaring that it was dead and must be put out of further consideration? If the "City Council with whom the decision rests," declared the bridge scheme to be dead, and the Monetary Times be correct in asserting that either bridges or a viaduct must be built," the consistent position for that journal would be to advocate the viaduct. This is the real position. The bridge scheme is dead, the people must bury it forever, and the viaduct is the only solution consistent with a proper regard for all interests concerned. Sir. Sidney Waterlow said the other day; "The tracks ought to be elevated. I am surprised that level tracks were permitted, or that any one can be found to oppose such a sensible proposition as that of a viaduct. It must also be to the best interests of the companies that the tracks should be elevated." This is the opinion of a man who for twenty years has been a director of the London, Chatham and Dover Railway Co., of which company he has also been vice-president for the last ten years. Their road carries an enormous number of passengers yearly, runs some of the fastest trains in the world, and has more trains crossing the Thames in one day than the total number of those entering our Union Station in a week.

The Citizens' Association is doing good work and we desire to assure it that our people warmly appreciate its efforts, the assertions of the railway advocates to the contrary notwithstanding. The meetings held have demonstrated that the citizens not under railway influence are unanimously in favor of a viaduct, and this fact becoming so manifest is what is disturbing the minds of the railway people and their friends. It is becoming more apparent every day that the railways must yield to public opinion, that a fight with a quarter of a million people, backed up by the approval of the whole country, is an unequal war and must end in disaster for the companies. Our own opinion is, that this is the favorable time for the railways to make terms with the city. The trend of railway legislation for some time has been towards better protection for the public. In the course of a few years the companies will be forced to do these necessary works at their own expense. The future will never see them so fortified as they are to day. Public sentiment is against them, as well as against a journal depending for support upon rich corporations abusing individual citizens who are engaged in a just and commendable effort to protect and promote the best interests of our city.

CHATTEL MORTGAGES, BILLS OF SALE.

Ugly words these, aren't they? Not only to the man who gives them but to the holder too and still more so to the firm or individual who is foolish enough to give the credit under them. It is an old and true saying that it takes a fool and a knave to make a bet, and so it is with mortgages. No wholesaler compels a retailer to give him a chattel mortgage without saying to himself, "Now he's got to do as I say or I'll close him up.' And what after all does the giving of a mortgage or bill of sale mean in the commercial world? It simply means the declaration to all the wholesale trade, through the medium of the Mercantile Agency Change Sheets, that so and so having lost his credit, has been compelled to hand over his whole stock to some one else in consideration of his lending him a small sum of money or not pressing him at the present time for the accounts he owes him. It does not mean than this same wolf in sheep's clothing intends to keep Mr. So and So stocked with the goods his trade calls for. No, not by any means. On the contrary it generally turns out that a series of demands, accompanied by unpleasant suggestions, are made on the poor store-keeper, who goes around to the other wholesale houses begging for goods at any price, with no equivalent to offer them but the assurance that their wares will be immediately handed over to one of their competitors while his own ability to pay for them is away below nil. There are always a certain number of unwary ones who will get caught in the trap, but they are rarely houses who sell their goods at right prices. When, therefore, the goods are obtained, there is no profit made on them in competition with other storekeepers, and so matters gradually grow worse, until, finally after months of prolonged torture, our poor friend has to give in. His stock is sold by auction, and the wholesaler loses. Every one else is left entirely out in the cold, and feel angry at a man whom they would have been ready to help, had he come to them in a business like way and laid his difficulties before them, instead of giving one creditor the preference. MORAL—Never be fooled into giving a chattel mortgage.

The Inland Revenue Department has recently issued a bulletin of about thirty pages which is devoted exclusively to the subject of baking powder and which shows that the majority of the goods in the market are adulterated and unfit for use. Prof. A. McGill, who has had charge of this important work for the Government, says that "imperial baking power is an excellent baking powder." A word to the sensible housekeeper should be suffcieut.

Soap and water are cheap, but soil on goods is expensive.

Goods conveniently located save time, money and temper in showing.

Master the whole business and the way to fortune has been mapped out.

DISCRIMINATING DUTY ON TEA.

The trade is a unit in asking Congress to impose a duty of 10 per cent. ad valorem upon all teas, the growth or produce of the countries east of the Cape of Good Hope, when imported from places west of the Cape of Good Hope. It also asks that—

"Teas have been entered for consumption or warehouse, or that have been permitted to remain unclaimed, or that have been permitted to remain for any purpose in any country intermediate between the country of export and the United States, shall not be considered as in transitu through such intermediate country, but shall be treated as teas imported from such intermediate country, and be valued and rated for duty accordingly."

In 1882 the discriminating duty on tea was repealed. The section quoted above is similar to that adopted one year ago by the Canadian Government, for the express purpose of preventing goods being warehoused in United States bonded warehouses awaiting sale in Canada.

A comparison of importations for 1882, the year prior to the repeal of our discriminating duties, with the importations for last year, 1889, shows how quickly the British merchants have availed themselve of the advantages over our own people given them by our own laws.

Direct imports of teas for the year 1889 were only 9 per cent. greater than they were in 1882.

Indirect imports of teas via England for 1889 were over 132 per cent. greater than they were in 1882.

This enormous increase of indirect importations will inevitably continue to grow to the detriment of our direct trade with China and the East, unless some relief is afforded by Congress.

It is beleived that the passage of the proposed law will remedy the evils which now exist without adding to the customs' revenues or increasing the cost of teas to the consumers, as the effect of the law will be to compel foreign merchants to carry their stock of goods in the warehouses of this country, thus benefiting the many interests involved, besides placing the foreign merchant on a more equal footing with ourselves.—American Grocer.

PICTON TRADE.

The evidence of a much better feeling between the board of trade and the town council was plainly manifest at the meeting of the latter on Wednesday evening of last week. The president of the board of trade—W. Boulter, Esq.—by invitation addressed the town council in reference to what had been done in the way of negotiations respecting the Glenora ferry, and the reduced rates on the C. O. railway for a Wednesday market day, and his remarks were attentively listened to. He alluded, casually, to the friction which had previously existed between them, and expressed the hope that a feeling of antagonism should not exist, and that both should sink all minor differences and labor zealously and unitedly towards advancing the interests of Picton. The mayor, reeve, and two or three of the councillors expressed their satisfaction at the remarks made by Mr. Boulter, and the evidences he had supplied at the turn affairs had taken, and the council expressed their satisfaction —which is tangible proof that they are ready to work in harmony with the board of trade —so long as the latter are prompted by a desire to work for the promotion of the true interests of the town—by passing a hearty vote of thanks to its president.—Picton Gazette.

The outcome of the co-opeartion brought about between the municipal and the commercial bodies of Picton, appears in an announcement, published in the local press, over the signatures of the Mayor and the the President of the Board of Trade. The announcement is to the effect that the corporation and the trading community of Picton consider it desirable that the town should have two market days in the week, instead of one as at present; that all farmers and market gardeners are therefore invited to bring produce to the market every Wednesday, beginning with the 21st inst.; that citizens are expected to co-operate to make a success of the extra market day; and that the C. O. Railway have agreed to issue return tickets at one fare from all points below and including Trenton.

THEIR POPULARITY UNABATED.

On Wednesday last Messrs. W. Boulter & Sons, of the Bay of Quinte canning factories shipped three car loads of canned goods sold to Messrs. G. E. & J. Galt of Winnipeg. The last named firm has the finest wholesale grocery building in Winnipeg—an ornament to the city; and has very recently established a wholesale house at Vancouver, B. C., one of the car loads being consigned to that place. Another large consignment went on the same day to St. John, N. B. These facts show that the popularity of the goods turned out by the Bay of Quinte factories continues unabated. Mr. Boulter informs us that he has sent out to the Pacific coast twelve car loads in three years and gives The Gazette credit for first suggesting the idea of opening up a trade in that market. Several cases of goods were sent via San Francisco to Victoria before the C. P. R. was built, and the first car of canned goods was sent over the C. P. R., by this enterprising firm, and sold to Messrs. Welch, Rithet & Co., who shortly afterwards ordered five more car-loads and have since continued esteemed customers of our townsman. When we look at Canada to-day, banded together by a railway from ocean to ocean, we feel that we have a right to feel proud of our country.—Picton Gazettee.

SAMPLES FOR JAPAN.

Secretary Willis, of the board of trade, received the following from the Japanese consul at Vancouver, B. C.:

VANCOUVER, B. C., April 24, 1890.

DEAR SIR,—I have the honor to inform you that the principal citizens of Osaka, a large commercial town in Japan, have the intention to establish a commercial museum in that city, and asked me to gather several kinds of commercial samples which were produced or manufactured in this country.

I think their intention is a good way to encourage trade between both our countries, but owing to my not having any facilities for gathering them from the several districts in this country, I have the pleasure to ask you to take the trouble of sending me any information about your products or manufactures according to annexed note.

If you allow me to give the said information, and I find anything in it which would be suitable to said museum, I will again ask you to send them on payment of proper cost.

As a further inducement, if there are any merchants or manufacturers wishing to send several products or manufactures at their own expense for our museum I will be glad to receive them, and at my expense send them to Japan, and I would esteem it a favor.

I have the honor to be, yours truly,

(Signed) F. SUGIMURR,

Japanese Consul, Vancouver, B. C.

OTTAWA NOTES.

Business is unusually dull in Ottawa, and has been so for several months past. In his recent budget speech the Minister of Finance announced that he would have a surplus of over two million of dollars for the present fiscal year. This he declared to be an indication of the prosperity of the country. Perhaps the country is prosperous; but many merchants doing business here will not agree with him in that opinion. It is very encouraging for him, as head of the extensive institution under his control, to have his books show such a favorable state of affairs. But many business men, in this city at least, also had a surplus in their books on the 1st of May—in the wrong column, however.

Have you any dead beats out West? I hope not, but if you have I will take the liberty of suggesting a means of finding some of them out. It has worked well in this city. We have a retail grocers' protective association, and every member makes a list of the names of persons owing him not less than $5, but whom he believes can, but will not pay. All these lists are sent in to the secretary, who is pledged to secrecy. Then a general alphabetically arranged list is made by that officer, and one copy sent to every member of the association. We have a typewritten list containing over 500 names of bad pays. Our association is still in its infancy, and takes in only about one-half of the city grocers, but we hope to extend its jurisdiction to the rest of the capital before this year is over. The "black list, as it is called, has done good work, and it ought to be tried where it does not already exist.

Thanks for your publication of the constitution of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association. I was going to write you for a copy of it on behalf of our society here. Such organizations should exist in every city and town in the Dominion. Then what about a convention of delegates from the different local bodies once in a year? Many questions of importance to the trade, and of mutual benefit could be discussed.

A good deal of "moving" to new stands took place on the 1st May, especially among the smaller retail grocers, in this city. This is an indication of the unsatisfactory state of business, as everybody seems to be looking for fields new and pastures green. The number of "starters" is smaller than last season.

A correspondent in a recent issue of the GROCER suggests, as an inducement to people to buy for ready money, that a percentage be allowed on all cash purchases. The end in view is a very desirable one, but I believe it cannot be attained by the means suggested, at least by retail grocers. Your correspondent gives as an example: Two customers walk into your shop. Both buy for say $10 each. One pays cash, the other gets it "marked." The very fact that you enter any person's name on your book is evidence that you believe him to be honest. Giving the cash buyer a percentage, your correspondent say would be an inducement to the credit customer to buy for cash in future. The effect would be totally the reverse, because the merchant would soon lose all his family trade. Otherwise, the credit customer would say: I pay you every month and I am entitled to the reduction. Eventually the reduction would have to be given to everybody, and as your are aware, retail grocers cannot afford any reduction in their already very small profits.

ABOUT ORANGES.

Mr. Joseph H. Wright, a New York fruit dealer, of twenty-five years experience delivered a lecture on oranges in a Brooklin church last week, says the Merchants Review, replete with information, and the following extract is of special value:

The orange, or as it was called by the Ancients, the golden apple, one of the most popular members of the citrus family, is probably the oldest known fruit in existence, Zealous enthusiasts trace back even to the Garden of Eden, and insist that the grape or forbidden fruit was the original golden apple that Eve plucked from the forbidden tree and gave to Adam; hence the name, forbidden or grape fruit, by which one species of the orange is known to commerce. Some ignorant and superstitious people still claim that the dark spots usually found on the stem end of grape fruit are the imprints of Eve's fingers, which have appeared upon this species of orange ever since the fall of Adam. The true and original home of the orange, ancient historians and pomologists think is India. Galessa, who was the first to trace the history of the orange, asserts that the Arabs, penetrating farther into the interior of India than any other foreign nation had done before, discovered the orange flourishing there, and held in high esteem by the natives. So from the jungles of India the Arabs conveyed the sweet orange into Persia and Syria, and the bitter orange now called the Seville, found its way into Arabia and Spain. Although the orange made its first appearance in the fourth century, it was not until the fourteenth century that it became widely diffused and spread through Portugal, Sicily, St. Michaels and the islands of the Mediterranean and the West Indies, and not until the Spanish and Portugese landed and penetrated into this country did the orange find a home in the semi-tropical portion of America. While the orange was highly esteemed by the ancients for its medicinal qualities, it is surprising how little attention the present generation pay to the many virtues enclosed in this little golden ball of fruit. The lecturer said that a prominent physician once remarked, that were his patients to eat an orange or two every morning they would require but little medicinal attention, for throughout the entire range of fruits that have attracted the notice of the medical profession, as a means of alleviating many of the ills of mankind there has been found none that has so many diversified uses as the lucious orange.

THE SALMON OFFAL REGULATION.

One of the questions which have been agitating the salmon canners of the Fraser river during the past few weeks is the departmental regulation that hereafter no fish offal shall be deposited in the Fraser. It is estimated when the canneries are in full operation that the enormous quantity of ten tons of fish offal is allowed to enter the Fraser river daily, and it is obvious that if this mode of disposal were allowed to continue unchecked many years longer the effect would be as disastrous as the depositing of sawdust has been in the navigable waters of eastern Canada. The canners have represented to the department that they had not sufficient notice that such a regulation would be made this year, and, in consequence, they claim they have not had time to provide other means of disposing of the offal. The objection urged seems to be a reasonable one, and it is possible therefore that some relaxation in the regulation will be allowed this season; but next year the canners will have to strictly obey the law. Mr. Earle, M. P., himself one of the pioneers in the salmon canning industry, says there is a fortune for any enterprising individual who will start up an establishment for extracting oil from the refuse of the canneries.

THE INTERESTS OF THE RETAILER.

FLORENCE, May 5, 1890.

To the Publisher CANADIAN GROCER,
Toronto.

DEAR SIR,—Enclosed herewith please find Post Office order for amount of my subscription to CANADIAN GROCER for present year.

I may say that I am greatly pleased with the fairness and ability exhibited in its editorials of each week, and also by the choice of subjects, the greater portion of which have a direct bearing upon the interests of the "retailer," who can find in each issue pointers and suggestions really valuable to him in the practical management of his business.

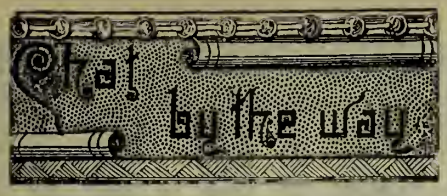
Wishing you continued success,

I am, yours respectfully,

WALTER DREW.

And now the white caps are after cut-price grocers. The following was recently received by a Newark, N. J., grocer:

April 19, 1890.



Grocerieman—If you don't stop cutting on prices you will be taken from your store in a month and twenty days from date and hung to a lamppost and whipped unmercifully.

Bogus coffee is a feature of Philadelphia trade. A contemporary, the Pennsylvania Grocer thus disposes of the matter:

The Bixel Brewing and Malting Company has been incorporated with a capital of $50,000. Headquarters, Strathroy and Brantford.

For the first time in many years all of the cigar stores had their doors locked, and the druggists refused to sell cigars, in Hamilton, last Sunday.

The store, dwelling, and post-office of Wakler & Reid at Ravenna village were burned on Thursday night, the 8th inst. loss $4,000, insurance $2,000.

Gibson Cook had the misfortune to lose his grocery stock in fire that visited Bradford one day last week. His loss is not known to us, but his insurance is reported to be $1,500.

The variety of corn to be admisssible free for ensilage purposes is thus described; Southern white dent, or horse tooth ensilage and western yellow dent or horse tooth ensilage corn.

The light is being rapidly handed on from one town to another in the Western States, as witness the many retail grocers' associations started among them lately. San Diego, Cal., has just added another to the number.

The other night burglars entered the store and telegraph office of Jacob Johnston at Allenford, and with tools taken from a blacksmith shop smashed open the safe and rifled its contents, obtaining a considerable sum of money.

Wallaceburg Business Men's Association has elected the following officers :—President, W. E. Amsden; vice-president, T. Fitzpatrick; sec.-treas., W. R. McKay; directors, T. B. West; W. H. Heath; W. E. Boulton and D. Dobie.

Mr. E. G. Williams of the firm of Warren Bros. & Boomer, sailed for England, this week. He will spend a few months abroad on a well earned holiday. His numerous friends, all over the Province, wish him a very pleasant and enjoyable trip.

At Sheffield, Sunbury county, N. B., fire broke out on Friday night in the store of Charles J. Burpee. The building and stock were destroyed, and McGowan's hotel, near by, was also consumed. Burpee's loss is about $6,000; insurance $2,600.

President Foran, of the Philadelphia Retail Grocers' Association, has appointed a committee to investigate the subject of artificial ice making. If feasible, the members of the association will form an independent ice manufacturing company.--GroceryWorld.

Mrs. Osborne, wife of John Y. Osborne, grocer, Hamilton, died on Monday, after a six months' painful illness. She was a daughter of Robt. H. Park, of the customs' department, and neice of J. H. Park, of Lucas, Park & Co. She had been married only about eighteen months.

The duty proposed by the budget-tariff of 4c. on pear trees and 5c. on pear trees has been reduced in committee of the house to 3c. in each case. Also flower bulbs of all kinds have been placed on the free list. Other additions to the free list are sumac and its extracts used for dyeing purposes.

John H. Hannan, who some days ago skipped from Moncton N. B., without paying his creditors, married a Miss Smith in that town two years ago. It has just been ascertained that he had another wife in Boston at the time, she having left him when he lived at St. John, soon after their marriage in the latter city in 1882.

At a largely attended meeting of the business Men's Association at St. Catharines it was decided to ask the council to submit a by-law to the people to grant the bonus of $80,000 and exemption from taxation for ten years to the Bowanville Organ & Piano factory, providing the city have sufficient security for the bonus.

A return was laid on the table of the House the other day showing that from 1st. Jan. to 16th. April, 1890 the quantity of eggs imported and exported to and from Ontario and Quebec was as follows:—Imported from the United States into Ontario $13,343, into Quebec $19,624; exported to the United States from Ontario $31,618, from Quebec $764.

"Philadelphia grocers have received circulars from a man named Hall offering bogus coffee for sale at prices that are a temptation to unprincipled dealers. The imitation berry, the circular says, will granulate like the genuine article, and when mixed with a proportion of 15 per cent of real coffee cannot be detected. There is a saving of one and one half cents a pound on the stuff.

For the first time in many years California is importing potatoes by the car-load from the East. The unusually heavy rains last season caused a heavy deficiency both in the quantity and quality of the potatoe crop on the Pacific slope. It is estimated that from 1,500 to 2,000 carloads of Eastern potatoes will be required to supply the California demand this season.

At a meeting of creditors of Messrs. Isbester Bros., Petrolea and Port Arthur, held at Toronto, inspectors were appointed and instructions given to advertise the stock of general groceries, etc., for sale. The total deficiency in the two establishments is $58,105. In the Port Arthur business the liabilities are $72,786 and assets $30,087, and at Petrolea, liabilities $34,681 and assets $19,273.

In the Belleville Police Court on Friday, Thomas Downs, sergeant of police, and A. H. Crosby, assistant fishery overseer, pleaded guilty to having pickerel in their possession during close season, and were fined $20 and costs—$2.95 each—or fifteen days in jail. James Chappes, who pleaded guilty to catching pickerel during close season, was let off, as the magistrate held that he had acted on the instigation of Downs and in ignorance of the law.

A Halifax, N. S., dispatch says : Jules Hamel, the largest general retail merchant in St. Pierre, Miquelon, was arrested on Friday, at the instigation of creditors, who believed that he was about to leave for the United States to escape paying his debts. Hamel's liabilities are said to be near $100,000. The largest claim is that of Albernell & Co., bankers of Paris, who are creditors to the extent of $40,000. De Long & Seamen of Boston figure for $5,000.

In a fire which broke out in Windsor last week the stock of tobaccos owned by Jacob Bristol was destroyed. The value of the stock was $3,500 of which $2,000 was covered by insurance. Loranger & Co., manufacturers of spices, were sufferers in the same fire. Their loss was $7,000, against which there is an insurance of $5,000. The fire is supposed to have been started by a coffee roaster which was smouldering during the night in the factory of the latter firm.

Mr. Joseph Kidd, sen., of Sioux City, Iowa, formerly of Dublin, Ont., died on Saturday last, after a short illness. He was for many years a prominent merchant and mill owner of Wiarton, and owned salt works at Goderich and Dublin. Two of his sons having left for Iowa to engage in business, Mr. Kidd left about ten months since to make his home with them, and died, as stated. In 1872 he contested South Perth with James Trow, M. P. for the Commons, but was defeated. Joseph Kidd, jun., is at present the owner of the Goderich salt works.

Early on Sunday morning a disastrous conflagration occured in St. Catharines, destroying six stores. The fire began in the lately vacated double furniture store run by F. W. Irwin, and owned by Thomas Orr. Though five lines of hose with abundance of water were soon playing upon the fire, they could not check it. The following stores were destroyed : Daniel McGuire's double brick stores, occupied by Parker's dye works and Thos. Orr's harness shop; Mr. Thos. Orr's double store, vacant; Mr. Ahlearn's brick store, occupied by D. C. McGuire, wholesale and retail liquor dealer; and

SUNLIGHT LARGEST SALE IN THE WORLD SOAP

Winner of THREE GOLD MEDALS in 1889---Paris, France, Ghent, Belgium, and Ottawa, Canada.

The Wide-Awake Grocer, even if he gets a smaller profit out of SUNLIGHT Soap than he does out of Inferior Soaps, recognizes the fact that the increased volume of business done by reason of keeping the BEST article, more than compensates for the smaller profit. The aim of every Grocer should be, to earn a reputation for selling THE BEST.

Young's barber shop. The cause of the fire is unknown. The insurance is said to be light.

The Sarnia Milling and Maeza Company commenced the manufacture of maeza in the company's mills last week. This is a new enterprise in Canada. A company was recently organized in Sarnia with a capital of $25,000, and a monopoly for fifteen years, to manufacture and sell maeza in the Dominion, was purchased from the patentee. Maeza has a white, flake-like appearance and is made from corn. It is used for culinary purposes in a variety of ways. In the United States it is used extensively, the supply in the market not being equal to the demand.

Burglars entered the general store of R, Trimble, Flesherton, Saturday, night and carried of goods amounting in value to about $300, consisting of small merchandise such as gloves, silk and linen handkerchiefs, gents fine shirts hosiery, combs, brushes, jewellery,etc. There is no clue to the theives. The burglars missed a roll of bills, amounting to between $200 and $300, which had not been placed in the safe. This is the third time Mr. Trimbles' premises have been burglarized during the past three years.

Ocean penny postage is one of the laudable measures which the Imperial Federationists are advocating. In the House of Commons Mr. Cockburn has signified his intention of questioning the Postmaster-General whether he has received any communication from the Imperial Federation League or from the Boards of Trade of Toronto, Montreal, Hamilton St. Thomas, St. John, N. B., Vancouver, and other corporations, urging the adoption of a penny postage system for the British empire and what action is contemplated thereon.

Senator Drummond will ask if there is a precedent in either Europe or America for the levying of a tax on tonnage for the support of a harbor police force, such as is levied at the port of Quebec, amounting to six cents per ton per annum; whether the Government is aware that the levy of this tax at Quebec alone has caused the United States to impose a tonnage tax of fifteen cents per ton per annum by way of reprisal on all vessels clearing from ports in the province of Quebec, while vessels clearing from Ontario ports go free, and he will enquire what steps the Government purpose taking to place Quebec vessels trading with the United States on the same footing as Ontario tonnage.

At the quarterly meeting of the New York State Retail Grocers' Association, resolutions were passed condemning the giving of prises with purchases, and urging local associations to do all in their power to suppress the practice. The Secretary was authorized to write to all manufacturers of grocery lines whose goods are sold in the Albany dry goods stores, to ask the manufacturers to decline selling to such dry goods stores. Resolutions were also passed, condemning the practice resorted to by some manufacturers, who under the guise of creating a demand for their wares, send pedlars throughout the country, whose sails are falsely represented to be supplied through the trade.

The Hudson Bay Company secured the great bulk of the contracts for general supplies for Indians in the Territories and in Manitoba. The company had a tender in for every item required. The following are the names of those who were successful :—I. M. Garland, Ottawa; H. B. Company, Winnipeg; G. F. & J. Galt, Winnipeg; A. Macdonald, Winnipeg; Ogilvie Milling Company, Winnipeg; Rosamond Woollen Company, Almonte; S. & H. Borbridge, Ottawa; J. P. Esmonde, Ottawa; H. N. Bates & Son, Ottawa; Stroud Bros., Ottawa; Hamelyn & Ayers, Lachute; N. L. Piper & Son, Toronto; T. & J. N. Andrews & Co., Thornbury; Smith & Ferguson, Regina, Joyner & Elkington, Fort Qu'Appelle.

Dry good pedlars have been doing the farmers in the neighborhood of Elora during the past week or so. It appears they tell the farmers that a merchant in a certain town perpetrated a fraud upon an insurance company by removing his stock, burning the building and recovering from the company the amount of insurance. The insurance company subsequently discover the fraud and get possession of the goods, and these men are supposed to be selling them for the company. They take notes at short dates, and tell their victims that Mr. Snyder, Canadian express agent, is their agent, and will accept butter and eggs at extravagant prices upon the notes. Mr. Snyder says that he has never seen and knows nothing whatever about the parties.

At the last meeting of the Calgary merchants, the cash system, the coupon system, the curtailment of credit, were all discussed. The Credit Committee reported that they had failed to arrive at any very satisfactory conclusion. While believing that a straight cash system would be the best for all, they felt that in a new country many of the settlers arriving from time to time are not in a financial condition to carry on new farms and ranches on a cash basis. They commend it as one that should be stopped by degrees. They recommended the curtailment of all accounts from December 1 to February 1, to enable the merchant to take stock on January 1 each year; that members of the association bring in to the secretary a list of delinquent debtors, giving the age of claim, whether large or small, the list to be opened to members for reference.

DIAMOND BAKING POWDER.

We forshadowed in our last issue that the late increase in duty on American Baking Powders' would give a new impetus in Canada to the development of this important branch of the Grocery trade. Among the first to recognize this fact, are the well known firm of W. H. Gillard & Co., Wholesale Grocers and proprietors of the Diamond Baking Powder and Spice Mills, Hamilton, Ont., whose advertisement appears in this issue. They unhesitatingly recommend this brand as yielding superior results to all ordinary powders and equal to any high price brands offered. In protecting the legitimate dealer by fixed retail prices, they make a new departure which should meet with the hearty approval and support of all retailers.

A Maine paper is credited with the statement that ground slate is "one of the neatest pepper adulterants," and it is an open secret that quite an extensive trade was carried on at the slate quarry at Saco, grinding and shipping slate to New York for the express purpose of increasing the pepper output.

A deputation, from the Retail Grocers' Association appeared at the last meeting of the Toronto city council, to ask that Monday the 26th inst instead of Saturday the 24th, be celebrated as the Queen's birthday. The reply of the Mayor was to the effect that it had already been determined to make Saturday the holiday.

TRADE SALES.

Thomas Burrows, of Hamilton, sold on the 8th inst., the bankrupt stock of groceries of the estate of M. McGuire, St. Catharines, for 78 cents on the dollar, cash, to C. J. Page, of Welland.

The general dry goods and clothing stock of Henderson & Clements, Georgetown, was sold by Suckling, Cassidy & Co., to Wm. McCracken at 41c. in the dollar.

The Victoria soap works, at Point Douglas, Man., were burned on Tuesday morning, and 500 pounds of soap was destroyed. The loss will be about a thousand dollars.

GROCERIES.

The week lying between the dates of our two last issues shows a better business than was done at the same time last year. Trade cannot but be tranquil at this season, and as long as movement is perceptible there is little disappointment. Seeding operations throughout the country, the strike in the city, and election excitement everywhere absorb attention that once free would go to the acceleration of trade. The continued scarcity of money is reflected in the lack of promptness complained of in meeting engagements. That, however, is felt simply as an inconvenience, as payment is usually made after reasonable grace.

CANNED GOODS.

The collapse of the price — agreement among the members of the Canned Good Association has affected trade more in corn than any other line. In fact it is not felt materially in any other line. Corn is now selling at $1, and even that price might be shaded for quantities. There is no other commodity in the canned goods stock that is so plentiful as corn. It also has the longest demand, consumption not being through with it until well on into October. This fact makes the supply of corn look large in comparison with that in other lines, and timid holders therefore hasten to cut. On peas there was also a perceptible relaxing of the Association prices, which has not been carried, however, to any demoralizing degree. The cut on tomatoes was particularly senseless, as packers were almost completely bare of stocks On other lines prices are firm. The Canadian Packers' Association is not a thing of the past, as many people seem to think. Some members of this body have not kept their agreement to maintain prices, and now all the members are selling at any prices they wish. The Association is still in existence, and will continue. There is plenty of work for it to do apart from the regulation of prices.

Messrs. Sloan & Crowther shipped this week an assorted carload of corn, peas and tomatoes to Victoria, B. C.

Advices by wire Friday stated that the union salmon fishermen on the Columbia river have offered to compromise with the canners at $1 per fish. Further than this brief statement no particulars were given, but the inference here was that the canners are still holding out stubbornly, either for 75c. or a compromise between that and the reduced price named by the fishermen. Meanwhile orders are being taken for a comparatively few brands only at fixed prices. Negotiations that have been going on indicate that there will not be a great deal of difficulty in placing the popular brands to the full extent of last season's pack of the same, however, at prices based upon 75c. per fish; otherwise to $1.30 to $1.35 f. o. b. on the coast, or say about $1.67½ to $1.72½, landed here for tall tins. At these prices the goods would doubtless fully hold their own against Alaska packs at 25 to 35c. providing, of course, the Columbia river people keep up the standard of quality.—N. Y. Bulletin.

COFFEES.

Trade is rather quiet, prices are firm and stocks light. The scarcity of Plantation Ceylon is a feature of the market, one that is very distinctly observable, as the call for that class of coffee is always a good portion of the current demand. Ceylon, however, has been high all year, and present prices are recorded in our Prices Current. The high prices sometime ago led to a postponement of buying in the expectation of lower figures, which have not come. The Ceylon is scarce in the English market, and therefore present prices are very firm, favored by light stocks here. In Rio, fine samples are scarce, though low grades are plentiful. Grinders are inquiring from one to the other. Java and Mocha are in smaller compass, in mild demand, and at fi m prices. Maracaybo is fairly plentiful and selling well.

A Rio cable says that the advance in English exchange in Rio from 21⅞ to 22d has interfered with the shipment of coffee in Brazil.

DRIED FRUIT.

The reported purchases, by English buyers in the New York market gave a stimulus to the trade in currants, and 5⅜c. have been paid for round lots. Orders are reported in New York from Canada at 4¾c. Jobbers are getting 5½ to 5¾ for barrels. Raisins have strengthened, Valencias bringing 8¼c. There is no substitute for Valencias, as Elemes are almost out of stock. Prunes are in very low supply, and prices are stiff. There has been a strong run upon them this season.

Mr. Arthur H. Scott, of J. L. Watt & Scott, Toronto, writing from Trieste under date 26th ult.,reports: "Stocks of prunes remaining here are only nominal. In prepared fruit a few thousand Atlas, of which six thousand boxes are under contract for New York at prices which Canadian buyers could not pay. A repeat order from New York at same figure as last contracts was to-day refused by Kabiglio, and no counter offer made. Mr. Antonio Granni, of Messrs. Enrico, Granni & Co., Leghorn, is in New York soliciting business for candied peels, and will be here at the end of month."

W. C. Bevan & Co., the prominent Malaga fruit packers, write, under date of April 24th, that "the weather the past winter and up to the present time has been favorable for the coming crop of raisins, almonds, figs, lemons, etc.; and as many new vines will come into bearing this season, we expect to see the raisin crop larger and the fruit much better than last season's productions." From Bordeaux it is reported that all indications point to quite as good a crop of prunes in France this year as was gathered in 1889. The number of bearing trees is larger, being increased by new ones that will make their maiden effort in 1890.

NUTS.

Trade is held in check by the same influence as that which depresses business in foreign fruits, namely, cool weather. The bright sunny days favorable to excursions, pic nics, etc., are the days of rapid consumption. There has been some enquiry, however, for Brazils at 12c. Peanuts have advanced ½ cent higher in Norfolk.

RICE AND SPICES.

A very quiet trade has run through the week, and prices have not varied from those standing last week. In rice the season's trade has not opened fairly yet. In many of the spices, as cloves, allspice, etc., trade will be quiet until the fruit season is here.

Wholesale dealers are reported to have made an agreement to maintain uniform prices for rice. The price arranged is, one to five bags, $3.65; five to twenty-five bags, $3.60. Over twenty-five bags there will be no limitation upon the dealer, the price being at his discretion. The arrangement will go into operation on May 15.

SUGAR.

The prices of white shed another eighth on Monday. Granulated is now quotable at 6¾ to 6⅞c. Our prices show all whites down an eighth. The reduction here followed the last in New York, which brought the price there another sixteenth lower on Saturday, leaving granulated 6c. in that market. On yellows dealers are shading prices slightly. Quotations for the moment are 5¼ to 5⅜ for lowest, 5½ to 5⅝ for medium, 5⅞ to 6¼ for very bright. There are more low grades in receipt than has been the case in any former part of the season. The amount of raw is very small, and the demand is rather slack for it. There has been some trouble over recent arrivals of raw. Buyers have refused to accept delivery on the ground that the stock is not up to the sample, being wet, instead of dry and grainy as was the sample. The fall in prices has not stimulated business so far. One yield only whets expectation for another.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Both syrups and molasses keep going out, though they make no very distinct current in trade. The position of either has not changed in the least since last week. Prices are where they were then.

TEAS.

A San Francisco despatch says that advices from Japan report the price of tea to have materially declined. In this market low-grade and medium Japans are getting very scarce. The business in Congous has been good, several fair-sized lots having recently changed hands. There has been a fair business transacted in Indian teas, the demand for them is increasing. In London the market is strong for all good to fine teas selling at ½ to 1c. advance, but the tone is easier for the lower grades. Very large supplies have been offered and many gardens have sold their final invoices. Ceylon teas are equally in demand with Indian locally. In London, good liquoring Ceylons are dearer, while finest lines have been specially well competed for. The average is slightly over 10¼ as compared with 10¼ last week.

PETROLEUM.

The strong opposition of sunlight was felt less during the last week than in former weeks for some time. Cloudy rainy weather very appreciably lifts the rate of consumption in the course of a week, when the range of observation extends over a large city. Prices are indicated in Prices Current.

DRUGS AND CHEMICALS.

The spring has got fairly towards its close, with fewer than usual of the unhealthy accompaniments that stimulate the trade in drugs. There has been a very moderate amount of sickness for the season, and there has been a correspondingly dull business among the apothecaries in even the household medicines. The big trade done in the days of "la grippe" is a standard still kept in sight, and the contrast makes current trade look duller than it is.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

The plethora of butter that is unsaleable at paying prices, moves off very slowly at the low figures buyers care to offer for it. Some holders have reduced their large stock through timely acceptance of offer that were made last week. Those who are thus partially unloaded declare their intention to select the class of butter they will deal in. There is still an undesirable abundance of old tubs, however, that will be at the service of any buyer for from 5 to 8c. The new dairy tubs are coming in slowly. The grade of butter averaged in them is but medium, and dealers are satisfied with 13c. There is no creamery in yet. The shape most popular with makers just now is the large roll. The market is fairly bombarded with large rolls. They include old and new butter, and are often a mixture of both. They sell at 11 to 13c. There is a large quantity of mixed in tubs and boxes, now coming into stock, at prices of 10 to 12c. Although there is much bad, there is also a very fair supply of reasonably good butter in the form of pound rolls. In these the bulk of the new butter appears. Pound rolls are quite plentiful, and sell readily at 15 to 17c. Their quality entitles them to a better price, but the immense stock of low-grade butter tends to keep prices down. The want of the market is good new tub butter.

Cheese has not varied from the steady price it has gone off at for so long a time. It is still 8½ to 9½c. for the early summer make, and 10½ to 11c. for late summer and early autumn stock.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—Only the finest of the year's crop are now marketable. The unstable weather of last winter was so unfavorable to the keeping of apples, that only the best stock could be tided over for so late a market. Also, the high prices ruling since the crop was gathered, tended to bring the lower grades sooner into consumption. At all events, culls have now disappeared. Not only is the remainder of the crop very choice, but it is very limited. Prices are therefore high. The supply is in a few hands, and these rule the market. There are no longer any car loads bought. Broken lots run from $4.75 to $5. Out of store lots are $5 to $5.50, and for very fine stock $6.

BEANS—The prices are growing stiffer. The demand at present is an aggragate of many small orders, no body wanting a large supply, but many wanting small supplies. The stock is becoming scarce, and prices are as a consequence good. Small lots go off at $1.65 to $1.75, and large ones at $1.50 to $1.60.

DRIED APPLES—There is a steady demand which is rapidly lowering the stocks of holders. Dealers here are paying 5 to 5¼c. for new, and 4¾ to 5c. for old. They prefer paying the highest figure to secure good bright stock, which is now at a premium on account of the preponderance of darker samples. One dealer refused an order for two cars at 5c., holding for 5¼c. The buyer's offer was accepted at some outside point.

EVAPORATED APPLES—The demand is on the increase, and is so far supplied from full stocks. Prices are firm at 8 to 9c. for old, and 10 to 11c. for new, and 12c. for the finest. There is now more old stock than new.

EGGS—The supply is still behind-hand. Prices are firm and evince a disposition to advance. They are now 11 to 11½c., with some purchases at 12c. There is a good market.

HAY—The market is in about the same position as it was last week. The prices for No. 1 are $10 to $11, and for cattle hay $5.50 to $6. For the latter there is no longer any demand, as most of the stalls in the country are empty since herbage began to grow.

HIDES—The scarcity noted last week continues to hold prices up. Green steers' hides are yet 5½ for No. 1, 4½ for No. 2, 3½ for No. 3. Cows' are 1c. lower in each grade. Cured are firm at 4¼c. The season is one of scant supply, and the American demand has been active in anticipation of a heavy import duty.

HONEY—Stocks are full. The demand is quiet, consumption being engaged with dried and evaporated apples, canned fruits, maple molasses, etc. Prices are 11½ to 12½c. for clear, and 14 to 16c. for comb.

HOPS—Stocks are too large for prices to go up. A large surplus of the '88 growth is still on the market with a great portion of the '89 growth. Consumption continues at its normal rate. Yearlings are 10 to 12c. New are 13 to 15c.

OATS—The week's arrivals have been about up to those of other weeks in the seeding season. Prices on track are 36 to 37c.

ONIONS—There is great difficulty in getting a barrel. The condition of the little stock there is is generally poor, and any good there is to be had is held too high for trade. They run from $3.50 to $4.75.

POTATOES—The condition of the market indicates that the local farmers are sold out of their surplus. At all events, there are fewer coming in, and the market here is now good There is a strong outside demand, and dealers at other centres may be accumulating stock. Carloads here are firm at 60 to 62c. Lots out of store are 70 to 75c.

Mr. James Frame bought ten car loads at outside points towards the close of last week, paying 50 to 55c. on spot.

SEEDS—All interest for this season has pretty well passed away from the market for clover, timothy, and alsike. Most of what was wanted for seeding has been bought. The prices, however, are unchanged, red clover from $4 to $4.15, timothy from $1.87 to $1.95, alsike $5.10 to $6.90. For corn there is still a demand, and the prices remain 60c. for select yellow horsetooth, 62c. for red cob ensilage, and 70c. for giant prolific sweet ensilage. Hungarian seed and millet are now in demand, and each sells at 75c. per bushel.

SKINS—The market is firm in the position reported last week. Sheepskins are scarce, and bring $1.25 to $1.60. No. 1 calf is 7c., and No. 2 is 6c.

STRAW—The arrivals are steady, and prices are unchanged. They are $5.50 to $6 for pressed, on track.

TALLOW—Rough is 2c. Rendered is 5 to 5¼c.

WOOL—Pulled brings 30c. for extra-super., 25 to 26 for super., and 24c. for lowest. Fleeces are 22c. There is not much now marketed.

FISH.

Now that white fish and salmon trout are getting more plentiful, the prices are declining. The stock on hand is much larger than that of last week, but not large enough to supply the demand. The consumption of trout and white fish is strong, and the catch at present is not up to the demand, but in the course of a few days will be much larger and up to the requirements of the market. The prices for the week are: White fish 6 to 6½c. per pound, Salmon trout 6 to 6½c. British Columbia salmon 17 to 18c. Lake herring $2.50 to $2.75 per hundred by count, and fresh pike 5c.

GREEN FRUIT.

There is a smaller business done than dealers usually do at this season, or than that reckoned upon a few weeks ago. The cold weather has rather a blighting effect upon the trade in Southern fruits, and the backwardness of the present spring has been consequently unfavorable to selling. There is a fair movement of fruit, but not what was looked for. Oranges are higher, and cannot be bought now in the foreign markets at the prices retailers have to give for stocks here. The Floridas here are extremely few and will disappear from our quotations after this issue. The few on the market are India River in 96-boxes, which sell at $4.50. The Valencias are almost done, what are to be had going at $6.50 to $7. Messinas are plentiful at $3.75 to $4.50. California and Washington navels are $6. Lemons are $4.50 to $5 for fancies, of which the Cuccios again on the market are the dearest, and 360's are $4. Bananas may be classed as large and small, including both colors under each class. Large bunches are $1.75 to $2, and small ones $1 to $1.50. Pine apples are $1.75 to $2.40.

PROVISIONS.

Buying continues active, the same eagerness to make the most of the present state of the market being observable. The demand is strongest for smoked meats and short-cut, which are more in season for summer consumption.

BACON—Long clear is 8½c.; breakfast is 11 to 12c. for bellies, and 11 to 11½c. for backs; roll is 9½c.

DRESSED HOGS—The large arrivals of last week weakened the market, and the supply this week is too liberal for a recovery to take place at once. Dressed hogs are wanted, but not to so large an extent after the packers have closed, so that the market is easily overloaded. The best price is now $7.

HAMS—Smoked are 12c. Sweet pickled are 11c.

LARD—In 20 pound pails is 10c., and in 50 pound tubs is 9 1-2c.

MESS PORK—Heavy is $16, and shortcuts are $17.

SALT.

The business in salt for the week is much larger than that of last week, as will be noticed from the following sales. The prices still keep firm. The transactions reported by the Toronto Salt Works for the week are: 2 car bbls. salt at $1.37; 2 cars dairy at $1.18. 1 car coarse sacks at 68c. Smaller quantities are selling at $1.45 for coarse salt in bbls; 85c for sacks, and 45c for ¼ sacks. Land salt is selling at $7.00 per ton.

DRY GOODS.

Business has picked up somewhat, and seems to be at the beginning of a mend. The sorting trade is yet too slow for the patience of the wholesalers, but it is better than it was. The election excitement disturbed trade a good deal at a time when there was none too much activity in it. Prices in all lines are steady. The formation of a cotton syndicate is reported to be proceeding to a successful issue. In case it becomes a fact, the mills of the country will all fall into the hands of a firm of American capitalists, and prices will be more assured, though they are firm now.

Evaporated Apples

LAME DUCKS.

A good deal of ink has been spilled in the past ten years in the various trade journals upon the scope and future of the grocery movement. We have had our little say, occasionally, upon this topic. We have always believed that the progress of the grocery movement would depend in a great measure on the intelligence and enterprise of the young men who are now holding positions as clerks in the retail stores of the country, for from this class will undoubtedly come the future merchants. Hence we may expect that the grocery trade will gradually pass into the control of experienced dealers who will lift the business upon a higher plane than it has yet reached. As the trade itself progresses the associative movement may also be expected to progress until the whole country is thoroughly organized and any expression of the wishes of the members will have due weight with legislators whether State or national. There is danger, however, that the budding merchants who are now clerking it with ambitious dreams of the future may be tempted to brave the storms of mercantile life without proper ballast in the shape of adequate capital. This is the evil which they must chiefly guard against. There are too many lame ducks in trade at present, who are literally slaves of the jobbers, and linger out a miserable existence until the latters' patience is exhausted and the sheriff closes the scene. Their slavery is less degrading than that of the Southern negro in ante bellum days, because they carry no signs of it in public, and they have the advantage of the latter inasmuch as it is a voluntary enslavement, but they would lead a much more contented existence if they were working for others and escaped the anxieties and responsibilities of ownership, or rather apparent ownership of their stores. Too little capital and too sanguine expectations are the causes of the failure of these lame ducks in business. The fortunate ones by unusual luck or phenomenal energy manage to establish themselves successfully, but they are few in numbers compared to those that either quick y fail or linger on for years. As the lines dividing the large drygoods stores and the retail grocery stores are narrowed, the life of such unfortunates isrendered more and more precarious, and their successors who enter business no better equipped must expect a much more brief career. We therefore urge the ambitious clerk to carefully weigh his chances before crossing the Rubicon, and to defer his attempt until he has acquired sufficient capital.—Merchants' Review.

Messrs. Fraser & Co., London, have bought out the cigar manufacturing business of Olmstead Bros., on Dundas street in that city. Mr. Olmstead is retiring on account of ill health.

Every line of goods embodies a history and a science worth years of study to understand.

The undersigned has been appointed Agent in the United States and the Dominion of Canada by

The Associated Tea Planters, Ltd.

OF LONDON, CAPITAL, £50,000.

Under the auspices of the Indian Tea Districts Association.

The object of the company is to push the sale of their product, feeling certain that when systematically brought to consumers' notice its merits will be so manifest as to give it the front rank in public favor, as is the case in Great Britain.

Roundly, the annual consumption in that country is 80,000,000 lbs. during last crop year This is the best answer to the twaddle about the excessive quantity of tannin in Indian tea. Consumers in England are no fools : they know a cup of good tea.

Supplies will be held in Canada and the States and the undersigned, or his assistants, will make regular calls on the Trade. Samples will also be promptly forwarded on application.

DRY GOODS MEN AND SHORTER CREDIT.

Mr. S. Caldecott presided at the meeting of the dry goods section of the Toronto Board of trade, held on Monday afternoon. There was a good attendance of the members. A letter was read from the Wholesale Dry Goods Association of Montreal, in which the Association expressed its willingness to shorten credits when all wholesale houses doing an annual business of $100,000 or over concurred in the proposal. It was glad to observe that public opinion was evidently in favor of shortening credits. The reports prepared by assignees employed on bankrupt estates were next discussed. It was the opinion that at present the reports were not sufficiently full to give creditors all necessary information, and that it was desirable to amend the Ontario Relief Act by inserting a clause compelling assignees to give a complete report of each estate in which they were called upon to act. The question of the liabilities of railway and steamship companies, with reference to shortages, was next considered, but further action was deferred.

The proprietor and employes of what is known as the Associated Tea Company have been summoned to answer to a charge of breach of the Lottery Act in Ottawa. This is the well known scheme of selling packages of tea with prizes and blanks, mostly blanks, contained in them.

The case of Escott v. Adams, is an action in the Middlesex assize court brought by T. B. Escott, of Hamilton, against G. C. Adam's of Leamington, to set aside the sale of a grocery business. The defendant was in the grocery business in Leamington, and his brother, E. Adams, was to go into partnership, but instead bought out the business and conducted it on the same premises. It was argued that there was an attempt to defraud. Verdict for plaintiff.

On Monday morning it was discovered that thieves had plundered the house of Mr. Fitzgibbon, grocer, corner of Ridout and York streets, London. Mrs. Fitzgibbon's room was found to have been disturbed and a satchel containing $70 and a number of valuable receipts were missing. The family have come to the conclusion that the ladies heard the intruder after he had entered the house, gone upstairs and secured the booty, and that he was probably closing the door after him when the noise was made. So far not the slightest clue has been obtained as to who the burglar is.

Mr. Frank Day, a traveller for the wholesale grocery firm of Stuart, Harvey & Co., Hamilton, has been arrested on a charge of embezzlement. The arrest was made on Saturday night by Private Detective Gates, and Mr. Day was taken before the Police Magistrate, and after being remanded for a week driven to the county gaol. The amount of the embezzlement is said to run up to over $1,000. Mr. Day has always been exceedingly popular. His home is at Leamington, where his wife and two children reside. He was in the employ of the firm of John Stuart, Son & Co. for eight years, and when the present firm took charge of the business continued in their service.

At a meeting held a few days ago, of the creditors of Mr. Burgess, the Mimico canner, whose failure, it will be remembered, took place about a year ago, an effort was made on behalf of Mr. Burgess to secure a settlement, but without success. During the week the assignee, Mr. Gardner, had two cases before the Queen's Bench Division for the purpose of recovering certain lands alleged to have been conveyed to Mrs. Burgess prior to the failure. The first case, involving property valued at between $9,000 and $10,000, was declared in favor of the plaintiff, but in the case seeking the recovery of 5¾ acres, judgment was given for the defendant. The creditors have already been paid 35c. on the dollar, and it is anticipated that they will get another 30c.

Some misunderstanding having arisen among merchants in reference to the collection of duties which have been changed since the first draft of the tariff resolution was presented to the House on budget night, Mr. Brown, M. P., interviewed the department on Monday in reference to the matter. Copies of the revised tariff will be forwarded to collectors immediately the bill has passed both Houses, when any existing difference between the department and importers will be adjusted. If merchants have paid an excess of duties the amount will be refunded to them, while those who may have paid short amounts, will be required to amend their entries.

THE CANNED GOODS LAW.

Her Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate and House of Commons of Canada, enacts as follows:—

In this Act the expression "package" means every can, tin or package in which articles or goods are put up for sale, and which are closed by being hermetically sealed. 48-49 V., c. 63, s. 1.

Except in the case of goods packed previously to July 20, 1885, every package of canned goods sold or offered for sale in Canada, for consumption therein, shall have attached thereto or imprinted thereon a label or stamp, setting forth in legible characters the name and address of the person, firm or company by whom the same was packed, or of the dealer who sells the same or offers it for sale.

Every such package containing goods prepared from products which have been dried previously to being so prepared, shall, in addition, be labelled or stamped with the word "soaked," which word shall be plainly printed diagonally across the face of the label in large, legible type at least half an inch in height and three-eighths of an inch in width.

Every person who sells or offers for sale any such goods in violation of any provision of this section shall, on summary conviction before a justice of the peace, for a first offence incur a penalty of two dollars for each such package, and for a subsequent offence a penalty not exceeding twenty dollars and not less than four dollars for each such package in respect of which any such provision has been violated. 48-49 V., c. 63, s. 2.

Every person who places on any package any label, brand or mark which falsely represents the quantity or weight of the contents of such package, shall, on summary conviction before a justice of the peace, incur a penalty of two dollars for each package on which the quantity or weight is so falsely represented; provided always, that a variation under the rate of three per cent. shall not be deemed a violation of the provisions of this section. 48-49 V., c. 63, s. 3.

Every person who places on any package any label, brand or mark which falsely represents the date when the article or goods contained therein were packed, shall, on summary conviction before a justice of the peace, incur a penalty of two dollars for each package on which such date is falsely represented. 48-49 V., c. 63, s. 4.

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

OVERMUCH PEDDLING.

A few weeks ago the Retail Grocers' Association of this city sketched the course of action it proposed taking to bring about a more adequate regulation of the peddling trade. That course is now being proceeded upon. Each member of the Association collects the signatures of customers as they call at his store. These signatures are affixed to a petition to the council in which the signers complain of the annoyance suffered by householders from the incessant ringing of their door bells, the crying in the streets, the blowing of horns, etc., by pedlars. When the Association has obtained the returns of signatures from each of its members, the total number of such signatures under the petition are to be submitted to the city council. The evidence that peddling is an abused privilege being thus supplied from an unprejudiced popular source, the grocers are in a position to offer suggestions as to the best means of diminishing the grievance complained of in the householders' petition. The Association has its suggestions ready. They are in the form of proposed amendments to the city by-law relating to pedlar's licenses. They were mentioned in our report of the April meeting of the Association. Briefly, they recommend that $10 be the fee charged for a foot pedlar's license; that fees for one horse conveyances be $50, licensing but one person; that two horse conveyances be charged $75, only one person to go with the wagon; that additional persons with each class of conveyance pay a foot pedlar's license; that badges be worn; that the penalty for violation in each case be a fine at least equal to the fee evaded. The document in which these changes are proposed is to be signed by all the members of the Association.

The Association's appraisement of the pedlar's franchise is certainly moderate. Compared with rates collected in the leading American and some Canadian cities it is very low. An immigration to this city of the Hamilton street vendors of fruit may be looked for if the present local license fee is not pushed up. In that city it has lately been raised to many times what the city of Toronto charges. The lowness of all pedlars' license fees here is multiplying the number of itinerant traders until competition among themselves is playing havoc with prices. The natural born issue of price cutting, roguery of one sort or another, then comes upon the scene. One of the evils that a license system is supposed to protect the public against, dishonest trade, is thus the direct outcome of cheap licenses. If no license fee were charged, the peddling trade would become vagabondish, everybody would soon so regard it, and so be on guard against fraud in it. A licensed peddling trade is trusted, however, and is thus in a position to do wrong if the disposition or the provocation to do so exists. The provocation exists in this city in the immense number of competitors doing business against each other on our streets, as it is comparatively easy for any man to be a competitor. The equivocal use of the term 'bag' by the pedlars in their potato dealings shows how ready they are to take a dishonest advantage to offset the shrinkage in price that a cut up trade forces upon them.

As the city gets larger, the privilege of doing a house to house trade in it becomes more valuable. There are more customers to sell to, there is more cost in the maintaining of streets, etc., used by pedlars, there should be, therefore, more money paid by pedlars. The license fees of this city have been stationary while the city has been remarkably progressive. If they were just at the time of their establishment they are too low now. The regulation of the peddling trade, we think, does not consist simply in requiring all who engage in it to take out license. The pedlar has a right to some protection, there should be some check on the issuing of licenses that will secure to the licensed value for the money that he pays. To license everybody that is eligible under so easy a system is likely to be dishonest. If the right to a fair proportion of the peddling trade in this city is worth $25, the city council should see that a man who pays for it gets the worth of his money. He does not get what he buys if so many pedlars are licensed that each gets but a small portion of what he should get. It is not fair to the pedlars that there should be unlimited licensing. The way to stop it is to put on a higher license fee, and we hope the city council will see its way to adopting the amendments submitted by the Association.

AMENDMENT BY FREE WILL.

Voluntary internal reform is a thing there is too little of these days. It is about the most thorough going and earnest sort of reform there is. Improvement nowadays in spheres that lie outside of the action of statute law usually comes late, but when it does come it can mostly be depended on. There is always necessity leading to such self improvement, and the improvement will be partial or full in the degree that the recognition of improvement as the means of meeting the necessity is partial or full. When the moral purgative is self administered, even from no higher motive than that of policy, the treatment is sure to prove healthful. Trade association is the outcome of such inner promptings towards the uplifting of a common cause, and is on that account believed in by us. If law existed to compel traders to do some of the things they are brought to do by the corporate will of an organized assemblage of themselves, law would be only imperfectly successful. There would be evasions, there would be circuitous ways of attaining the forbidden end, there would probably even be association to thwart the purposes of the law. This would be the case for some time at all events, until what was enacted had become worked into a custom. At the outset, from the bulk of traders conformity would be a perfunctory matter. The one thing lacking is voluntary motive.

There are problems which can be solved by no means other than the enlistment of free-will among the individuals who are concerned. Will is no longer free after it is enlisted, but the impulse to enlistment is supposed to be free. It is only by use of such a resource that trade can be sloughed of those incrustations that one after another have been allowed to become adherent to it. Association once entered into ought to be as firmly depended on and as staunchly maintained as popular protective law. Such a conception of association as yields duty and loyalty to the common body is the only one that can accomplish the aims that have brought it into existence.

A case wherein voluntary association that promises to do good both to the fraternity and the public is now furnished by the pedlars of Boston. These have organized for the elevation of their trade. The union is for the upholding of the respectability, honesty and civility of pedlars. Correct measures and reputable methods are to be maintained. Every member is to bear a conspicuous badge, and the public are requested to give notice to the secretary or president of any wrong done by a pedlar. Such an association must be helpful. By-laws are known to be inadequate to effect the objects that are sought to be attained by the association. Not only is such a movement supplementary to the civil law, but it in part supersedes it, inasmuch as aims that are kept in sight by the law are realized another way by voluntary concerted action. These pedlars thus associated, will be the means of weeding out the most objectionable members of their vocation, and will thus work in the interests of the shop traders. This is a good application of the gregarious principle and we wish it existed here for the same ends.

AN INSURANCE IDEA.

GELERT, May 7, 1890.

DEAR SIR,—I have been taking the advice given in your paper some time ago, viz: Taking stock in warm weather, with results equally satisfactory to myself and creditors. It was a timely hint, worth money. Cannot the retail trade of Ontario combine and form a Mutual Insurance Company? The present rate, 2 per cent. is excessive. Perhaps some of your subscribers will give their opinion upon this.

Your paper is like an old friend, always welcome.

Yours truly,

J. W. WATSON.

We are glad to hear that our theory as to the proper time for taking stock is upheld by the results of a practical application of it. We are thankful to our correspondent for making known the facts of his experiment. In the reciprocity of ideas it is now our turn to give attention to the one proposed by Mr. Watson. It is that relating to the formation of a mutual insurance company, whose members shall be the retail traders of the country.

This idea is an attractive one. There is a stock objection with which every new proposal to solve old questions is usually met. It may be anticipated at the outset of any consideration of Mr. Watson's insurance suggestion; it is the objection, born of indolence and faint-heartedness, that the thing is impracticable. Such a criticism can be admitted only after the thing has been examined and tried. It is too soon, therefore, to give way to it yet, or even to make answer to it.

First, is such an organization wanted, on economic grounds? Is insurance too costly or too insecure without it? There are items in the cost of insurance as it is at present made up that could be saved to the trade if it had fraternal insurance. One is, the salaries of agents. A traders' mutual insurance company would not need the expensive army of middlemen that now subsist on the insured. A second saving would be in the buildings. The putting up and maintaining of large offices at centres and branches would be unnecessary. In the third place, there would be a saving on account of the more nearly uniform character of the risks. When the property to be insured is solely that relating to stores there will not be necessary so much levelling up of the rates to avoid the danger of making them excessive for factories, public houses, etc. The risk will be further minimized as the movment, now waxing, towards shorter and smaller credit gains ground. That movement will reduce the temptation to speculative incendiarism. In spheres outside of the commercial, a limitation of credit will not be so full an offset to this criminal practice. Farm houses and dwellings on which nothing was owing might be burned for advantage, but hardly a store-stock on which little was owing, and of which the insurance was value assessed by men in business themselves and conscious of having the damages to pay out of their own pockets. The insurance would be apt to bear a fairer relation to the movement of the stock than it does at present. The two per cent. rate that has now to be paid would shrink very close if not all the way to one per cent, if there were no agents, no buildings, if the policy-holders were all simply in the distributing business, if credit was scant, if the insured and insurers were identical. Mr. Watson's plan is commendable from the economic standpoint. It appears that such an organization is wanted.

The suggestion looked at as a contributory detail to the plan of a National Business Men's Association is likewise promising of good. Among the many interests that have already been recognized as bonds that may be of service in holding such an association together, we know of none that is apt to have a more cementing effect than the insurance principle. That adopted, there would be a connective medium which would make association possible and durable. Until it is made durable there is going to be difficulty in inoculating trade with the regenerating spirit of reform. So for the sake of the interests that are peculiar to trade, as well as for its own sake, this idea is worthy of adoption.

COLLECTING MISSIVES.

One of the outgrowths of the Delinquent List that the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association has established is almost if not quite as important as the List itself. This little accessory is a short series (two) of letters. The letters of the course are marked "A" and "B." They are to be had by members of the Association upon the payment of five cents a pair to the Secretary. They bear the stamp of the Association and are printed. The debtors they are intended for are those from whom there is a tremulous hope in the mind of the retailer that money may be got. "A" is first sent. If no reply is forthcoming at the end of a reasonable suspense, "B" is despatched. "A" is apt to disconcert a man, but "B" is blood-curdling. If there is any money to be had "B" will extract it from the most iron-clad cynicism. These little letters are preliminary to blacklisting, and when there is no money blacklisting duly follows. So far, since the adoption of warning letters, no debtor has received "B." The logic of "A" has been irresistible in every case. One grocer used "A" to renew a correspondence with a former customer who had left the city. The said customer had friends in the city who would be sorry to have him blacklisted. The letter went three hundred miles and was followed in three days by a remittance of all that was due the grocer. Former business letters had been scoffed at, but "A" was too persuasive. "A" was sent by another grocer to a debtor who seemed past redemption. Yet the man had shame, though he had shown no acute sensibility to the stings of former severe duns. His response to "A", however, was creditable to his heart. He paid five dollars, and pledged himself to make an equal instalment every week until there should be no more to pay. When a man gets "A" he feels himself on the crest of the tide that leads to blacklisting. He naturally wants to get off before arriving at the destination that is inevitable if he stays there.

The Delinquent List has got a name for itself. Domesday Book in its time was not spoken of with more respect and dread than is the List coming to be. In households allusions far from gay are made to it. There is getting to be a disinclination to have records of one's grocery purchases noted as unpaid. There is a nervous feeling that through some mishap the name may not be effaced, and finally become transferred to the odious List. Credit is therefore less sought by those whose means are slender or uncertain.

FULL OF YEARS AND HONORS.

A link which connected the first and the last decade of the present century was broken the other day by the death in Brockville of Mr. Robert Fitzsimmons, father of Fitzsimmons & Bro., and founder of the wholesale grocery and liquor business carried on by that firm. A pioneer in the settlement and a patriarch in the commerce of so important a town as Brockville, is deserving of some biographical notice in the columns of a trade paper identified with the particular class of business in which the most of the long life was spent.

The late Mr. Fitzimmons saw this Province in the throes of more than one crisis. Not only did he live long enough to see much political travail and development, but a great part of his life was passed at a point of observation where events in Canadian history crowded together. Brockville is a frontier town, not only in a physical sense, but in some degree in the political sense ; it was in the district, although not the critical point in it, in which occurred the last struggle of the outbreak which indirectly brought about responsible government. Mr. Fitzsimmons' life began in the year 1810, in the English town of Exeter. At the age of 12 years, he came with his family to this Province. He spent but one year at his parents' home in Perth, becoming at the end of that time an apprentice in the shoemaking shop then carried on in Brockville by the late J. C. Potter. Mr. Potter also ran a grocery store, in which his apprentice seems also to have been a learner, for in later years, the young shoemaker took to the grocery business exclusively. It was in the year 1833 that in partnership with his brother-in-law, he opened out a grocery store in Brockville. This store he left in the autumn of the same year to better his fortune in London, Ont. After a winter's trial of that city he returned to Brockville and set up another grocery. After ten or twelve years of prosperity in this stand he built the large premises known yet as the " Old Spot," in which he continued to trade until 1871, when he retired to be succeeded by his sons.

Not only in the field of commerce did this citizen's long life benefit his town. In 1852 he began a useful career in the municipal history of Brockville. That year he was elected councillor for the centre ward, which division he represented constantly until the close of 1858, when he was elected mayor. After this he was repeatedly elected to the council. For twenty-five years he was a member of the school board. In his death the town of Brockville loses a citizen to whose energies much of its present material and intellectual advancement is due.

SOME UNFLAVORED FACTS.

Some of the rocks on which Associations split have evidently been located in the chart of the man whose words are quoted below. A pessimistic view of association is not the one best calculated to make union popular, but a little plain warning is about as necessary now and then as is advocacy of the benefits of association. The American Grocer gives the following report of the above mentioned speaker's words:

When the Association first started, its powers and possibilities were, in a measure, problematical and many joined it with very imperfect ideas of its benefits. Some thought collections the greatest feature, and supposed that an agent or collector would be able to collect everything, no difference how old the bill or dishonest or poor the debtor, or even if the bill was disputed. They seemed to think they could sell goods to any one and be sure of their pay. Therefore, instead of guarding against beats, they courted their trade, and hauled out their goods to them by cartloads. Then they expected the association in some way to protect them and get their money; they did not even think it worth while to attend the meetings. Opera, baseball and parties were far more agreeable, and the officers and a few faithful members were left to do the work and maintain the association as best they could. What was the result? Why, they lost the price of their goods they sold so recklessly, and so disgusted many other well-meaning members that they also quit attending, and to complete the sum of their iniquity, they began to decry against the institution, turned traitor, and said it was no good, refused to pay dues, or made it as difficult as possible for the agent to collect them as old bills from delinquents, and in some instances they were guilty of many underhand devices to draw customers from their brother members. Then the non-attending members found fault with what those who attended did, and, on the whole, acted more like a set of undisciplined schoolboys than business men.

There was still another class—perhaps a worse—who joined to learn all they could of their neighbors' business and losses, and beats, but never gave a like confidence. They got all they could and gave nothing in return except the trifling monthly dues.

So, while the first class growled at the agent if he didn't bring them word of money collected, the latter growled if he did not have a long list of new delinquents every time he called for dues.

Some others joined because their neighbor did and to be in the crowd, because it was fashionable. They did not know what its duties or benefits were, and they made no effort to learn.

These classes included perhaps one-half of the membership, while the balance were all right—good business men, who went into it with correct ideas, and were inclined to do the fair thing by the association and their fellow members to uphold the dignity and honor of the organigation and, through it, the profession of storekeeping.

Such a state of affairs exists in most of the local organizations, and some good members have been led to quit on that account—very unwisely, however.

The lukewarmness of the membership in local associations has led to the withdrawal of some from the State body, notwithstanding the reduction of the per capita tax, so that, on the whole, we are not so strong as we should be.

As I remarked at the beginning, we have reached a crises. We may, by the united and persevering efforts, of all truly interested, build up now an organization that will be a power in the community; but, without active and hearty work now, the association is doomed to a speedy and ignominious dissolution, out of the wreck of which a few local associations may survive, but the majority of the little boats will go down in the vortex of the sinking ship.

The Inland Revenue Department has recently issued a bulletin of about thirty pages which is devoted exclusively to the subject of baking powder and which shows that the majority of the goods in the market are adulterated and unfit for use. Prof. A. McGill, who has had charge of this important work for the Government, says that "imperial baking power is an excellent baking powder." A word to the sensible housekeeper should be suffcieut.

HECK'S COLUMN.

How different is some men's ambition from others'! We frequently hear people say, "That man, has no ambition in him." I think differently. Would any sensible man start a business without ambition? Yes he might do that, but he would not stay there long without it. I was reading a book last week by E. L., called "The Hardy Norseman," wherein the writer sets forth the most clearly written story of ambition that I have ever heard.

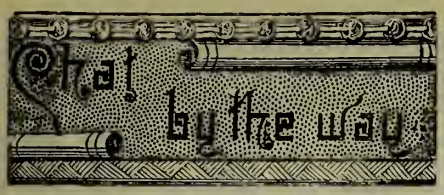
Here's a young man that disgrace has been brought upon by his parents who left him poverty stricken and alone in London. Now nothing but ambition placed this man where he now stands, junior partner in a large firm. The same applies to you who are in a small corner store because it is small it can be neat and clean. You can with ambition be a merchant on a larger scale, perhaps it may take years, but it can be done never the less. It's no disgrace to keep a corner store, neither is it to keep a small store not on a corner, but I put down the man who conducts his business with as much indifference as a grass hopper in a stubble field, not caring where he lights, as a disgrace to our commercial age. Commerce to-day is not what it was years ago. Many succeeded who never put themselves about one particle to oblige a customer. When the dealer had a competitor there was no difference. One was like the other, a don't care sort of fellow. To-day there are far too many merchants. If you are more obliging than the next man or are keeping a neater place, (the two go well together), it will bring you that class of trade that every ambitious merchant is catering for, the rich usually want the best, the poor look for the same. They cannot get all they want, still what they do get they like to obtain in as nice a manner as the rich. Cater for the best class of trade and the so-called worst comes with it. HECK.

THE BOARD OF TRADE BUILDING.

Secretary Wills of the board of trade, Mr. E. D. Morris, agent of the Rathbun Porous Terra Cotta Fire Proof Manufacturing Company, Deseronto, and a number of newspaper men assembled in the new board of trade building on Monday afternoon to witness the test of the terra cotta flooring laid by the company. Four thousand five hundred pounds was the weight the company guaranteed the floor to support, but the trial showed that it was capable of much greater endurance. Pig iron, weighing in all over 4,000 pounds, was placed on an iron square resting on the weakest part of the floor, and allowed to remain there from early in the morning till about 4.30 in the afternoon, when the test took place bar after bar of iron was added till the pile became shaky, and finally toppled over, without, however, crushing in the floor. The total weight of iron was 5,800 pounds, and although the bricks below had given way to the strain somewhat, yet from all appearances the collapse would not have occurred until several hundred pounds more had been added. Everybody was pleased with the experiment, and Mr. Wills went away satisfied that even the weight of the numerous business men who rush to examine the morning bulletins would be insufficient to crush through the flooring of the new building.

HOW RETAIL MERCHANTS ARE SOMETIMES DECEIVED IN COFFEE.

Interior merchants for their own interest should exercise great care in making selections of coffee. There is no article in the grocer's stock which requires more care and judgment in buying and in which mistakes in regard to style and quality lead to such unprofitable results, from dissatisfaction among customers and consequent loss of profits, than this staple. Coffee is a leading article and if a consumer finds that which is offered him turns out poor, he is apt to rate everything else in the same establishment as inferior and transfer his trade elsewhere. In short, experiments to make a little extra profit on coffee by the retail grocer unless great judgement and discrimination are exercised are most hazardous. Even buyers of considerable experience are sometimes deceived, as notibly in the case of those who purchase alleged Costa Rica coffee, offered at what seems a tempting price, but which is in reality nothing but a cheap grade of Salvador or Guatemala polished and colored to give it a clean and attractive appearance. The business of polishing and coloring these descriptions of coffee, the sole object of which seems to be to deceive retail merchants, is, we learn, being carried on to some extent in this market, and it stands retail buyers in hand to be on their guard that they are not made the victims of this deceit. The best way to accomplish this is to deal only with wholesale firms who thoroughly understand the coffee business, whose representations can be relied upon and whose guarantee of the style and quality of the goods they offer is as good as gold, as the saying is. If this advice is followed there is no danger of disappointment or loss in handling coffee. — San Francisco Country Merchant.



TARIFF NOTES.

An order-in-council has been passed cancelling the order of March 10, 1868, respecting the drawback on malt used in combination with sugar in the manufacture of beer and substituting the following regulation in lieu thereof, viz.: That any brewer using sugar, syrup, molasses or rather saccharine matter in combination with malt, in the proportion, in such brewery, of not less than fifteen pounds of sugar or twenty pounds of molasses, syrup or other saccharine matter to every 100 pounds of malt, and who shall have paid the duty of four cents per gallon upon the beer produced therefrom, and who shall have complied with all departmental regulations established by the Minister of Inland Revenue for the supervision of such brewers, or such as may be deemed necessary for ensuring the due collection of the revenue, shall be entitled to a drawback equal to the duty ofexcise paid on the malt so used. Any brewer desirous of availing himself of the provisions of this regulation shall give one month's notice of his intention to use sugar, syrup, molasses or other saccharine matter in the manufacture of beer, and shall accompany such notice with a plan and description of all the works, building and premises to be used by such brewer in connection with his brewery.

The revised tariff of customs will be forwarded to all officers of the department throughout the country this week and any differences in entries caused by changes in the tariff since the first draft was presented to Parliament will then be adjusted. In connection with the general distribution of the official customs tariff it is understood that the English practice of sel ing parliamentary publications, which it is the intention to adopt in Canada in connection with all such documents, will take effect in this case, and the Queen's Printer's department will place a number of copies for sale at diffetent bookstores in the leading cities.

DISCUSSING THE EGG BUSINESS.

A meeting of the association of those who are largely engaged in the egg trade, was held in Stratford on the 14th inst. to consider what steps were best to be taken, to save if possible, dealers and producer from loss, under the threatened imposition of a heavy tax on eggs. The meeting as will be seen by the names below was well attended and thoroughly representative of a large number of localities of this egg producing district. Although the position was felt to be a difficult one, those present seemed determined to face it bravely, and to rather suffer personal loss for a time by keeping their works intact, and also in keeping up prices, than to allow the source of supply to be cut off. There can be little doubt that in view of highly probable prices in the near future in our international commercial relations that this is the proper action to take in the premises. Those present at the meeting were D. D. Wilson, Seaforth, president; J. D. Moore, St. Mary's, vice-president; and the following : Messrs. Hogg, Galt; Hawke, Waterloo; Scott, Strathroy; Brown, Mt. Forest; Brown, Simcoe; Richardson, Walkerton; Carter, Elora; Young, Forest; Dunseith, St. Mary's: Sparling, Wingham; Flavell, Toronto; etc. etc.

Catalogues can be had from the auctioneers Mr. H. Arnton, Montreal, and Chas. M. Henderson & Co., Toronto, on application.

GOOD ADVICE TO YOUNG MEN.

It is a piece of good advice the S. F. Grocer and Country Merchant gives to young men who aspire to city life and occupation. Our contemporary says :—

A wholesale house advertised this week for a bookkeeper and received over eighty applications for the position, and this is but an every day experience with business houses who have vacant places in their establishments. The supply of clerks, salesmen and general office men is far ahead of the demand as the above will attest, and it behooves a young man who thinks of coming to the city to seek fame and fortune to think twice before making the venture. The time is long since past when a youth could leave a good situation and prospect in a country town for a betterment of condition in larger cities, if ever it existed. Competition in the field of industry is bitter, and unless the stranger be exceptionally favored with ability and influence, he is but losing the substance in a grasp at shadows. The Horace Greeleys and Ben Franklins of the present day are few and far between, and if any of the readers of this column among merchants' clerks in the interior are seeking to widen the scope of their activity, they will find ample opportunity at home, with none of the disadvantages and discomforts which await new comers in a strange place who must commence at the bottom as a rule, and that too against many odds, to reach success. The smart youth in a country store who has ambition will discover if he apply himself that there is plenty of room for him to expand, even if the surroundings seem somewhat contracted. There is better prospect for his becoming a useful and honorable member of society where he has been established and made a beginning even in a small town, than in breaking away for a struggle with the difficulties which beset a young man's life in great cities. Success in any vocation requires fidelity, pluck and perseverance ; to cultivate a longing for something which is only in appearance a superior state will not tend to an improvement in the affairs of the youth, however ambitious he may be.

DUTY ON TEAS.

Last week, in our market review, we gave notice that we should have something to say concerning the petition to Congress for a duty of 10 per cent ad valorem on all teas coming from any other country than the country where grown. It seems that the English tea merchants have a complete advantage of our merchants, especially in the way of low grades and cheap teas. There is the law which prohibits the importatation of dust and adulterated, which is a good law when enforced. But it is not always enforced, though a good deal more of attention has been given to the enforcement of this both in Boston and in New York of late than usual. But in spite of the law teas that are not desirable do creep in in large quantities. At the time duty was taken off teas in this country, or about that time, Sir John Macdonald offered to the tea merchants of this country that, if the special duty was taken off so that teas from England could come to this country free, he would use his influence to open the markets of the Provinces to the merchants of the United States, duty free Instead of such action he did not keep his part of the agreement, and a duty of 10 per cent. ad valorem is kept on by the Canadian government on all teas from the United States, while teas from other countries are free. The present action of our tea merchants is in part retaliatory. A petition has been signed by all the importers of teas, and also by a large number of the dealers and the large wholesale grocers throughout the country, asking that the present Congress impose a duty on all teas coming from any country except the country where grown. It appears that the English tea buyers notwithstanding that the buyers for the American market have agreed not to purchase the low grade and dust teas in China, have been purchasing these teas in large quantities, shipping them in bond to English ports, where the English government suffers them to lie in bond till such time as they can be sold by samples in this country, when, by special agreement with the steamship companies, they are reshipped to the United States, without further freight charges than the original from China to England. Hence our markets have been flooded with the cheap and poor teas that the American importers would not touch in the producing country. They are an undesirable commodity, and it is for this reason that the peculiar duty on teas is asked.—New England Grocer.

SOME HINTS TO MERCHANTS.

The lack of executive ability, so essential to a thoroughly systematic and profitable management of business, is in numerous instances a cause of failure. The atteution of the young merchant should be directed to this highly important feature, which may justly be considered the ground-work of success. Experience, it is true, furnishes the surest preventative of the errors almost certain to occur at the outset of every business man's career ; yet the uninitiated may so profit by the teachings of those who have promulgated rules for their guidance as to carry into thier work the necessary caution and discrimination. To be provided against possible contingencies is to be started aright —"to be forewarned is to be forearmed." A consideration of the best and surest methods of the conduct of business should be well weighed before making any investment, as well as a due regard for its character. Every man should be aware of the field in which he can labor to the best advantage. It has been well and wisely said that one should select the business or profession the following of which best agrees with the inclination, as in that direction he will be better prepared to devote his energies since it better agrees with his pleasure and is less likely to be attended with obnoxious or objectionable features. It too often happens that some men are either forced into the business for which they are unfitted, or for which they have no inclination or aptitude, by pressure of circumstances or a want of reflection. This mistake sometimes proceeds from a sort of ambition, which may be attributed to an improper consideration of another's success as applying to one's own. Where the few have reached the acme of their anticipations, the many have utterly failed. Some men seem intuitively to select the proper sphere in which to operate; some have commenced one kind of business and then turned to another with more satisfaction than was warranted by the former trial: while some indeed have continued to experiment without ever being enabled to make the right decision.

A discreet and systematized routine of daily application should be rigidly observed as affording a correct knowledge of the requirements of the business. To be well informed of all matters relating to trade ; to be well posted in business forms ; to be advised of every change which may occur to regulate the drift of the commercial current ; to be wise, careful, circumspect in each and every move, are requisites which every man engaged in business of whatever nature should diligently and continually consider. The want of reflection is a serious barrier, which will exert a baneful influence and cripple the efforts of even the most assidious devotee. A thoughtful disposition, combined with energy, enterprise and an unswerving adherence to just principles based upon ascertaining results cannot fail to bestow the proper elements of success.

It is unfortunately true of some business men that they soon become satiated with the very support they should rely upon to achieve the desired end and aim of their ventures. To be neglectful of those duties necessitated by the nature of one's avocation is to be recreant to the trust reposed in him by those with whom he has to deal. Sooner or later his peccadilloes are discovered and his reputation is blasted, his hopes extinguished.

To acquire wealth in honesty is worth a thousand times more than that obtained by fraudulent design under the garb of the best and truest manifestations.

Deceit and hypocrisy, entail a curse upon those who use such expedients. To be shrewd is not necessarily to be unprincipled: indeed a degree of shrewdness commensurate with the exactions of trade is a great necessity and should be more cultivated than it is.

To succeed in any business undertaking and also retain the respect, good-will and approbaiton of one's fellow-men is to have written one's name upon the roll of honor. To have contributed to the necessities of humanity in abetting the cause of trade and facilitating the growth and stability of industry should be a pride and satsiaction untainted with greed.—Detroit Grocer and Trade Reporter.

Suckling & Cassidy, on Tuesday, sold the stock of J. Douglas & Co., jewellers, etc., St. Catharines, invoiced at $5,642 to W. B. Gould, of Port Hope, for 20 cents on the dollar. The stock of dry goods belonging to Parker & Co., of Toronto, and invoiced at $2,786 was sold to Mr. Gould at 82c. on the dollar.

Something new for your trade is Solus. Sole Preserver. Mr. Vroom the manufacturer is now pushing his goods through Canada. His advertisement appears in another column.

The Marintime Provinces are not behind the times; many of their industries are making fine lines of goods. The St. Croix Soap Manufacturing Co., are showing great enterprise in pushing their "Surprise Soap," which is a very fine line for the laundry, into Quebec, Ontario and the North-west. They claim it to be the "best on earth." This firm do a large business throughout the Marintime Provinces and Quebec. They have one of the finest factories in Canada, and are already negotiating for larger premises. They have steam pumps, dry room, etc., which gives them every advantage to make a fine article. We are sure the trade will welcome our friends from the east, and we would call attention to advertisement on page nine of this issue.

A number of dogs in London have been affected with a disease resembling rabies recently, and the council a couple of weeks ago passed a resolution to the effect that all animals be muzzled for three months. This has been disregarded, and the disease is still in existence. Mr. Andrew Tufts, grocer, was attacked by one on Monday which tore his trousers from the knee down, but luckily did not make a mark on his flesh. The animal was shot after it had worried half a dozen other dogs.

A PROFIT-SHARING GROCER.

Mr. Schnatterly, an enterprising grocer of Kinsley, Kansas, makes a novel proposition to his customers through a neat circular, a copy of which we have just received. He proposes to pay his cash customers interest on what they spend in his store. They are furnished a rebate card on which is printed a certain amount. This is handed to the salesman when purchases are made and the amount of purchase is checked off. When the figures are all gone the rebate is paid. The cards save four cent. on all purchases, besides securing the customers the very lowest cash prices it is possible to obtain.

The circular explains :

"We propose to give cash buyers part of what they save us, and, to encourage the system, the larger part. Thus you become partners with us, to a certain extent, in the business, sharing the extra profits made by conducting it on the cheapest plan. This is simple justice. The reason it was not done before was the lack of a practical method of keeping the account.

Mr. Schnatterly's plan is a good one and could be successfully worked in many localities. Strong objections have been urged by many grocers' against the introduction of new schemes for regulating the credit business, principally on account of the complications arising from them, but this plan appears to be simple and effective. It could be worked either with a card or the coupon books now in general use. But much of the success will depend upon the clear and concise explanation given to the customers. They have been annoyed so long by gift schemes, lotteries and clap-trap that they are naturally shy of anything that tends to bring about a change or claim any of their time. It is money they want, not presents. The average housewife is very likely to consider anything that is founded on sound business principles, which Mr. Schnatterly seems to have incorporated in his proposition.—Chicago Grocer.

The Philadelphia Retail Grocers' Association has formally appealed to the wholesalers and manufacturers for their co-operation to suppress the cutting evil. The following is the draft of the circular sent by the Association to the wholsale grocers, etc.:—

PHILADELPHIA, May 12th, 1890.

To the Manufacturers and Wholesale Dealers of the Grocery Trade of Philadelphia :

GENTLEMEN,—Believing that your firm would not even indirectly do an injury to the retail grocery trade of our city, the Retail Grocers' Association appeal to you, asking your best efforts towards the reform of the "cutting abuse" now so largely existing in some sections of our city. We ask—

1st. Can a merchant be honest and sell goods below the cost of purchase ? Witness the present selling of granulated sugar at retail at 4½ cents per lb. ?

2nd. Is it not true that the greatest losses sustained by the wholesale trade in the past have been by the too liberal crediting of those retail dealers who sold regardless of cost at "cut prices ?"

3d. Is it not worth the effort of the wholesale trade that close scrutiny be made of the real standing of those dealers who are now demoralizing the retail trade to the injury of those dealers who want to pay their bills—one hundred cents to the dollar?

4th. Will you kindly inform us if you will by "moral suasion" endeavor to show those dealers who are now carrying on the ruinous war of cutting that nothing but injury to themselves as well as to their brother dealers can come of its continuance ? We do not ask or expect you to refuse selling to anyone who in your judgment may be worthy of credit.

Desiring that the relationship of the retail grocery trade with the wholesale trade, shall at all times be in the direction of fair, honorable and prompt dealing, we place this appeal before you, confident that its merits will commend it to serious and favorable consideration.

Very respectfully,

JOHN J. FORAN, President.

GROCERS! A Few Facts for both Wholesaler and Retailer.

Do you know that a first-class article's best advertisement is its own merit? It is. So with the Grocer, his best advertisement is that he keeps nothing but first-class goods. The wholesaler supplies the goods to the retailer. The retailer sells them knowing they are the best of the kind. The customer buys, knowing what he or she gets is all it is claimed to be. Everyone is satisfied. Satisfaction to your customers means a continuation of business with them. These are facts. Now for a practical application.

Surprise Is a pure Laundry Soap, free from all injurious chemicals, made from the purest stock, guaranteed to give satisfaction and is all it is claimed to be in every respect. By a system of prices profit is given to all handling SURPRISE.

Profit Quick sales, a fair margin of profits and satisfaction to all concerned is what everyone is looking for. SURPRISE fills the bill. SURPRISE is largely advertised, is a very fine article and will sell on its merits alone. All wholesale dealers are protected by our system of prices which always gives them a good profit, which profit we can practically guarantee. The retailer buys at a price which gives him a good profit and still sells SURPRISE cheap as common soaps to the consumer, who profits by getting a first-class article.

We do all the advertising and pushing. You sell the SURPRISE, making a good profit, guaranteeing it to your customers as we do to you. Do you keep SURPRISE in stock? If not we shall be pleased to quote prices on application.

THE MARKETS

TORONTO, May 22, 1890.

GROCERIES.

The week's trade has not been signalized by any departure from the commonplace course that has been steadily followed for so long a time. The continued stiffness in the prices of dried fruits, the momentary "give" in the schedule prices of canned goods, the apparant over-ballast in sugar, are circumstances that have so far failed to stimulate buying to any perceptible degree. Local consumption is not at its maximum yet, and until it is, retailers seem determined to wait, buying only for the immediate present. Remittances are reported to be as good as they were expected to be. The present week's trade compares unfavorably rather than equally with last week's.

CANNED GOODS.

The character of the business done the greater part of the past week shows the market to be recovering at all the points of weakness revealed by the break in Association prices. Corn, which appeared to be too plentiful for any early recoil to established prices, has shown wonderful vigor in a few days. It had sunk as low as 90c. in the interim between our last and this report, it is now back to a secure $1.10 for small quanties of good, and $1 for large quantities not strictly choice. Tomatoes are exceedingly scarce and firm. There are virtually none in the hands of the packers, and are in strong demand. Peas are pretty well bought up now, and are firm at $1 to $1.15 according to quality and quantity. The stock of canned goods now in the country is far below in quantity what was on the market this time last year. It is estimated to be even less than half what was unsold a year ago. This fact should be a good basis for the stability of prices. Buyers evinced considerable mistrust of the permanence of the prices that were reached last week, and cautiously bought in small lots, expecting further derangement of the market to follow the dissolution of the Association agreement. This has been for the better, as if large stocks had been laid in right after the break, dealers would have not had to come upon the market after the recovery, and the recovery would not have been so complete. So that the minimum of damage was done by the break on account of the limited advantage that was taken of it.

The National Canned Goods Packers' Association has decided that the factory size cans be adopted as the standard size by the minor associations as follows: No. 2 cans, opening 1⅜, hight 4 9-16, width 3 7-16; No. 3 cans, opening 2, height 4⅞, width 4 3-16. A motion was agreed to, that an arbitration committee of five, one from each minor association be appointed, whose duty it shall be to investigate all complaints of every nature that may be referred to such committee, and that the committee be instructed to notify the Secretary of this Association their decision thereon, and in case adjustment is not made in accordance with such decision, that it shall be the duty of the Seecretary to issue a statement of such matter, if any there be, and mail a copy to each member of the minor associations. A committee started for Washington to submit the memorial above mentioned to the Ways and Means Committee.

It is reported that representatives of English buyers on the Pacific coast have agreed not to purchase any new pack Columbia river or other salmon prior to the month of August. There is a penalty for violating the agreement.

COFFEES.

The force of the demand has not been increased or diminished during the week. For several weeks past the trade has been in response to a demand that by comparison with last year's seemed to be a modified one. Ceylon is still scarce, high, and relatively to other kinds, popular. The lowness of supplies in the hands of foreign distributors and the small stock here indicate a continuance of high prices. The grades of Rio that is mostly called for is that which is least in stock—namely, the lower grades. Maracaybo is getting a very fair share of attention. Javas and Mochas have a very conservative market. Prices are stationary at last week's quotations.

DRIED FRUIT.

All the features of a week ago are here yet, more prominent and controlling than ever. The demand is growing and prices are hardening. The consumption of prunes this spring has been enormous, and appears to have been underestimated by importers, as the stocks are being rapidly depleted while the new crop is growing. Cask prunes are becoming scarce and cases are going out very fast. Currants are in improved demand, ordinary provincials in barrels going at 5½ to 6c. Dates and figs are receiving a fair degree of attention. Prices are unchanged and stocks are getting low. Valencia raisins have been jobbed this week at 7¾ for common brands of off-stalk to 8¼c. for prime. The latter price is very firm and stocks purchasable at the former figure are now about all run off. Of all grades of Valencias there is an inadequate supply. Saturday cables advise a further advance in Sultanas.

Reports from Smyrna state that the prospects for the growing crop of Sultana raisins are rather unfavorable owing to the absence of rain, and that the indications do not point to a yield any better than that obtained last year.

NUTS.

Stocks are but moderate with all importers. Trade is confined to filling orders from confectioners and to retailers whose business is limited to the supplying of housewives' baking demand. Prices are unchanged.

RICE AND SPICES.

The rice trade is a very quiet one. There is no sign of any early disturbance of the present basis of prices. The estimate of the reserve of the Louisiana and Carolina crops leads to some expectation of higher prices before the new crop is ready for the market. About five months will elapse before that time, and the present stock will upon the basis of comparative calculation made by Mr. John Talmage, of Dan Talmage & Sons, suffice for only about one-third of the demand. Importation from the fields of the Old World would cost 5¼ to 6c. at New York to-day, so that the probability of high prices which the above named statistician believes in seems to rest on strong ground. The movement of spices has been normal.

SUGAR.

Buyers are still apathetic. Neither an advance nor a fall seems capable of rousing business. The last advance created no excitement, at least none that was discernible in a brisker market The last drop didn't bring prices to a point where anybody in particular seemed to want them. One reason is that there is yet in retail stocks a considerable quantity of sugar that was bought in the apprehension of stiff prices, an apprehension that was caught at the time of the first rise. The facts that some of this sugar is not yet in consumption, and that the expectation of stiff prices has so far been groundless, are both against any hurried buying so long before the use of fruit-canning, etc. In all grades prices are where they were last week. A further decline in the New York market, on Saturday, of one-sixteenth on refined, is not an earnest of strength in the prospect. Prices may not mend, but consumption will soon come to the aid of business. Raws in barrels are 5¼ to 5½c.

The London Grocer says: "The well-grounded belief that there is enough beet sugar in Europe to satisfy all possible demands from consumers for many months to come, irrespective of what supplies may chance to arrive from the cane-producing countries, causes the trade here to be utterly indifferent about buying, and they purchase only what is barely necessary for their instant requirements. Speculators are also in the same apathetic mood, and, accepting the greatly enlarged estimates of this season's Continental beet crops as perfectly trustworthy, they evince no desire to operate the least in advance so that transactions have been much restricted."

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Sales are few and small. Prices are firm and unchanged. Stocks are sufficient, though not large. There is nothing notable in the market for either commodity.

TEAS

New season Japans are already offered upon our market. The sample is fine. The quality of the grade is indicted approximately by the price, which is 34c. The samples are from a cargo that arrived by the steamer China. This is remarkably early for new Japans to be on the Toronto market. Stocks of low grade and medium Japans were getting bare, and are seasonably re-inforced by arrivals of the new crop. Low grade greens are getting up. Stocks are declining and the demand is fairly keen. Congous are regular and in fair demand There has been a small but steady demand for Indian teas during the past week. The feature of the week in London has been a marked diminution in the supplies of Indian tea. This relief to the market has had an immediate effect on prices which have hardened generally. It is estimated that considerably more than the surplus over last year's crop is already sold, and that there are from thirty to forty thousand packages less to come forward for sale than at the same time last year. Ceylon teas are quiet locally. In London bidding was languid and a fractional decline in values occurred.

Cable advices from Shanghai report the opening of the market for Congou teas, and name prices on low grades equal to 15c laid down here; stocks equal in quantity to such as now sells at 12c.

The following is from the London Grocer: "A member of the Ceylon Association in London writes to point out the unfair treatment pure Ceylon, tea, packed in Ceylon, has under the existing "Merchandise Marks Act." He says the trade is handicapped and injured by imitation packets of so-called Ceylon tea. On a gorgeous label the word "Ceylon" is displayed in the most conspicuous manner, while in the most out-of-the-way corner, and in the most microscopic type, may be found the words "This tea is principally composed of China and other growths." In this manner the Act is evaded, the purchaser humbugged, and the real Ceylon tea is damaged in reputation."

PETROLEUM.

The tenor of the market as indicated in the business done last week has not been broken in the business done since. No large transactions have been reported, and no expectancy add any special interest to the probabilities of trade in this line. Prices are steady.

DRUGS AND CHEMICALS.

A slight advance in camphor is the only feature taken on by the week's trade. Sales have been of the quiet character that has been characteristic of this department of business for the past few weeks. A fairly cool season ushers in the summer with less attendant illness than usual.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

There is no lack of old deteriorated store tub butter, but there is a feeling of thankfulness among dealers that there is not more of it. That there is not more of it is due to a diversion of trade from outside centres to Eastern points. The market for it seems to have opened at once, as shippers have rather given Toronto dealers the go-by this week. Not entirely, however. Arrivals of low-grade stuff have been too numerous for a good market, although they have been greatly less numerous than if the Eastern demand had not been discovered. Low-grade butter yet abounds here, therefore, at prices of 5 to 8c. Local consumption is not equal to the task of absorbing it. There is a small proportion of new tub butter marketed at 12 to 14c. The creamery rolls that are so far in receipt bring 22c. Large dairy rolls are very much the same as ever, numerous and not specially choice. They sell at 10 to 14c. There is a good deal of the old tub contents in their composition, as some holders of tubs hope to obtain better prices from their stuff thus made up. There is a larger supply of pound rolls in stock than we have had for some time. The quality does not improve with the increase in quantity. Prices are 14 to 16c.

The new cheese is now coming on the market. That of the April make is selling at 10c. It came in time to recruit wholesale stocks which had run pretty low in September cheese. Very little of the October make went into consumption, as buyers stood out for lower prices, and prices in England improved. The old make yet in stock runs from 9 to 11c., according as it is the early summer or the early autumn product of '89.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—Prices are beginning to be devoid of interest, as buyers and sellers are passing away. Their disappearance is due to the disappearance of the basis for a market. The crop may be said to be now off the market and in consumption. The remains of the season's business is done at $4.75 to $5 a barrel for broken lots, and $5 to $6 out of store.

BEANS—Are getting dearer under the influence of a spasmodic demand and a scarcity of stock. The demand for seed rather than for table use has brought prices up to $1.65 to $1.75 in small lots, and $1.50 to $1.60 in large ones.

DRIED APPLES—Do not seem to be in strong request, yet the supply does not overrun the demand, and the supply is liberal. Prices stand at the quotations given last week, 5 to 5¼c. for new, and 4¾ to 5c. for old.

EVAPORATED APPLES—Despite the great quantity of old stock when the market opened, an despite the lateness of the opening, there is a fair promise that the crop of '90 will have a clear field for it before the blossoms are on the trees. Holders have already got down to bare stocks. Prices are consequently firm, at 8 to 9½c. for old, and 11 to 12c. for new.

EGGS—Are worth 12 to 12½c., with a strong tendency towards 13c. The general expectation in the United States that Congress will adopt the McKinley Bill which proposes an import duty of 5c. a dozen, has led to an invasion of American buyers, which has brought up prices to their present stand.

HAY—There is a good demand for No. 1 at $10.50 to $11. Only choice is wanted. The supply is fair.

HIDES—Cured have shot up to 5½ for carlots. Green have added another quarter, which leaves prices as follows:—Steers' 5¾c. for No. 1, 4¾c. for No. 2, 3¾ for No. 3. The three grades of cows' are 1c. lower in each class.

HONEY—Trade is very quiet, The demand is small and unsteady. Prices have not varied, however, standing at 11½ to 12½c. for clear, and 14 to 16c. for comb.

HOPS—No change. Yearlings are 10 to 12c.; and new are 13 to 15c.

OATS—Are 36c. at outside points, and 38c. laid down here. The supply is but fair, while the demand is good.

ONIONS—Are 2½ to 3½c. per pound, yellow Danvers and reds are in about equal proportions on the market. Both appear in small and fitful arrivals.

POTATOES—Prices are daily improving, while the stock appears to be small. Car lots now sell at 62 to 65c., with the bulk of the transactions at the latter figure. The outside demand is strong, and very good markets in country towns lead to a reduction in the supply here. Store lots are 75 to 80c.

SEEDS—Alsike is now of no concern to buyers or sellers. The season is over. Timothy is $1.80 to $1.90, red clover is $3.85 to $4, and both are in waning demand. Hungaring seed and millet are 70 to 75c. a bushel. Corn is moving out in good volume. Select yellow horsetooth is 55c., giant prolific sweet ensilage is 70c., and red cob ensilage is 60c. The market for seed buckwheat is also opening well. Ordinary is 50c., and Japanese is 75c.

SKINS—Dull market is reported from business centres. Sheep are scarce, and unchanged in price, still quoting at $1.25 to $1.60. No. 1 calf is 7c., and No. 2 is 5c.

STRAW—None but good oat finds any sale. That goes at $5.50 to $6.

TALLOW—The price is still 2c. for rough, and 5 to 5¼c. for rendered.

WOOL—There is no alteration in prices, though the market is fairly supplied, and fleeces have not been seen for some time. The price for them is 22c. Pulled goes at 30c. for ex-super, 25 to 26 for super, and 24c. for lowest.

FISH.

Prices for fish have declined, owing to the catch being at its best. The prices are expected to remain about the same as present for some time. The supply now is as large as will be looked for this season. Fresh supplies of British Columbia salmon are being received daily. Most of the sales are in trout and white fish. There is a good supply of pickerel to be had, but the demand for this kind of fish is not very good. Lake herring are selling fairly well. The prices are as follows: White fish 5½ to 6c.; salmon trout 5½ to 6c.; British Columbia salmon 17 to

GREEN FRUIT.

Oranges have gone up with a rush. The Montreal sale revealed the full scarcity of the stock in the country, and fixed the price that is to rule for some time Purchases at that sale have re-stocked dealers here with Valencias, which now stand at $8.50 to $9 per case. All stocks had become completely bare before the replenishing which followed the sale, and the replenishing was but partial. Valencias are in few hands, scarce and certain to be high until the last of them is marketed. Messinas in cases of 160 to 200 run from $4.50 to $5. They are getting into small compass now. The demand is not specially strong, but the known scarcity of all classes of oranges puts up prices on the eve of brisk consumption. Palermo oranges are in stock in half-boxes at $2.50 to $3. The prices of lemons are so far unchanged. Fancies are $4 to $4.50, and 360's are $3.75 to $4. These prices are expected to take a sudden stride as soon as the warm weather opens up, as stock is not over plentiful and the present prices are due to the quietness in the demand which cool weather causes. Fancy bananas are $2, and ordinary run from $1.25 to $1.50. Pineapples are 10 to 25c. each, the average going off at 17c.

The arrivals of early strawberries were in small lots up to a few days ago. The demand was not active at the high prices recently current. Prices are lower however, importers are able to take advantage of the easier market as soon as they can buy in car loads. Messrs. Cleghorn & Son have in a carload now which they are selling at 25 to 35c.

The N. E. Grocer says: red bananas are gradually getting unpopular. There is a comparatively small demand for them, the flavor of the delicious yellow ones being greatly preferred. The yellow variety is much more prolific than the red.

PROVISIONS.

The trade in hog products continues good. Higher prices will be reached when the non-producing season is on, which is now drawing close. This fact makes buying rather brisk at present.

BACON—Long clear is 8½c.; bellies are 11½ to 12c., backs are 11 to 11½c. Roll bacon is 9½ to 10c.

DRESSED HOGS—The arrivals have been liberal and the market has consequently eased another quarter. Prices are now $5.70 to $5.75.

HAMS—Are 11 to 11½c. for sweet pickeled, and 12 to 12½c. for smoked.

LARD—In 20 pound pails is 10c, and in 50 pound tubs is 9½c.

MESS PORK—Heavy is $16, and short cut is $17.

SALT.

The sales reported for the week are much larger than last week. The prices are unchanged. The sales for the week reported by the Toronto Salt Works are: 3 cars bbls. salt at $1.37; 1 car coarse sacks at 68c; 1 car dairy at $1.18. Smaller quantities are selling at $1.45 for coarse salt; 85c. for sacks, and 45c. for ¼ sacks. Land salt is $7 per ton.

DRY GOODS.

Trade has looked up somewhat, although the unseasonable weather has been nearly as inimical to spring business as the weather of the first quarter was to winter business. In all lines a fair movement is experienced.

TO THE GROCERY TRADE.

The undersigned has been appointed Agent in the United States and the Dominion of Canada by

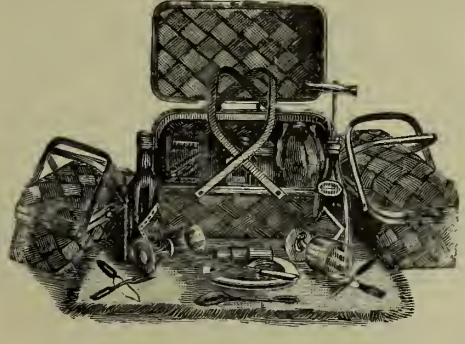
The Associated Tea Planters, Ltd.

OF LONDON, CAPITAL, £50,000.

Under the auspices of the Indian Tea Districts Association.

The object of the company is to push the sale of their product, feeling certain that when systematically brought to consumers' notice its merits will be so manifest as to give it the front rank in public favor, as is the case in Great Britain.

Roundly, the annual consumption in that country is 80,000,000 lbs. during last crop year This is the best answer to the twaddle about the excessive quantity of tannin in Indian tea. Consumers in England are no fools : they know a cup of good tea.



Supplies will be held in Canada and the States and the undersigned, or his assistants, will make regular calls on the Trade. Samples will also be promptly forwarded on application.

MARKETS—Continued.

Prices hold firmly. Remittances cannot be said to be up to the desired point of promptness.

In our last we spoke of a prospect of the cotton mills falling into the hands of American capitalists. We should have said "English" instead of "American." That proposal is still a matter merely of rumor.

MONTREAL

MONTREAL MARKETS.

MAY 22, 1890.

The weather, especially in the past few days, has been against the satisfactory development of trade, yet on the whole business has shown a tendency to improve and has reached fair volume during the week. and with better weather it is likely that more animation would result. There have been few important changes. The feature continues to be the strength in tea, stocks of which, especially low grades, have run down to small compass. Sugar has continued dull and easy. Payments have been fair.

Merchants and farmers in this province are beginning to complain of too much rain, but, on the other hand, report the prospects for grass good and fruits promise an excellent yield. On the whole trade is expected to improve with better weather.

SUGAR.

There has been a limited move nent and an easy market. Granulated has been selling at 6¾c. at the factory, with yellows ranging from 5¼ to 5¾c. as to quality. Jobbing trade prices are proportionately higher.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Syrup has been in rather better request at unchanged prices.

In molasses there has been no actual change. The general price for Barbadoes is 32c. with last cable quoting 13c. Antigua has been offered at 28c.

TEAS.

Marked and decided strength has characterized the tea market, which has materially advanced of late under the active enquiry and light stocks, more especially so far as it relates to low grades, which have become very scarce and have advanced a full cent per pound in two weeks, with some holders asking 2c. more. Demand from the West has been good and the advance has been quickly paid. The fact is that there is more demand than supply. All holders are strong in their ideas as there are little low grades being imported, importers having been so badly hurt by heavy imports and consignments in past seasons. New York is likewise reported strong and some lots held here on New York account, will be sent back unless the full advance is paid. Tea that was offered two months ago at 15c., has sold at 17c., and the last of a lot of 1000 packages was cleared out at that to-day. The lowest grade now available is strongly held at 15c. Better grades have sold at 18 to 20c., with finest at 25 to 30c.

COFFEES.

Local demand has been fair and prices have remained steady. Maracaybo has sold at 23½c. for finest. Jamaica 22 to 23c., and Rio 21 to 22c

DRIED FRUIT.

The movement has been limited but prices have continued firm, and it is evident that consumers consider them high. Prime Valencia raisins have sold at 8¾c., with less desirable at 8¼ to 8½c. Sultanas have continued firm with sales at 10 to 12c. for good quality. Currants firm at 5⅜ to 5½c. in barrels. Dried apples are in fair demand at 5½ to 6c., and evaporated at 12 to 12½c.

GREEN FRUIT.

The recent and coming auction sales of lemons and oranges have prevented much business on the ordinary market, yet there has been a good distribution of the stock sold. Lemons may be quoted at $2 to $4 per box, with fancy lots higher. Best oranges in boxes are quoted at $4. Bananas have been in steady request. Good yellows have sold at $1.50 to $1.75 in small quantities, but carloads can be had for less.

CANNED GOODS.

Trade has been fairly active, but no special feature has developed, except the continued decided scarcity of lobsters, which are in extremely light supply, and buyers have been compelled to pay up or go without. Sales have been made at $7.25 to $7.50 per case. Salmon have shown a tendency to weakness owing to the approaching arrival of cheap new goods, which only cost $1.30 to $1.35 to lay down. Spot prices may be quoted at $1.45 to $1.50.

In fruits and vegetables there has been no change. Tomatoes firm at $1.15 to $1.20 for Quebec brands. String beans easy at 90c. Peaches $2.15, greengages $1.65 to $1.75, Bartlett pears $2.10, strawberries $2.25 to $2.50. Canadian corn at $1 to $1.10 per dozen, with American at $1.75, peas, $1.20, apples in 3 pound tins $1.10 per doz., and 1 gallon tins $2.50 to $2.60.

GRAIN AND FLOUR.

FLOUR—Market remains very dull. Patent winter, $5.25 to $5.50; patent spring, $5.75 to $5.90; straight roller, $5.00 to $5.15; extra, $4.70; to $4.80 superfine, $4.25 to $4.50; fine, $3.50 to $4.00; city strong bakers, $5.45 to $5.50; strong bakers, $5.25 to $0.00; superfine, bags, $2.co to $2.10; extra, bags, $2.20 to $2.30; fine, bags, $1.50 to $1.90; oatmeal, standard, per bag $2.15 to $2.25; oatmeal, granulated, $2.30 to $2.50; oatmeal, rolled, $2.30 to $2.50.

GRAIN—A fair business is doing in wheat and coarse grains. No. 1, Manitoba, hard wheat sells at Port Arthur at $1.15, and is quoted here at, Wheat No. 1, hard Manitoba, $1.20 to $1.22; peas, per 66 lbs. in store, 69 to 70; peas, afloat, May delivery 70 to 71; Quebec oats, 36c.; Ontario oats, 38c.; Corn, duty paid, 50 to 51½c.; Corn, in bond 41 to 43c.; Barley, feeding 40c.; Barley, good malting, 52c.

Eggs are firm, but there is little demand at 12½c. to 13c. here.

HOG PRODUCTS—Western Mess, $16 to $16.50; Chicago Short Cut, $17.00; Canada Short Cut, $17.00. Lard, 8 to 8½c. per pound; bacon, 10½ to 11c.; Hams, 11½ to 12c.

MAPLE SUGAR AND SYRUP—Sugar 7c. to 8c. for fine small cakes; syrup, 70c. for small cans, and 85c. for large.

DAIRY PRODUCE.

CHEESE—No great volume of business but cheese coming in, is all being handled and the demand seems to be improving. Colored seems to have a preference and some lots have been taken up at something small over 9c.

BUTTER.—There seems to be a prospect that a market for fine old butter will be found on the other side. Some small lots have already been taken up for export at small prices. Old fall creamery, 19c. to 20c.; summer, 14c. to 18c.. old Townships, 10c. to 14c.; old Western, 7c. to 12c.

HAY AND FEED.

Demand for pressed hay has been active, with a large business at steady prices. Extra $9. No. 1, $8 ; No. 2, $7 per ton in car lots. Good inquiry for feed at steady prices. Mouillie $22 to $24 ; bran $16.50 to $17 ; shorts $18 to $19 per ton.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Mr. Thomas Fraser, of the salt and shipping firm of Thos. Fraser & Co., has just returned by the Parisian, from his European tour.

Mr. William Neil, grocer, has made an assignment on the demand of Hodgson, Sumner & Co., with liabilities of about $3,000. The principal creditors are :—Hodgson, Sumner & Co., $702 ; Thomas Lamb, $608 ; William Johnson, $528, and John Costigan & Co., $200.

W. Boulter, Picton, president of the Canadian Packers' Association, is at the Walker house, as delegate to Grand Legion Select Knights of Canada.

Mr. William Kennedy, of the Bothwell basket factory, is negotiating with the St. Thomas city council as to what inducements they will offer to have him remove to that city.

The Canadian Packers' Association met at Hamilton on Wednesday. On Thursday the new large can-making establishment of the Norton Bros., of Chicago, now established at Hamilton, was thrown open, and cans at the rate of 5,000 an hour automatically made with all the modern machinery, now made in Canada, used by the packers, in operation. On Thursday a banquet at the Royal hotel was given to the members of the Association and wholesale grocers and others, by the Norton Bros. Distinguished visitors connected with the National Association of the United States were present at the convention and banquet. A full account will be given in our next issue.

Rivalry, open, fair, good natured and enterprising, is the life of business.

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,

Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, McGILL UNIVERSITY.

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured.

Yours truly,

G. P. GIRDWOOD.

IMPOSSIBLE!

So say Doctors, to say too much in favour of St. Leon Water. It puts down Bright's Disease and Diabetes, as water quenches fire. Cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, etc., completely if drank freely and rubbed in the skin.

SILVER STAR STOVE PASTE.

The following is the universal verdict of all who have used or sold it :

HAMILTON, APRIL 25th, 1890.

Messrs. F. F. DALLEY & Co.,

GENTLEMEN :—In thus ordering a fresh supply of your SILVER STAR STOVE PASTE we cannot but express our appreciation of the goods and congratulate you on having been able to place on the market an article so superior in every respect to anything we have heretofore been able to get.

As we use it on the stoves in the wareroom, we know personally its good qualities—no dust, a quick polish, always ready and the work is done in the time it would take to prepare the Dome or other hard stove polishes, and one of the best features about it is that it is so clean to handle.

If a man sells us an inferior article we don't forget to tell him about it, and on the same principle when a firm gives us an Extra good one we believe in letting them know that we appreciate it.

We remain,
Respectfully yours,
J. WALLACE & SON.

Changes in advertisements and new advertisements must reach this office not later than Wednesday morning of each week.

ANTI-COMBINES LEGISLATION.

A very thoroughgoing measure was that with which the House of Commons proposed a year ago to arm the state against combines. A very diluted extract of that measure, however, was all that made its way through the Senate as the Combines Act. In the late session of Parliament the former body again affirmed its belief in the policy of eradication, and passed an amendment which would restore the Act of last year to the drastic original from which it had been reduced. But the amendment was never voted on in the Upper House, as the banking committee of that chamber had thrown it out. Thus ended the second legislative attempt to expel combines from the commercial system. Mr. Clarke Wallace's Combines Bill of a year ago aimed to put combination to limit production under the ban of the law. The Senate modified the Bill so as to make only the abuse of combination illegal, and thus it issued in the Combines Act. Mr. Wallace's amendment this year sought to have the modifying words "unduly" and "unreasonably" struck out with the intention of making combines unlawful absolutely as his former Bill had aimed to do.

Centripetal movement within the different species of the producing and commercial classes is undoubtedly a feature of the present times. Industries, trades and crafts that were loose nebulae a few years ago are now solid masses. So strongly does the genius of the time dispose men to league together to control the market they supply, that the support of the anti-combines movement, which has twice prevailed in the House of Commons, had as its extra legislative basis a large body of combined interests. The social system is so impregnated with the principle, that the overthrow of a particular class of combines, which was the object of Mr. Wallace's Bill, could not be brought about on the sole support of the non-combined interests. The movement therefore against combines derives a large part of its strength from other combines.

Since the opposition of consumers thus analyzes into elements of which a large part are themselves combines, we cannot say that the popular will as expressed by the Commons is hostile to combines. We can say that industrial combines seem to have the balance of power in the Lower House, and that commercial and manufacturing combines have the balance of power in the Upper House. The struggle has not been between individualism and corporatism, but between corporatism of one kind and corporatism of another kind. Of course, individualism is represented in the anti-combines agitation, but it is not a great power in the agitation.

The labor unions are associations of exactly the same pattern as those they seek to decompose into individuals. So are the farmers' granges or alliances. If a league of manufacturers co-operate to limit the output of their workshops for the purpose of maintaining prices, they do only what is done by mechanics' unions which resort to strikes. In the former case there is a reduction of the product of industry. That is what is shut off also in the second case, through the direct cessation of industry. One body aims to rule the market in some commodity, the other aims to rule the labor market. There is a reduction or standstill of labor in either case, and the result reaches the consumer in the form of higher prices, whichever sort of combine is operating. Also the tyranny of the industrial union is greater than that of the commercial or manufacturing combine. The latter do not prevent their fellows, who stand aloof from the union, from carrying on their business, while mechanics' unions often do.

The question, therefore, whether combines are moral or not is not involved in the consideration of whether the recent anti-combines movement was deserving of success. If all the community were disorganized into individual breadwinners who were at liberty to do according to every man's will, then the anti-combines movement would have been genuine. But if combines should be uprooted, the movement to uproot them must be considered partial, as it aims at combines of a particular class, since combines of another class support such movement.

After all, is it a plain thing that suppression is the cure for the actual or threatened evils of combines? Such treatment may not be practicable, and if practicable may not be desirable. A study of the causes which have produced this social phenomenon might result in the conclusion that the combine is better regulated than suppressed. The combine in truth is the reaction from a bad state of things brought about by ruinous competition. Parliament has never undertaken to regulate competition, notwithstanding the fact that for the want of regulation this agency has wrought great harm to the financial standing of the country. To put limits upon a dealer's privelege to cut prices, seemed too much like interfering with the liberty of the subject, yet if something had been done to secure creditors and honest rivals from the danger of unbridled competition, there would have been no need now for a Combines Act. It is hard to see now why Parliament should consider combines a subject for legislation, when it did not consider competition to be one. The two principles are opposite extremes between which a normal condition of the market lies, and why Parliament should deal with one extreme more than with the other is hard to understand. The action of combines works well for the regulation of competition, and in that effect is good. The excesses of combination or of competition should, however, be checked.

AVOIDABLE CREDIT.

The credit system is undoubtedly a great convenience to those who have not ready money. But the sense of convenience is not the sole cause that moves customers to undertake future engagements. Of the large amount of credit given every year, of which the considerable unredeemed portion comes to the trader as loss, not all is to be laid at the door of the buyer's pertinacity. The credit system is regarded as a convenience by the buyer, but it is also held to have advantages for the seller, and the latter makes the most of them. The proportions to which the system has grown in these times are therefore an outcome of a recognition on the part of both buyer and seller that the thing is of service. Whatever loss the latter suffers through it is partly chargeable to his unsolicited granting of it. The policy which leads the seller to cultivate credit is the development of trade. Of course, the customer upon whom credit is urged is selected, he is supposed to be prosperous and honest. He is offered credit because the dealer wants trade which the present lack of cash tends to hinder. It is certain that a great part of our purchases are not prompted by necessity. There are many stimulants to trade beside the sense of need in the consumer. The trader promotes business by a judicious display of his wares. There are hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of goods sold in a year, which are sold at the suggestion of the dealer rather than in response to the demand of the customer. One mode of suggesting, as we have said, is display. There are many other modes, but the one specially in mind here is the suggestion of credit. This is very generally thrown out to eligible customers by the dealer. Such customers are prevailed upon to buy on the strength of the confidence the dealer has in them. They buy what they did not purpose buying, simply that the dealer may do business. Their credit may be good, but it is too often bad. There is therefore a percentage of loss from such trade. We believe in dealers using the arts of salesmen to induce trade, but the inveigling of a man into a credit account is not a praise-worthy mode of promoting business. It is likely to become a habit with the dealer who gives any countenance to it, and who finds a few cases of proffered credit to be productive of sales and to be satisfactory in payment results. As a habit, however, the thing would be apt to demonstrate its own impolicy, for a man would thus establish a business of which the strong inducement to customers would be the easily obtainable credit it offered, and thus such a business would soon fall under all the evils of a credit system. Further, where credit is easily got it is often lightly regarded and often violated. Credit will continue to exist in the business world, but much of the evil of it will be removed when none is given that is not asked, and when only part of what is asked is given.

THE TWENTY-FOURTH.

Our plea for the postponement of the holiday in honor of Her Majesty's birthday was made, not because it was felt the matter needed urging, but because business men might need reminding while there was time to have the change authorized. The twenty-fourth might be the day of celebration we felt, merely because no steps had been thought of in time to have the occasion put forward two days. We had not anticipated that conservatism would be tenacious of the custom of observing the birthday on the exact date of its occurrence. We were mistaken. This city stuck to the calendar. The council elected that the celebration should be held on the twenty-fourth, ignoring the fact that the day on which that date fell was a Saturday. This was a liberal sacrifice to loyalty, the best day of the week given up in a dull season to the observance of the Sovereign's birthday. Of course, the wholesale traders would in any case be closed the latter half of that day, but the retailers do a business on Saturday that usually runs far into the night. Pay is dispensed on Saturday, Sunday's supplies are laid in, in fact the bulk of the week's shopping is done on the day when pay is received. The changing of Saturday from a day of busy trade into one of idle pleasure means a great deal to everybody who keeps a shop. The money, it may be said, will be spent at the stores the following week if not spent on Saturday. Those dealers whose stocks are made up of necessaries know better than this. Nothing cuts down the demand for the staple articles of consumption more than an occasion of merry-making. It depends on which side of that occasion market-day falls whether the usual proportion of the wage-earner's money goes to provide for the needs or the pleasures of his household. If the holiday comes first it will take the liberal part of the funds. If the market day comes first, it will absorb a fair share of the cash in hand.

Saturday has long been considered almost as unsuitable for holiday purposes as Sunday. The practice of the towns and many of the cities has been to keep it consecrated, as it were, to business. Many of them in Ontario did so last week, and made a holiday of the 26th. They were the better of it. They had two money-spending crowds instead of one. They had the Saturday throng of marketers, and the Saturday store business. They had the Monday pleasure-seeking crowd, whose spare money went to the public houses, etc., but whose money reached the town all the same.

This city wasted a good day when its council decreed that Saturday should be given up to celebrating. The few who kept open did as much trade as could be expected, considering the public proclamation that there would be a cessation of activity on that day. But who is to blame for it that there was no postponement? Plainly the business men of the city were. Not an appeal was made in behalf of Monday, until the last meeting of council when a small delegation representing one body of traders recommended that business should not be suspended on Saturday, and that delegation was a few minutes late. There is an illustration in this of the lack of coherence among the local traders that is regrettable. A strong, unanimous, timely movement should have been made, and Saturday's business would not have been sacrificed. Such a movement we had in view when we advocated action to have the holiday postponed, and such movement seems to have been made among many towns throughout the country, for many of them had their sports, etc., on Monday. The dissatisfaction after the event among Toronto traders should teach them to be on the lookout for future holidays that may be allotted by the almanac to Saturday.

FAILURE OF THE MARYLAND PEACH CROP.

It is now a well assured fact, says the San Francisco Grocer, that canners of peaches in this State this year will have little or no competition from Baltimore packers of this fruit, which city is usually the leading producer of canned peaches in the country. The scarcity noted is due to the fact that the mild weather in the peach growing sections of Maryland and Deleware in February developed the buds, which were subsequently killed by the frosts which came in March. The supply of peaches, therefore, it is stated upon undoubted authority, will be so limited and the prices so high that Baltimore canners will be able to handle only a limited quantity. The "Baltimore Sun" of May 2d, contains an interesting account of the peach situation in the leading counties of Maryland from which it appears that in Somerset county there will not be fruit enough to supply the home demand and hardly one hundred boxes available for shipment. The peach crop in Wicomic county is entirely destroyed, the freeze in March having killed the buds and in Worcester county the same condition of things is noted, many of the young trees having been killed. From Dorchester county comes the same report and in Carolina county there will not be peaches enough for table use. In this and in Dorchester counties growers are disturbed at the appearance of the peach aphis, an insect which is said to be destroying trees to an alarming extent. In Kent county, which has three million peach trees, or a greater number for the territory covered than any peach producing section in the country, the buds are reported killed and the yield of fruit will be very small. One leading grower who has 30,000 trees states he will have only 300 baskets of peaches. The same state of things exists in Cecil county where no crop is expected. In Anne Arundel the insect pest noted as having appeared in other counties is prevalent and in this and Frederick county there will be but little fruit. From Washington county, a leading peach producing section come similar reports. Growers who last year had 1,000 bushels, will not this year market 50 bushels. It is evident that in Maryland the present will be an "off" year in peaches, which, to a considerable extent is true of other eastern states where the crop of this fruit is usually abundant.

THOSE GIFT TEA STORES.

The advisability of giving premiums with sales of tea has been agitating the trade press of the country for some time, and it is still a question of large scope and great possibilities. A good deal may be said on both sides and after it all has been said, the chances are that the consumer will do just about as he does now—buy tea where he can get the best value for his money. On this point C. J. Duke, one of Pittsburgh's best known tea sellers, in a recent letter said:

The grocer says the consumers go to the gift tea stores on account of the presents they get. This is something I do not believe occurs very often. We must give the average consumer credit for having some good judgment. At least, I claim that the retail dealers in groceries sends his customers to the gift tea store principally because he (the retailer) dosn't give the value that the gift tea store does. I have had customers of tea who knew what they were saying tell me that they got just as good an article of tea at the tea store for sixty cents; with a cup and saucer thrown in, as they could get at their grocer's for the same price, with no present. Now the grocer will say I don't know what I am talking about, or that the consumer who told me this was no judge of tea, and when he went to the tea store he did not have quality in his mind at all, but the present he would get. Pay attention, my dear retail grocer, and I will show you how easy it is for the gift tea store to give a better grade of tea at sixty cents per pound, cup and saucer thrown in, than the retail grocer can do at sixty cents per pound, no cup no saucer. Bear in mind, I say better tea than the average grocer gives. You want to know how this is done. I'll show you. The buyer of tea for the gift tea store is a judge of tea, buys on his own judgment and dosen't have to depend on the knowledge of a salesman, who, in very many cases, knows no more about tea than the common run of retail grocers themselves. The buyer for the tea store pays thirty cents per pound for that which he sells at sixty cents, which gives him one hundred per cent. profit. He pays twenty-five per cent. to his agents, twenty-five per cent. he gives away to presents, and has fifty per cent. left. Isn't this quite a decent profit?

Now, I want to show you what the retail grocer does regarding the purchase and sale of tea. He doesn't pay attention enough to tea to ever get much of a knowledge of the leaf. He buys about the best he can get at 30c. per lb., offering it for sale at 60c. per lb.—100 per cent. profit. Doesn't give cup and saucer ; doesn't pay 25 per cent. to agents for selling ; doesn't give quite as good an article of tea as the tea store, because he is not quite as good a buyer, and why? Simply because he never gave tea any particular study. Now tell me why the retail grocer doesn't get the trade on tea. The trouble is that the grocer wants to make up for all his losses and all his short profits on this one article, and so long as he continues in this way he need not expect to break up the tea store, but, on the other hand, in a few years tea will not be kept by the average grocer at all. Now don't understand that I mean this to apply to all retail grocers. Not at all. I am happy to state that I have some friends in the retail grocery business who are quite proud of the large trade they have on tea. These are the kind of grocers whom the tea stores dread. The reason they do a large tea business is because they have paid some attention to it. They know how to get the best tea for the least money ; they pay from 33 to 35c. per lb. for their 50c. tea, and 40c. for that which they sell at 60c., and they get the very highest grade that this much money will buy.—Pennsylvania Grocer.

ORDERING GOODS.

If there is one thing more than another that distinguishes the inexperienced or unsuccessful merchant it is lack of system, and especially in regard to ordering goods. The stock is let run down in one or more lines until the circumstance suddenly becomes known by a call for the articles from some customer whom the dealer particularly wishes to please. Hence, there is danger that customers may be lost, because the mere fact that the stock has been allowed to run down so low augurs gross carelessness, and patrons are apt to reason that a dealer who is careless in one important respect may be neglectful of other important matters. When articles have been completely sold out, it is not always advisable to rely on freight transportation in obtaining a new supply, because of the delay that ensues, hence merchants often are compelled to have their orders sent by express at higher cost, of course, but time in such cases is of the greatest moment. The increased cost of express transportation grievously handicaps the neglectful dealer in competition with more businesslike and systematic rivals, and a few such lessons generally teach him better methods. Such unpleasant experiences might always be avoided by adopting a simple and inexpensive system of keeping run of the stock. A blank book should be procured in which to enter all articles in stock as they are getting low. Whenever the usual time for replenishing the stock comes around or whenever the traveling salesman looks in for orders, a glance at the stock book will show at once what goods are likely to be needed; if the merchant will then go to his shelves containing the articles noted in his stock book, he can tell just what quantity to order. The wholesale firms, of necessity, are very particular in regard to keeping run of stock. Each department is furnished with a separate stock book, which is made up every morning; hence a salesman, by referring to the record, can instantly gauge his ability to fill orders. So complete and exact a system is perhaps not needed in the general run of retail establishments, but unless the retail merchant adopts some kind of a system of keeping track of stock, and rigidly adheres to it, he will not only be at a disadvantage compared with competitors, but run the chance of losing trade.

Merchants who order frequently, and in small quantities, goods to be shipped by rail, can afford to take advantage of the low freight rates at "owner's risk," but where shipments are made in large quantities, "carrier's risk," rates may be really the cheapest. When ordering goods by water transportation, it is generally advisable for merchants to instruct their jobbers to insure the goods.—Merchants' Review.

THE CANADIAN PACKERS' ASSOCIATION.

The Canadian Packers' Association held its May session, in Hamilton last week. Tuesday and Wednesday, were spent in business, Thursday in visiting the factory of the Norton Manufacturing Co., which has opened in that city, and in whose workings packers are specially interested. On Thursday night the Packers' were the guests of the Norton Manufacturing Co.

BUSINESS TRANSACTED.

At the regular meeting on Tuesday and Wednesday, held in the St. Nicholas Hotel, were present :—

Messrs. W. Boulter (President) Picton ; D. W. Douglas, St. John's Que.; J. Anning, Picton ; B. R. Nelles, Grimsby ; W. A. Fergusson, Delhi ; C. Fenton, St. Catharines ; W. H. Hardison, Welland ; H. I. Mathews, Lake Port ; D. Marshall, Aylmer, W. P. Innes, Simcoe ; R. R. Waddell, and E. DeCew, of Hamilton. The object of the meeting was to arrange a schedule of prices for the canning season. A very satisfactory adjustment of all pending questions was arrived at.

AT THE NORTON M'F'G. CO'S. WORKS.

On the invitation of the Norton Manufacturing Company, the members of the Canadian Packers' Association visited the works on Thursday afternoon. Among those present were Mr. E S. Judge, editor of The Trade, Baltimore ; M. E. P. Breckenridge, President of the Norton Company ; Mr. Seagar, President National Packers' Association of the United States ; Mr. Douglass, St. John's, Que., Mr. W. Boulter, Picton, President Canadian Packers' Association ; Mr. Anning, of the firm of A. C. Miller & Co., Picton ; Mr. Ferguson, of the Delhi Canning Company ; Mr. Innes, of the Simcoe Canning Company ; Mr. Bowlby, Waterford ; Mr. Hardison, of Welland ; Mr. Marshall, Aylmer, Mr. Fenton, Erie Canning Company, St. Catharines and Buffalo ; Mr. DeCew and Mr. F. W. Fearman, of Hamilton and others. These gentlemen were shown the Norton automatic can making system of machinery in motion by Mr. W. C. Breckenridge, manager, and Mr. W. B. Holbombe, assistant manager, and all were delighted and surprised at what they saw, the machinery being of the most ingenious yet simplest kind. The system is strictly automatic, taking the plate in the sheet and making it into cans in about twenty minutes, and landing the cans in the third story of the wareroom, at the rate of five thousand per hour. The plate first passes through the hands of the expert sorter, whose touch is so cultivated as applied to a sheet as to detect the smallest particle of difference in the thickness of each sheet. Only one thickness is employed, as it is necessary that the cans should all be of a uniform weight. The next move carries it to the two slitting machines—the first trimming the plate and the second subdividing it into sections, which form the bodies of the cans. These are immediately passed in bulk to the body-making machines located just to the right of the slitting machines. It is at this point that the operation of putting the cans together begins, and also at this point where the plate leaves the hands of the workman to pass into the automatic machinery, from which it emerges already manufactured for the market. The body-making machines give the can its spherical shape and make the body seam in the can. Attached to the body-making machine and extending at right angles comes the automatic soldering system, which consists of an endless belt made of chain links and which passes the can in their first and present formation through a bath of solder; along this soldering machine at intervals of a few feet, are various automatic devices that clear the cans from surplus solder inside and out. They move rapidly along until they reach the ending machine As they pass into this machine, two workmen feed into a hopper-shaped division of the machine, the tops and bottoms of the cans, which have come from another section of the works. In passing through the ending machine the tops and bottoms are automatically secured to the bodies, which completes the manufacture so far as putting the cans together. From this point the cans roll along the system of the endless chain, which governs the automatic process after it enters the soldering machine to its second baptism of solder, which secures the tops and bottoms of the cans to the bodies. After passing through this solder bath they have become very hot. They are cooled, however, for their next department, which is the test, by rolling over about 50 feet of an endless belt, which is cooled by air forced into the cans through pipes.

They have not reached the testing machine, which is a mammoth tank filled with hot water and through which passes the endless moving belt, which has performed so important an office in the automatic process of manufacturing the cans. As they move into the water the open end of the can is closed by an automatic device which presses a rubber form to the opening, thereby preventing any air from getting into the can. If any one of the cans leaks, it is at once shown when passing through the testing machine by the air bubbles that float to the top of the water. This test is perfect on scientific principles. The revolving belt is still in active operation and the cans now start on their return trip to the point whence they set out in the shape of a flat piece of plate. They pass over steam pipes in their route out. By the time they reach the end they are perfectly dry and ready to be packed into crates of 250 cans each. The factory is equipped to turn out 50,000 cans a day, to store 1,000,000 cans, and has facilities for employing 75 hands in connection with their machinery. After the inspection the visitors expressed their pleasure at what they had seen and thanked the gentlemanly manager and his assistant for their kindness.

THE BANQUET.

On Thursday night the members of the Association were entertained at a banquet at the Royal Hotel by the Norton Manufacturing Company. The affair was one of the most successful and pleasant that has ever taken place in the city. Among those present were : Mayor McLellan, Colonel Monaghan, United States Consul; Adam Brown, M. P., Rev. S. Lyle, B. D., F. W. Fearman, A. F. Forbes, Wm. Marshall, E. DeCew, J. Stephens, S. J. Ireland and others of Hamilton; Messrs. W. Boulter, Picton; E. S. Judge, editor of Trade, Baltimore; Mr. Jennings, CANADIAN GROCER, Toronto; T. E. Owens and J. Anning, Picton; R. Bowlby, Waterford; J. Douglas, St. John, Que. ; W. A. Fergusson, Delhi; C. Fenton, St. Catharines; B. R. Nelles, Grimsby; W. P. Innes, Simcoe; E. P. Breckenridge, President of the Norton Manufacturing Co., Toledo; W. C. Breckenridge, resident manager, and W. B. Holcombe, assistant local manager.

The dinner did credit to the Royal Hotel, and would have done credit to any hotel on the continent. The menu was superb, embracing everything that the most fastidious could desire, from clear turtle soup to fresh strawberries. Never was there a more satisfied looking lot of diners together. Messrs. Hood & Bro. came in for no small amount of praise.

After the last course had been disposed of Manager Breckenridge asked Mayor McLellan to welcome the guests, which he did on behalf of the city in a very neat little speech; then Manager Breckenridge welcomed them on behalf of the Norton Manufacturing Company.

The toast list was then entered upon, and a few hours were spent in intellectual enjoyment.

"The Queen" was first, and was duly honored.

"The President of the United States," was responded to in a capital speech by Col. Monaghan.

"The Dominion Parliament" brought Mr. Adam Brown to his feet, and he made a suitable response. He touched upon the good feeling existing between the United States and Canada, giving expression to sentiments which elicited applause.

"The National Policy" was the next toast, and Mr. W. Boulter, President of the Canadian Packers' Association, delivered an address. He spoke in an interesting way of the early formation of the Association and the first meeting in Hamilton.

Mr. Fred. Powis gave a couple of humorous recitations.

"The visitors from the United States" was responded to by Mr. Fenton, of the Erie Canning Company.

"The canning industry of Canada and the United States" was responded to by Mr. E.

S. Judge, of Baltimore, Secretary of the National Canned Goods Association, and editor of the Baltimore Trade Journal, in a lauditory and felicitous speech.

A letter of regret was read from Mr. Edward Norton, Vice-President of the company, Chicago, who was unable to be present on account of illness. He forwarded a paper entitled "Shall the packer buy his cans or make them," which was read by Mr. Holcombe, the assistant manager of the Hamilton branch.

"The Press" was responded to by Mr. Geo. M. Bagwell, of the Times and Mr. Jennings of the CANADIAN GROCER, Toronto.

"The Pork and Lard Industry" was responded to by Mr. F. W. Fearman, who expressed the pleasure he had of being present, and also the delight he took in witnessing the manufacture of the cans at the factory in the afternoon.

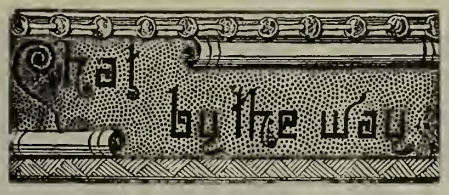
"The Ladies" were well looked after by Messrs. Owen, of Picton, and Holcombe, of Hamilton. The latter gentleman in a neat speech (though there were none present) embraced them among the canning trade's best friends.

A vote of thanks was then passed to the Norton Manufacturing Company for the rich banquet tendered to the Association on this occasion.

Rev. Mr. Lyle, on behalf of Mr. W. C. Breckenridge, responded in an eloquent speech, which drew forth great enthusiasm.

The proceedings were brought to a close by singing a verse of "America" and "God Save the Queen." Altogether the banquet was of a very happy nature, and will tend to cement a bond of friendship between the Norton Manufacturing Company and the Canadian Packers' Association which will last for a long time to come.

WORTH TWICE THE MONEY.



Williamsford, May 19th, '90.

EDITOR CANADIAN GROCER,

Dear Sir,—Enclosed find the sum of two dollars to pay next year's subscription to THE GROCER. Would not be without it for twice the money. It is the only trade paper published in Canada worthy the patronage of retailers. Wishing you the highest success, I remain

Yours respectfully,
A. PARKS.

The Inland Revenue Department has recently issued a bulletin of about thirty pages which is devoted exclusively to the subject of baking powder and which shows that the majority of the goods in the market are adulterated and unfit for use. Prof. A. McGill, who has had charge of this important work for the Government, says that "imperial baking power is an excellent baking powder." A word to the sensible housekeeper should be suffcieut.

Mr. Chas. Goheen has opened a general store at Pentypool, Ont.

John Howick's grocery, Hamilton, was entered by thieves on the 17th inst., and $7 extracted from the till.

The grocery clerks of St. John, N. B., are agitating for early closing, and to all appearances are meeting with success.

Mr. Kinsilla's grocery, on Cumberland st., Ottawa, was burglarized early on Monday morning. The robbers secured $250.

Mr. J. W. McDonough, grocer of Woodstock, N. B., met with a mishap that will cause him a few days of pain. While putting some goods on a high shelf the step-ladder toppled over, causing him to sprain his ankle severely. His many friends are watching anxiously for his recovery.

Let no man drain his business to support an outside object, or let his mind wander to other lines of making money, for it will be speedily felt. This has been the source of failure in numberless cases. The most successfull man is that one who devotes all his thoughts and energies to his legitimate occupation and sticks to it.

The Sarnia Maizee and Milling Coy., put the first Maizea on the market, last Saturday, and it is now on sale at the groceries. The Company starts off under favorable circumstances and the manufacture of this excellent article of food in Sarnia is bound to keep a flourishing industry going. The Company have a large number of orders on hand and are kept busy trying to fill them.—Sarnia Observer.

Chickory is now grown at Whitewood, and it is expected quite an industry will result. Last year 125 bushels per acre was produced, being only half a crop, owing to the dry season. A factory had been built and equipped with improved machinery and a quantity canned last season and placed upon the market where it made a good name. Count de Roffignac is conducting the venture with expert growers and workers at Rolandrie farm. —Winnipeg Colonist.

The organization of the Sarnia Board of Trade was completed at a well attended meeting held in the council chamber, on the 20th inst. Mayor Watson occupied the chair. The constitution drafted by the committee appointed at last meeting was read by the secretary and adopted with slight alterations. The following were the officers elected by the Board :—Thomas Kenny, President; Jas. King and Thos. Symington, Vice Presidents; T. W. Nisbte, Treasurer; T. M. Donnelly, Secretary. Council, C. S. Ellis, Dr. Johnston, John Lowrie, T. Doherty and G H. Griffin.

A shocking accident occurred early Saturday morning on the Grand Trunk tracks between High park and the rolling mills, Swansea which resulted in the death of Mr. H. J. Heale, a west Toronto Junction grocer, whose parents reside at Goderich. The deceased who was only 22 years of age, was walking on the track and was struck by the Globe train and instantly killed. Coroner Lynd was notified, but after fully investigating the case decided that an inquest was unnecessary and ordered that the body be turned over to friends, who will forward it to Goderich for burial.

The circular sent out by the Philadelphia Retail Grocers' Association, asking wholesalers and manufacturers to co-operate with that body for the maintenance of fair prices, has been answered by the leading members in both classes of business, in very satisfactory terms. The wholesalers and manufacturers whose replies have been received promise to give the influence of their practice to put down price-cutting. This is as it should be. Retailers' associations in the country should try what virtue there is in such an appeal to Canadian wholesalers. The circular was copied in our last issue.

A common practice among retail traders is that of offering "leaders" to the public in the hope of obtaining additional trade which will compensate for any loss sustained by the low figures at which the "leader" must be sold in order to be an inducement. This custom, for so common has the practice become that it may well be termed a custom, is one which under ordinary circumstances is of doubtful merit and the merchant often realizes this after he has discovered that the expected business has not materialized. A retail dealer who offers special inducements or bargains or sells goods under any other alluring combination of phraseology will be patronized without a doubt, but the customer will in nine cases out of ten confine purchasing to the "below cost" goods and it is not to be expected that the tenth patron is going to make up by heavy purchases of other wares the loss sustained on the sales. The safest policy of which to conduct business would seem to be on an even basis of profit. Careful computation will reveal just the percentage required to meet expenses and pay a fair interest on invested capital and there is much less danger of coming out at the short end by pursuing this course, then when stock is being constantly sold at figures unprofitable in the speculative hope of drawing custom to high priced goods, upon which a profit above the average is expected.—Grocer and Country Merchant.

The aim of every Grocer should be, to earn a reputation for selling THE BEST.

HECK'S COLUMN.

I'm just going to look at your back yard a short time while you are busy with a customer. Nice place, is it not? So clean, every box, and barrel piled so nicely, no straw lying around or dirty paper, decayed fruit, old tins. What a difference from your store. This is what I told the man, and he stood so still I thought he was going to faint.

"Nobody will see it. If you hadn't been, where you ain't got no business to be you would not have seen it, either. Now get out." I got out, and standing across the road for a little while, I noticed that folks kept out of his store also. He had to go out in that yard for certain goods kept in the shed in the rear, and of course left the door open on his way out. How could people help seeing it? I saw it, but made the excuse to see it better. He is not the only store keeper with a dirty yard. One or two of the clerks would clean that place in half a day and have it in shape before the busy season comes on.

Those windows want cleaning, also those scales, and the cellar, has not had a going over for months. The rats will spoil hundreds of dollars worth of goods, if you do not tend to these things.

Few clerks do not wear straw cuffs behind the counter, and my experience is that they are not always an easy thing to get. Of course there are lots made, but they seem to be too small or two large for comfort. I saw this week a pair made out of light leather, on the same plan as the straw cuffs are, as far as shape goes, but inside the cuff at the smaller end was a piece of very thin leather, say an inch wide, drawn together with elastic. This prevents any dirt from going up the sleeve when reaching above you. I tried them on and can assure you they were away ahead of the old kind, and not being patented I would think any harness maker could manufacture a pair for you.

Travellers east who visit the city of Fredricton, N. B., have to put up where the wind blows best. The two leading hotels, the Queen's and Barker House, are closed to the public, the proprietors of each being in jail for breaking the Scott Act. The excuse offered by these hotel men is, that they cannot attend to business while they are locked up. The sample rooms even are not to be used, and some of the merchants, positively refuse to buy goods from the travelling men. This looks rather foolish on the part of the merchants, and the travellers are rather sore against the hotel men also.

At the foot of several of collecting agency's yellow bills on the fences about Kingston is a note in manuscript, in which the writer gives the name of a merchant from whom he got goods, and states that the goods were not what they were represented to be. A suit will be the result.

Mr. E. S. Judge, editor of the Baltimore Trade, paid his first visit to Canada, last week. His observations, though hurriedly taken, dispose him to form a very favorable opinion of this country. He attended the session of the Canadian Packers' Association that met in Hamilton, on the 20th, 21st, and 22nd.

A gathering of the representatives of Kingsford's Oswego Starch Co. will be held at Oswego next week. This is the first of the kind and has been looked forward to with interest by many of the staff, some of whom have never yet been in Oswego. Mr. T. O Leonard, Detroit, who takes Western Ontario was here this week on his way east.

The adjourned meeting of the Merritton Cotton Company was held on Tuesday afternoon in the Toronto Board of Trade room. Unfinished business was got through with and the following board of directors elected: Messrs. W. T. Keighley, Thomas Long, J. H. Hunter, W. Dineen, John Drynan, Thomas Lailey, Henry A. King and W. Kerns, M.P.P.

With a view to strengthening the new Toronto Board of Trade building and placing it beyond the slighest danger from further damage, some alterations will be made with reference to the chimney and ventilator. The experts that examined the chimney disagreed as to its strength. Mr. James and Engineer Jennings declared it quite safe, but Mr. Wellington, of New York, condemned it as too light at the base, that the accident had weakened it, and the board has decided to take Mr. Wellington's advice and the chimney will come down. Mr. James was unable to stay in the city and superintend the work, so Mr. Kent of Buffalo, will act in his place. The chimney will be placed outside in the area and also the ventilator. This will give more room within. The change at the outside will not amount to $10,000. The ground floors are being tested up to five-and-a-half-tons.

WHAT IT COSTS TO SECURE A NEW CUSTOMER THROUGH ADVERTISING.

All mercantile trades depend largely for success on their ability to catch customers, and from the "barker" in front of a clothing store, to Sapolio in the street cars, the effort engages many fishers for men.

The cost of catching one new customer for any branch of goods varies greatly, says the Dry Goods Chronicle. It is conceded that the proprietors of Pears' Soap, Sapolio and such articles expend from four to five times the gross amount of the first sale in order to effect it. An outlay of $1 to sell 20 cents worth of soap to a new family is not unusual nor is it unprofitable if the customer is held. The cost of securing new stores to handle such goods is greater just as the result when attained is relatively more valuable.

Sixty millions of people—divided by seven makes about 8,500,000 families—these again are supplied with every necessary of life by an average of one store to fifty families. We refer to stores where everything from a needle to a wagon is sold.

"Urban and rural divisions of population again alter the case. One-quarter of the people of the United States live in cities—the remaining three-quarters on farms or in the open country. So the cities are supplied by about 100,000 groceries, and the country by about 150,000 general stores.

"Is not the shortest road to the great public the lesser factor—the store at which it deals? Not alone are the supplies drawn from the country store—it is a store-house of opinions, a bureau of information, in it the post-office is located, and the storekeeper himself is the leading man of the town. What a genins he is! He trades for cash, or for credit, or for barter. He draws his stock from the great cities and is in turn a large shipper of produce, cotton, wool, butter, eggs, dried fruits, hides, and countless oddities from fish sounds to ginseng, to the city markets. He is a town burgess, director in the bank, and at church at least choir leader, if he is not superintendent of the Sunday-school. His fame is generally known and his advice eagerly sought through the country. If he indorses anything—it goes.

"There is such a thing as a trade press, but three-quarters of them are mere advertising sheets, filled with puffs and long-winded market reports of no earthly value to the retail dealer, and besides have little circulation other than among their advertisers.

"Select a trade journal of character and standing that reaches the trade Talk direct in it, word your advertisement to the point. Show dealers the advantage and profit in handling your goods and they will buy from you."

TRADE SALES.

The bankrupt stock of D. E. Finch, Springfield, was sold the other day by W. Y. Brunton at 82 cents on the dollar. The stock of C. A. Parsons, Otterville, brought 60 cents; that of George Cook, Springfield, was withdrawn, and that of J. Morrison, Appin, was sold at 55 cents.

The Petrolea branch of the insolvent Isbester estate has been purchased by Messrs. Fitzgerald & Scandrett, of London, who have taken possession.

It is stated that Mr. H. N. Bain, of Tilsonburg, has disposed of his stock of dry goods, groceries, etc., to Messre. Hansler & Graves, of that town.

The Franklin correspondent to the Victoria Warder says: Our merchant, Mr. Joseph Hadden is doing a very lively business in the egg trade. He ships to Montreal three times every week. I saw him on Saturday ship twenty-one cases and he had almost as many more in his shop ready for shipment as soon as cases would arrive. Mr. Hadden cannot be cornered in the egg trade, nor crowded out by either Lindsay or Peterboro buyers, and the farming community of Manvers and Cavan ought to stand by him in the future, for the stand he has taken in this line; his business is steadily increasing. You cannot do any better in any of the large towns than you can with him. You can hear some to say they can do better. His motto is quick sales and small profits. Farmers, give your eggs to the man that will give you the most for them. Mr. Hadden is paying at present 11 and 12 cents for them.

GROCERS! A Few Facts for both Wholesaler and Retailer.

Do you know that a first-class article's best advertisement is its own merit? It is. So with the Grocer, his best advertisement is that he keeps nothing but first-class goods. The wholesaler supplies the goods to the retailer. The retailer sells them knowing they are the best of the kind. The customer buys, knowing what he or she gets is all it is claimed to be. Everyone is satisfied. Satisfaction to your customers means a continuation of business with them. These are facts. Now for a practical application.

Surprise Is a pure Laundry Soap, free from all injurious chemicals, made from the purest stock, guaranteed to give satisfaction and is all it is claimed to be in every respect. By a system of prices profit is given to all handling SURPRISE.

Profit Quick sales, a fair margin of profits and satisfaction to all concerned is what everyone is looking for. SURPRISE fills the bill. SURPRISE is largely advertised, is a very fine article and will sell on its merits alone. All wholesale dealers are protected by our system of prices which always gives them a good profit, which profit we can practically guarantee. The retailer buys at a price which gives him a good profit and still sells SURPRISE cheap as common soaps to the consumer, who profits by getting a first-class article.

We do all the advertising and pushing. You sell the SURPRISE, making a good profit, guaranteeing it to your customers as we do to you. Do you keep SURPRISE in stock? If not we shall be pleased to quote prices on application.

GROCERIES.

A circumstance that broke in upon the quiet of trade was the fact that Toronto celebrated the Queen's birthday on the 24th, while most of the towns and country places took the 26th for their holiday. Excursion rates on the latter day brought a large number of retailers into the city, and their visit gave quite a stimulus to business. The stir on Monday was a mere spasm however, and is likely to be followed by quietness that will not again be broken till the strawberry season is due. Payment has been fairly prompt.

CANNED GOODS.

Consumption loses none of its zest for corn, peas, and tomatoes. The nervousness of some packers, which was betrayed by the break in prices three weeks ago, has given way to a feeling of confidence in the capabilities of consumption to clear the market before the pressure of the new crop is felt. The price of corn is steady at $1, and peas at $1.15. Tomatoes are firm at $1.25. These are the staples of the moment. The feature of the past week's buying has been better faith in the security of the market, a feeling that has been evinced in the greater magnitude and larger number of the orders that have been received since the equilibrium of prices has shown strong signs of being restored. Salmon is unsettled at $1.50 to $1.65, but white can be bought for $1.35.

The Delhi Canning Co. has sold the balance of its gallon apples for shipment to England. This will make a total of 1,600 cases exported by this firm alone to England this season. As previously noted, exports have been made by other packers.

COFFEES.

A dull market is reflected in the coffee trade. There is not an iota of change in the situation described a week ago. The call for Javas and Mochas has not risen above the dead level at which it has stood for months. Maracaibo and Plantation Ceylon are in fair demand. Rio is scarce in the low grades, which are wanted, and for the lack of which there is a decline in coffee buying. Prices have not moved.

DRIED FRUIT.

Prunes are somewhat illusory stock. It is a fact that they are scarce at all points of wholesale supply, and most stocks here are low. But some dealers are carrying stock bought at low prices, and which they are now putting on the market at figures below those to which the advance has brought prunes. Hogsheads are worth 5½ to 6c., but there are sales made at less, and kegs are 7 to 9c. The firmness of Valencia raisins is unrelaxed. The lightness of stocks makes the market easily controllable by holders. The demand for both prunes and valencias is also becoming favorable to an increase in prices. In currants prices are also strong, and with no new fruit in sight, there is likelihood of higher values before the summer is far on. The present stock is held with confidence, and no dealer has the advantage in the currant trade which early buying gave a few in prunes. Sultana raisins are receiving pretty good attention, and prices are very firm. Figs are in very small supply, and not in specially strong demand. Prices are unchanged.

Cremedi Brothers' Currants Report from Patras says: Now that the end of the present season is near to hand, we think it advisable to give you some particulars regarding the march of last year's crop. We may mention that the 1888 crop reached to 160,000 T, out of which about 6000 remained in Greece when the crop of 1889 began, and that this season's (1889-1890) exportation amounts to 143,000 T, including the aforesaid 6000 T of 1888 production, and that there are yet about 5000 T left in the country. In the opening of the season moderate prices were obtained, which prices gradually improved, owing to the continual demand from French markets and large consumption there. In spite of threats regarding an increase of duty and various other administrative measures on the side of the French Government injurious to currants, consumption in France during the season is computed at 65,000 to 70,000 T, against 45,000 T, the average one. The coming crop seems good in every respect, although it is too early yet to form an opinion thereupon.

NUTS.

The demand from all parts for the gatherings that celebrated the Queen's birthday lifted business considerably above the level at which it has long rested. There is no change in prices. The stocks are running low in sorts of almonds but the Tarragona. Cocoanuts have been on hand for a short time.

RICE AND SPICES.

Rice is strengthening. At points of production, the market has run up, whether under a speculative or legitimate impulse is hard to say. The firmness is not unlikely to be warranted, however, by short crops and a demand that will concentrate from many quarters upon regions where the yield is best. The shortness of the crop is a matter that rests upon evidence that may not be wholly disinterested. In spices there is no change, no extra demand, no fall off in the supply, no change in prices.

SUGAR.

The time is drawing near when improvement may be looked for if it is to come at all. The strawberries will be gathered next month. The strength and steadiness of the demand that will then set in are expected to maintain the market at better prices than are now ruling. A better feeling in the New York market may be the precursor of such improvement here. At the moment reports from New York are decidedly more hopeful. Raw sugars are now plentiful, and offering freely in round lots from 5¼c. up. There is some dark Porto Rico to be had at 5c., but it is too dark for grocery purposes. Business has been quiet in all lines.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

The abundance and cheapness of butter hinder trade in syrups. The fruit season will prolong the time that consumption is withdrawn from syrups. Prices are unchanged, though so little is done. Molasses at no time runs off rapidly. It is selling quietly now at Current Price quotations.

mitted. Stocks are not low in the finer grades of Japan, and what is offered at the outset of the season, being of the first pick, is always of those grades. Further, prices are always higher for arrivals of the first shipment as fast rates are then paid. In Japan the want is for low grades. These will not be on the market till the second or third picking. Low grade buyers are firm, having gone up ½d. in England. Present samples are not near the value of those offered a month ago. The demand for greens is very quiet. The demand for Indian teas continues steady, it is mostly for medium Pekoes. In London the smaller quantity offered met with a good demand, and medium teas sold at rather higher rates. The few lines of finest quality commanded extreme prices. The deliveries of Indian tea this month will, it is expected, reach at least 12 million pounds. Ceylon teas are quiet locally. Competition in London was better, most attention being paid to useful liquoring teas up to 10d. Fine are difficult to obtain. The average price is 10d. per pound as compared with 9½d. a year ago.

The London Grocer says of the tea market: "Demand continues very slack, the alteration in the duty having cast such confusion amongst the packet people and retail grocers that it will be weeks before the retail trade can settle down in its regular ways. Everybody wants their teas cleared at once, but this is impossible, considering the size of the trade. In olden times pure teas in original half-chests were sold, but now the bulk of the trade is in blended teas, and these are generally composed of three or four kinds—part of the blend may be cleared in, but the detention of the other parts retards the whole. Confusion reigns supreme, and no one knows whether the public will go for the 2d. per lb. reduction, or whether they will ask for better tea at the old prices —time only will show. We look for a distinct rise in common tea within three months, but the demand is so small for the better grades that there seems little chance of an improvement in them, unless they are taken for export."

Nearly all local jobbers remark that the distribution of teas the past week has been more satisfactory than was that of the corresponding period last year. In some cases the increase of sales is said to be one-third, and in several instances the claim is made of 20 to 25 per cent gain. Low grades have figured most conspicuously in the improvement. Japans, Formosas and Amoys fareing nearly alike in this particular. Jobbers are getting an average of about 1½c. advance over the prices current early last month, thus covering the increased cost at first hands. The position of supplies in the jobbing trade here and elsewhere, it is claimed, favors the maintenance of present prices, if indeed, not a further slight advance before long, providing no unforseen disturbing influence arises elsewhere.—N. Y. Bulletin.

PETROLEUM.

No circumstance has disturbed the condition of the market as indicated last week. The cool evenings are perhaps favorable to consumption inasmuch as there is more of the after-twilight spent inside than would be the case if we had warmer nights. To this fact may be attributed a slight improvement in trade. Prices are unchanged.

DRUGS AND CHEMICALS.

No improvement in trade is reported. The cool weather puts off the demand for preparations that usually sell well during the season of summer illnesses. Prices have not changed in any respect.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

Commission merchants are bewailing the slowness and lowness of sales in butter. Stock is plentiful, butter is wanted, yet these essential conditions of a market are paralyzed by the quality. When the cheese factories and creameries get started all over the country it is hoped that the productiveness of domestic makers will be enormously reduced, as the new butter now sent upon the market by them is without many reedeming features. What is new is not yet well colored, as the transition from the barnyard to the grass is only now completed. The make is also discreditable to house dairies, and although new tubs are few they are selling at 12 to 14c. Large rolls, including both new and old that has been made over, are weak at 10 to 12c. Pound rolls are 12 to 14c. The old tub butter fairly pollutes the market, so abundant and so bad is it. The prices are 5 to 8c. Commission merchants undertake to sell it, but they have little success. One had the good luck to lighten himself of two or three hundred tubs, but he realized nothing on it. Creamery rolls are arriving freely. Extra choice are worth 20 to 22c. There is a large quantity of such butter that is classified by buyers as farmers' baskets, on account of its inferiority, and goes at 15 to 16c.

New cheese is 9 to 9½c. The market is fairly well stocked, but the demand for old rather retards business in new. Old seems to be plentiful among wholesalers at 10½ to 11c. There is a quiet trade.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—May be now dropped out of the list of marketable commodities. They are done, at least so far as dealings in them as a branch of business are concerned. The prices quoted a week ago, $4.75 to $5 in large lots, and $6 out of store are nominal.

BEANS—All purchases are in small lots, which run from $1.60 to $1.80. There is very good inquiry and a small stock.

DRIED APPLES—Go off rather freely at 5 to 5½c. There is a consumers' demand now pretty busy which is taking up the stocks held. It is believed that most of the unconsumed fruit is now in the hands of distributors.

EVAPORATED APPLES—The market is showing signs that business will be a ruling feature in a few weeks. Already the supply seems below the requirements, if the latter are to be measured by the consumption of last year from the corresponding time. Prices are firm at 8 to 9½c for old, and 10 to 12c. for new.

EGGS—Production seems to be liberal, for there is now an unusually good market, of which the American demand is the strong element. That demand will be dormant in a few weeks, if the proposed American tariff remains unchanged and goes into effect as soon as is expected. The price is 12½c. On this a further half cent is not unlikely to develope very soon.

HAY—There has been no shifting of the relations between the supply and the demand, and that prices have not changed. No. 1 is wanted at $10.50 to $11.

HIDES—Car-lots of cured still go at 5½c. Green also are unchanged. Steers are 5¾c. for No. 1, 4¾c. for No. 2, 3¾c. for No. 3. Cows 1c. less in each class. There is a limited supply and a very good demand. The market always improves at this season, but the uncertainty of the prospect that hides would be dearer to Americans in the near future, on account of the extra duty so often proposed and withdrawn from; has led American buyers to operate on this market more than is usual. This has given a better turn to prices.

HONEY—The season of floral profusion will soon be here, and the gathering of last year is not nearly sold. If the demand does not improve there will be a large surplus when the new crop is ready for the market. This is a possibility that was forseen as early as last autumn, for the crop then was unusually large, and led to the expectation of a lighter one in the succeeding year, so that a surplus of last year's crop may be desirable to modify the prices this year. There is no change, clear being 11½ to 12½c., and comb 14 to 16c.

HOPS — A very fair business has run through the season since picking, but prices have been very steady, at low figures. The large crop that two successive years have yielded is the cause of this. Yearlings are 10 to 12c., and new are 13 to 15.

OATS—A strong outside demand, and a decline in the supply have raised prices. They are now firm at 39 to 40c. in car lots. These prices have slightly checked the demand which was operative in producing them.

ONIONS—Are 2½ to 3½c. a pound. There are very few offered.

POTATOES—Continue to go up in value, 65c. being the lowest price for car lots at this point. At outside points 60c. are paid. There is good inquiry from both east and west. Store lots are 75 to 80c.

SEEDS—The only descriptions now called for are millet, Hungarian grass, corn and buckwheat. The prices of these remain at last weeks quotations: Hungarian grass and millet are 70 to 75c.; select yellow horsetooth corn is 55c.; giant prolific sweet ensilage is 70c.; red cob ensilage is 60c.; ordinary buckwheat is 50c.; and Japanese is 75c.

SKINS—The supply of sheep remains poor, but prices are still $1.25 to $1.60. No. 1 calf is 7c., and No. 2 is 5c.

STRAW—Sells at $5.50 to $6.

TALLOW—Rough is 2c. and rendered is 5 to 5¼c.

WOOL—The cool weather delays the opening of the market for new fleeces, and old fleeces have about ceased to offer. Price is 22c. Pulled is also scarce, on account of the scarcity of skins. Prices are 24c. for common, 25 to 26 for super, and 30c. for extra super.

FISH.

The demand for white fish and salmon trout is very large at present as is always the case at the beginning of the summer season. There are large supplies received daily. A very fair demand for British Columbia salmon is current, and a good supply is received every day. The stock of lake fish on hand is small but a larger supply is expected from now on. The demand for pickerel at this time of the season is light as the consumption is much larger in winter. A few pirch can be had now. The following are the prices: White fish 5½ to 6c.; salmon trout 5½ to 6c.; British Columbia salmon 17 to 18c.; pickerel 4½ to 5c.; lake herring $1.75 to $2.00 per hundred, by count pirch 3c.

GREEN FRUIT.

The stiffness of prices for Valencia oranges was not at its maxinum when the first of the Montreal sales closed. The little purchasing that was then done by Toronto dealers was at prices that would bring the fruit $8.50 to $9 to the retailer. The sales of last week established still higher values, and now Valencias are not to be had under $10 to $11. In this market they are not to be had at all, as local wholesalers would not lay in stock at the high figures ruling. The '89 crop Valencias is practically off the market. At the prices now holding it is plain there is only such a remnant of the crop as will fill the demand of special consumers of fancy fruit. The Messinas are unchanged at $4.50 to $5. There are a few half cases of Palermos at $2.75. At the end of the week it is expected that some Rodi (Italians) and some Riverside oranges will be brought upon the market, but these will not have a controlling effect upon the prices of Messinas which divide the year with Floridas, Valencias and Jamacias as the great staples. Rodis will sell at $6, and the Riversides at $5.50. Lemons are $3.50 to $4, 360's and 300's quoting about alike. Pineapples are 15 to 20c. each, according to size. Bananas are $1.75 to $2 per bunch. The bulk of the stock at present on hand is red. Strawberries come at 27c. to retailers. The week's business in green fruit has been very good. The continuance of cool weather has kept down trade, but the special demand from all over the country for the twenty-fourth told very favorably on business. The coming of warm weather will start prices for lemons.

PROVISIONS.

The demand continues unflagging. The summer market promises to be a good one for packers, but there is a strong run on stock now by buyers who wish to forestall later prices. Prices are steady.

BACON—Long clear is 8½ to 8¾c., bellies are 11½ to 12c., backs are 11 to 11½c., and roll is 9½c.

DRESSED HOGS—The long spell of cold weather has made spring seem to be scarcely an interruption to the trade in hogs. The arrivals have been more numerous and regular than in any former spring remembered by dealers. Prices are consequently not buoyant, standing at $6.75.

HAMS—Sweet pickled go off at 11c., and smoked are 12 to 12½c.

LARD—In 50 pound tubs is 9½c., and in 20 pound pails is 10c.

MESS PORK—A very slack demand for mess at this season brings trade almost to a standstill. Prices of heavy are $16.50, and $17.50 for family.

SALT.

On account of the holiday the sale of salt for the week is smaller than usual. But now that the warm weather has set in, the sales will be larger than they have been. The prices still hold the same as last week. The following are the sales reported by the Toronto Salt Works for the week: 1 car bbl. salt at $1.37, 1 car dairy $1.18. Small quantities are selling at $1.45 for coarse sacks, 85c. for sacks, and 45c. for ¼ sacks. Land salt $7 per ton.

DRY GOODS.

The trade at the beginning of the week was notably good. This, however, is but a fit in a long spell of listlessness. Monday was a good day, because Monday was the day celebrated throughout the country as the Queen's birthday, and railway rates from country towns to the city were favorable to a considerable influx of retail merchants on that day. Their buying was the result of a long withholding, and will no doubt be the cause of further continued refraining, Business has been very dull since Monday. The prices of all lines remain firm. Remittances are fair.

GROCERIES.

Business the past week has been fair, and would have been much better but for the Queen's Birthday coming on Saturday, and again the weather has been very unfavorable, —cold and wet. Payments can only be considered fair.

SUGAR.

There is a continued light movement in sugars with an easy market. In yellows there has been a run on the lowest grades, the reason of which is the fact of the country merchants offering so many pounds for a dollar. Yellows are also very scarce. Prices: granulated 6¾ to 6⅞c.; yellows, 5¼ to 5¾c.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

There is a very light demand for syrups and the article scarce. and quoted at 3¼ to 4¼c. per pound. There has been very little done in Barbado molasses the past week, as the sale of about 1,000 packages to-morrow may change the price considerably, therefore buyers have been holding off. Holders of old are now becoming anxious to sell before the arrival of the new. Wholesalers are simply buying from hand to mouth.

TEAS.

Market quiet. Except for Japan. New crop teas now coming to hand. Medium '89 crop are very scarce and in good demand, ranging from 16 to 17c. Some small orders have been placed for English account as follows:—Ping Suey Gunpowders, 11½ to 12½c.; in blacks trade has been dull. We hear of a line of low grade Paklings having been sold at 6¾c. Low grade Moyue Young Hysons, none offering.

DRIED FRUIT.

The dried fruit market is unchanged since last report. Holders of Valencia raisins in New York are disappointed at the way they are moving off, as they have been looking for higher prices on account of low stocks.

GROCERS! A Few Facts for both Wholesaler and Retailer.

Do you know that a first-class article's best advertisement is its own merit? It is. So with the Grocer, his best advertisement is that he keeps nothing but first-class goods. The wholesaler supplies the goods to the retailer. The retailer sells them knowing they are the best of the kind. The customer buys, knowing what he or she gets is all it is claimed to be. Everyone is satisfied. Satisfaction to your customers means a continuation of business with them. These are facts. Now for a practical application.

Surprise Is a pure Laundry Soap, free from all injurious chemicals, made from the purest stock, guaranteed to give satisfaction and is all it is claimed to be in every respect. By a system of prices profit is given to all handling SURPRISE.

Profit Quick sales, a fair margin of profits and satisfaction to all concerned is what everyone is looking for. SURPRISE fills the bill. SURPRISE is largely advertised, is a very fine article and will sell on its merits alone. All wholesale dealers are protected by our system of prices which always gives them a good profit, which profit we can practically guarantee. The retailer buys at a price which gives him a good profit and still sells SURPRISE cheap as common soaps to the consumer, who profits by getting a first-class article.

We do all the advertising and pushing. You sell the SURPRISE, making a good profit, guaranteeing it to your customers as we do to you. Do you keep SURPRISE in stock? If not we shall be pleased to quote prices on application.

THE MARKETS

TORONTO, May 29, 1890.

GROCERIES.

A circumstance that broke in upon the quiet of trade was the fact that Toronto celebrated the Queen's birthday on the 24th, while most of the towns and country places took the 26th for their holiday. Excursion rates on the latter day brought a large number of retailers into the city, and their visit gave quite a stimulus to business. The stir on Monday was a mere spasm however, and is likely to be followed by quietness that will not again be broken till the strawberry season is due. Payment has been fairly prompt.

CANNED GOODS.

Consumption loses none of its zest for corn, peas, and tomatoes. The nervousness of some packers, which was betrayed by the break in prices three weeks ago, has given way to a feeling of confidence in the capabilities of consumption to clear the market before the pressure of the new crop is felt. The price of corn is steady at $1, and peas at $1.15. Tomatoes are firm at $1.25. These are the staples of the moment. The feature of the past week's buying has been better faith in the security of the market, a feeling that has been evinced in the greater magnitude and larger number of the orders that have been received since the equilibrium of prices has shown strong signs of being restored. Salmon is unsettled at $1.50 to $1.65, but white can be bought for $1.35.

The Delhi Canning Co. has sold the balance of its gallon apples for shipment to England. This will make a total of 1,600 cases exported by this firm alone to England this season. As previously noted, exports have been made by other packers.

COFFEES.

A dull market is reflected in the coffee trade. There is not an iota of change in the situation described a week ago. The call for Javas and Mochas has not risen above the dead level at which it has stood for months. Maracaibo and Plantation Ceylon are in fair demand. Rio is scarce in the low grades, which are wanted, and for the lack of which there is a decline in coffee buying. Prices have not moved.

DRIED FRUIT.

Prunes are somewhat illusory stock. It is a fact that they are scarce at all points of wholesale supply, and most stocks here are low. But some dealers are carrying stock bought at low prices, and which they are now putting on the market at figures below those to which the advance has brought prunes. Hogsheads are worth 5½ to 6c., but there are sales made at less, and kegs are 7 to 9c. The firmness of Valencia raisins is unrelaxed. The lightness of stocks makes the market easily controllable by holders. The demand for both prunes and valencias is also becoming favorable to an increase in prices. In currants prices are also strong, and with no new fruit in sight, there is likelihood of higher values before the summer is far on. The present stock is held with confidence, and no dealer has the advantage in the currant trade which early buying gave a few in prunes. Sultana raisins are receiving pretty good attention, and prices are very firm. Figs are in very small supply, and not in specially strong demand. Prices are unchanged.

Cremedi Brothers' Currants Report from Patras says: Now that the end of the present season is near to hand, we think it advisable to give you some particulars regarding the march of last year's crop. We may mention that the 1888 crop reached to 160,000 T, out of which about 6000 remained in Greece when the crop of 1889 began, and that this season's (1889-1890) exportation amounts to 143,000 T, including the aforesaid 6000 T of 1888 production, and that there are yet about 5000 T left in the country. In the opening of the season moderate prices were obtained, which prices gradually improved, owing to the continual demand from French markets and large consumption there. In spite of threats regarding an increase of duty and various other administrative measures on the side of the French Government injurious to currants, consumption in France during the season is computed at 65,000 to 70,000 T, against 45,000 T, the average one. The coming crop seems good in every respect, although it is too early yet to form an opinion thereupon.

NUTS.

The demand from all parts for the gatherings that celebrated the Queen's birthday lifted business considerably above the level at which it has long rested. There is no change in prices. The stocks are running low in sorts of almonds but the Tarragona. Cocoanuts have been on hand for a short time.

RICE AND SPICES.

Rice is strengthening. At points of production, the market has run up, whether under a speculative or legitimate impulse is hard to say. The firmness is not unlikely to be warranted, however, by short crops and a demand that will concentrate from many quarters upon regions where the yield is best. The shortness of the crop is a matter that rests upon evidence that may not be wholly disinterested. In spices there is no change, no extra demand, no fall off in the supply, no change in prices.

SUGAR.

The time is drawing near when improvement may be looked for if it is to come at all. The strawberries will be gathered next month. The strength and steadiness of the demand that will then set in are expected to maintain the market at better prices than are now ruling. A better feeling in the New York market may be the precursor of such improvement here. At the moment reports from New York are decidedly more hopeful. Raw sugars are now plentiful, and offering freely in round lots from 5¼c. up. There is some dark Porto Rico to be had at 5c., but it is too dark for grocery purposes. Business has been quiet in all lines.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

The abundance and cheapness of butter hinder trade in syrups. The fruit season will prolong the time that consumption is withdrawn from syrups. Prices are unchanged, though so little is done. Molasses at no time runs off rapidly. It is selling quietly now at Current Price quotations.

mitted. Stocks are not low in the finer grades of Japan, and what is offered at the outset of the season, being of the first pick, is always of those grades. Further, prices are always higher for arrivals of the first shipment as fast rates are then paid. In Japan the want is for low grades. These will not be on the market till the second or third picking. Low grade buyers are firm, having gone up ½d. in England. Present samples are not near the value of those offered a month ago. The demand for greens is very quiet. The demand for Indian teas continues steady, it is mostly for medium Pekoes. In London the smaller quantity offered met with a good demand, and medium teas sold at rather higher rates. The few lines of finest quality commanded extreme prices. The deliveries of Indian tea this month will, it is expected, reach at least 12 million pounds. Ceylon teas are quiet locally. Competition in London was better, most attention being paid to useful liquoring teas up to 10d. Fine are difficult to obtain. The average price is 10d. per pound as compared with 9½d. a year ago.

The London Grocer says of the tea market: "Demand continues very slack, the alteration in the duty having cast such confusion amongst the packet people and retail grocers that it will be weeks before the retail trade can settle down in its regular ways. Everybody wants their teas cleared at once, but this is impossible, considering the size of the trade. In olden times pure teas in original half-chests were sold, but now the bulk of the trade is in blended teas, and these are generally composed of three or four kinds—part of the blend may be cleared in, but the detention of the other parts retards the whole. Confusion reigns supreme, and no one knows whether the public will go for the 2d. per lb. reduction, or whether they will ask for better tea at the old prices—time only will show. We look for a distinct rise in common tea within three months, but the demand is so small for the better grades that there seems little chance of an improvement in them, unless they are taken for export."

Nearly all local jobbers remark that the distribution of teas the past week has been more satisfactory than was that of the corresponding period last year. In some cases the increase of sales is said to be one-third, and in several instances the claim is made of 20 to 25 per cent gain. Low grades have figured most conspicuously in the improvement. Japans, Formosas and Amoys fareing nearly alike in this particular. Jobbers are getting an average of about 1½c. advance over the prices current early last month, thus covering the increased cost at first hands. The position of supplies in the jobbing trade here and elsewhere, it is claimed, favors the maintenance of present prices, if indeed, not a further slight advance before long, providing no unforseen disturbing influence arises elsewhere.—N. Y. Bulletin.

PETROLEUM.

No circumstance has disturbed the condition of the market as indicated last week. The cool evenings are perhaps favorable to consumption inasmuch as there is more of the after-twilight spent inside than would be the case if we had warmer nights. To this fact may be attributed a slight improvement in trade. Prices are unchanged.

DRUGS AND CHEMICALS.

No improvement in trade is reported. The cool weather puts off the demand for preparations that usually sell well during the season of summer illnesses. Prices have not changed in any respect.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

Commission merchants are bewailing the slowness and lowness of sales in butter. Stock is plentiful, butter is wanted, yet these essential conditions of a market are paralyzed by the quality. When the cheese factories and creameries get started all over the country it is hoped that the productiveness of domestic makers will be enormously reduced, as the new butter now sent upon the market by them is without many reedeming features. What is new is not yet well colored, as the transition from the barnyard to the grass is only now completed. The make is also discreditable to house dairies, and although new tubs are few they are selling at 12 to 14c. Large rolls, including both new and old that has been made over, are weak at 10 to 12c. Pound rolls are 12 to 14c. The old tub butter fairly pollutes the market, so abundant and so bad is it. The prices are 5 to 8c. Commission merchants undertake to sell it, but they have little success. One had the good luck to lighten himself of two or three hundred tubs, but he realized nothing on it. Creamery rolls are arriving freely. Extra choice are worth 20 to 22c. There is a large quantity of such butter that is classified by buyers as farmers' baskets, on account of its inferiority, and goes at 15 to 16c.

New cheese is 9 to 9½c. The market is fairly well stocked, but the demand for old rather retards business in new. Old seems to be plentiful among wholesalers at 10½ to 11c. There is a quiet trade.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—May be now dropped out of the list of marketable commodities. They are done, at least so far as dealings in them as a branch of business are concerned. The prices quoted a week ago, $4.75 to $5 in large lots, and $6 out of store are nominal.

BEANS—All purchases are in small lots, which run from $1.60 to $1.80. There is very good inquiry and a small stock.

DRIED APPLES—Go off rather freely at 5 to 5½c. There is a consumers' demand now pretty busy which is taking up the stocks held. It is believed that most of the unconsumed fruit is now in the hands of distributors.

EVAPORATED APPLES—The market is showing signs that business will be a ruling feature in a few weeks. Already the supply seems below the requirements, if the latter are to be measured by the consumption of last year from the corresponding time. Prices are firm at 8 to 9½c for old, and 10 to 12c. for new.

EGGS—Production seems to be liberal, for there is now an unusually good market, of which the American demand is the strong element. That demand will be dormant in a few weeks, if the proposed American tariff remains unchanged and goes into effect as soon as is expected. The price is 12½c. On this a further half cent is not unlikely to develope very soon.

HAY—There has been no shifting of the relations between the supply and the demand, and that prices have not changed. No. 1 is wanted at $10.50 to $11.

HIDES—Car-lots of cured still go at 5½c. Green also are unchanged. Steers are 5¾c. for No. 1, 4¾c. for No. 2, 3¾c. for No. 3. Cows 1c. less in each class. There is a limited supply and a very good demand. The market always improves at this season, but the uncertainty of the prospect that hides would be dearer to Americans in the near future, on account of the extra duty so often proposed and withdrawn from, has led American buyers to operate on this market more than is usual. This has given a better turn to prices.

HONEY—The season of floral profusion will soon be here, and the gathering of last year is not nearly sold. If the demand does not improve there will be a large surplus when the new crop is ready for the market. This is a possibility that was forseen as early as last autumn, for the crop then was unusually large, and led to the expectation of a lighter one in the succeeding year, so that a surplus of last year's crop may be desirable to modify the prices this year. There is no change, clear being 11½ to 12½c., and comb 14 to 16c.

HOPS — A very fair business has run through the season since picking, but prices have been very steady, at low figures. The large crop that two successive years have yielded is the cause of this. Yearlings are 10 to 12c., and new are 13 to 15.

OATS—A strong outside demand, and a decline in the supply have raised prices. They are now firm at 39 to 40c. in car lots. These prices have slightly checked the demand which was operative in producing them.

ONIONS—Are 2½ to 3½c. a pound. There are very few offered.

POTATOES—Continue to go up in value, 65c. being the lowest price for car lots at this point. At outside points 60c. are paid. There is good inquiry from both east and west. Store lots are 75 to 80c.

SEEDS—The only descriptions now called for are millet, Hungarian grass, corn and buckwheat. The prices of these remain at last weeks quotations: Hungarian grass and millet are 70 to 75c.; select yellow horsetooth corn is 55c.; giant prolific sweet ensilage is 70c.; red cob ensilage is 60c.; ordinary buckwheat is 50c.; and Japanese is 75c.

SKINS—The supply of sheep remains poor, but prices are still $1.25 to $1.60. No. 1 calf is 7c., and No. 2 is 5c.

STRAW—Sells at $5.50 to $6.

TALLOW—Rough is 2c. and rendered is 5 to 5¼c.

WOOL—The cool weather delays the opening of the market for new fleeces, and old fleeces have about ceased to offer. Price is 22c. Pulled is also scarce, on account of the scarcity of skins. Prices are 24c. for common, 25 to 26 for super, and 30c. for extra super.

FISH.

The demand for white fish and salmon trout is very large at present as is always the case at the beginning of the summer season. There are large supplies received daily. A very fair demand for British Columbia salmon is current, and a good supply is received every day. The stock of lake fish on hand is small but a larger supply is expected from now on. The demand for pickerel at this time of the season is light as the consumption is much larger in winter. A few pirch can be had now. The following are the prices: White fish 5½ to 6c.; salmon trout 5½ to 6c.; British Columbia salmon 17 to 18c.; pickerel 4½ to 5c.; lake herring $1.75 to $2.00 per hundred, by count pirch 3c.

GREEN FRUIT.

The stiffness of prices for Valencia oranges was not at its maxinum when the first of the Montreal sales closed. The little purchasing that was then done by Toronto dealers was at prices that would bring the fruit $8.50 to $9 to the retailer. The sales of last week established still higher values, and now Valencias are not to be had under $10 to $11. In this market they are not to be had at all, as local wholesalers would not lay in stock at the high figures ruling. The '89 crop Valencias is practically off the market. At the prices now holding it is plain there is only such a remnant of the crop as will fill the demand of special consumers of fancy fruit. The Messinas are unchanged at $4.50 to $5. There are a few half cases of Palermos at $2.75. At the end of the week it is expected that some Rodi (Italians) and some Riverside oranges will be brought upon the market, but these will not have a controlling effect upon the prices of Messinas which divide the year with Floridas, Valencias and Jamacias as the great staples. Rodis will sell at $6, and the Riversides at $5.50. Lemons are $3.50 to $4, 360's and 300's quoting about alike. Pineapples are 15 to 20c. each, according to size. Bananas are $1.75 to $2 per bunch. The bulk of the stock at present on hand is red. Strawberries come at 27c. to retailers. The week's business in green fruit has been very good. The continuance of cool weather has kept down

HAMS—Sweet pickled go off at 11c., and smoked are 12 to 12½c.

LARD—In 50 pound tubs is 9½c., and in 20 pound pails is 10c.

MESS PORK—A very slack demand for mess at this season brings trade almost to a standstill. Prices of heavy are $16.50, and $17.50 for family.

SALT.

On account of the holiday the sale of salt for the week is smaller than usual. But now that the warm weather has set in, the sales will be larger than they have been. The prices still hold the same as last week. The following are the sales reported by the Toronto Salt Works for the week: 1 car bbl. salt at $1.37, 1 car dairy $1.18. Small quantities are selling at $1.45 for coarse sacks, 85c. for sacks, and 45c. for ¼ sacks. Land salt $7 per ton.

DRY GOODS.

The trade at the beginning of the week was notably good. This, however, is but a fit in a long spell of listlessness. TO THE GROCERY TRADE.

The undersigned has been appointed Agent in the United States and the Dominion of Canada by

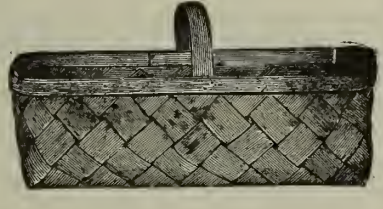
The Associated Tea Planters, Ltd.

OF LONDON, CAPITAL, £50,000.

Under the auspices of the Indian Tea Districts Association.

The object of the company is to push the sale of their product, feeling certain that when systematically brought to consumers' notice its merits will be so manifest as to give it the front rank in public favor, as is the case in Great Britain.

Roundly, the annual consumption in that country is 80,000,000 lbs. during last crop year This is the best answer to the twaddle about the excessive quantity of tannin in Indian tea. Consumers in England are no fools : they know a cup of good tea.



Supplies will be held in Canada and the States and the undersigned, or his assistants, will make regular calls on the Trade. Samples will also be promptly forwarded on application.

COOK'S FRIEND BAKING POWDER.

The Best Grocers Make a Point of Keeping it always in Stock.

The prices asked are beyond the reach of the country merchant who now buys cheap Malaga fruit instead. Prime Valencias are quoted at 8½ to 9c., and Layers at 9½ to 10c. Sultanas continue firm with stocks low, and selling at 10 1-2 to 12 1-2c. Currants are very firm at unchanged prices. Advices from Paris say :—"Great activity has prevailed in our currant market during the past month owing to the continued demand from France, where buyers have been willing to operate at a graduated advance, and to the reduction of the duty on currents in the United Kingdom, a measure which has been hailed in this country with the most unbounded delight and gratitude." Dried apples 5 1-2 to 6c., and evaporated at 12 to 12 1-2c.

GREEN FRUIT.

The weather has not been as warm as it should be to promote an active demand, and the supply of strawberries is in excess of the demand. The quotations to-day are as follows:—Oranges, $3.50 to $5; lemons, $2.25 to $4; yellow bananas, $1.50 to $2.50; pineapples, $1.20 to $2.75 per dozen; strawberries, 15 to 20c. per box.

CANNED GOODS.

The market has now become settled. The recent break in the combination allowing Canners to dispose of their surplus stock. Tomatoes are firm and in few hands here. Western packers entirely sold out. Some strawberries were placed here this week to close up a small account at 2.25. Peas are in demand. Buyers are asking 90c. for marrofats, but sellers do not feel inclined to accept this, as stock is now very limited. Lobsters, new pack, are now commencing to move. Prices quoted are $6.90 to $7.00 per case f.o.b. We hear of some 500 cases being placed at above limits, and $7.25 to $7.40 for flats ; some extra flats having been sold as high as $8.00 per case. This season the majority of the lower port pack has been bought by local dealers, who hold, anticipating a much higher figure than our quotations. The complication of matters on the Newfoundland Coast, however, in a measure caused the advance prices. Mackeral, no new yet offering.

GRAIN AND FLOUR.

GRAIN—There is no change to report in the market. Business is dull. We quote:—Wheat, No. 1 hard Manitoba, $1.20 to $1.22, No. 2, nominal; peas, per 66 pounds, in store, 66 to 70c.; peas, afloat, May delivery, 70 to 71c.; Quebec oats, 36c.; Ontario oats, 38c.; corn, duty paid, 50 to 51½c; corn, cargoes in bond, 41 to 43c.; barley, feeding, 40c.; barley, good malting, 52c.

FLOUR—Market remains dull, there being little demand and values being, if anything, rather easier. We quote:—Patent winter, $5.25 to $5.50; patent spring, $5.75 to $5.90; straight roller, $5.00 to $5.15; extra, $4.70; to $4.80 superfine, $4.25 to $4.50; fine, $3.50 to $4.00; city strong bakers, $0.00 to $5.50; strong bakers, $0.00 to $5.59; superfine, bags, $2.00 to $2.01; extra, bags, $2.20 to $2.30; fine, bags, $1.50 to $1.90; oatmeal, standard, per bag $2.15 to $2.25; oatmeal, granulated, $2.30 to $2.50; oatmeal, rolled, $2.30 to $2.50.

EGGS.

The tone of the market is strong at 13 to 13½c.

HOG PRODUCTS.

Firm at unchanged rates to-day, Western mess, $16 to $16.50; Chicago short cut, $17; Canada short cut, $17. Lard, 8 to 8½c. per pound; bacon, 10½ to 11c.; hams, 11½ to 12c.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

CHEESE—The ruling price in Utica was 8⅜c., and at Little Falls 8¾c. There is very little doing here upon a basis of about 8¾c. for white.

BUTTER—Quiet and unchanged. There seems to be a disposition in the country this year to prevent accumulations. We quote as follows:—Creamery 18 to 20c.; Townships, 16 to 18c.; Western, 12 to 15c.; old creamery, 14 to 19c.; Townships, 10 to 12c.; Western, 7 to 10c.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Turner, Rose & Co., are offering a line of English pickles manufactured by Lazenty & Son, the oldest pickle manufacturers in England. These goods are exceptionally fine.

Another lot of Palermo and Messina lemons and oranges were sold on Monday, by auction, at Mechanics' Hall. The sale was put through very rapidly, some 10,000 boxes being sold in about one hour. Messrs. Hart & Tuckwell bought nearly 5,000 boxes. Messrs. Vipond & McBride, McBride & Harris, J. J. Vipond, John Barry & Son, and nearly all the city trade were buyers; also Messrs. McWilliams, Toronto; Bardon, Quebec ; and Knapton, Bedford.

PROPOSED BOARD OF TRADE BUILDING.

The committee of the Council of the Board of Trade appointed to make the preliminary arrangements for the construction of the proposed Board of Trade building has, after three months' hard work, decided to recommend a site to the Council. Pending the passing of the deeds, the members of the committee decline to state what site their report recommends, but it is currently reported that the suggested site is that on which the Cartier Block now stands. This property is situated on St. Sacrament street, occupying the block between St. Nicholas and St. Peter streets, half way down to St. Paul street. It comprises 43,000 square feet and is just three times the size of the site of the Temple Building, which was one of the other properties the committee had under consideration. The price at which the property is offered to the Board of Trade is understood to be something over $200,000, which is regarded as very cheap. The announcement of the committee's decision caused satisfaction on 'Change this morning.

The site selected appears to be quite satisfactory to the shipping and produce men and to a good proportion of the wholesale merchants. Some members would have preferred to have had a site on St. James st., Notre Dame st., or McGill st., chosen, and the committee made an effort to secure an eligible site on one of the leading thoroughfares. No site large enough could be purchased under $17 or $18 a foot, and as it was a central position it was considered best to recommend the Cuviller property. The committee expects St. Peter, St. Nicholas and possibly St. Sacrament street to be widened, and will recommend the Council to urge upon the Corporation the advisability of having this work done at once. If the Council adopts the report it is expected that the committee will be authorized to proceed at once with the preparation of plans for the new building.

THE CANNED GOODS LAW.

Her Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate and House of Commons of Canada, enacts as follows :—

In this Act the expression "package" means every can, tin or package in which articles or goods are put up for sale, and which are closed by being hermetically sealed. 48-49 V., c. 63, s. 1.

Except in the case of goods packed previously to July 20, 1885, every package of canned goods sold or offered for sale in Canada, for consumption therein, shall have attached thereto or imprinted thereon a label or stamp, setting forth in legible characters the name and address of the person, firm or company by whom the same was packed, or of the dealer who sells the same or offers it for sale.

Every such package containing goods prepared from products which have been dried previously to being so prepared, shall, in addition, be labelled or stamped with the word "soaked," which word shall be plainly printed diagonally across the face of the label in large, legible type at least half an inch in height and three-eighths of an inch in width.

Every person who sells or offers for sale any such goods in violation of any provision of this section shall, on summary conviction before a justice of the peace, for a first offence incur a penalty of two dollars for each such package, and for a subsequent offence a penalty not exceeding twenty dollars and not less than four dollars for each such package in respect of which any such provision has been violated. 48-49 V., c. 63, s. 2.

Every person who places on any package any label, brand or mark which falsely represents the quantity or weight of the contents of such package, shall, on summary conviction before a justice of the peace, incur a penalty of two dollars for each package on which the quantity or weight is so falsely represented; provided always, that a variation under the rate of three per cent. shall not be deemed a violation of the provisions of this section. 48-49 V., c. 63, s. 3.

Every person who places on any package any label, brand or mark which falsely represents the date when the article or goods contained therein were packed, shall, on summary conviction before a justice of the peace, incur a penalty of two dollars for each package on which such date is falsely represented. 48-49 V , c. 63, s. 4.

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,

Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, McGILL UNIVERSITY.

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured.

Yours truly,

G. P. GIRDWOOD.

To make a bargain window suitable for any line of business cover the entire front of the window with white muslin, previously having divided it up into squares to represent window panes. On each square, paint or letter the word "Bargains." This idea will be found to attract attention. Other wording besides may be used to an advantage, for instance if it is desired to make a run on any particular line of goods, its name can be used instead.

One thing in particular should be impressed upon clerks—the necessity of careful attention to small customers.

IMPOSSIBLE!

So say Doctors, to say too much in favour of St. Leon Water. It puts down Bright's Disease and Diabetes, as water quenches fire. Cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, etc., completely if drank freely and rubbed in the skin.

SILVER STAR STOVE PASTE.

The following is the universal verdict of all who have used or sold it:

HAMILTON, APRIL 25th, 1890.

Messrs. F. F. DALLEY & Co.,

GENTLEMEN:—In thus ordering a fresh supply of your SILVER STAR STOVE PASTE we cannot but express our appreciation of the goods and congratulate you on having been able to place on the market an article so superior in every respect to anything we have heretofore been able to get.

As we use it on the stoves in the wareroom, we know personally its good qualities—no dust, a quick polish, always ready and the work is done in the time it would take to prepare the Dome or other hard stove polishes, and one of the best features about it is that it is so clean to handle.

If a man sells us an inferior article we don't forget to tell him about it, and on the same principle when a firm gives us an Extra good one we believe in letting them know that we appreciate it.

We remain,
Respectfully yours,
J. WALLACE & SON.

Changes in advertisements and new advertisements must reach this office not later than Wednesday morning of each week.

A REFORMED CREDIT SYSTEM

The indications are accumulating that the days of unreserved credit-giving are about over. Tendencies are at work whose effects are pronounced in amendments already made, and are traceable in attempts that have not yet resulted in success. These tendencies do not seem to be fitful in their action. They have operated steadily for some years, and have wrought beneficial modifications in the terms by which credit is regulated in several branches of commerce. An increasing number of large dealers are yearly extending the list of those who do business upon the basis of a strictly select class of customers. The principle of selection is the financial test. That may be sound enough, but the would-be debtor's honesty may not be demonstrable. This is provided against by making the date of maturity early and by giving discount inducements. These both tend to lessen the advantage that may be contemplated in a dishonest manipulation of the goods; for the limiting of the amount of the credit to a strict proportion to the applicant's means and to a range of time too short for much shifting are persuasive with the customer to lead him to choose the discounts, as there is less risk in the venture to make money by thus availing himself of lower prices. The Wholesale Grocers' Guild has adopted this mode of assuring the credit of its customers, and the effect of it is seen in a more satisfactory showing in the retail trade. The retailers, themselves conditional customers, become less prodigal of credit to consumers. They thus do a safer business, which is noted in the decreasing number of failures. Failures there have been, and too many of them, but the cause lies in another fault which needs removing, that is lowness of prices.

A mode of reforming the credit system is here suggested, the regulation and maintenance of prices. This would be as productive of thrift as the method by limitation of time or amount, or the discount inducement. To a very slight degree the Guild has adopted this principle. The degree is too slight, as it relates to but one article, and secures only the most meagre profit. Other lines of trade have committed themselves to the system of limited prices, and with excellent results. The prices are such as realize to the trader a fair profit. They also operate to check the tendency of competition to destroy the very basis of credit. Such fixed prices are usually made by manufacturers, who will not permit their salesmen or their retail customers to sell at lower figures. This tends in another way to make business sounder. It will result in smaller sales to men who can be induced to buy only by the offer of a cut, and who therefore often buy beyond the local need, and so get overstocked and fail.

The measures taken by retailers are in part correlative to those taken by wholesalers and manufacturers, and are in part the outcome of independent movement among themselves for the amelioration of the hardships entailed by too liberal credit. One method is by association, of which an incidental is a delinquent list. This is a good way of focusing the worthless credit in the community, and of improving it. It improves many debtors to give them to understand that exposure will be brought to bear against them in quarters where they may again seek credit. Individual precautions are coming to be more numerous and rigid in the practice of retailers. They look into the connection to which the applicant for credit owes his income. If he is employed by a great corporation, as the municipal council, a great railway, etc., it is very likely the rule of his employers to insist on their employes paying their debts. Or, it may be the employer can be got to guarantee the applicant for so much credit. In this way it is sought to make the basis of credit substantial.

The retail merchants of the North-west and Manitoba proposed at their convention another way of controlling the excesses of the credit system. It was to withhold credit at certain seasons, and give it sparingly at others. This would make the consumer a less improvident man, and illustrates how far-reaching in an ethical effect would be the adoption of some salutary checks on credit-giving. If credit is given freely in the unproductive part of the year in an industrial community, it will produce dishonesty, as the earning season will be too heavily taxed to provide for both current wants and past engagements. The engagements will have to suffer. Exceptions in the commodities on which credit is given might also work well. On luxuries there should be more reserve than on necessaries.

The important position the credit system was given among the questions discussed both at the Ontario and Manitoba Business Men's Conventions, shows that it is one of the matters that the trading sense of the time is in earnest about. The abolition of the system is hardly practicable. Often consumers have to ask credit, not because they have not means to pay at the time, but because the market for their products is not opened or is temporarily depressed. All the expedients that are now tried for the ensuring of credit are obvious enough, and were long suggested before they were even thus partially adopted, but the brisk competition of the time made selling seem the first consideration, even at the risk of total loss of the value of the sale. We are returning slowly, however, to sounder, broader views.

SOAPMAKERS AND THE TARIFF.

The scale of prices which was expected to be the issue of the agreement among the leading manufacturers of laundry soap for the regulation of trade, has not yet appeared. The delay may be partly owing to deadlock, as it is usually difficult to enlist a numerous body of producers in the support of a proposed common course of action. But to whatever extent questions of organization may be the cause of the tardiness, it is certain there is another cause to which some share of the delay may be assigned. That other cause is the ambiguity of the tariff as to the duty on grease. The ambiguity is not apparent to importers, but is reflected in the varying decisions of collectors, some of whom admit all soap-grease free of duty, others of whom admit free only the rougher sort of such grease. The tariff is express enough in the designation of the soap constituent that is to come in free, as these are the words used in the item :—"Grease, rough, the refuse of animal fat, for the manufacture of soap only." What is wanted is a definition of rough grease, which will make the action of all collectors uniform. Some sorts of grease officials consider too fine to come under the intention of the exempting clause, and finding a wide enough meaning in a clause which prescribes a duty, they classify it under such clause and collect. Other collectors release all soap-grease free of duty.

This indeterminateness hinders the adoption of a scale of prices, as so long as such irregular ruling goes on, some manufacturers will have an advantage over others. Those at whose port the clause is considered as exempting all grades of soap-grease will get their grease cheaper than those who have to pay duty to their collector for certain of the finer grades. This will make production less expensive, and will enable such manufacturers to sell at lower prices. Naturally these may be expected to make the most of the accident which favors them, and to be indisposed to consent to uniformity in prices so long as they can make as much money at lower prices as their competitors can at higher ones.

Not only in the manner above referred to does the unsettled nature of the tariff operate against the consolidation of the producers as a support to regular trade, but in another way. Until it is settled, the cost of certain grades of soap cannot be determined. No scale of prices can therefore be well proposed until all the data are known upon which the calculation of the cost can be made.

At a meeting held in Hamilton, last week, the soap-makers concluded to take action to have this customs anomaly removed. A committee was appointed to wait upon the Minister of Customs, and request a definition to be officially authorized as a rule to guide collectors to do equally with all importers. Such a definition had to be given in the case of mess-pork, and it is as necessary in this class of coarser animal product, the bulk of which has to be imported by soap makers. The rough refuse they use in laundry soap is as peculiar to American production as is the heavy hog, and it is as plainly the intention of the Government to admit that free, as it is its intention to admit heavy mess at a lower duty than other descriptions of pork. In the meantime, the trade is in some suspense to know what will be the changes of which hint has been given, and that suspense has its effect upon buying. Manufacturers should not be too long clearing the ground for uniform grades and prices. An agreement to maintain fair prices is desirable in the interests of all upright traders, and will be hailed by them with satisfaction, if only moderate profits are aimed at.

ASSOCIATION AND HONEST EMPLOYES'.

Not all the benefits of association can be foreseen in a theoretic view. Practical trial will unfold many advantages of such a connection that were not thought of among the considerations that led to union. The development of the association principle is something from which much that is not yet even in prospect may grow into reality. Association should be cultivated. The mere banding together will not of itself produce the best fruits of organization. The corporate intelligence of tradesmen working upon problems that come before the general body is capable of doing great service to the cause of commerce and finance. Association appears to be the chosen vessel in which the spirit of reform does its regenerating work most thoroughly, and soon this leaguing together in the bonds of community or identity of trade-interest, will come to be looked upon as not less necessary than insurance against loss by fire. The principle will soon have become engrafted in our social system. Then its best effects will be seen.

As a protection against the dishonesty of employes, association has not been made much of in this country yet. This is a mistake. There is no form of loss more subtly emaciating than that which filters through dishonest fingers that are unreservedly trusted. Such loss there may be mechanical checks upon, but the automatic action of these may sometimes err, and they sometimes merely stimulate the ingenuity of the man whose dishonesty has the upperhand of his moral sentiment. But when dishonesty has been detected by an individual dealer, it is not always recognized by him to be a duty to warn other dealers who may have engaged the same dangerous service. Here is where the usefulness of association manifests itself. If the pilfered employer belongs to an association, information should be conscientiously rendered by him to any fellow-member who wants it. If the association made the office of its secretary a sort of employment bureau, through which application for situations could be made, and required the applicant to furnish references, the association would have the best means of sifting the past career of candidates, and of selecting the trustworthy from the pilferers. Suppose a salesman out of employment calls at the office of the secretary, who has a list of situations vacant among the stores of members of the association. Before making any effort to get the applicant a position he first obtains his references, which may include members of the association. Enquiries of these will result in the resolution of the secretary either to gazette the man or decline to do so. This would be a safeguard to merchants, and would be the means of raising the status of the employed. The office of the secretary is not more useful for the facilities it offers for the compilation of a delinquent list, than for those it possesses for the establishment of a good employment bureau.

The proceedings of the last meeting of the Brooklyn Retail Merchants' Association show the value of an employment branch to that body. The following, from the report of that meeting, furnishes a good concrete example :

Julius Schliemann complained of the frequent occurrence of depredations by grocery clerks on their bosses' tills. A clerk whom he found it necessary to dismiss applied to the agent of the Grocers' Association for a place, but when he (Mr. Schliemann) was referred to, the clerk was refused a place. A grocer not belonging to either association advertised for a clerk, and out of fifteen who responded, selected this very young man, and the result was that one Saturday night he cleaned out the till, taking forty dollars, and departed suddenly. Mr. Schliemann said he had never recommended that young man, because he could not. He knew another case where the present agent, Mr. Ricklefs, was asking a grocer to join the association when his first clerk came in. "Do you know," asked the agent, "that that young man has emptied out two tills in Brooklyn?" On hearing this the clerk decamped promptly. Mr. Schliemann told of another clerk, who, after he had been dismissed, was found to have been buying 1,900 lbs. of coal whenever he was sent for a ton. He did not mean that there were no honest clerks, but grocers needed to be on the lookout for bad ones.

THE PRICES OF CANNED SALMON.

This is the time of year when the remnants of canned stocks are apt to look large, and to cast shadows upon the horizon of trade in the coming yield. Holders are prone to take a gloomy view of the market if it is not pretty bare by May. They foresee a surplus that will enter the field with the next instalment of production, and will make the specific gravity of the supply greater than that of the demand. A while ago the quantity of tomatoes unsold had a perturbing effect upon the nerve of one or two holders, and straightway there was a break in prices. But the break was spent in a short range. There was not enough stock to form a basis of excitement for more than one or two men. The next alarm was caused by a more or less exaggerated estimate of the stock of peas and corn yet unconsumed. There may be more of these than our consuming energies can absorb before next October, but it is not going to mend the market to bring on at once by panic the weakness that would come in due time from over-supply.

The situation of canned salmon is somewhat different from that of corn and peas. There may or there may not be an excess over the present year's needs, either of the salmon or of the two kinds of vegetables named. But in the case of the vegetables, next year's market has not yet begun to take shape. It has, in the case of the salmon, so far at least as the fixing of initial prices is concerned. And those prices are lower than the prices now current for the salmon of last year's pack. This is a practical circumstance, and if it has a disquieting effect upon holders that effect is more rational than one which results from purely imaginary circumstances. Further, last year's catch was one of the greatest in the history of the Fraser fishery. The number of canners was greater last year than it ever was before. Neither of these facts is reassuring to those whose stock on hand is very full in salmon. The yield of the American fisheries, those of the Columbia and of Alaska, was up to its usual average, so that with all our catch we had not more of the outside market to supply than we had in former years. We are not a large salmon consuming people. Again, if canners are now making contracts for August delivery at $1.30 to $1.35 on spot, their estimate of the stocks yet in the country must be large. Their estimate is that of men who furnished the stock, and they know approximately the measure of consumption from their former years' supplying of it. Another circumstance that gives plausibility to the opinion that the present stock is too great to maintain prices is the fact that prices are showing gradual signs of weakness, and are not giving way in a sudden collapse, as they would be apt to do if alarm had all its own way.

On the other hand, the great season of consumption is yet before us. Campers, picnickers, excursionists, the general body of the people, in fact, have yet to make the year's big inroad on salmon stocks. In this there is sufficient warrant for firm prices for at least two months. Consumption is not going to abate because this year's prices are higher than next year's are to be. Nor is canned salmon a commodity for which a greatly accelerated consumption can be produced by a drop of a few cents. While the benefit of the doubt seems to be in favor of the probability that there is an overplus of stock, it is well to keep in sight the fact that the buying must now improve. The present is therefore a poor time to lose faith in the market. Anticipations of what lies on the other side of the next three months should not be allowed to spoil what business may be done in those months. Composure may not prevent further weakening, but it can keep the market from going to pieces.

THE LOSING BUTTER TRADE.

EDITOR CANADIAN GROCER.

DEAR SIR,—Allow me space for a few remarks on one of the questions that is, and will be, until a change is made, engaging the attention of every person interested in the grocery business. I refer to the butter question. During the next month or so, the amount of butter taken in by most of the grocers will be far in advance of the amount required for the present time. Each grocer will ask himself, "What shall I do with the over supply in order to receive the best price for this butter." This butter which cost from 10 to 15c. per pound, is, as a rule packed into tubs. This takes time, and adds an extra cost to butter in the price of tubs. It is then put away until the winter months, when it is put on the market. The money invested has been lying idle for the last six months. The butter brings from 4 to 10c. I met a merchant from one of our provincial towns, who was returning from Toronto where he had been disposing of some butter purchased last June for 15c. per pound. After keeping it for nine months he was obliged to sell it for 10½c. This case is by no means an exception, in fact, there are tons of butter made by farmers throughout this province from good rich cream, and sold at from 4 to 6c. per pound. Now let your readers think of this. Farmers after much labor make their butter and bring it to market, dispose of it at a price much below what it should be, obliged to take trade for it, and go home grumbling at the low prices of produce. The merchant after handling the butter, investing money in it, and spending a great deal of time in making it up, loses from 3c. to 6c. per lb. on it, and the public are dissatisfied and disagreeable because they receive a poor article. Thus we see that each one who touches this butter suffers a loss. I fancy I hear your readers say :—"Yes, we know this ; we experience the same thing every year, but where is the remedy ?" I think I have it, you have referred to it many times in your valuable paper—the creamery. If this same cream is taken to a creamery, put through a scientific process, made into butter of a good uniform quality, packed into tubs, sold to the merchant as cheese, sugar, etc., are sold, at from 20 to 26c. per lb. the year round, the over supply could be sent to foreign markets, where it always commands ready sale and renumerative prices, and after allowing the merchant a sure profit, reach a satisfied public ready for the table. A creamery is established at a certain place, through the influence of some merchant near by, who takes a large share of the stock, milk is gathered every day, made into butter for which the farmer receives from 20 to 26c. per lb., the butter is sold to the merchant who never fails to make a profit of from 2 to 4c. a lb. retail, ships the surplus to large cities or foreign markets, all the while increasing his trade by keeping first class butter. Now it seems strange that we continue in the same way we have done for the last fifty years, but me thinks a change is about to come, as it is doing with other matters. Creameries have been established throughout the country, and proved a great source of satisfaction to those interested in them. The Northwest has seen the evils, and is going to profit by our experience. Last week there was shipped from one local firm here, machinery for three different creameries in that part of Canada, and I hope with your influence the time will soon come when such a thing as trade and 12c. per lb. for butter will be a thing of the past. Mr. Editor, one word and I have done. I have had occasion to read a large number of English and American grocery papers, and in none of them do I find such practical and valuable suggestions and articles as in the CANADIAN GROCER. Long may it exist and prove to be a great blessing to the grocers of Canada.

Yours respectfully,
F. UTURE, Brantford.

NOVAR, May 29, 1890.

DEAR SIR,—Having just moved from Charlinch to this place, I will feel obliged by your changing the address on THE GROCER, so that I may not lose any of the numbers.

Yours truly,
C. TISDALL.

One of the most remarkable schemes for collecting bad debts ever suggested was recently employed by a Chicago retail grocer. He is charged with kidnapping and holding as security the little girl of a customer who had refused to pay a bill of $16 for groceries.

THE RETAIL TEA TRADE.

We have repeatedly pointed out the necessity of retailers adopting measures to stimulate the declining rate of consumption of tea in this country. It does not matter much whether that disputed point—the responsibility of the gift tea store for the apparent growing unpopularity of the leaf—is proved to the satisfaction of grocers or not. If the latter have allowed the gift stores to absorb the lion's share of the retail trade in tea through lack of enterprise, they are just as much to blame as though the transposition had occurred by reason of the grocers charging inordinate profits; and in either case the result is unsatisfactory to the grocer, because the most profitable article in his stock is certainly in lessened demand than in former years. The legitimate dealers can if they wish content themselves with denunciations of their gift competitors, but would not they show greater wisdom by exerting themselves not only to get back the trade that they have lost, but also to stimulate the general demand for the article, and place it nearer on a level with our most popular non-intoxicating beverages, such as coffee, for instance? While tea has remained stationary or fallen gradually to the rear, coffee has well maintained its hold on popular favor, considering the heavy addition to its cost of late years. The value of tea has been considerably cheapened during the past decade, having fallen from 27 cents, the average price in 1880, to 15 cents in 1889. Coffee is so strongly entrenched in public estimation that no effort is needed to extend its use, but it pays the grocer a gross profit of no more than 30 per cent. and often much less, while tea returns all the way from 75 to 125 per cent. Of the three principal grocery staples which are used as beverages, chocolate and cocoa show the largest increase of consumption of late years. In 1880 the imports of raw cocoa, exports deducted, were less than one-half of the quantity imported in 1889. The figures of the imports of prepared chocolate and cocoa are not given in the Government statistical tables, so that the consumption of these articles in this country cannot be stated, but as the sale of foreign brands of chocolate and cocoa have materially increased during the past few years, we do not believe we shall be far out of the way in estimating the gain in the consumption of cocoa and its products at 300 per cent. during the ten years ending 1889. As tea is as wholesome and palitable an article as cocoa and chocolate and also much cheaper, considering the number of cups of liquor one pound of tea will yield as compared with its rivals, does not its declining use argue a lack of enterprise in both wholesale and retail branches of the grocery trade? The rapid advance in public esteem of cocoa and chocolate is principally due to the extensive advertising of the manufacturers of these articles in all classes of publications. Money has been spent like water. The sale of the goods has been pushed in every possible way and with phenomenal energy. But the outlay has already yielded, and no doubt will continue to yield, good returns. Proprietary brands of coffee have also been pushed by the manufacturers with profitable results. But tea has been mainly left to the retail distributor to push and, owing partly to lack of capital and partly to want of enterprise, the sale has gradually declined and the profits of the dealer have suffered accordingly. It is not unlikely that the package system of selling tea, now common in England, by which certain blends have become very popular, extensive advertising having been resorted to by the packers, will be the rule in this country at no distant date. The consumption of the leaf may then be expected to take rapid strides. But something may be done by retail grocers in this direction, if care is taken that quality is not sacrificed to extreme profits, and the same enterprise that is exhibited in selling some of the less profitable staples is displayed. It is probable that if the grocery trade would take pains to instruct customers regarding the superior qualities of tea as an exhilarating and refreshing beverage, as well as its far greater economy in families of moderate means, they would soon find a better demand spring up.

Retailers who wish to extend their tea trade at the expense of the less profitable coffee sales, might ring the changes on the well known adulteration of the latter staple. There is probably no food product in the market so extensively adulterated as coffee, while tea is entirely free from foreign admixture.—Merchants' Review.

ALL KINDS OF MEN.

In the course of an excellent sermon on character which the Rev. Dr. Phelps, of Delaware Avenue Methodist Church, preached last Sunday, he said that he once visited a certain farming community to solicit funds for a needy educational institution. He was accompanied in his calls by a shrewd old farmer, who knew all the people in the settlement and was a keen student of human nature. As they approached the first house, the farmer said: "If you want to get any money out of this man you must appeal to him on the highest motives, that's the only way to reach him." Coming to the next house he said. "Here's a man whose pride must be touched. If you hope to get a subscription from him tell him what his neighbors are giving." As they neared the next farm he said: "If you want to get any money out of this man you must talk to him in his barn." "In his barn?" cried the amazed dominie, "why in his barn?" "You must get him out of the way of his wife," answered the farmer. "She has such dominion over him that he does not dare say his soul is his own. So go for him in the barn, dear brother, go for him in the barn."—Buffalo Courier.

The grocer who must come in contact with all kinds of people needs especially to exercise this same tact that the shrewd farmer possessed. It shortens the road to many a sale, and very often its effect is marvellous. We recall just now a saleswoman in a New England city who possessed this power of reading people to a remarkable degree. Standing in the store which she served one day our attention was attracted to a lady who had evidently spent some time in endeavoring to decide as to the relative merits of two pieces of dress goods. Finally she concluded that a certain kind was what she wanted, only the figures were too large; and so she stood and gazed at it until the patience of one observer was well nigh exhausted. Then she smiled faintly and repeated her objection, that the figures were too large. "Well, they won't grow any smaller however long you stand and look at them," said the saleswoman. In less time, almost, than it takes to tell it, ten yards were paid for and the owner went away happy. In answer to our look of surprise, came the reply, "I haven't stood here five years without studying human nature, and I knew just what was needed in this case to effect the sale."

There is in this city a clergyman who, while preaching in a southern city, became very much interested in a man who had the reputation of being one of the most wicked persons in the State. Mr. B. discovered that the man, Mr. S., was fond of the game of backgammon, and meeting him one day on the street, he introduced himself and invited him to spend the evening at his house. Mr. S. went, curious enough, we may be sure. They played until 2 o'clock in the morning. Many evenings of backgammon followed, until one night Mr. S. exclaimed: "Well, you are the queerest minister I ever saw; you've never mentioned the Bible to me!" That was the clergyman's opportunity for which he had been waiting patiently; and Mr. S. is now one of the honored citizens of that city. Many grocers could tell of experiences of their own where tact has rallied to their aid and been of great assistance in completing some transaction. It is a power not to be despised.—American Grocer.

The Inland Revenue Department has recently issued a bulletin of about thirty pages which is devoted exclusively to the subject of baking powder and which shows that the majority of the goods in the market are adulterated and unfit for use. Prof. A. McGill, who has had charge of this important work for the Government, says that "imperial baking powder is an excellent baking powder." A word to the sensible housekeeper should be sufficient.

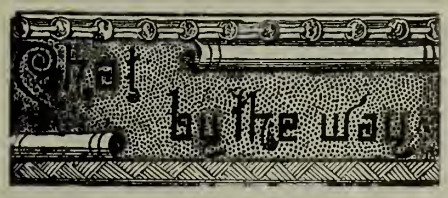
THE TEA LEAF.



There is to my mercantile nature nothing so entirely and absorbingly interesting as a Tea-leaf and I trust I may be forgiven for considering this alien subject worthy of a few lines of sentiment. I must confess to begin with, that to do this subject the justice it merits would require the fine poetic genius of a Shakespeare and the delicate word-painting of a Howells, and being only an ordinary everyday grocer intent on seeing that the multitude is supplied with pure and unadulterated goods (and plenty of them) I trust my stumbling lines will not ruffle the feathers of the literary jays too much. In the words of the aged, but repentant sinner "Them's my sentiments anyhow."

"The poets sing of beauteous flowers
In sweet and touching rhymes,
They sing of Love and lovers' bowers,
Of wars and peaceful times.
They sing of Nature's princely gifts,
Of Sorrow, Grief, and Pain,
They sing of vales and mountain rifts
Of Power and Wealth and Gain.
They chant their songs and hymn the praise
Of Ocean, Earth and Sky,
Of Lethe's stream and Pluto's realm
And of Parnassus high.
And yet their Muse, the partial jade!
Witholds her smile from thee,
And leaves to me of plebian trade
To chant the praise of Tea.
And though, my lame and limping lines
Be void of finished Art,
They still though rough-hewn, bear the signs
Of all that's in my heart.
Thou meek, mild herb, man's humble friend,
Thou fragrant, soothing flower
That cheer'st the world from end to end
And comfort bring'st each hour,
From China's fields and India's hills
And Ceylon's humid shores
Thou comest to ease our earthly ills
And ope Contentment's doors.
Of Heaven's many gifts to man,
And myriads though they be,
There's none so all divinely great
As thou, oh wondrous Tea.
Thy little, twisted curly leaves,
Thy fragrant, balmy breath,
Thy soothing, cheering, glad'ning touch
Robs half the fear of Death.
The prince, the pauper, rich and poor,
The great, the strong, the weak,
The learned men of mighty minds
Thy cheering cup must seek.
The soldier worn with warring cares,
The sailor on the deep,
The humble delver, with thy aid
Obtain refreshing sleep.
The patient watcher by the side
Of fever's fitful bed
Would surely find her task too great
But for thy blessed aid.
The weary seamstress, evening come,
Her humble home regains,
And in thy strengthening fluid finds
Great solace for her pains.
The ladies, Fashion's fluttering birds,
Dear gossip-loving dames!
How round thy post-meridian board
They sip—and ruin names.
Oh! wondrous leaf, oh beauteous flower!
Thy virtues are untold—
From immemorial time, each hour,
New joys thou dost unfold.

Accept these humble lines from me—
And know I love and worship thee
Oh Tea!!

WILLIAM HENRY SEYLER,

Toronto, May 29th, 1890.

Mr. E. Davis of S. Davis & Sons, Montreal, has been in the city this week.

The orange crop of Southern California for 1891 is estimated at 1,500,000 boxes.

A cargo of Newfoundland herrings was sold for manure at North Sydney last week at ten cents a load.

Miss M. E. Thorne, of Mitchell, was married recently to Mr. Wm. Levy, grocer, of the same place.

Mr. John Warner, Brentwood, was one of our visitors this week. He was in the city for a short time.

The sweet potato crop on the Eastern shore of Virginia is expected to be the largest ever known.

The Halifax bakers take advantage of the recent stiff rise in flour to advance the price of bread from six to seven cents a loaf.

Mr. Geo. Beatty, grocer, Beamsville, was married last week to Miss Jennie Box, daughter of Mr. Thomas Box, Welland.

Burglars stole a quantity of groceries from James Norwood's store, Welland, on the night of the 28th ult. They forced the back door.

Mr. C. Turner, Cheltenham, was in the city last week and renewed his subscription. He is much pleased with the reliability of the market reports.

John Mitchell, Port Hope, has removed his grocery and provision store from its present stand to John street, next door to J. Rundett's tin shop.

Hides which brought to the owners over $10,000 were sold at Kingston the other day to Mr. Revel, Carthage, N. Y. Some of the hides had been stored over three years.

The retail grocers of Seattle, Washington, threaten to boycott the wholesale grocers of that city if the latter persist in selling goods to customers at the same prices they charge the retailer.

George Allingham, a Council Bluffs, Ia., grocer was bitten a few days ago by a tarantula and it was with difficulty his life was saved. The tarantula was concealed in a bunch of bananas which the grocer was handling.

On Saturday Mr. Edwin Forster was presented with a handsome gold chain and locket by his fellow employes of the Morse Soap Co., on his leaving the office of the firm. The presentation was made by Mr. W. M. Bowie, and feelingly responded to by the recipient.

Among the losers in the fire which burnt up the central part of Mountain Grove village on Saturday, are A. McDonald and R. Flynn, both general storekeepers. The value of the property destroyed was in each case about $6,000. We have been unable to learn if the effect of this heavy loss is moderated by insurance.

The death is announced of Mr. W. B. Read, general merchant of Bobcaygeon, a gentleman widely known in Central Ontario. The late Mr. Read was at one time associated in business at Keene with his brother, George Read, ex-M.L.A. for East Peterboro. He lived more than a quarter of a century at Bobcaygeon, and was held in the highest esteem by all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance.

The second recent attempt was made Wednesday night to burglarize the store of J. & D. Ross, clothiers, etc., London, Ont. The visitors confined their efforts to the back window, from which they removed one pane of glass by picking out the putty, broke another, but the window was protected by iron bars, and so they could not get in. This attempt was very like the previous one on the same premises, for which the man Allaster was arrested a couple of months ago and tried at the last assizes.

The retail grocers of Seattle, Wash., have organized an association and elected the following officers: N. A. White, president; E. Roy, secretary, and A. Kistler, cashier. E. B. Price, Samuel Erdiman and Charles C. Walter were appointed a committee to wait on the wholesale dealers and inform them that they objected to their retailing goods and to secure signatures to an agreement promising to not to do so any more. W. R. Gallagher, S. Erdiman, H. R. Kemp and Mr. St. Meyer were appointed a committee to draft resolutions.

The last sheet of the new postal map of Ontario, which has been in course of preparation in the chief inspector's office for the last eighteen months, has been sent to the engraver, and the map will be ready to be issued in a few weeks. It shows all the postal routes in the province, money order offices, Government savings banks, telegraph stations, railway distances between offices, etc. It is seven years since the Ontario map was last issued, and the new map will be of great utility to this important branch of the public service.

The merchants of St. Catharines are up in arms over the latest depredations of a plate glass vandal, who has eluded the vigilance of the police for the past three years, and succeeded during that time in disfiguring more than half the plate glass windows in the city. Evidently from the nature of the cuts and scratches, a glazier's diamond was used. A plate glass window in Oak hall shows a cut fourteen inches long, clean through the heavy plate. The plate glass window of Juke's drug store is completely ruined by a similar cut, fully twenty inches in length. Several merchants have clubbed together, and offered one hundred dollars reward for the arrest and conviction of this scoundrel.

THE PEDDLING LICENSE.

The Detroit Retail Grocers' Association has appointed a standing committee whose prerogative it is to investigate the conditions under which peddlers and hucksters are granted licenses, and to confer with the City Council Committee on Ordinances relative to the imposition of a tax that shall be more in the line of equity than it now is. This committee has recommended to the Council Committee on ordinances the imposition of a license of $50 per year for wagons, $25 for hand carts, and $15 for peddlers on foot. It has also been advised that licenses be taken out for a year, or the unexpired portion thereof, and to date the peddling year from May 1.

The Grocers' Committee conferred with the Council Committee, last Monday, and instanced the grievance which the retail grocery trade were subjected to by the peddlers, who were using every advantage that might be had from the defective license ordinance now in vogue. The recommendations of the Grocers' Committee as to the cost of license, the time for which it should be taken out and a heavier penalty for violation of the law governing the same were taken under advisement by the Council Committee. No peddlers were present at the meeting.—Detroit Grocer and Trade Reporter.

THE UNTRUTHFUL BUYER.

A great subject for doubt and discouragement with a salesman is how to treat a buyer who lies, and how to disprove his statement without offending him and without losing his trade. The traveling man has trials that would prove too great for any human being not possessed of a superabundance of patience. These come not alone from competition which appears in every transaction, but from the firm, the members of which are frequently not well posted on the extent and facilities of competition, and therefore not familiar with the difficulties which are to be overcome in securing orders. The buyer who will not tell the truth is an even greater thorn in the flesh. Happily he is the exception and not the rule, but exceptions are met with at times. There are few buyers who would not scorn to resort to falsehood to secure favorable terms. These buyers who do not object to breaking one of the commendments are ready to resort to any and every trick or device in order to obtain concessions to which they are not entitlted. The question naturally arises as to what course shall be pursued in dealing with such persons. They are frequently in positions where they control a large amount of trade. In the first place the salesman should be frank, courteous and truthful, and should study to gain such a reputation above all else. When once gained this is the best capital a traveling salesman can possess. The salesman should be well posted in the line he handles. Whatever he undertakes to sell he should familiarize himself with. He should not only learn the cost to his house, but as nearly as possible he should know the cost of the various goods in the markets he is competing with, together with the various points regarding freight rates, time, etc., which are favorable or otherwise to the market which he represents. The salesman should have a price which he should ask for his goods based on their value and not on prices asked by competitors. Misrepresentations can do no good in the long run, while showing ones knowledge of goods in a dignified and manly way will win lasting friends and customers. Nothing costs so little and brings so good a return on the investment as politeness.—Frank Ness in Inter-State Grocer.

TARANTULAS.

The following correspondence upon the subject of tarantulas appears in the American Grocer of last week:

AMENIA, N. Y., May 10, 1890.

Editor American Grocer:

Can you inform me through the American Grocer's columns about tarantulas? Are they deadly poison? and are they often found in bananas? Having captured one, we wish to be informed about the effect of the bite as there are various opinions about it. Yours, very truly, L. B. COLE.

We referred this letter to the Division of Entomology, United States Department of Agriculture, and received the following reply:

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 20.

Editor American Grocer:

The large spiders so often received in this country in bunches of bananas from Central America and the West Indies belong to a number of different species and at least to three genera, viz:—Eurypelma, Lasiodora and Avicularia. The former is the most common and none of them are true tarantulas. The bite of these spiders is quite painful but by no means as dangerous as claimed; it produces a violent inflammation of short duration. Scars made by the bite are deep and lasting. The amount of danger which arises from one of these bites depends upon the susceptibility of the person bitten and upon his general physical condition. Some people, as you well know, are dangerously and sometimes fatally affected by the sting of a bee, and therefore it is not impossible that a fatal case may occur from the bite of one of these spiders. The venomous reputation of the animal would also with an imaginative person be apt to cause serious symptoms or even death in an extreme case.

Yours very truly,

L. O. HOWARD,
Entomologist.

At 6 o'clock on Friday evening Mr. J. Driscoll, grocer, Campbellford, was sitting in his store talking to Mrs. Driscoll and complained of a pain about the heart region and asked her if she could not do something for it. She went up stairs to get some mustard, and at this moment the milk-man drove up. Mr. Driscoll got the pitcher and started for the door, when he fell headforemost in the doorway, the pitcher breaking on the sidewalk and attracting outside attention. He was picked up immediately, but only gasped three or four times and life was extinct. He was about 50 years of age and had been in his usual health.

THE CANNED GOODS LAW.

Her Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate and House of Commons of Canada, enacts as follows:—

In this Act the expression "package" means every can, tin or package in which articles or goods are put up for sale, and which are closed by being hermetically sealed. 48-49 V., c. 63, s. 1.

Except in the case of goods packed previously to July 20, 1885, every package of canned goods sold or offered for sale in Canada, for consumption therein, shall have attached thereto or imprinted thereon a label or stamp, setting forth in legible characters the name and address of the person, firm or company by whom the same was packed, or of the dealer who sells the same or offers it for sale.

Every such package containing goods prepared from products which have been dried previously to being so prepared, shall, in addition, be labelled or stamped with the word "soaked," which word shall be plainly printed diagonally across the face of the label in large, legible type at least half an inch in height and three-eighths of an inch in width.

Every person who sells or offers for sale any such goods in violation of any provision of this section shall, on summary conviction before a justice of the peace, for a first offence incur a penalty of two dollars for each such package, and for a subsequent offence a penalty not exceeding twenty dollars and not less than four dollars for each such package in respect of which any such provision has been violated. 48-49 V., c. 63, s. 2.

Every person who places on any package any label, brand or mark which falsely represents the quantity or weight of the contents of such package, shall, on summary conviction before a justice of the peace, incur a penalty of two dollars for each package on which the quantity or weight is so falsely represented; provided always, that a variation under the rate of three per cent. shall not be deemed a violation of the provisions of this section. 48-49 V., c. 63, s. 3.

Every person who places on any package any label, brand or mark which falsely represents the date when the article or goods contained therein were packed, shall, on summary conviction before a justice of the peace, incur a penalty of two dollars for each package on which such date is falsely represented. 48-49 V., c. 63, s. 4.

GROCERIES.

The fits of activity in the wholesale trade correspond this year with the upward movements of the price of sugar. The winter lull was broken by the first advance, and the best trade since Christmas was transacted. The activity was but transiant. The tone of sugar proved to be fickle, and a long spell of dullness succeeded. Now that sugar is showing energy, business revives, and the past week held the largest volume of trade that has been done in any six days since the week of the former advance. To other lines was imparted some degree of the briskness that characterized the sugar trade. There was no large turn-over, however, in anything else, buying being pretty closely limited to the momentary need. The majority of the markets in staples are in a better position, and show firmness at points of production. Payments have been up to the average.

CANNED GOODS.

Corn and peas have got pretty well over the effects of the agitation that unsettled prices a few weeks ago. They are now at fairly firm prices, and are in strong demand. Both buyers and sellers seem to have confidence in the market, and recovery may become assured. Salmon is showing signs of weakness, which, however, may not be lasting The circumstance that threatens to upset prices is the making of contracts now for delivery of the new pack in the latter part of August, at prices of $1.30 to $1.40. This is alarming some holders, who feel that the unsold portion of their stock will be left on their hands, as packers must calculate upon the competition of an old surplus in next year's trade, since they are offering at such low figures. The season's demand, however, is likely to give good support to present prices. There is a big run on tomatoes, which are going very fast out of stock.

Sales have been made the past few days of several hundred cases canned lobster, in fall cans, at $1.70 here, by a local firm that was fortunate in getting contracts in at low prices prior to the speculative developments in the provincial markets, and the somewhat alarming reports of short catch this season. Whether purchases could be duplicated at that price is uncertain, it is the fact, however, that very few packers will now take orders at the opening prices, and it is also to be recorded that resales have been made at 10 to 20c. advance on original cost. Latest reports from the primary points are to the effect that there is very little chance of more than half of last year's pack. More or less shortage is considered very probable, and no one looks for cheaper lobster right away. However, some allowance is made for the natural tendency of speculators and their representatives to over-color the real situation, and orders are placed in a conservative way at the present time.—N. Y. Commercial Bulletin.

COFFEES.

Prices are substantially what they were a week ago, though oscillations on both sides of the points indicated in our Prices Current have been almost daily since then. The latest advices report Rio higher in Brazil. This will not affect the prices of stock held here, which is chiefly of the finer grades. The scarcity of popular grades continues. No feature, other than a participation in the slight shifting notes above, can be observed in the Java and Mocha market. A quiet trade in the three lines named, and a fair business in Maracaibo and Plantation Ceylon has been done.

DRIED FRUIT.

The market for currants continues to improve, supported by a growing demand and firmness at outside points. Ordinary provincial cannot be laid down here for less than 5½c. Private advices from New York report the market for currants very strong. Prices there are expected to advance beyond the point they have reached. Barrels are selling here at 5½ to 5¾c., and halves at 5⅝ to 6c. Valencia raisins are quiet at 7⅞ to 8¼c. Stocks are pretty bare, but the demand has not been strong. Sultanas are also receiving but a moderate share of the attention given this week to general groceries. A dull trade has been done also in figs and dates. Prunes have also sold freely. They are becoming quite scarce, and prices are moving up. Hogsheads are 5¾ to 6c, and cases are 7½ to 9c.

The new crop of French prunes is said to be promising of an abundant yield of fine fruit.

NUTS.

There has so far been no strong market. Stocks are but fairly full in staple lines, and are depleted in fancy varieties. Cocoanuts are the latest arrivals, but the sales have been far from numerous. The pic-nic season will give an impulse to the trade. There is no change in prices.

RICE AND SPICES.

The trade in rice has been very good this week. Supplies for the country demand are being laid in by retailers. The season's consumption is now about opening and buying is therefore fairly active. The trade in spices goes on at its normal rate. The selling is not notably greater or less this week than it is other weeks.

SUGAR.

The vein along which the chief current of trade ran this week was the sugar trade. Buying was very active. The sales were numerous, and in several cases large. Nevertheless it is not supposed that the week's business will be followed by the same gorged condition of the demand that followed the last big week in sugar. In the first place there were fewer large sales, and in the next there is the strong consumptive portion of the year now to be entered upon, which will have many times the absorbing power of the two months just traversed. The reason for the revival of the sugar trade is an advance in prices. Refiners showed a firmer front by the middle of last week, and before the end of it was reached they advanced ⅛c. on granulated. The advance was in the wake of one made in New York of a similar addition. Granulated is therefore now sold here at 6⅞ to 7c. Another advance on Monday brought up sugar a sixteenth higher in the New York market, but this advance has not yet been reflected upon our market. There is a general feeling that the market has now developed a reliable strength, and that the late advance is not the last of the series. Yellows are unchanged. Raws are offering at 5¼ to 5⅜c.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

A steady but quiet trade is transacted. Syrups move off at the easy rate characteristic of the trade. Molasses is also unchanged. Sales of Barbadoes last week were not followed by any heavy additions to stock in any of the Canadian markets.

TEAS.

New Japans are arriving, but the quantity is small, and the grades select. Prices do not vary noticeably from what ruled at the same time last year. Cheap Japans are becoming very scarce. Several lots of Nagasakis were sold on the street last week at 14 to 18c. Of green teas low grade Hysons are also scarce, as is gunpowder. Moyune gunpowders at 33 to 35c. are in very low supply. In blacks the values are exceptionally good, in fact they were never better. Indian and Ceylon teas are quiet locally. In London the market is in a very healthy condition, bidding for all grades being animated and general. It is quite evident that the trade is not over supplied with stock, and that the purchases being made are more for immediate use than for prospective requirements. Good medium teas have been much enquired for, and those offered have realised a further advance. The new seasons manufacture is very backward, stocks will therefore be materially reduced before the arrival of the new. Ceylons remain firm with a hardening tendency. There was good competition.

PETROLEUM.

Prices have been maintained and business has run its usual course. There is not a single element in this week's trade that was not present last week.

DRUGS AND CHEMICALS.

A reduction of 5c. in the price of camphor is the only change which the week's trade has been attended by. Trade has been much of the character it has been throughout the spring, and compares unfavorably with that of a year ago.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

The condition of the weather has been most favorable to the handling of large quantitles of butter, and to some extent must have checked the downward movement of prices. The opening of the hot season will tend to withdraw what little demand existed for the old butter, and transfer it to the product of grass feeding. The market for the old store tubs is working towards utter stagnation. The prices, 5 to 8c., have not changed, but the business done has shrunk from the point on the scale it reached even last week. Old tub butter is an utter drug, and not worth the trouble of handling. There is a larger quantity of roll-butter. In the rolls of several pounds' weight there is much of the old tub mixed with butter of the spring make. The alloy brings from 10 to 12c. Pound rolls are numerous at 12 to 14c. There is some good butter made into pound rolls, but the low prices for dairy butter of all other kinds keep down the value of this class. There are creamery rolls in liberal receipt at 20c. There are no creamery tubs yet. The rolls are not all good, and prices grade considerably below 20c. for butter that has the taint of rank wild weeds. Creamery butter made from milk that is the product of pure grazing is firm at 20c.

There is no rise or fall in the regular demand for cheese. The spring make is going into consumption very steadily at 9½ to 10c. The early fall cheese is worth 10½ to 11c. Each finds about equal favor, the hotel demand preferring the new make.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

BEANS—A relapse in the demand has made prices slightly easier. The stock is low, the sales are in small quantities, and are decreasing in number. Prices are $1.60 to $1.70.

DRIED APPLES—Are in declining demand, but the prices are firm at 5¼ to 5¾c. No recent large sales are reported. Business is mostly confined to the supplying of immediate consumptive requirements.

EVAPORATED APPLES — A rather dull market now ensues. The sales are in small lots at 11 to 12c. for fine bright new, and 10c. for dark old. The quantity in stock is supposed to be small.

EGGS—An improvement in the supply has caused the firmness notable during the past two weeks to relax. At the beginning of this week prices dropped half a cent, and change is more likely to be downward than upward. Receipts are liberal, and prices are 12 to 13c.

HAY—The demand for good continues active, and is rather waiting on the supply. Prices are unchanged at $10.50 to $11.

HIDES—The export demand, always good in spring, was given a special impulse this year by the uncertainty of a duty being imposed, by the new American tariff. The strong outside demand has now subsided, but no effect is yet apparent in prices. Cured indeed have gained a quarter, quoting now at 5¾c. Green run as last week, viz., 5¾, 4¾ and 3¾ for the three grades of steers, and one cent less for each grade of cows.

HONEY—Clear is 11½ to 12½c., and comb is 14 to 16c. There is no change.

HOPS—Are quiet at 12 to 16c.

OATS—The demand continues to gain on the supply, and the price is now firm at 42c.

ONIONS—Are 2½ to 3½c. per pound. The bulk of the stock is of the Sharlot variety. The demand continues good for trade.

POTATOES—The market is rapidly losing its tone. In Montreal the demand is clogged. There is plenty of stock offering, but little changes hands at 65c. in carloads here. Store lots go at 75 to 85c. The situation looks unhopeful. The month of May will probably turn out to have been the best part of the present for potatoes of the '89 growth.

SEEDS—Trade has been quiet at last weeks prices. Hungarian grass and millet are 70 to 75c.; select yellow horsetooth corn is 55c.; giant prolific sweet ensilage is 70c.; red cob ensilage is 60c.; ordinary buckwheat is 50c.; and Japanese buckwheat is 75c.

SKINS—There have been a few arrivals of clipped sheep which sold at 15 to 20c., and some lambs' skins at 25 to 30c. No. 1 calfe's worth 7c., and No. 2 brings 5c.

STRAW—Is in lower demand at $5 to $5.50 on track. Only good oat is wanted.

TALLOW—Rough is 2c., and rendered is 5¼.

WOOL—There is little business. The supply of new may be looked for to begin this month. Old fleeces still bring 22c. Pulled is 30c. for extra-super, 25 to 26c. for super, and 24c. for ordinary.

FISH.

Spring salmon, which has so far been brought from British Columbia, has now begun to arrive from the St. Lawrence. For some time local dealers have been in receipt of three to four tons a week of this fine fish. The demand is well maintained, and appears to be quite as strong for the eastern fish as for the Fraser. In all other kinds of fish the market has remained unaltered. A fair demand for herring and the larger lake fish has run through the week. Last week's prices still rule. Salmon and whitefish are 5½ to 6c., spring salmon 17 to 18c., lake herring $1.76 to $2 per hundred (count), pickerel 4½ to 5c.

GREEN FRUIT.

Valencias are again on this market at prices that have not materially eased since last week's quotations. They are worth $10. The prices of Messinas are $4.50 to $5.50. The stock of both kinds now selling here is nearly all the buying of dealers at the last of the Montreal sales. The half-case Palermos are 50c. higher than last week, going off at $3. The Rodi oranges, of which a few are in stock, are $6. A few Riversides are also to be had at $5.50. For lemons the summer demand has not manifested itself yet, and prices are steady at $3.50 to $4.50. Pineapples are 10 to 25c., according to size. Bananas are $1.50 to $1.75 per bunch for reds, and $1.50 to $2.50 for yellows. There is a good demand for them. Strawberries are down to 17 and 20c. per box. The trade here receive one or two car loads every day.

PROVISIONS.

A continuing activity in the season's trade is to be read in the business of the past week. All products find ready sale. The demand for smoked meats is strongest. Short cut is also going freely into trade.

BACON—Long clear is 8½ to 8¾c., bellies are 11½ to 12c., backs are 11 to 11½c., and roll is 9½c.

DRESSED HOGS—The receipts are large and numerous. Prices are weakening, and buyers are not very anxious to do more business this season. They are paying $6.25 to $6.50.

HAMS—Sweet pickled are 11 to 11½c., and smoked are firm at 12½c.

LARD—Tubs are 9½c., and pails 10c.

MESS PORK—Heavy is $16, and short cut is $17.

SALT.

From now until the 15th inst., the prices for barrel salt will be much lower than they have been, owing to the hay season coming in. The sales are larger this week, and will continue to be so until the warm weather terminates. The Toronto Salt Works report the following sales for the week: 5 cars bbl. salt at $1.27; 1 car sacks at 68c.; 1 car dairy $1.18. Smaller quantities sell at $1.40 for bbls.; 85c. for sacks; 45c. for ¼ sacks. Land salt $7 per ton.

DRY GOODS.

The improvement in trade felt by grocers was also experienced, though in a less degree, by dry goods men. General merchants were in town in greater number than usual last week and divided their business between the two classes of wholesalers. Dry goods men have therefore little to complain of in the business done. Travellers are sending in reports that are more enlivening than those of the sombre days of the greater part of the year already past. Prices in both woollen and cotton staples are very firm. Two or three lines of colored cottons were thrown upon the market a short time ago, but they did not strain prices perceptibly. Raw cottons are getting higher. The present aspect of affairs favors the opinion that all manufactured cottons will go up before they go down.

MONTREAL

MONTREAL MARKETS.

JUNE 5, 1890.

GROCERIES.

The business of the past week has been thoroughly satisfactorily owing no doubt to the beautiful weather we are now having and travellers report the outlook good and country merchants cheerful. There are no improvements noticed in payments.

SUGAR.

Since our last report sugar has slightly advanced with a strong and active market. The demand for yellows have greatly increased, as there is hardly any held by country merchants who have been buying conservatively. Outside markets are very strong and better outlook. Prices now are granulated 6⅞ to 7c.; yellows 5¼ to 5¾c.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

The light demand for syrups noted in our last continues. Refiners have no stocks in hand, being entirely in the hands of jobbers. The sale of about 1,000 packages Barbadoes' molasses last Friday did not alter the price as expected it being bought in at 29¾c. net. The first shipment of new reached this market a few days ago, and brought 32c. under and 31c. over car lots. Latest advices from Barbadoes report strong market at 14c. which means 33c. here, if this price is sustained we may expect further advances before long.

TEAS.

The new crop of Japans which reached this market are very inferior, owing no doubt to the very wet weather. Prices are also higher, now quoted at 30 to 35c.

DRIED FRUIT.

There is no new feature in the dried fruit market. Prices are unchanged. Valencias are in good compass, but high prices check the demand. Quotations are 8½ to 9c. Layers 9½ to 10c. Sultanas, firm and stocks light, 10½ to 12½c. The current market is still strong, with stocks light and quoted at 5¾ to 6¾c., according to package. Evaporated apples are about gone and are selling at 10 1-2c.; old is quoted at 8 1-2 to 9 1-2c., though some lots were bought as low as 7c. The stock is now in jobbers hands. Dried apples 5 1-2 to 6c.

CANNED GOODS.

There is very little to report in canned goods since our last report. The market is still strong and steady and very low stocks. Prices remain unchanged, except in apples, (gallons), which have advanced and are now quoted at $2.50 to $2.60. Lobsters are very scarce on this market, stocks being bought up largely on United States account. Price $7.25 to $7.75. Salmon $140 to $1.50.

NUTS.

The advance reported in nuts has been well sustained. A large sale is reported of 24,000 lbs. Pecans at about 13c. Peanuts have again advanced.

COFFEE.

There has been an advance on the other side, but as yet no change has taken place on this market. Prices are—Java 26 to 30c. Maracaibo 22 to 24c. Jamaica 22 to 23. Rio 20 to 22c. Mocha 29 to 31c.

GRAIN AND FLOUR.

GRAIN—Business is quiet so far as export is concerned, corn being about the only grain which is going forward in any quantity. Wheat nominally steady. Coarse grain unchanged. We quote:—Wheat, No. 1 hard Manitoba, $1.20 to $1.22, No. 2, nominal; peas, per 66 pounds, in store, 69 to 70c.; peas, afloat, May delivery, 70 to 71c.; Quebec oats, 36c.; Ontario oats, 38c.; corn, duty paid, 50 to 51½c; corn, cargoes in bond, 41 to 43c.; barley, feeding, 40c.; barley, good malting, 52c.

FLOUR—There is a small peddling business doing to supply local needs, but beyond that trade is exceedingly flat. Values are steady. Quotations are as follows :—Patent winter, $5.25 to $5.50; patent spring, $5.75 to $5.90; straight roller, $5.00 to $5.15; extra, $4.70; to $4.80 superfine, $4.25 to $4.50; fine, $3.50 to $4.00; city strong bakers, $0.00 to $5.50; strong bakers, $0.00 to $5.59; superfine, bags, $2.00 to $2.01; extra, bags, $2.20 to $2.30; fine, bags, $1.50 to $1.90; oatmeal, standard, per bag $2.15 to $2.25; oatmeal, granulated, $2.30 to $2.50; oatmeal, rolled, $2.30 to $2.50.

EGGS.

Are very strong, and 14c. is being asked and paid for single case, but 13½c. is the ruling price.

HOG PRODUCTS.

We quote prices as follows :—Western mess, $16 to $16.50; Chicago short cut, $17; Canada short cut, $17. Lard, 8 to 8½c. bacon, 10½ to 11c.; hams, 11½ to 12c.

GREEN FRUIT.

FRUIT—The demand is improving constantly. We quote oranges, in cases, repacked, $10; lemons, $2 to $4, in boxes; pineapples, 10 to 25c. according to size and condition; bananas, $1.25 to $1 per bunch; Egyptian onions, 4c. per pound; Bermudas, $3.50 per case; strawberries, 12 to 22c. per box.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—There is an easier feeling here in cheese, but 8¾ to 9c. are still asked.

There are a few creamery men in town offering the first month's butter, but they are not disposed to sell at low prices, and no one will offer them high ones. We quote as follows to day:—Creamery 18½ to 20c.; Townships, 16 to 18c.; Western, 12 to 15c. For old creamery, 14 to 19c.; Townships, 10 to 12c.; Western, 7 to 10c.

THE CANADIAN GROCER, one of the brightest trade papers that comes to our desk, has been made the official organ of the Montreal Association.— Pennsylvania Grocer.

Messrs. T. Ivory & Sons, general merchants, Omemee, were sufferers to the extent of $10,000 in a fire which damaged their town very badly on Monday. Their insurance was $7,600.

Thomas H. Noble, grocer, corner Queen street and Spadina avenue, Toronto, appeared before Magistrate Baxter, on Tuesday, in answer to five charges of having sold liquor without a license. The chief witness against the defendant was a man named Alfred Coville, who had but a week ago been dismissed from the employ of the defendant. He stated that upon several occasions he had delivered ale at houses of the defendant's customers under orders. The case was allowed to stand till Monday next.

OF LONDON, CAPITAL, £50,000.

Under the auspices of the Indian Tea Districts Association.

The object of the company is to push the sale of their product, feeling certain that when systematically brought to consumers' notice its merits will be so manifest as to give it the front rank in public favor, as is the case in Great Britain.

Roundly, the annual consumption in that country is 80,000,000 lbs. during last crop year This is the best answer to the twaddle about the excessive quantity of tannin in Indian tea. Consumers in England are no fools : they know a cup of good tea.

Supplies will be held in Canada and the States and the undersigned, or his assistants, will make regular calls on the Trade. Samples will also be promptly forwarded on application.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Hudon, Hebert & Co. are offering, specially, Malaga raisins, Deliu's brand, crop of 1889, best London layers, Black Crown and Layers, all in boxes and in flat ¼ boxes.

The firm of Gillespie, Roach & Co., importers of fancy dry goods and small wares, on McGill street, is in difficulties. The direct liabilities are about $90,000, and the concerns principally interested are the Bank of Montreal, the Hochelaga, Stormont and Ontario cotton companies. Bad debts and a heavy market are ascribed as the chief causes of the difficulty.

The first shipment of Barbadoes molasses reached this port the other day per S. S. "Plymouth," consigned to Messrs. Hudon, Hebert & Co., which was oversold before reaching here. It brought 32c. under car-lots. This firm are now taking orders for another shipment which is now afloat, due here the end of the month.

Messrs. Ince, Toronto; Turner, Hamilton; Gillard and Turner, Quebec, were in town last week on business for the Grocers' Guild.

Cleophas M. Lavigne, grocer, on Mignonne street, assigned Tuesday morning at the instance of Charles Langloise, provision merchant, with about $13,000 liabilities, the chief creditors being La Banque Jacques Cartier, $2,692.35; the Trust & Loan Co., $2000; Hudon, Hebert & Co., $1,947.54, and estate E. Lavigne, $1,127.58.

RETAILERS' COST OF SERVICE.

At a recent conference of members of the Pennsylvania Merchants' Protective Association, the cost of store service came under discussion. The details were published in our last issue. These show a variation in the cost of doing business of from 7 to 15 per cent. One of the delegates said very pertinently :—"A business man ought to know all these things. The successful business man must know them." And yet it is an exceedingly difficult matter to obtain a definite and reliable statement as to the relation of store expenses to gross proffits. In fact, not one out of ten retail grocers can state his average per cent. of gross profit. All recognize that the cost of the service is governed by the circumstances and conditions connected with each store, particularly as regards its location and class of customers. Probably there is no place in the United States that shows greater variation in condition and cost of service than the city of New York. In some of the first-class stores in this city, where the order system is in vogue and high salaries are paid to first-class clerks, the cost of doing business varies from 12 to 15 per cent. In other locations it drops to 7 or 8 per cent., as there is no systematic plan of gathering orders, most of the buyers carrying home supplies, for which they pay cash.

There are many matters, as was shown in the discussion, which enter into the cost of the service, and about which grocers are either ignorant or very careless. Thus a dealer reported that a cask of covered hams kept in a warm car over night lost 2 pounds per ham in weight. Hams fresh from the smoke-house, hung up in the store lost 10 per cent. of weight during the first twenty-four hours. These unavoidable shrinkages should be taken into account figuring expenses. And yet, with the ratio of cost of service to gross profits, high as it is, grocers will keep on selling flour at a profit of from 10 to 50c. per barrel, when the actual expense of handling it (which, of course, includes interest on its cost during the time in stock and the period of credit given) are greater than the profit obtained. Instead of selling sugar at a profit over the cost of service, it is sold at a positive loss. Unless all such points are thoroughly understood and taken into consideration by the retailer, in adjusting selling prices, the chances are that he will carry on business at a loss. In other words, he will, without knowing it, pay the community a bonus for the privilege of keeping store and continue the operation until losses force him to stop. The retailer must consider that the bulk of his sales is of staple goods upon which it is difficult to obtain a profit sufficient to cover cost of the service; therefore he should study to see what relation the sales of shelf goods and other lines paying a liberal profit, sustain to the sales of staples. With some grocers, one-fourth of their total sales is of sugar, while with others it is not over one-sixth.

Profits should be adjusted to meet individual circumstances and conditions and without reference to those of a neighbor or competitor. Price has less to do with winning patronage than quality of service. Make this of the highest order and it will soon be discovered that the manner in which a customer is treated, the quality of the goods distributed, the way in which they are put up and sent home and the mode in which accounts are kept, bills rendered and other parts of the service conducted, determine whether the patronage is to be transient or permanent. It is almost impossible to dislodge a well pleased customer.

It is a hopeful sign to find representative grocers from the large cities and towns of Pennsylvania getting together for the discussion of practical questions, instead of fighting windmills in Quixotic style. It means the reform of glaring trade evils, and the removal of self-imposed burdens. Let the discussion go on in association meetings and the trade press, and far-reaching good will result.—American Grocer.

REPLY PROMPTLY.

"I always make it a point," said a manufacturer, the other day, "to reply to every communication of a business nature addressed to me, if couched in civil language. Courtesy requires that I should. Time and time again I have been reminded by new customers that I was remembered through correspondence opened years before. Silence is the meanest and most contemptuous way of treating any one.—Book-Keeper.

H. Lapierre, grocer, Victoria, B. C., wants to sell out.

E. Barrett will open out shortly in the fancy grocery trade in Brandon. He will do a wholesale and retail business.

The collection agents of the Pittsburgh Grocers' Association reported, at the last meeting of that body, an aggregate of $525.87, of debts recovered from delinquents in the interval between that meeting and the one before it. This is good evidence of the potency of an Associotion as a collecting medium.

Here is a novel scheme for attracting business: Securely fasten a ten dollar gold piece to a prominent place in your store with the date of coinage hidden. Near by place an attractive placard announcing that on each purchase of a given amount of goods—to be determined as seems best—an opportunity will be given the customer of naming the date on the coin, the successful guesser to receive it. Have also a closely sealed box into which small slips with the name and guess written thereon may be dropped. A merchant in an Eastern town who recently tried this idea found 2,900 slips in his box after two months' waiting.—Grocer and Country Merchant.

Master the whole business and the way to fortune has been mapped out.

A customer secured is a promise of greater salary in time.

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, McGILL UNIVERSITY.

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured.

Yours truly,

TRADE SALES.

The following stocks were disposed of in Suckling, Cassidy & Co's. ware-rooms, on Tuesday :—

(1). That belonging to Mrs. Sarah Kinnon, Orillia, consisting of dry goods, smallwares, crockery, etc., amounting to $706.98. The buyers were Hayward & Bond, of this city, who paid 37½c. in the dollar.

(2). That belonging to E. Foreimer & Co., Montreal, consisting of jewelery, amounting to $1,381.19. Hayward & Bond were the buyers at 23c. in the dollar.

(3) That belonging to M. Sullivan & Co., Peterboro', consisting of dry goods, amounting to $7,700. Bought by J. W. Dunnett, Belleville, at 68c. in the dollar.

(4). That belonging to Parker & Co., Toronto, consisting of two parts. Part 1, made up of dress-goods, handkerchiefs, curtains, etc., amounting to $5,885, was bought by John Macdonald & Co., at 65c. in the dollar. Part 2, consisting of similar stock, valued at $3,572, went to James Shea, Hamilton, at 57½c. in the dollar.

One thing in particular should be impressed upon clerks—the necessity of careful attention to small customers.

The shareholders of the Nova Scotia sugar refinery are considerably interested in the presence of the promoter of an English syndicate, who is carrying on negotiations for bonding the manufactory. He is reported to have already bonded the two Montreal and the Moncton refineries. His reported offer for the Nova Scotia refinery is $850,000, two thirds cash and one-third stock; $50,000 deposit is to be paid to be forfeited if the sale is not completed by November 1. If this scheme succeeds the shareholders will reap a bonanza. The institution was established several years ago, but its capital was sunk by gross mismanagement. Then it was heavily mortgaged to the Merchants' Bank of Halifax, and was bought in by the present shareholders at about half its cost, viz: $250,000. During the past few years it has paid large dividends. One year the stock was doubled and issued as a bonus to the shareholders. Last year it paid a 12½ per cent. dividend. If the sale is completed upon the terms named the original 250 shares will realize $1,250 each.

IMPOSSIBLE!

So say Doctors, to say too much in favour of St. Leon Water. It puts down Bright's Disease and Diabetes, as water quenches fire. Cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, etc., completely if drank freely and rubbed in the skin.

LIQUID AND PASTE

IN ALL GRADES,

The Best in the World.

CHAS. GYDE, Agent, MONTREAL.

SILVER STAR STOVE PASTE.

The following is the universal verdict of all who have used or sold it:

HAMILTON, APRIL 25th, 1890.

Messrs. F. F. DALLEY & Co.,

GENTLEMEN:—In thus ordering a fresh supply of your SILVER STAR STOVE PASTE we cannot but express our appreciation of the goods and congratulate you on having been able to place on the market an article so superior in every respect to anything we have heretofore been able to get.

As we use it on the stoves in the wareroom, we know personally its good qualities—no dust, a quick polish, always ready and the work is done in the time it would take to prepare the Dome or other hard stove polishes, and one of the best features about it is that it is so clean to handle.

If a man sells us an inferior article we don't forget to tell him about it, and on the same principle when a firm gives us an Extra good one we believe in letting them know that we appreciate it.

We remain,

Respectfully yours,

J. WALLACE & SON.

SOLUS. SOLE PRESERVER

Will preserve the soles of boots or shoes, and render them perfectly waterproof. One application to a pair of new shoes will double their wearing qualities.

Two-sized tins, 15 and 25 cents. Will cost you $1.20 and $2.00 per dozen.

We also manufacture the best line of Wigwam Slippers, and Lumberman's Oil Tanned foot wear in Canada.

C. N. VROOM,

SPECIAL TO OUR READERS.

As the design of THE CANADIAN GROCER is to benefit mutually all interested in the business, we would request all parties ordering goods or making purchases of any description from houses advertising with us to mention in their letter that such advertisement was noticed in THE CANADIAN GROCER.

OUR MONTREAL OFFICE.

Our Montreal Office is located at 115 St. Francois Xavier St. Our representative, Mr. Hugh C. McLean, will be pleased to have subscribers and advertisers call upon him there. He will also pay special attention to gathering business items and attending generally to the interests of this paper.

Changes in advertisements and new advertisements must reach this office not later than Wednesday morning of each week.

THE TRADE IN CANNED GOODS.

The critical period in the canned goods trade is that which falls between the months of March and July. The demand that sets in at the beginning of this period continues strong and steady till the season is over. By early spring, home-made supplies are done, and the consumption of domestic producers is added to that of perennial buyers. Also, the rate, as well as the volume of consumption, is increased. Edible products that last up to this time without artificial preservation, such as apples, carrots, turnips, now give out, and their place is taken by canned apples, peas, tomatoes, corn, beans, etc. The portability of canned goods adds to the consumption of them during the migratory portion of summer, when so much camping is done. An additional stimulus to consumption is afforded by the relish every one has in early summer for foods that are naturally available only in early autumn. All these circumstances work together to make the spring and summer trade a good one.

But the period of briskest demand is short, the quantity of stock still on hand is unknown, and knowledge of it is inaccessible. It might happen there is more on hand than will, under the present pressure of prices, flow into consumption before the new crop is here. An easing of those prices may be desirable to enlarge the volume of trade and get the market clear before the coming crop stops the demand entirely. The situation is so problematical that precipitate action is likely to be taken. It was the case in the spring of '89. Apprehension that the stock unsold was more than a fit for the consumption yielded by established prices led to an early break. Prices dissolved as early as January last year, and nobody made any money. Before the year had got as far on as 1890 now is, retailers were selling corn, peas, etc., at three tins for twenty-five cents. Wholesalers bought at 80c., 90c., and $1. The circumstances which make trade critical during the period indicated are evident from a consideration of the above facts, as they involve a possibility of over production, for which the only mitigation is an early enough reduction of prices.

The stock which was naturally the basis of the present year's trade came upon the market inauspiciously. A large surplus of the '88 production was carried over, and threatened to weaken prices right at the outset. Though urged by low prices so early as the previous January, consumption had been unable to make room for that old stock within the commercial year 1888-'89. It appeared as if the history of the past winter and spring trade would repeat itself. But the reality turned out better than the prospect, and a satisfactory business was done up to May. Then the Association agreement was violated by the sale of several lots of corn and peas at lower prices than those established. This was followed by the abandonment by the canners of any attempt to uphold prices, and the goods have for some time been left to the chances of the demand. Still, prices have not greatly relaxed. Retailers can now sell tins of peas and corn at ten cents each. Wholesalers get $1 a dozen, whereas they before got $1.25 to $1.30, having to pay the canners $1.20.

If there is a residue at the end of this commercial year, it will be a much smaller one than was left at the end of last. The probability of there being one will be likely to maintain a slightly depressing influence upon prices, but will scarcely now drive them any farther down. More of the crucial period is behind us than is before us, and the year will be apt to turn out rather satisfactory to all parties. What has improved the situation is the year's export trade. That relieved the market overloaded with so much of the old stock and all of the new. Also the output of the canneries last year was smaller than that of the year before. The difference in the close of the trade of the two years will be, that the surplus of '89 stock, if there is any, will be very much smaller than that of the '88 stock, and that none of the surplus to speak of will be in the hands of canners, whereas that of '88 was all in their hands. Canners have to be congratulated on opening up markets for their goods this year, which furnished no demand at all last year.

A surplus is hypothetically spoken of, but we do not very strongly believe in the probability that there will be one. Peas have above a month to run, and corn has three months. Meanwhile consumption is at its height, and at present these goods are going out rapidly. With all the large old stock of tomatoes that was sluiced on this year's market, we are likely to have every can consumed long before the season of renewal. If it had not been for the overplus in the stock put up in '88 we should have been short of peas for this year's consumption. Prices will be likely to remain easy, but the weight of the stock will not overbalance the market.

THE LOSING BUTTER TRADE.

If all the general dealers throughout the country were fatalists, they could scarcely manifest a more passive spirit under the losses of the butter trade, than they do in this age of sanguine belief in the all-pervading presence of the germ of reform. They stand towards the butter trade in the attitude of those who believe it has to be thus, as those who feel it is out of their power to redeem one cent of the great loss that is yearly borne through handling this commodity under present conditions. It seems as if no stronger irritant to reform need be wanting than a widespread sense of loss, yearly incurred with fresh aggravation. This we have had to the degree of overwhelming conviction, but we have hardly the most timid movement towards retrenchment along that line of progressive waste. One spring after another brings round the same situation on a larger scale. In its progress towards consumption there is always a spring clog at this market. The butter accumulates, declines in character, and brings stagnation at this point in the channel of the market. At times, it seems, that to make way for the circulation of the new grass butter, it would be necessary and even economical, to take off the stuff as refuse. Yet this is the product of healthy animal life and of industry. Nor is there any superfluity of butter in the aggregate of the world's production. For every pound that is acceptably produced and marketed there is demand at prices ranging from 25 to 30 cents, yet we have to-day tons that would be eagerly turned over to the man who would offer 4 cents a pound for it.

Was any of this butter bought at 4 cents a pound, in its transfer from the maker to the retail dealer? Practically, none of it was, and very little of it for as low a figure as three times that price. It implies the supposition of a great degree of poverty as well as a very depraved taste, and both to be very general, for us to believe there is in this country a consumers' market this for four-cent stuff. We cannot believe that there is a demand low enough to recognize it as butter. It gets off this market at a nominal price in the end, but to what purpose it is applied there is no saying. Then why should this product be paid for as butter? There must be an overweening desire for trade on the part of those who continue to pay uniform prices for all grades. Or there must be a misconception of what trade is. It must be supposed to mean an exchange of commodities upon a losing basis to both parties, with the heavy side of the loss against the dealer. For, although the dealer buys at lower prices than he sells at in too many cases, yet he buys at prices below what the producer should get for butter. Loss, as a correspondent points out in last week's issue, falls on the producer as well as on the dealer. All the raw material, all the labor that are required to produce good butter are required to produce what is bad. The skill is the main condition in the difference.

In the country butter is almost a currency. There are stores wherein at certain seasons there is more of it circulating than there is of money currency. It is given an inflated value at the outset and suffers discount on its true original value every day it is kept in store. It is freely taken in trade to prevent any stagnation in trade which the want of ready money would temporarily cause. But if butter is to be made a substitute for money why is its value not regulated? Regulation means not only adjustment to the varying movements of the demand, but gradation of prices according to the quality of the butter. The problem of how to engineer his business is a much more complex one to the retailer who takes butter than to the retailer who does not. The latter has a stratum of cost prices under the values he asks for his goods, and this basis in normal conditions is level with that of every other trader's business. This affords some chance to cultivate a surface soil more or less deep of profit. The butter buyer has more to do than be on his guard against cutting below this basis. He has to buy a commodity for which there is no fixed market, so that he cannot protect himself against the chance of loss. He has to speculate as well as run an orthodox trade. The chances in the speculation are always a large number in the majority against him. He virtually has to sell his goods below cost.

There is no commodity has a standstill market. There must be fluctuations. But the fluctuations in nearly everything but butter are as a rule determined by relations between the supply and the demand. It is the exception that they are movements ruled by quality. It is quality however which is the influential factor in the butter market. If it were a reasonabiy calculable thing, there would be a fairly constant market. Prices would not play between such distant extremes as are now represented by the highest and lowest to be found in any year's business. Buying would not be so precarious. What is wanted, then, is uniformity of quality, or as close an approach to it as possible. What we have is endless variety of quality along with uniformity of prices. It is in the hands of dealers either to raise the standard of butter approximately to one level, or to grade the scale of prices approximately to the diversity of quality. And one thing seems to be about as easy to them as the other. They can raise the standard of butter marketed with them by declining to accept any which does not come up to the standard contemplated in their uniform price. If makers cannot sell butter that falls below that standard, they will strive to make what will not fall below it. It is reasonably certain that the retailer can elevate the quality of the butter of local make, because he has satisfied himself that he can degrade the quality of the local make. There is not on an average so good butter made now in the homes of our farmers as there was twenty years ago. Why? Because good butter has no advantage over bad from the selling point of view. The maker can get just as much for the bad as for the good, therefore, why take the pains to acquire the skill requisite to make good? The retailer is more to blame for this than any body else, for to a very large extent the retailer is the inspector of the work done in domestic dairies, and if the inspector neglects his duty, what is the result? Carelessness on the part of the workers.

The suggestions in the letter, signed "F. Uture," which we printed last week, should be considered by every dealer. If the principle of selection be adopted by every dealer, those makers who cannot come up to the test of eligibility for the butter of commerce, will cease to try, and stand aside for the creamery. The general establishment of the creamery will be a beneficent change. An immense load of loss will be lifted off dealers, a burden of slavery off the farmers' wives and daughters, we shall have good butter, the foreign market will welcome it, and one of our finest national resources will be properly developed.

TRADE IN CURED MEAT.

The quantity of cured meat consumed in this country is increasing every year by a strong ratio of progression. The demand for this meat was formerly confined to the summer months, now it lasts throughout the year. Even the summer consumption was limited, and was more due to dissatisfaction with the keeping of fresh meat than to the greater liking for what was cured. Cured meat, however, has been made a popular and steady staple because it has been yearly improving in quality. There is as much distaste as ever there was for the old-fashioned, plain, dry-salted meats, or for the coarser pickled meats as an article of food at all seasons. If the art of curing had not developed, it is unlikely that cured meat would have ever been more than a summer substitute for high priced or sensitive fresh meat. Our meats are now much more mildly cured. They are neither saturated with a solution of salt, nor are they left long in cure. All are cured in sugar, and most are smoked The old trade supported an exclusively winter packing business. The product of tha packing lay often ten months in cure before consumption was started, and so long as the curing process remained what it was, so long would consumption be unlikely to take early to cured meat. Under present methods the meat is ready for use forty days after it is put into cure, and is an article of food from New Year's to Hogmanay. The art of curing having stimulated consumption and thus benefited trade, has been in turn reacted upon by the improved demand, and now the curing industry is an all the year round business. Canadian packers have put up well-equipped slaughter and packing houses for summer hogs, and the product going into consumption so soon after curing, circulates in trade when its quality is highest. For, with our improved process of curing, the demand restricted to the summer would be inactive for a long time after the meat was marketable. During this time the meat would be in cure, and certainly would not gain in palatable or nutritious qualities. The new process, however, having created a continuous demand, has now a market at the moment maturity of product is reached.

Another circumstance that has wrought for the good of trade by co-operating with the above-named causes for the improvement of the product, is the drift of hog-raising in this country towards light weights This drift is a consequence of the American competition in dressed hogs and barrel pork, which, being the growth of heavy feeding in a rich corn region, naturally drove our farmers toward the production of a specialty. This specialty, the light hog, was further called for by the increased demand for cured meats, of which certain causes have been adverted to, and in the liberality of its responsive production it soon became a cause for the further popularity of those meats, the more general raising of such hogs tending to ease prices. The product is therefore improved by better methods of curing, by a continuous demand which brings the meat readily on the market, and by a finer class of raw material.

There are certain economic phenomena which are the direct result of the transition from an intermittent to a steady consumption of cured meats. One is the greater capacity of the market for suitable hogs. These are in demand at any season. No one can remember an unbroken demand for these hogs lasting in any former year to so late a date as the demand of this year did. Prices have ruled high on account of the widespread call for cured meat. Hogs were in fact the one paying commodity that the farmers raised this year. Peas, corn and barley converted into pork made better returns than those directly marketed. Another result of the demand for cured meats is the development of hog-culture. Farmers study to obtain such breeds as will produce lean meat. They are coming to avoid the scraggy poor hogs, and the massive fat ones. This result might be more general than it is, but it is gaining ground every year. Also, there are now two or three crops of hogs raised every year, a fact which is the direct effect of greater consumption of cured meats. Finally, the improved demand has created a trade. There was nothing done in winter by any dealer. Now there is a trade at all seasons, and one that it pays the dealer to develop.

The Minister of Agriculture has received a letter from Mr. John Dyke, agent of the department at Liverpool, in which he states that a number of leading grain exporters from London and other parts of England were in Liverpool recently, engaged in an arbitration case, and were shown samples of barley grown at Indian Head and other points in the North-west. They stated that if barley like that could be shipped to England there would practically speaking, be an unlimited demand for it.

A reputation for truthfulness is indispensable to permanent and satisfying success.

THE SALMON SITUATION.

We review the position of the article as it was on March 31, the close of the trade year. The situation in this country is much more favorable than in any country importing salmon. The only stock now held is an unknown quantity of Alaska salmon, much of which is inferior. Good red Alaska fish is passing rapidly into consumption as its price is making it a popular article. We learn that in Boston a leading house is retailing a good brand at 10c. per can and meeting with an enormous sale. The canneries on the Columbia are supplied with fish at $1, which enables them to sell at $1.35 per dozen on the river, except for fancy brands, which command $1.65 in New York.

We believe that the total pack on the Columbia in 1890 can be marketed. If there is again a large pack in British Columbia it will glut foreign markets, already overstocked, and leave England out of the question as a buyer. It is probable that Alaska salmon will be sold at $1 to $1.10 per dozen on the Pacific Coast. It is to be hoped that Alaska packers will put up only a moderate quantity of choice salmon. In this connection we present the following table:

Year.	Columbia.	Total.
1880	530,000	679,500
1881	550,000	911,000
1882	541,300	994,800
1883	629,400	1,106,600
1884	629,000	985,295
1885	553,800	835,715
1886	479,250	933,354
1887	373,800	997,870
1888	372,750	1,189,372
1889	328,000	1,650,000

The imports into the United Kingdom, for the calendar year and the trade year, ending March 31, compare as follows:

Year ending Dec. 31	Cases.
1889	621,034
1888	368,035
1887	316,346
1886	364,077
1885	357,863
Total 5 years	2,027,355
Average per year	405,471

Year ending March 31.	Cases.
1890	674,876
1889	595,374
1888	343,254
1887	244,338
1886	381,401
Total 5 years	2,199,243
Average per year	439,849

The requirements of the United Kingdom are placed at 1,000 cases per day, an estimate which the above figures show to be correct. The average annual imports for the four calendar years ending Dec. 31, 1888, were 351,580 cases, and for the four trade years, ending March 31, 1888, 381,092 cases.

It appears from the above table that the United Kingdom will carry over this spring from 225,000 to 275,000 cases, or two-thirds of a year's supply. Holding the stock at high figures, in the face of active packing operations this season, with the United States carrying a heavy stock of Alaska salmon, seems a postponement of an evil day. It is reported that English buyers have combined to delay purchases of Columbia River salmon until August. No matter what course they pursue it cannot affect the United States market which is in a position to take the entire Columbia River pack of this season, using good red Alaska salmon for the balance of its requirements, provided the July run is not excessive and the total pack on the Columbia is about the same as last year. If, however, it should be heavier, there would be a pressure to sell, as most of the packers are interested in Alaskan canneries and therefore would seek to clean out their Columbia River pack, in order to the better handle the cheaper Alaska product. England, Canada, and the Colonies will have load enough to carry when the British Columbia pack of 1890 is added to the carry over from the season just ended. Sales of British Columbia have been made at $1 10 to $1 20 f. o. b. prices that will stimulate demand unless dealers continue the artificial measures now in force. —Reduced from the American Grocer.

DETECTION OF CHICORY IN COFFEE.

Baumert (Jour. de Pharm. de Lorraine) gives the following method. The ash of 25 grains of genuine coffee is treated with an alkali and then washed with water to which a little nitric acid has been added. The resulting fluid will require in titration 5.7 c. c. of normal silver nitrate, while the ash of a like quantity of chicory will need 70 c. c. of the same salt for the estimation of its chlorine —1 c. c. corresponding to 1 mg. of the latter.

TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

The May meeting of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association was held on Monday afternoon in Richmond Hall. The following were present: Messrs. Mills, Thackray, Roberts, Barron, Partridge, White, McCulloch, Johnston, Lindsay, Williamson and Killen. The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed.

THE TIME OF MEETING.

The motion of which notice was given at the last meeting, to make the afternoon instead of the evening, the time of meeting, was brought up by Mr. Partridge. The Secretary reported that he had, as instructed, canvassed the opinion of members as to the proposal to make the time of session afternoon instead of evening. He found the feeling against the change. Many considered this the wrong season, as the fruit is now coming in. Mr. Johnston said the fruit trade was not important on Mondays.

Mr. Partridge moved that the Association meet in the afternoon of the second Monday in each month, at the hour of 3 o'clock. Mr. Johnston seconded this motion. After some discussion the motion was carried.

The time of mailing the notices of meeting incidentally came up for discussion along with the main question of time of meeting. It was held that notices received on Saturday were apt to be overlooked on so busy a day, or forgotten before the meeting would be due. The consensus of opinion was in favor of the secretary mailing on Saturday night, that the members might receive the notices on the day of the meeting. The time of mailing, however, was left to the Secretary.

NEW MEMBERS.

Mr. H. Scully, Mr. T. Gay, Mr. I. H. Crawford, were proposed by the secretary. Upon the motion of Messrs. Williamson and Roberts the rules of admission were suspended and those nominees were declared elected. Mr. Johnson proposed Mr. Albert Shaw.

THE PEDDLING QUESTION.

The Secretary reported for the Executive Committee, to which had been referred for action the resolution to circulate petitions in behalf of approved changes in the Pedlars' By-law. The Committee had met, decided on the prayer of the petition, and had authorized the Secretary to circulate it among the grocers, and to leave forms for the signature of householders at each grocer's. For this service the Committee agreed that the remuneration to the Secretary should be $25. The Secretary had carried about the petition with the aid of an assistant and got the signatures of 400 grocers endorsing the changes recommended by the Association. The householders' petition had been rather disappointing, little having been effected. The storekeepers' petition had been forwarded to the City Clerk, with the request that he give notice to the Secretary, of the time when the Markets and Health Committee would have the matter before it, that a delegation of the Association might be present at the time.

THE COLLECTING LETTERS.

The Secretary reported that the number of forms he had been instructed to have printed had been obtained, and that some use had already been made of them with results entirely satisfactory to the creditors. Considerable sums had been collected at long distances, and promises had been obtained where neglect had formerly been the only answer. The letters would very soon repay the money laid out on them.

ACCOUNTS.

The cost of printing the collecting letters etc., amounting to $18.70, was laid before the meeting, and passed.

THE TOBACCO QUESTION.

A letter from Mr. John Small, M.P., in reply to one from the Secretary on the tobacco excise question, was read. The writer had seen the Minister of Inland Revenue, and learned that it was not the intention of the Department to impose heavy fines for violations of the Act, and that prosecution should follow cases only of persistent disregard of the law. The communication was received.

OUTSIDE ASSOCIATIONS.

A communication from Brantford was read asking for copies of the Constitution, etc. Received.

A letter from the Secretary of the Guelph Association, in reply to an enquiry of the Toronto Association concerning particulars of a delinquent who had moved to Guelph from this city, was next read. The reply states that such a man was not known to the local body by the name quoted, but that a Torontonian of another name, a dead beat, had just moved from Guelph. This turned out to be the person sought. The Guelph communication named a woman, said to be a milliner, but mistrusted not to be one, who had left Guelph and gone to Toronto. The Guelph Association would be glad to know her address, as she owed members. The Guelph body desired to establish reciprocity between the two Associations. The letter further asked for copies of the collection letters. The communication was received.

The question of placing the letter forms at the service of outside Associations was discussed, with the conclusion that the Association was agreeable to the forms being supplied.

THE DELINQUENT LIST.

The Secretary asked authority to continue the list.

Mr. Partridge wanted to know if any good results came from the list. If there were, he should like to be told what they were. He objected to the list being maintained from the fund that had been derived from the pic-nic. The list should be self-sustaining. If useful, it should be paid for, and not kept up out of a fund raised by other than Association fees. To his inquiry as to how the Association stood previously, the Secretary showed there was $634 on hand from the pic-nic, less $107, and $80 of surplus in the current year's business.

Mr. Mills felt that a discontinuance of the list would amount to a breach of faith with new members, who had been induced to come on account of the list. At the beginning of the year some recruiting idea had been considered necessary to bring members in. This had been suggested. They were now in a sense morally bound to support it. Their idea at the outset had been that the thing would maintain itself after a year's start. He did not like to see capital derived from wholesale sources used to keep up any current expense. He thought, too, that information should not be supplied free to people.

Mr. Partridge said that if the Association were pledged to the scheme, he would say no more. He wanted to know how many members it brought in. Such privileges should be paid for. The Association could not support new members.

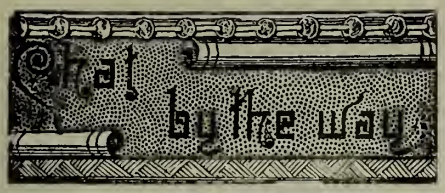
Mr. Williamson stated that he approved the scheme at the outset on the understanding that the funds were available to support it. He thought it would be bad policy now to drop it.

Mr. McCulloch found good results from the list. He thought Mr. Partridge was late in finding fault. Why had he not attended the meetings at the time when the matter was adopted.

Mr. Roberts thought the thing should be given a year's trial.

Mr. Killen received his lists regularly, and found them useful. Mr. White, likewise found the list a benefit.

Mr. Johnston also approved the list.



Mr. Barron thought it wrong to draw money from capital for such a purpose. Such an inducement should not be held out to bring any man into the Association, and should not be available for $2.

Mr. Partridge moved, seconded by Mr. Johnson, that the renewel of the authority to keep the list going six months be considered by the Executive Committee.

A DAY OF DIVERSION.

Mr. Williamson introduced the suggestion of a pic-nic, which was given a good deal of attention. Some disapproval was expressed of any proposal to have a pic-nic that involved so much labor and so little pleasure as the last one did. The idea of soliciting help from the wholesalers was also viewed with disfavor. It was at length moved by Mr. Williamson, seconded by Mr. McCulloch, that a pic-nic or an excursion be held, the determination of which, and the details to be left to a committee of the following: Messrs. Mills, Thackray, Berwick, Booth, F. Britton, Saunders, Killen, Barron, White, Partridge, Western, Gibson, McCulloch, Clark, Butcher Binnie.—Carried.

The meeting then adjourned.

A large cracker factory will be started in Windsor shortly.

The merchants and business men of Hamilton are agitating for an extra afternoon mail delivery.

R. A. Dutton, a Barrie grocer, suffered heavy loss in the floods which swept that town as a consequence of last week's storm.

Mr. L. H. Dobbin, Montreal, was in Toronto and Hamilton last week and made very satisfactory sales of "Huckins Soups" and other goods to the wholesale trade.

A fire in Orangeville on Monday night seriously damaged the stocks of Crozier & Fleming, general merchants, and I. McAdam, grocer. The losses were covered by insurance.

James Rabi, a country merchant, acknowledging Oro, Ont., as his birthplace, was euchred out of $95 by a Montreal confidence man a few nights ago. The old bogus cheque scheme was worked on him.

A carrier pigeon with a silver ring and a number was picked up in Messrs. James Turner & Co's yard, Hamilton, one night last week. It was in an exhausted condition, and it is not yet known whence it came.

The Moncton, N. B. Transcript announces the sale of both the cotton factory and sugar refinery in that town to English capitalists, for whom O. L. Spencer, of Toronto, is acting. The Transcript says the refinery will not be closed.

Mr. W. B. Palmer, manager for W. G. Dunn & Co's spice mills, Hamilton, died somewhat suddently at his residence on Friday afternoon. The deceased was attacked only a few days ago with chills, which developed into blood poisoning.

The California prune crop which, it was supposed, would be very much larger than it was last year, will, it is now certain, be very much smaller than last year. One man took orders without any recourse, positive orders, and will thereby probably lose $20,000, if he fills them according to his contracts.—N. E. Grocer.

The Badgerow, Falconer Vinegar Manufacturing Co. are now manufacturing all lines of fruit syrups, cordials, raspberry and strawberry vinegar. They have secured the services of a man that worked for 18 years in the largest manufacturing concern of syrups and cordials in Europe, and are able to place before the Canadian public an article of rare merit. They put up in quart and pint bottles, raspberry, strawberry, lemon, orange, nectar, coffee, pineapple, ginger, vanilla, banana, etc., etc.

In the first week in July, weekly payments for all working people will become compulsory by law in the State of New York. The curious feature in the passage of this Act was that for three months the opponents to it tried to prevent it coming to a vote, but when it did, it was carried with only one dissenting voice.

The town of Moosomin, Man., was visited by a disastrous fire on Saturday last. Many buildings were burnt. Among the sufferers were Narovlansky & Repstein, general merchants, Mr. Lewin, general merchant, and Mr. Tees, general merchant. Incendiarism is supposed to have been the cause of the fire, which destroyed upwards of $30,000 worth of property.

The Detroit Grocer and Trade Reporter has changed its name and enlarged the field of its missionary labor. It is now the Detroit Herald of Commerce, and speaks for the general trade interests of its city and the outlying country that is commercially tributary or supplementary to it. The paper has doubled its space. It will undoubtedly many times double its constituency, if it works as earnestly for its new readers as it did for the old.

Geo. Simmons, formerly a merchant of Middlemiss, who committed suicide a few days ago never fully recovered from La grippe. After selling out his farm in Middlemiss, he removed to his farm near Longwood station. He got up on Saturday morning before daylight, and his wife, who kept a strict watch over him, observed him going to the woods, called up her son. Both started in pursuit and succeeded in overtaking him in the wheat field. As soon as he observed them he turned quickly towards them, and taking out his knife, cut his throat before they could stop him, serving the windpipe and one artery. He only lived a short time.

The mysterious plate-glass vandal of St. Catharines, has been at his old trick again. He visited the unscratched area in the west end of St. Paul street and disfigured the show windows of the following stores :—Seacords, Douglas' old stand, Harris' old stand, Lindsay's old stand, two windows of the Mammoth, Wolverton and Brick's barber shop, Greenwood's drug store and Bixby's book store. The Star newspaper office windows on Ontario street, a short distance from the scene of the scoundrel's depredations, are scratched and cut in a dozen places, and the names of the proprietors of that institution are cut on the plate glass window of a vacant store on St. Paul street. Messrs. McLaren & Co., verbally offer a reward of $100 in addition to the merchants' reward for the capture of the scoundrel.

A feather duster disperses but does not remove the dust from the store

HECK'S COLUMN.

Have you that knack of selling goods to a customer when your fellow clerk could not make a sale? Frequently sales are thus made, but what is most important—1st. Did you sell that man the best quality of goods? and, 2nd. Could you sell him again were he requiring the same? It is not hard to get a customer, but it is hard sometimes to keep him. Where does the fakir make his money? He has customers all the time, because he moves from place to place, but he never sells the same man twice. You who have trade supported by a town and surrounding vicinity, sell goods to day with the expectation of selling again. To do this you must please; not please while you are talking to the man, but when he looks at the goods after he gets home. The same applies to travellers. Many go through the country never expecting to return again. One of these, that I might mention, sold wire clothes pins to nearly every dealer east. They are dead stock. The pin rusts, leaving rust-stains on the clothes. The sales were made in a legitimate manner, still, I think the man knew that the goods would not sell. Here let me say, if you have not bought, consider before you buy.

And now the fly season is at hand, is it not time you were making some preparation to cover up your goods? Linen gauze costs from 10 to 15 cents a yard double width. A few yards would cover your shelves. The best way to put this up, I think, is to make as a window-blind with a stick sewed in the bottom to keep straight and from blowing about. You say it is too expensive to fix up like this, but not so much as the loss without. Also buy watering can and sprinkle your floor these hot days, making things look nice and cool, inside and out of your store.

LIKES IT BETTER THAN BEFORE.

ALMA, ONT., June 3rd 1890.

DEAR SIR,—Enclosed please find the sum of two dollars, my renewal for CANADIAN GROCER for current year. I prize THE GROCER more highly now than when I renewed last year, and I would not on any account like to do without it. It is a disappointment when it misses reaching me on its usual day, as it occasionally does. It affords me great pleasure to forward my renewal to insure its welcome weekly visits another year.

Yours truly,

J. H. WALKER.

The Inland Revenue Department has recently issued a bulletin of about thirty pages which is devoted exclusively to the subject of baking powder and which shows that the majority of the goods in the market are adulterated and unfit for use. Prof. A. McGill, who has had charge of this important work for the Government, says that "imperial baking powder is an excellent baking powder." A word to the sensible housekeeper should be sufficient.

WARRANTED GOODS.

Our attention has recently been called to the question of warranted goods. We are asked whether there is now any strong reason for manufacturers continuing the custom of replacing a defective article. This is a practice handed down from a former generation, and is probably one of those peculiar time-honored institutions which it will be hard to overthrow. It is a relic of those ancient days when every workman took such pride in his task that to engrave his name on his work was to erect an enduring monument of his skill and honesty. One can imagine with what confidence a workman of that class would hand a tool to a customer and tell him that if it ever failed to give satisfaction in any respect to bring it back and get a new one. The warranty was as much a feature of such a sale as the sale itself. It was not a bad custom either in the infancy of our manufactures, and when it was necessary for domestic makers to compete with famous houses across the Atlantic, to have domestic edge tools warranted, so that the purchaser would risk nothing in his hazardous experiment of buying an unknown make of saw or chisel or hatchet, or what not. The volume of business was lighter in those days, with our sparse population and our limited development, and when warranted goods were returned the time of the merchant who was called on to make the exchange was not severly taxed. The custom of warranty in those days probably accomplished a very useful purpose and was a most capital feature in pushing trade in new articles. But such reasons as then existed for warranting goods have wholly passed away. We are living and transacting business in a new era. Our manufacturers now have a reputation which needs no such bolstering. In the case of the old established makers the custom is probably coutinued because it is hard to drop an old habit, while new fledged manufactures are forced to adopt it because it is the custom of the trade. Price and quality are the two factors which now govern commercial transactions. Those who want cheap goods merely care nothing for a warranty and do not look for it. When quality is sought for there are other considerations that will govern a choice apart from a warranty. It has grown to be an annoying feature of modern trade, especially in the case of the large wholesale houses. The shipment of a single tool, the correpondence, the receipt of the exchanged tool, the transmission to the retail merchant and the correspondence in his case are all consumers of time and interferences with the harmonious dispatch of heavy trade. Our population is now too great, the volume of business transacted is too large, our manufacturers are too well known to continue this ancient custom of warranty. Quality should be made a sufficient test, and the manufacturer who pays strict attention to keeping up quality should have no need of attaching a warranty to every tool.—Iron Age.

WHY SOME RETAIL MERCHANTS FAIL.

The failing of many retail nerchants is that they are not the students that they ought to be They fail to grasp the details of their business. They open their doors, hang out their signs, and think that all they have to do is to wait for people to come in, listen to their wants and supply them over the counters. Every time a merchant allows himself to hold that opinion he commits an error. He should study his business. The doctor keeps up with the times. He subcribes for the medical journals, and he makes it his business to read them carefully. The details of every operation is studied with a scrutinizing care. He is on the alert for any new suggestion that may present itself in the statements before him. The builder peruses his architectural journal with the closest interest. It is the merchant who alone of all business men neglects this important matter. Many country merchants, and city merchants, too, take a trade paper, but they glance at the contents in a perfunctory manner; they do not read it in the full sense of the word, they are not keeping posted on the changes in the markets, the styles or brands.

It is unfortunate that this is so. The merchant should endeavor to mend his way in this respect. There is much that will be instructive to him in his trade paper, and that will save him money if the counsel is heeded. There is no more important part of the paper than the advertisements. They contain the latest imformation to the trade. By a failure to read them the merchant may have lost a suggestion that would have brought him profit. Every merchant should make it his business to subscribe for a trade paper and read it carefully.—Minneapolis Commercial Bulletin.

TRADE SALES.

At their mid-June sale, on Tuesday and Wednesday, Suckling, Cassidy & Co., sold the following stock in lots to suit purchasers: The tailoring goods of O. Frederick, 642 Yonge street, Toronto ; the staple and fancy dry goods stock of Briggs & Co., Queen st. west, Toronto ; the boot and shoe stock of Octave Leblanc's manufactory, Paspebiac, Quebec.

James Turner & Co., Hamilton, are offering a number of seasonable specialties in their advertisement this week.

The general store of Mr. Benson Hall, Lynnville, took fire on Tuesday morning and was consumed. The fire started in a coal oil store-room. A barrel exploded, seriously injuring four persons, one of whom, a Mr. Young, may not recover. The cause of the fire is unknown.

We take great pleasure in calling our readers attention to the advertisement on the last page of B. T. Babbitt, the world renown soap manufacturer of New York. B. T. Babbitt's best soap has for over fifty years been recognized on the American market as the best hard soap made. The success of Mr. B. T. Babbitt has been phenomical. In 1855 he made two wrought iron soap kettles to hold 25,000 pounds each, these were considered large at the time. Next he made one to hold 250,000 pounds. In five years he built five kettles, each to hold 300,000 pounds, and in 1872 he built the monster to hold 1,200,000 lbs.; this is the largest wrought iron soap kettle in the world. In all those ten kettles he makes 3,600,000 pounds of soap in from ten to sixteen days time. B. T. Babbitt was the inventor of washing powder and his 1776 soap powder has had many imitations more or less good, but all lacking the peculiarities of the genuine. The average daly sales of the concern exceeds 16,000 dollars worth a day.

GROCERIES.

Trade is rapidly throwing off the phlegm which so long kept it near a standstill. Its pulse was much more lively last week than it had been for months, and it is still several beats better now. Buying has been in accordance with the time of year. All lines have begun to feel the regenerating effects of the season, and of the strong advance in sugar, itself an effect of the emergence of trade from its long spell of hibernation. A better general tone pervades business. Money has come in fairly close to the date-mark, and mostly equal to the redemption of engagements. The summer movement got its initial velocity the week before, and it will gain momentum rather than decline.

CANNED GOODS.

All kinds now in stock are moving into consumption in response to a strong, steady and very general demand. The market is now clear of many products, which in cheapness and general acceptibility were strong rivals of canned goods, and engaged the demand while they were in stock. Thus apples, turnips, carrots, etc., are now about out of stock, and home-made preserves, etc., are consumed. Also dried apples and evaporated apples have been getting dearer, while the ease in prices of canned goods have been popularizing these goods. Above all this is the season of strongest consumption. Tomatoes are firm and in increasing demand, while stocks are running low. The prices that corn and peas reached after the break have been not only confirmed but strengthened by subsequent trade. The prices of salmon have not improved nor have they grown weaker. A very good demand keeps off the probability of a further yielding, but does not cause any advance. Three pound apples are scarce and are dearer, running now from 85c. to $1.10. Although the wholesale dealers have maintained prices for peas and corn, some of the larger retail holders show an inclination to weaken, fearing that they will be unable to close out their stock before the season ends. Some have reduced their prices on good brands of both these staples to $1.

A San Francisco paper says that the Marysville Canning Company has made a shipment of canned goods directly to Constantinople.

Baltimore reports state that packers have to pay 7½c. per quart for strawberries at the present time, against 2c. a year ago. As a matter of course, higher prices for the berries canned are expected.

COFFEES.

Coffees are dull on the spot, but Rios are cabled firmer. The stocks here appear to be equal to the capabilities of the weak demand in all but higher grades. For these the demand is better than it was. They are scarce, and advices say they will be scarce and dear until the new crop is in. The cheapness of teas seems to have something to do with the slow trade in coffee. The season also is not that which most disposes devoted to coffee drinking.

DRIED FRUIT.

Off-stalk Valencias hold firmly at 7⅞ to 8½c., a grade of stock being on the market which can be sold at the lower of these figures. Selected Valencias run at 9 to 9½c. Currants are firm at 5¾ to 5⅞c. for barrels, 5⅞ to 6c. for half-barrels, and 6¼c to 6½c. in cases. Dates rule from, 4½ to 5½c. Figs are in low demand. Prunes are firm and in demand at 5½ to 6c. for Bosnia in hogsheads. So low is the outside supply that the stock of surplus local stocks have been taken off holders' hands by New York buyers. For all lines of dried fruit there has been a better demand this week than last. The season of activity in the country, of the employment of labor, of the exhaustion of house provisions, gives an impulse to trade in prunes, currants, and raisins, which puts spirit into the market. This, and the scarcity of stock make prices very firm.

NUTS.

There is the quite business doing that is usual at this time of year. Stocks are low in all but Tarragona almonds, cocoanuts and peanuts. For these there is a very light demand. Confectioners are one of the main props of the market.

RICE AND SPICES.

The summer demand for rice has now begun, and a very good business has been transacted. The harvest season is a time of strong rice consumption, and the weeks preceding that season usher on the rice market at a pretty brisk rate. Prices are not changed. In spices there is no new feature. The demand is very equable in these commodities, ruling about the same throughout the year. Prices very rarely shift.

SUGAR.

The condition that was wanted to mature prices has now begun to get here. The occasion of the year's heaviest consumption is no doubt the ripening of fruit. That is now close enough at hand, in point of time in our own country, in point of space in the southern parts of the continent, to give the leaven to prices that was needed to raise them. Our retailers, in anticipation of the demand which the approaching strawberry canning will start, are buying. They are also brought into a buying mood by effects on prices which the ripening of fruit in several parts of the United States has had directly upon the New York market, and indirectly upon ours. Intimate outside and immediately future conditions have at all events made the market strong. The rise of ⅛c. on granulated and other white sugars reported last week, has been followed by two successive advances of one-eighth in each case, which leaves the price of white at present, 7⅛ for quantities of 15 barrels and over, and 7¼c. for quantities smaller than that. Even this price shows a rather ephemeral disposition, and may suddenly be cancelled by the addition of another eighth. The market is firm in New York. These two movements in the granulated market were attended by an equal advance in the prices of yellows. These went up a fourth on Monday, and the lowest price is now 5¾c. From that, prices go up to 6½c. Present values are believed to be on a sound basis. Refineries are reported to be running short of low grade raws. They have very few dark yellows to offer. The trade of the last week has been an unusually large one. The long withholding from buying, the stress of the fruit season, and the fear of higher prices being the stimuli.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

The trade in syrups and molasses continues to be one of the lightest that is done at this season. The abundance of butter militates against as large a demand for syrups as would rule when butter is scarce, and the very meagre trade in molasses that is done at the best in this province is always at its lowest now. Prices have made no movement.

TEAS.

The Japans that have been brought into stock from the first picking of the new crop are to be sold at about the same price as the earliest arrivals sold last year. The new stock is, however, below the quality that arrived by the first cargo last summer. There will therefore not be the same value now as was given last year. Low grade Japans are declining from stock, the new arrivals supplementing the better stocks. All Japan teas are apt to be higher as a consequence of the American Silver Bill. Yokohomas and low grade

MARKETS—Continued.

Hysons are both scarce. There is no other feature, except a very fair trade in China and Japan teas.

Indian and Ceylon teas are quiet, but the enquiry for them is steady. The London market is very firm, and prices are fully maintained. The quantity that can be offered to the end of the season has now got into so small a compass that a continuously hardening market must be expected.

PETROLEUM.

The week's trade has been uneventful. The usual volume of business was done. At this season that volume is of course small. There has been no change in prices.

DRUGS AND CHEMICALS.

Business is reported rather flat. Nothing is at work which would give any special vigor to the demand. Prices have ruled steady.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

The country has now pretty well unburdened itself of its butter. The cellars of the country stores have transferred their contents to the warehouses of city commission merchants. The quantity here is therefore large, but it will not be increased by any further influx. The old store stuff is now concentrated, and the thing the commission men are now laboring to do is to find a market for it. In this they have had some success, as they have been able to find buyers now and then willing to take lots, but there is a large quantity unsold, for which no bids have been received. Prices run pretty much as ususal, with a slight improvement on the lowest point. They are from 4 to 8c. yet, with very little going at 4c., one cent. better being the most common lowest price. New tub has not yet moved to any large extent. It is 10 to 11c. More of it may now be looked for, as the season is becoming too warm for putting up in large rolls. Large rolls are 11 to 12c. They have continued on the market later this year than most other years on account of the almost unbroken coolness of the weather. Not a great part of those marketed is of the grass product, few yellow rolls being among them. Mostly old tub made over. Pound rolls are 13 to 15c. These are improving in quality and are abundant. Creamery rolls are graded all the way from 18 to 22c. This variety of prices does not correspond to differences in modes of making so much as to differences in the degrees of purity of pastures, which make the butter ranker or sweeter. There are no creamery tubs.

Montreal dealers state that the losses in the butter trade have been phenomenally large during the past season, the wind-up being one of the worst ever know to the trade.

Cheese is 9 to 9½c. for the spring make. Old is 10½ to 11c. the only old being that of September make. Most of the later make of last year has been exported.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

BEANS—There is a fair demand and a light stock, which are apt to sustain present prices, $1.60 to $1.70, or to advance them before the market is clear.

DRIED APPLES—A steady trade is reducing stocks considerably. Prices run from 4⅞ to 5¼c. a slight reduction owing to feeling that stocks were very large.

A car of dried apples has been made up on spot in small lots, purchased on an average of 5c. More are wanted.

EVAPORATED APPLES—Stocks are getting pretty low. Old are worth 9c. and new are 12c. There is a steady demand.

EGGS—Are worth 12½ to 13c. The supply is slightly below the demand. All are wanted that can be brought on the market.

HAY—The prices of a week ago are yet paid, $10.50 to $11 for the best.

HIDES—Green hides have added another quarter. The addition, however, is not looked upon as a very stable one, being the outcome of local trading conditions, and not a result of any change in the legitimate course of the market. Steers' are now 7c. for No. 1, 6c. for No. 2, and 5c. for No. 3. Cows' are a cent lower in each grade. Cured are still 5¾c.

HONEY—The dullness which has long been a feature of the market is now intensified. The ripening of strawberries in the United States and the importation of them to this market have effected business. The coming of our own strawberries, and the new honey season tend to make the rest of the year's trade rather slow. Prices are 11½ to 12½c. for clear, and 14 to 16c. for sections.

HOPS—Are worth 12 to 16c. for '89 growth and 8 to 12c. for yearlings. There is more energy in the market.

OATS — Mixed are selling at 40c., and white at 41c. There is a strong demand.

POTATOES—Are very weak. The market seems to have run its course, and the estimate of the unsold part of the crop favor the belief that prices will from this time be easy. There appear to be large quantities held in Parry Sound, Penetanguishene and other points in the Georgian Bay district, and offers are made in this city at 50c. Prices now run from 50 to 55c. in car lots on spot. Out of store, the prices are 70 to 75c.

SEEDS—There is a very slow trade being done. The prices are exactly what they were a week ago. Hungarian grass and millet are 70 to 75c.; select yellow horse-tooth corn is 55c.; giant prolific sweet ensilage is 70c.; red cob ensilage is 60c.; ordinary buckwheat is 50c.; and Japanese buckwheat is 75c.

SKINS—Clipped sheep are 20c., and lamb skins are 35c. The growing wool is bringing up the value of the latter. No. 1 calf-skin is 7c., and No. 2 is 5c.

STRAW—Is worth $5 to $6. There is but a light demand which is kept supplied chiefly by the street receipts.

TALLOW—Rough is 2c. and rendered is 5¼c.

WOOL — Not much is offered, fleeces scarcely at all. The latter are 22c. of pulled wool, the prices are 30c. for extra super, 25 to 26c. for super, and 24c. for ordinary.

FISH.

The coming in of fruit and the fishing for sport of camping parties tend to make the demand for fish from trade much less now than in the spring. The eastern salmon which was received last week, for the first time this season, is selling at 16c. with a fair demand. British Columbia salmon have sold better this year than for some time. A good supply is still being received daily. Trout and white fish still remain the same in price. The prices in all are unchanged, Trout and white fish sell at 5½ to 6c. per lb. British Columbia salmon 17 to 18c. Eastern salmon 16c. Lake herring $1.75 to $2.00 per hnndred, per count. Pickerel, 4½ to 5c.

GREEN FRUIT.

Increasing prices for oranges, upheld by a strong demand and declining stocks are notable in this week's trade. Valencias are $10 to $11, and very good fruit they now are. Messinas are $5 to $5.50. The market has more of these than of any other kind. They are selling well. The Palermos are nearly out of stock going at $3.50. The Rodis in boxes of 200 are $6.50. There are some Riverside also in trade at $5.50. The warmer weather has animated the lemon trade, and prices show the improved tone, running now from $4 to $4.50. Bananas are $1.50 to $2. The stock of pineapples is exhausted. A lot of California small fruit is coming in, such as cherries, strawberries and apricots. Owing to the season being near its close, strawberries have gone up, selling now at 20c.

PROVISIONS.

The current of trade as it has run for some time was not specially modified by any features of the week. A good demand still is kept up, and prices are firm.

BACON—Long clear is 8¾c., bellies are 11½ to 12c., backs are 11 to 11½c., and rolls are 9½c.

DRESSED HOGS—Prices have dropped to $6, although since last report the market improved, to drop on Tuesday to the figure indicated. Arrivals are numerous, but there are no rail receipts. Only street hogs are offering.

HAMS—Sweet pickled are 11 to 11½c., and smoked are 12 to 12½c.

LARD—Fifty pound tubs are 9½c., and twenty pound pails are 10c.

MESS PORK—Heavy is $16.50 and family is $17.50.

SALT.

There is nothing new to note in the salt market this week. The sales are larger, and at the same prices as last week. Land salt is not called for now. The Toronto Salt Works report the following sales: 6 cars bbls. salt at $1.27; 2 carssacks at 68c; 1 car dairy at $1.18. Small lots sell at $1.44 for bbls.; 80c. for sacks, and 45c. for ¼ sacks.

DRY GOODS.

The week's business has felt the contagion of improved trade in the grocery line, as most of the retailers in the country find business to do in both departments when any special movement in either brings them into the city. This week was as far ahead of last week as that was ahead of its predecessor. There is no change in prices. Payments are fairly prompt. Business runs in sorting purchases.

MONTREAL

MONTREAL MARKETS.

JUNE 12, 1890.

There has been a good all around trade done on this market the past week. The only special movement has been in sugars and molasses. Business at the present is ahead of what it was this time last year, but the money market is in a deplorable state.

SUGAR.

The excitement and strength already noted in the sugar market has continued owing to strong advices from abroad and New York and the active demand for all grades of refined sugars, in consequence of which a further advance of ¼ has been scored on both granulated and yellows. Business on spot has been brisk and some large sales have transpired, in fact, refiners state that they are sold out of yellows and have now to depend on their daily production to fill buyers' wants. Granulated has sold in round lots at 7⅛ to 7¼c. with refiners refusing to sell any lots larger than fifty barrels. Yellows are quoted at 5⅞ to 6¼c. as to quality. In New York granulated is quoted at 6¾ to 6 13-16c. which is an advance of ⅝c. since the second of June. Yellows are scarce, and refiners have none to offer, as they cannot supply the present demand. The situation of the market on the whole is very strong, and the indications are that prices will go still higher in the near future. The position of the raw sugar market is very strong. Dealers in the States have been buying sparingly owing to the uncertainty of the new tariff bill. The demand in Europe has been caused by the tremendous large fruit crop.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

There is little demand for syrups at unchanged prices. There has been considerable activity in molasses. All new arrivals are being quickly bought up at 32 to 32½c. Some who have sold at that figure refuse to sell now at less than 33c. Prospects are favorable to a higher market. At the Islands it is quoted at 14½c.

TEAS.

The market for teas continues inactive. New arrivals of Japans are selling slowly.

DRIED FRUIT.

There is nothing new to note in dried fruit. Prices are unchanged. Malaga raisins are being worked off at cost.

COFFEES.

There is little to report on the coffee market, which continues steady. Mr. Alex. Wills reports a sale en bloc of 200 bags.

CANNED GOODS

We have nothing to report on canned goods. The market still continues steady.

MONTREAL Markets continued.

The small arrivals of lobsters are being well distributed, and quoted at $7 to $7.25.

EGGS.

There is still an easy feeling and trade is dull at 13 to 13½c.

GRAIN AND FLOUR.

GRAIN — Business is dull and without change. We quote:—Wheat, No. 1 hard Manitoba, $1.20 to $1.22, No. 2, nominal; peas, per 66 pounds, in store, 69 to 75c.; peas, afloat, May delivery, 00 to 70c.; Quebec oats, 00 to 00c.; Ontario oats, 41 to 42c.; corn, duty paid, 50 to 51½c; corn, cargoes in bond, 41 to 43c.; barley, feeding, 00 to 40c.; barley, good malting, 00 to 52c.

FLOUR—The market remains quiet. No sales were reported to-day. Quotations are as follows :—Patent winter, $5.25 to $5.50; patent spring, $5.75 to $5.90; straight roller, $5.00 to $5.15; extra, $4.70; to $4.80 superfine, $4.25 to $4.50; fine, $3.50 to $4.00; city strong bakers, $0.00 to $5.50; strong bakers, $0.00 to $5.59; superfine, bags, $2.co to $2.01; extra, bags, $2.20 to $2.30; fine, bags, $1.50 to $1.90; oatmeal, standard, per bag $2.15 to $2.25; oatmeal, granulated, $2.30 to $2.50; oatmeal, rolled, $2.30 to $2.50.

HOG PRODUCTS.

We quote prices as follows to-day:—Western mess, $16 to $16.50; Chicago short cut, $17; Canada short cut, $17. Lard, 8 to 8½c. per pound; bacon, 10½ to 11c.; hams, 11½ to 12c.

GREEN FRUIT.

The following are the quotations to-day:—Oranges, in cases, repacked, $10; lemons, $2 to $4, in boxes; pineapples, 10 to 25c. according to size and condition; bananas, $1.00 to $1.75 per bunch; Egyptian onions, 4c. per pound; Bermudas, $3.50 per case; strawberries, 12 to 22c. per box.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Already the retail grocers of the city are thinking of their annual pic-nic, and are on the look out for pastures new. Already some of the leading office-bearers have been approached with offers of several charming localities within an hour or so's ride of Montreal at which to hold their annual pic-nic. A general meeting of the Association is to be held this evening at the Mechanics' hall when the matter will be taken up and this means that, as usual, the grocers' will bring it to a successful issue.

The "Flid" is expected here on the 20th inst., direct from the Barbadoes, with 800 puncheons of choice molasses for Messrs. L. Chaput, Fils & Co.

Mr. Geo. Bickle, for some time representing Messrs. Caverhill, Hughes & Co., wholesale grocers, East of Toronto, who entered into business for himself at Cobourg, as a manufacturers agent, has taken in a partner, and the firm will be known as Bickle & Co. They still represent Messrs. Caverhill, Hughes & Co., in Cobourg and vicinity.

Schools of mackerel are reported along the coast following the bait. For the first time in many years the bank herring, large and fat, have struck in at Prospect and Dover and adjacent districts, and immense quantities are reported. There would be a fortune to the bankers if they were on the ground. The appearance are all in favor of a good fish year.

SOAP-MAKERS' CONVENTION.

There will be a convention of soap manufacturers at Niagara Falls on June 11th, 1890, to which all the prominent soap makers in the United States have been invited. The principal object of this meeting is that the manufacturers may have a chance to put their heads together to see, if possible, how the expense of advertising can be diminished. They will also consider the question of what can be done with certain obscure manufacturers who make cheap soaps and then slaughter prices to the detriment of the makers of straight goods. — New England Grocer.

An extensive American baking powder firm are shortly to establish a branch in Toronto. A building was leased on Tuesday.

Toronto pedlars have formed a union, and at the first meeting held on Tuesday night in Richmond hall, about 100 members were enrolled. The object of the organization is to watch the interests of pedlars generally, more especially civic legislation dealing with the craft.

COUNTERMANDING ORDERS.

During a number of years past there has been the gradual development of a pernicious practice which introduces a troublesome uncertainty in the business of many manufacturers. Under the animated competition which has probably become a permanent feature of the trade manufacturers have permitted their customers to enter orders for future delivery with an understanding, expressed or implied, that the purchaser may countermand such orders if the condition of his business or the state of the market makes it undesirable for him to take the goods. It has also become almost a matter of course with many manufacturers to give an intimation to their customers, and especially those whose good will and business they are particularly desirous of retaining, whenever an advance in prices is anticipated, permitting them to enter at the old prices orders which are often unspecified and decidedly elastic. To such an extent has this practice been carried that many buyers assume that such an opportunity will thus be given them to place their orders in anticipation of advances, and are disposed to count it a grievance if the manufacturers are thoughtless enough to permit the advances to go into effect without having given such intimation. It is also a well-known fact that some manufacturers' agents have done much to develope and extend this mischievous practice, as when they ascertain that an advance is likely to be made advices of such an advance are immediately telegraphed to prominent buyers, to the effect that their orders have been entered for the line of goods on which the advance is to take place. Under these circumstances it is, of course, optional with the person whose order is entered whether or not he will be bound by the order, and this is a question which he will determine according to the exigencies of his business and the state of the market. If the goods advance and the advance is maintained he is very glad to have the order filled; but if the advance does not materialize, or turns out to be fictitious or temporary, it is quite natural for him to cancel the order.

This practice is obviously to the detriment of the manufacturers' interests, and an effort should be made to do away with it. It is one-sided, unbusinesslike and mischievous. Buyers should not be advised in regard to intended advances with any such freedom or to any such extent as is the rule at present, and if orders are placed the buyers should be held to their contracts, and should take the goods whatever may be the course of the market. When this becomes the practice of the trade the position of the manufacturers will be greatly improved, and one of the most disturbing featurers of the market will be removed. The matter is in the manufacturers' hands. If they have sufficient resolution to insist that the order duly placed and accepted shall be held binding on both parties the difficulty under discussion will be obviated. The importance of the subject deserves immediate and careful attention.—Iron Age.

HOBBIES.

A statement made by a wise man is that "Every honest man has a hobby." The man in question did not use these precise words, but they amount to the same in substance.

A man who is always tinkering around, making something or other in the mechanical line, is never found spending his leisure hours in a gin mill or saloon. The young man whose hobby is study will be found at his books as soon as his days work is done and supper is swallowed.

The chap who has "music on the brain" will be puffing or scraping his instrument early and late, until his friends almost wish he would quit his hobby and relegate himself to the rum shop.

Many young men ride a mechanical hobby, and are often building experimental machines, and making "young" steam engines. To such men, electricity possesses a most enticing field. There is no end to the directions in which thought may be profitably turned in connection with electricity. Well developed as it is, electricity is as yet an almost unknown thing, which will require lifetimes of study to reduce to the full understanding of all. Electricity is the future power of the world, as it has always been its life, although unknown and uncomprehended for ages.

That a young man will waste hours and days of his life in doing worse than nothing, when he has such a field before him,is scarcely to be comprehended, but it is a disgraceful fact. Let the young men awake to the idea that the advance of the world depends upon them personally; that the years to come may be better or worse as they choose to study or to be idle, and it seems as though they would quit beer drinking, dice shaking and card shuffling instantly to avail themselves of the privileges before them.

A man may be about what he makes himself nowadays, and if he chooses to become a sot, the way is open; if he chooses to become a power in the land, he can do so by going to work in that direction and keeping at it.—American Cultivator.

THE INCOMPETENT TRADER.

The recent repetition, by Gen. B. F. Butler in a letter recently writted to the press of the old story as to the vicissitudes of trade as compared with other occupations, accompanied by the statement that only about 10 per cent. of business men are successful, has been widely discussed in trade journals. Statistics of the leading mercantile agencies, however, which are now kept with considerable care, show that the above long standing opinion is without foundation, and that although success in trade is perhaps as uncertain as in any other vocation in life,the ratio of mercantile firms that fail is only about one per cent annually. The partnership changes however, show a greater percentage, the average duration of a mercantile house, it is estimated, covering a period of only four or five years. The various changes incident to business experience greatly exceed in number the cases of bankruptcy. It is the opinion of some experienced observers that as many men retire from trade with a competency as fail in their commercial undertakings. There is much doubt on this point, but that, as above stated, the returns from business pursuits are more certain than is generally supposed seems well established.

In connection with the subject previously discussed, reference to the list on first page of the causes to which are attributed the seventy-three failures which occurred on the Pacific coast last month is of much interest. Of the total number reported only nine, three from excessive competition and six from unfavorable circumstances can properly be abscribed to legitimate causes. To incompetence and inadequate capital over 40 per cent. of the total is due, the first named cause being credited with twenty two failures. The incompetent storekeeper is without doubt the cause of more pecuniary loss to the wholesale merchant, and a greater source of unfair competition to the experienced,well established retail merchant, than even rivals of less honest intentions but of better judgment. The mechanic who botches his work soon finds himself without employment, but the incompetent trader seems never to realize his incompetency; but so long as, by hook or crook, he can secure goods on credit, goes on from year to year with disaster always following close upon his heels.—S. F. Grocer and Country Merchant.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

DEGREES IN ADVERTISING.

Advertising is like the Irishman's whiskey —" It is all good, but some is better."

An advertisement tacked on a fence post out on the prairie is good; some lonely traveler may accidently see it. The same advertisement posted at a street corner is better—thousands will see it every day.

An advertisement inserted in an official or unofficial programme of something or nothing is good; the chances are a few people will see it and perhaps read it. The same advertisement placed in a newspaper is better; thousands will read it.—Wisconsin Times.

The "reach" of the newspapers in these days is something phenomenal. Recently a Detroit business man advertised for a snow ball and was willing to pay $10 for the genuine article. The express man in the course of a few days delivered a package from Tilsonburg, Canada, containing the article wanted, probably much to the surprise of the advertiser.—American Grocer.

The question of shop-assistants' hours, which has for some time been the object of proposed philanthropic legislation in England, in the bills of Sir John Lubbock and Mr. J. Blundell Maple, has now got into the domain of practical business discussion. According to the Northern Counties Grocers' Review, the Manchester and Salford Grocers' Association has deliberated the question, has approved the idea of a weekly half-holiday to employers and employes', and has formally signified its preference for the measure prepared by Sir John Lubbock, with the recommendation that all the shops in the same district close on the same day. Both bills aim at securing a weekly half-holiday to employes', but that of Mr. Maple was looked upon as less beneficial to the employer.

IMPOSSIBLE!

So say Doctors, to say too much in favour of St. Leon Water. It puts down Bright's Disease and Diabetes, as water quenches fire. Cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, etc., completely if drank freely and rubbed in the skin.

SILVER STAR STOVE PASTE.

The following is the universal verdict of all who have used or sold it:

HAMILTON, APRIL 25th, 1890.

Messrs. F. F. DALLEY & Co.,

GENTLEMEN:—In thus ordering a fresh supply of your SILVER STAR STOVE PASTE we cannot but express our appreciation of the goods and congratulate you on having been able to place on the market an article so superior in every respect to anything we have heretofore been able to get.

As we use it on the stoves in the wareroom, we know personally its good qualities—no dust, a quick polish, always ready and the work is done in the time it would take to prepare the Dome or other hard stove polishes, and one of the best features about it is that it is so clean to handle.

If a man sells us an inferior article we don't forget to tell him about it, and on the same principle when a firm gives us an Extra good one we believe in letting them know that we appreciate it.

We remain,
Respectfully yours,
J. WALLACE & SON.

TO THE WHOLESALE GROCERS & DRUGGISTS OF THE DOMINION OF CANADA.

We take pleasure in announcing that our New Mills are now completed, and we are prepared to fill orders for goods. The capacity of our New Mills is from 250 to 300 barrels per day.

Our specialties, such as DESSICATED WHEAT, DESICCATED ROLLED OATS, ROLLED WHEAT FLAKES, BREAKFAST HOMINY, &c., are improved and put up in handsomely lithographed cartoons. Our GLUTEN FLOUR for Diabetes, BARAVENA MILK FOOD for infants, PREPARED BARLEY, GROATS, PEA FLOUR, &c., are the very choicest, and guaranteed fresh, clean and attractive, healthy, palatable, and nutritious.

We are also manufacturing GRANULATED, STANDARD, & ROLLED OATMEALS, WHEATLETS, SPLIT PEAS, &c., BAKERS' SPECIALTIES, such as GRAHAM FLOUR, RYE FLOUR, WHITE CORN FLOUR, WHOLE WHEAT FLOUR, &c., which are very choice.

SPECIAL TO OUR READERS.

As the design of THE CANADIAN GROCER is to benefit mutually all interested in the business, we would request all parties ordering goods or making purchases of any description from houses advertising with us to mention in their letter that such advertisement was noticed in THE CANADIAN GROCER.

OUR MONTREAL OFFICE.

Our Montreal Office is located at 115 St. Francois Xavier St. Our representative, Mr. Hugh C. McLean, will be pleased to have subscribers and advertisers call upon him there. He will also pay special attention to gathering business items and attending generally to the interests of this paper.

Changes in advertisements and new advertisements must reach this office not later than Wednesday morning of each week.

FLY PROTECTION.

The campaign between the flies and the shop-keepers opens late this year. The weather has been rather cool so far for the operations of the flying columns. This, too, may be a summer in which the fly population will be a few myriads less than it generally is. We can only hope so, while we realize that their mustering hour has not yet come. The sultry heat of late June and the next two months will communicate the vital spark to a good many lifeless forms, and the ripening strawberries, raspberries, currants, and the blooming plants will summon them to a repast of plenty. The weather is a little too chill and the horn is not yet full. When these conditions mend, our old tormentors will be here with all their impish hilarity, and they will be as familiar as ever with our personal selves and our personal possessions. When they do arrive, it will happen as usual that the brunt of their onslaught will have to be borne by the traders.

A fact upon which all retailers are agreed is that goods must not be left at the mercy of flies. There are some lines that are not only rendered unsaleable by fly deposits, but are permanently unfitted for their purpose. Brightly polished metal articles are of this class. Once they become marked by flies, they are stained for all time, the action of the air upon the excretion resulting in the formation of a metalic oxide of the surface that is under the foreign particle. Fabrics are made unsightly and are damaged, food stuffs are weakened and polluted. Packages, however, are the most exposed, and although it is but their exterior that is embossed, yet their selling value is depreciated. Everybody knows that of two articles submitted for purchase, one marked by fly spots, the other not, the latter, provided the articles are equal in other respects, would be preferred. The buyer's standard of utility as well as his standard of taste must be satisfied, and his standard of taste is usually high enough to discriminate against an article that has been defiled by the musca domestica. That won't go through the fine sieve even of a blind man's sense of the beautiful.

Dealers cannot go to the trouble of screening every article to keep its outer semblance unspotted. Not only would it be troublesome to do this for every article, but it would be hiding the light of many sale-stimulating objects under a bushel. There are things that create a demand on sight, as the savory aroma of a good dish will beget an appetite. This quality of an object is valuable to the dealer and should not be thrown away, as it would be by the use of covers. There are articles of which the attractiveness is enhanced by a gauze cover. For these "Hecks" suggestions in last week's issue are intended.

Dealers make use of some fly exterminator. Some, however are objectionable, and actually bad. A little cobalt put in a saucer of water interests flies and destroys them with certainty. But it is a poison. Flies, which are useful as purifiers of the air, in taking up much that is noxious in it, and in consuming solid matter that would otherwise decay into elements that would circulate offensively, are made to befoul the atmosphere by poisons. They carry those poisons through the air where they can do harm to every person that breathes that air; they die, not at the spot where they were poisoned, but in every hole and corner of the store, and their decomposing remains further taint the atmosphere. These are reasons why cobalt is objectionable. The ordinary fly paper is objectionable for the same reasons. It is made mostly of arsenic and quassia sweetened with sugar. It is therefore dangerous, and does not inflict sudden death. The sticky fly paper is the best. It attracts the flies and holds them as securely as the spider does. They rarely leave it to taint the air, and their dead bodies can be collected and destroyed. Fly powders are also good. They are blown into the air, and are but a moment in suspension before all the flies are dead. They are not poisonous powders, so that human life is not endangered. They kill the fly apparently by strangulation or suffocation. Either the sticky paper or some of the various powders made, will do the trader the best service.

Stores should not be kept too well lighted during the fly season. Shade and dampness should be made the most of to discourage the pests.

FORMAL DEBATE IN ASSOCIATIONS.

The Philadelphia Retail Grocers' Association has resolved to turn the experience and intelligence of its members into the channels of formal debate. Subjects of interest to the trade are agreed upon at one meeting and announced for debate at the next. This gives method to the proceedings and introduces the element of emulation into the discussion of questions that are usually settled by the few. It also develops the expository faculty, a very valuable but too often rather dormant faculty in traders. The excitement of a pre-arranged discussion upon which a verdict has to be pronounced before the meeting closes is likely to draw out what ideas are in a man, an effect which desultory discussion has only for the minority. The first of the questions discussed in this manner was the resolution "That it is to the interest of the retail trade to sell sugar at cost." There were three men on each side, and the decision was left to a committee selected at the outset. The arguments in support of the resolution were, that sugar was a drawing card, that so little was made at the best it might as well be merely a drawing card, that a leader is needed and sugar being the most staple article is the most suitable leader. For the opposition, it was shown that among the failures there were more who sold without profit than of those who sold with profit, that in the way of putting up packages there was a means of profit. The decision was given in favor of the opposers of the resolution. At the next meeting the debate will be on the question " Cash vs. Credit."

We think the idea worthy of imitation, and believe it would be productive of development in the life of Canadian associations. There are as many questions to settle here as there are any where, and while debates would enormously compress the volubility of the loquacious, they would bring the taciturn into the habit of speaking what they thought.

MAINTAIN THE LIST.

One of the bulwarks of the Toronto Association is its collecting machinery. When that is allowed to pass into disuse or when it is given up, the body will lose its chief principle of cohesion, and will crumble like a piece of lime-stone out of which the carbonic oxide has been expelled. The collecting and black-listing feature of the Association is not to be held lightly by. The continuance of the list is a question now left to the consideration of the Executive Committee. The condition that made its continuance a question at all was the fact that the list is now maintained out of a surplus derived from another source than the current revenue of the Association. This was held to be anomalous and therefore unsatisfactory. If this anomaly should determine the committee to report against the continuance of the list, it would be unfortunate. The list should get a year's trial before it is abandoned. Nor should its abandonment be considered the only way of settling the matter economically. If the Association considers it has higher purposes or remoter objects for which it wishes to use its surplus, it should endeavor to finance so that current income will be made sufficient to maintain the list. The fee should be raised if it is felt that the burden ought not to be put upon the bursary. The list and the collecting letters have amply pleaded their own cause.

One of the indirect effects of the collecting department is illustrated in the following case. A woman was in the habit of ordering goods at grocery stores to be sent c. o. d. She would be out when the goods would come, a child would receive them, say her mother forgot to leave the money, would go to the store with it, and so on, but it always turned out that the grocer would get nothing. Several grocers, members of the Association, and others, were thus defraded. The former reported to the Secretary, who at last sent a letter to the News, inquiring if this woman was not guilty of false pretences. The News answered yes, and advised a police court summons to be issued. Another creditor who saw the communication and the answer, cut both out and sent them along with a dunning letter to the debtor. That brought some money, and no other mode of persuasion had. She paid a great part of that debt, and earnestly promised to pay the rest. Here the interposition of the official who controls the collecting department of the Association was enough of itself.

TOBACCO EXCISE.

The following letter from the Hon. John Costigan to Mr. Mills, the President of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association, presents the view of the tobacco question that is the basis of the tobacco clause in the late amendment of the Inland Revenue Act. Our apprehension of the effect of the change, as expressed in former articles, has not been in any respect modified by the reasons submitted in this letter for the course that has been taken against the protests of the trade. Since the measure is now law, however, it will be of no service to point to the fallacies or wrong premises in the statement of the Department's plea. The concluding paragraph of the letter promises protection against unreasonable molestation.

OTTAWA, June 10th, 1890.

SIR,—

I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your communication of the 25th April which has had the careful consideration of the Department. In my last letter I suggested that if the Regulations could be made more acceptable without endangering the Revenue, I would gladly consider any points you might raise. You have, however, in your suggestion to substitute for stamping, the manufacturer's label on each plug, struck at the root of our stamping system. Its adoption would stop all supervision, after the goods had left the factory doors. There would be less objection to this if the duty were collected at the factory, but to meet the convenience of traders, the Government have permitted the collection of duties to be foreborne until the goods are actually wanted for consumption. This privilege has involved the appointment of numerous officers to protect the interests of the Revenue. If the bonding privileges were withdrawn and the United States system of stamping at the place of production introduced, these officers could be transferred, but otherwise the increased staff, which would have to be trebled, would be a serious matter.

But even were the matter of expenditure not deemed to be serious—the scheme suggested would be insufficient to protect the Revenue. Messrs. Tucker and Billings are at present manufacturing their Myrtle Navy in the United States and using the same tin label as they do in their Hamilton factory. Why might not others do the same, and how would the presence of such labels protect the Revenue against such tobacco, supposing them to be smuggled in over our long line of unprotected frontier from Lake Superior westward ?

In comparing this country with Great Britain you have selected an inadequate parallel. All leaf tobacco there has to be imported. In Canada much of it is grown by the farmers, and is as leaf subject to no more restrictions than any other product of the farm. By doing away with the stamping of the packages, a premium would be offered to the building up of illicit manufacturing, to the detriment of the licensed manufacturer.

The Department has been informed by the leading manufacturers, that they are quite willing to put up small packages and they also state that such method of packing will in no way injure the tobacco.

They also state that if the stamping were dispensed with, they would have to withdraw from the business, as their protection against illicit manufacturers would be gone.

All I can promise to do beyond what has already been done by reducing the size of packages to the lowest denomination, is to try if possible, to temper the administration of the Act so as not to bear too harshly upon those whom the Department believes to be honest, but who have unwittingly rendered themselves liable to penalties.

I remain, yours, etc.,

JOHN COSTIGAN.

DAIRY BULLETIN NO. 4.

An influence that cannot but instil a great deal of scientific knowledge into the cultivation of our rich butter resources, is scattered through the country in the form of dairy bulletins. That influence is the teaching of Professor Jas. W. Robertson, Dairy Commissioner, the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. The translation of Prof. Robertson from his chair in the Guelph Agricultural College to the wider realm of usefulness in the Department of Agriculture, was a great service to a great national cause. The bulletins he issues should be not merely read but carefully conned, and preserved as a check upon faulty memory. The one last sent out, No. 4, deals with fodder—corn, and the silo. The pamphlet is full of information on the tilling, storing and feeding of corn, Details of the cost, nourishing value, and comparative productiveness of corn are given. The construction of silos is very fully discussed in a purely practical manner. Retailers should urge their farmer customers to read this bulletin through, and not put it by as they do most departmental pamphlets. Retailers should help along anything that makes for better butter. Copies of the bulletin in English and French can be obtained free from the Dairy Commissioner, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

TRADE PAPERS AND ASSOCIATIONS.

There has scarcely been any internal force in the retail trade which has done so much to consolidate that trade as has the trade journal. It has picked out, marshalled and animated the motives which have chiefly led to local union, and now we see both in this country and the United States, in town after town, the grocery trade presenting a solid phalanx in the form of an association. These associations and the chief outside cause which invoked them should work together.

They do, as our own experience and our observation show. We are ourselves an organ of more than one association, and the same is true of several American papers. The latest of the latter is the Pennsylvania Grocer, which at a recent meeting of the Pittsburgh Association was made the object of a resolution, authorizing a committee to negotiate with the editor for copies to be sent to every member. In making the alliance between itself and this paper an official one, that Association has shown its recognition of one of the most energetic and intelligent of the forces which built it up.

AMERICAN SUGAR CERTIFICATES.

The Sugar Trust in the United States appears to be in rather a satisfactory situation, despite the sudden fall, from 95 to 67, in the value of its certificates. The significance of this fall is not altogether to be got hold of by a superficial comparison of these widely separated figures. The drop is not due to failure to maintain prices against outside competition, but to alarm. One cause of the alarm was a false report that a decision had been given against the Trust in the Court of Appeals sitting at Saratoga. The position of the Trust seems sound upon a view of the following facts. The cash surplus last January was $16,762,250, and the value of the plants was $20,000,000 additional. Since that time, of course, the Trust has had close competition with other refiners, but the business has always been done at a profit in New Orleans and San Francisco, though sometimes at a loss in New York and Boston. The regular dividend of 2½ per cent. has been paid, and it seems as if the surplus were as large as ever. Prices have steadily advanced since the last secret meeting of the Trustees. This may be owing to a more energetic policy of competition or to upward effects of the strong demand now prevailing. The advance was ⅝c. for soft refined against ⅛c. per lb. on raw, which makes an additional ¼c. profit for refining. This advance was the more renumerative to the Trust because the latter laid in 73,000 tons of raw when prices were low. The competition of Spreckels' refinery and the building of the Boston refinery enlarge outside competition until it refines about 50 per cent. of all the sugar used in the States. This will probably modify the legal settlement of the question that is now pending, as the Trust may not be considered a monopoly in the face of so much freedom in the market. If it should finally be declared a monopoly, re-organization upon other lines would probably be practicable and legal.

AN ENDORSED OPINION.

We are pleased to receive for our recent article on Avoidable Credit the endorsation of so competent an authority as the New York Merchants' Review, whose clear judgment on commercial and financial questions has always commanded our respect. We quote its words referring to the above mentioned article: In an article discussing the credit system the able editor of the CANADIAN GROCER treats of one feature of credit-giving which we have not hitherto seen mentioned in the trade press. The point he makes is that a good deal of the credit given by retail merchants is avoidable, because originating in propositions from the dealer to the consumer, instead of vice versa. We agree with our esteemed contemporary. This practice is no doubt more common than persons unfamiliar with the retailing of necessaries might imagine.

THE CANNED GOODS SITUATION.

It has been already shown in THE GROCER that the canned fruit and vegetable trade is now in the most healthy condition it has been in for years. This is due to a smaller pack last season and the great care exercised by the packers in putting up their goods. The unsatisfactory condition of trade for some years past was due to excessive production and indiscriminate cutting of prices. It now looks as if some of the packers were not going to profit by the past three or four years' experience, for they are beginning to talk of the large quantities of goods they are going to put up this season. The effect of this will be a repetition of the former disasters, and it is to be hoped that the pack will be curtailed as much as possible. There is also another matter which the packers should pay more attention to. As this country grows, the various branches of trade are becoming more and more distinctly removed; formerly, we had our general stores, while now we find stores devoted to every line handled in the general store. Some years ago we purchased everything in the way of wearing apparel in a dry goods store, now the dry goods business is divided into a half dozen or more branches conducted by different people. The same rule might very effectively be followed by the packers. Some of them seem to think that it is their duty to run through the whole line of some twenty or thirty kinds of canned goods. Many of these packers produce some very unsatisfactory canned goods. For instance: We know one packer whose peaches, apples, tomatoes and corn are second to none in the market, yet he has never been able to produce a real good can of beans or peas. Still this packer persists in putting up a considerable quantity of each. Why should he not devote his entire attention to producing a better quality and a larger quantity, if necessary, of the lines which he prepares to perfection? There are a few packers to which these remarks will not apply.

Goods conveniently located save time, money and temper in showing.

No young man can possibly have mistaken his calling who finds in it what the world wants done.

PEDLARS' LICENSES.

The culmination of the movement to increase the license fees of pedlars in this city, a movement begun by the Retail Grocers' Association, will be reached when the city council adopts, rejects or modifies the report which will be submitted to it by the Markets and License Committee. That committee on Friday last received deputations from the bodies which respectively support and oppose the agitation for increased fees, namely, the Retail Grocers' Association and the Pedlars' Association, the latter being but recently constituted, and called into existence by the stress of the grocers to obtain the reform of the peddling question. The grocers who appeared before the committee were President Mills, Secretary Thackray, Messrs. Barron, Clark, White, Williamson, and Calhoun.

In support of the petition signed by four hundred grocers, asking for the increase proposed by the Association, Mr. Mills addressed the committee He said the grocers had no animosity to the pedlars. He believed that the two classes of traders should do business on equal terms so far as the municipal regulation of their trade was concerned. But at present pedlars had an advantage. They had a large field to go over, they had little of the burden of taxation to bear, they were not residents on expensive streets, they were not subject to the same inspection, and they harass trade. Many of the pedlars were foreigners occupying an inferior portion of the city, consuming little, and stocking the public with the refuse and cullings of the market at prices which make competition with them out of the question. The Association had learned what were the fees in other places and believed those recommended in the petition were reasonable. These were : $10 for a foot pedlar, $50 for a one horse pedlar, $75 for a two horse pedlar, and $15 for a hand cart.

Mr. Williamson showed that not only were coal oil, fruits and fish sold by pedlars, but also native vegetables, potatoes, butter, eggs, ham and maple syrup. Further, the hams were often worthless.

Mr. Thackray made an able presentation of the grocers' case. The grocers, he said, did business in localities where rents and taxes were high. They were approachable by laws of the city and the Inland Revenue Department. The opinions of the 400 whose names were submitted was no light influence behind the appeal for higher licenses. The Association had written to several places in the United States and this country and had found this city far behind in the matter of license fees. Detroit collected $50 off foot pedlars, $100 off one horse pedlars, and $150 off two horse pedlars. Baltimore levied $101.50 upon the single horse conveyance and $150 on the double. Pittsburgh's rates were $10, $20, $50, for foot, one horse, and two horse pedlars respectively. Kingston charged $10 to foot pedlars. Montreal's fees were $60 for a handcart, an advance from $8 last year, and $100 for a single horse, which was increased from a $20 fee of last year. He thought the proposed fees were liberal, and the attendant restrictions reasonable. The latter were :—That but one person should conduct the business permitted by one license, that each extra assistant should pay a foot-pedlar's license, and that every man engaged should wear a badge. He had seen three salesmen with a push cart. With a badge, the pedlars would be subject to police control, which is now inconvenient when a document has to be produced to show the right of the pedlar to sell.

Mr. Poulton on behalf of the pedlars addressed the committee. He asked proceedings to be delayed until the Pedlars' Association could be heard from. He would engage to put in ten signatures for every one that the grocers submitted. This movement was got up to drive the pedlars out of the trade. The grocers themselves peddled when they solicited orders, and thus came under the legal definition of a pedlar and were liable to the penalties attached to unlicensed peddling. If this addition is conceded another will be demanded by the grocers. The public preferred to deal with the pedlars, as they got fresher vegetables, fish, etc., and better measure. Therefore, he wanted the question laid over.

The Chairman interrupted the speaker to say that it was unnecessary for him to take up the time further.

After a long discussion, during which Mr. Pocock also addressed the committee on behalf of the pedlars, it was resolved that the further consideration of the matter be adjourned till Monday afternoon, when Mr. Awde, the Market Inspector, should hand in a report upon the matter.

MONDAY'S MEETING.

About a score of grocers and half-a-dozen times as many pedlars appeared before the Markets and License Committee on Monday. Three five-minute speeches were permitted to each of the interested parties.

Messrs. Mills, Clark and Thackray again submitted the grounds upon which the grocers based their estimate of the pedlars' franchise.

Messrs. Pocock, Lomas and Flight reiterated the arguments of the pedlars. They also presented the following petition to reduce present rates : We the undersigned being residents, ratepayers and also licensed pedlars of this city, do request that there shall be a reduction in the license fees now paid by us, to $10 for horse and wagon and $1 for hand cart or basket, for the following reasons : We think that the said amounts are quite equal to the taxes paid by grocers and others selling fruit and vegetables and coal oil, and also that we meet a want of the citizens at large by calling at their residences in outlying districts of this city.

License Inspector Awde then submitted the following report :

The Act of Parliament does not limit the fee other than that it must be a reasonable one.

Wherever we have a street car service in operation, if legal, it certainly would be desirable in the interests of traffic and the public generally, if hawkers and pedlars with a horse and wagon or wheelbarrow were not permitted on said streets.

It would be well if calling out loudly could be stopped. I hear it has stopped even in London, Eng.

As to fees, I would recommend a compromise, as follows : A pedlar with a two horse vehicle, $40; a pedlar with a one horse vehicle, $35; a pedlar or vendor on a street corner or other place where permission is given, or rent paid other than for a house or shop, $15; a pedlar on foot with a handbarrow or wagon pushed or drawn by himself, $7.50; an able bodied man with a creel or large basket crate, other than a small basket, $2.50, and, lastly, the other clause for small articles to remain at ten cents, provided that the small articles shall not exceed in value ten cents each.

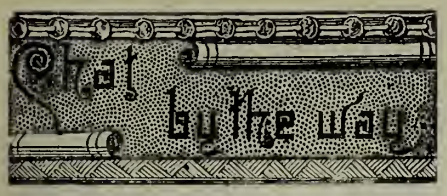
That the license shall in every case only cover the person named therein, and any person acting as driver or salesman for the licensee shall pay an individual license, as follows : With a horse and waggon, $10; with a handbarrow, $3; with a corner stand, $5.

The discussion of this report was carried on amid stormy expressions of interest on the part of the pedlars, and was concluded, after a protracted debate, by the adoption of the report with two amendments. These amendments were, first that the fee for a single horse license be $30, and that licensed pedlars be required to wear a badge.

The Hawkers' and Pedlars' Association met in large numbers in Richmond hall on Monday night. Mr. J. Pocock occupied the chair, and Mr. J. Poulton the vice-chair. The meeting was held to protest against the action of the Markets and License Committee of the City Council in raising the fees for pedlars to what they considered an exorbitant rate. The members present were unanimously of opinion that active steps should be taken to prevent the measure passing the Council, and will appear before that body to present their claims at the earliest opportunity.

The license year closes at the end of this month.

DRY GOODS MEN AND THE TARIFF.



The dry goods section of the board of trade met on Friday afternoon with the following members present: Stapleton Caldecott, chairman; T. O. Anderson, John Boyd, William Blackley, W. R. Brock, J. S. McMaster, G. Reid and James Watkins. A subject taken up for discussion was the decision of the department in increasing the duty on straw hats. The duty was first decided at 25 per cent. on March 28, but the straw hat manufacturers interviewed the Government, and on April 23 the duty was made 30 per cent. The importers are objecting, as they are now called upon to amend their entries made between March 28 and April 23, and pay the extra 5 per cent. The Dry Goods Association, of Montreal, has asked the co-operation of the Toronto section in the matter, and Mr. W. Blackley, of D. McCall & Co., was delegated to go to Ottawa and interview the Government. Mr. Stapleton Caldecott was deputed to wait upon the council of the board of trade on Monday, and urge the co-operation of the council with respect to obtaining legal advice as to the pro rata arrangements between the steamship and railroad companies re loss by stealing on through bills of lading. Messrs. G. B. Smith and W. R. Brock will also ask the council to take under their consideration the question of personal taxation.

The following resolutions were brought up at the last meeting of the New York Retail Grocers' Union, and left over for discussion till next meeting :

Whereas, A number of cracker bakers of New York and vicinity have combined their capital and business under the style and name of the New York Biscuit Company, which will enable them, if they conclude to do so, to regulate the price of their product, and

The board of trade council met on Monday afternoon, President John I. Davidson in the chair. Mr. Caldecott brought up the question of goods being pilfered in transit, and it was resolved that Messrs. W. R. Brock, G. B. Smith, W. Ince, Hugh Blain, A. B. Lee and S. Caldecott be a committee to look into the matter and report at a later date.

An order-in-council has been passed prescribing the regulations under which Indian corn of the varieties known as "southern white dent corn" or "horse-tooth ensilage corn" and "western yellow dent corn," or "horse-tooth ensilage corn" when imported to be sown for soiling and ensilage, and for no other purpose, may be imported duty free.

T. H. Noble, the Toronto grocer, whose case was referred to last week, was charged on remand at the Police Court, on Monday, with procuring liquor for his customers', and sending it to their residences along with their groceries. The question was as to the legality of such a proceeding. The case occupied a considerable time, the court finally decided against Noble and fined him $50 and costs or three months with hard labor.

The Leamington creamery was burnt on the 11th inst. The building was owned by F. Reissner and the machinery and stock by J. B. Sloan. The loss is $6,500. The building was partially covered by $500, insured in the Mercantile Insurance Co.; on the machinery there was $500 in the Royal; and on the stock $500, in the Mercantile and $2,000 in the London and Liverpool and Globe. Cause of fire unknown.

An inspection of St. Catharines tobacco stores was made by Government officials on Saturday, to assist them in tracing a man who has been selling in the vicinity large quantities of tobacco that had been cleverly smuggled over the line. They are said to have looked wise and satisfied on being told the description of a man who sold a doubtful line of goods to St. Paul's street tobacco establishments a few days before.

The retail grocers of Georgia have been for some time dissatisfied with their condition under the State laws governing the collection of debts, and are about to form a State association to protect their interests. As soon as the association is organized they intend to send a delegation to the State Legislature to ask for the passage of a bill modifying the garnishment laws, so that part of the earnings of workingmen shall be subject to garnishment for debts.—Merchants' Review.

In winding up the estate of Tait, Burch & Co., the Bay street wholesale dry goods firm, which failed some time ago, the assignee, E. R C. Clarkson, has found that the dividends will not be so large as at first expected. In view of this he has issued a writ against Mrs. Harriet Burch and Edward Burch, whom he claims to be trustees of the insolvent estate, and he hopes through them to substantially increase the dividends coming to the creditors. The case will be tried by the courts in a few days.

Merchant John Wannamaker, of Philadelphia, is a fair-minded, liberal man. At least that is the estimate which the retail grocers of Philadelphia make of him. A short time ago they started to establish a grocery department in their immense concern, but recognizing the injustice of it to a large class of worthy people, Mr. Wanamaker has decided to discontinue that part of the business, a fact which is hailed with a great deal of satisfaction by Philadelphia grocers.—American Grocer.

The letters used by the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association for accelerating slow pay debtors are found useful by dealers who appear not to have any dead beat customers. Even some cash grocers find the letters very serviceable. That is one of the best testimonals to the usefulness of the letters. Men who have not the candor to admit that their instinct ever errs in the selection of credit customers, must think a good deal of a collecting apparatus before they will confess their error and make use of it.

The Office boy owed one of the clerks three cents. The clerk owed the cashier two cents. The cashier owed the boy two cents. One day, the boy, having a cent in his pocket, was disposed to diminish his outstanding indebtedness, and paid the clerk to whom he was indebted three cents, one cent on account. The clerk, animated by so laudable an example, paid one cent to the cashier, to whom he was indebted one cent. The cashier, who owed the boy two cents, paid him one. And now, the boy having again his cent in hand, paid another third of his debt to the clerk. The clerk, with the said really "current" cent, squared with the cashier. The cashier instantly paid the boy in full. And now the boy, with the cent again in his hand, paid off the third and last instalment of his debt of three cents.

The Inland Revenue Department has recently issued a bulletin of about thirty pages which is devoted exclusively to the subject of baking powder and which shows that the majority of the goods in the market are adulterated and unfit for use. Prof. A. McGill, who has had charge of this important work for the Government, says that "imperial baking powder is an excellent baking powder." A word to the sensible housekeeper should be sufficient.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Mr. S. B. Hopkins, representing Walter Baker & Co., Boston, was in town this week.

Mr. Morin, sr., of the Gaspe Fishing Co. returned Saturday from this company's fishing station at Gaspe and reports prospects good for the seasons business.

In another column will be found the advertisement of J. W. Huckins & Co., the pioneer soup manufacturers. Mr. Leonard H. Dobbin well and favorably known to the grocery trade of this city, is their sole Canadian agent.

The remains of Mr. S. A. Potter of the firm of Potter Brothers, 782 Craig street, wholesale grocers, have been brought to this city by his brother, Mr. H. B. Potter. The deceased was seized with a stroke of paralysis while staying at the Florence Hotel, Quebec, and died there on Thursday night.

The regular monthly meeting of the Montreal Retail Grocers' Association, was held last Thursday evening. Very little business was done excepting the appointment of Mr. J. Monier, as Secretary, in place of Mr. Fournier, whose resignation was accepted. A committee was appointed to choose a site for the annual pic-nic, which is to be held at an early date.

There was a small but select attendance at the malt granary of Messrs. Wm. Dow & Co. on Saturday for the purpose of bidding on the malt recently damaged by the fire. After considerable competition it was finally knocked down to Messrs. A. W. Ogilvie & Co. for 24½ cents per bushel, which was considered a very good price, since the Government had taken off the inland revenue tax and ordered it to be sold for feed purposes only.

CONSCIENCE IN COMMERCIAL CONTROVERSY.

The matter of reclamations is always of interest and importance to the trade, and, like all other questions, has two sides and is debatable. Moreover, it is a vexed question, and so governed by circumstances surrounding it that an answer meeting one case may not be at all adapted to another.

It may do to say that justice and equity should be the governing principle in the settlement of all controversies arising between buyer and seller over the price, quality or condition of goods that form the basis of commercial dealings between them; but that with many is regarded as a mere abstraction or an assertion of moral philosophy that, like the golden rule, is a good motto, but one not always adapted to the circumstances and often supplanted by the specious pleas, take care of number one, and look out for yourself and let the other man do the same. Of course, this latter principle, or lack of it, entirely sets aside strict regard for the golden rule in business, which we have heretofore urged, in these columns, should govern commercial dealings, and also disregards the exalted position of trade as a teacher of truth. To lie in business is a sign, not of cleverness, but of the want of it. Lowell long ago contended that our whole mercantile system, a modern piece of mechanism unknown to the East till we imported it thither, "turns on an implicit belief in the word of one's neighbor. Our legal safeguards would snap like red tape were the great bond of mutual trust once broken. Western civilization has to be truthful or perish;" and this guiding we have endeavored to emphasize in previous observations, in these columns, upon trade topics.

Applying this reasoning to the subject under more immediate consideration, it follows that the buyer, no matter whether he be jobber, retailer or consumer, is in truth and justice entitled to the precise quality of goods he has contracted for and in saleable condition. This cannot be denied, and, as a matter of fact, is not denied in controversies that arise over the sale and delivery of goods. Value for value is required, and the rule is equitable. The buyer is entitled to trust to the seller's fidelity and accuracy, just as the seller is entitled to honesty and fairness on the part of the buyer.

It must be conceded that in all legitimate business dealings the seller, whether he be manufacturer or jobber, desires that the goods supplied the dealer shall in all respects correspond with the sample or ware selected, as to quality and condition, for to assume otherwise would be to charge the seller with foolishly conspiring with himself to injure his own business; since the selling of damaged or imperfect goods as perfect, would soon irretrievably ruin his trade. For this reason manufacturers maintain a close system of inspection—often double inspection—upon all goods sent out. It is essential to them and to their business that the goods should be as nearly mechanically perfect as it is possible for human ingenuity and construction to make them. The maker is more interested in their quality than the dealer, although it is sometimes difficult to convince the latter of that fact.

Yet it is within the experience of all that goods thus shipped out as perfect, are occasionally returned and more often complained of by dealers as imperfect, or not up to sample. It is true that in some cases these complaints are wholly unjustifiable, and occasionally mere pretexts on the part of the dealer to gain time and delay settlement of the invoice. But it is equally true that there are instances where, despite the utmost care in manufacture and shipment, claims for imperfection and damage are justifiable. It is in the settlement of these that vexations often arise, and herein, as in all business controversies, the conscience should be a factor in reaching a settlement and the golden rule be given living force and effect. The buyer is entitled to what he pays for, the seller is also entitled to equal and exact justice. To harmonize and reconcile the difference between the parties at issue, requires mutual forbearance and absolute fidelity to accuracy and truth, on the part of each. Goods sold for what they really are ought not to become the subject of controversy, and on the other hand the dealer ought not to expect better wares than he bought. He is not expected to deplete his profits by accepting inferior goods at full value, even though the imperfection be due to causes beyond human ingenuity to control or prevent. But neither should he do the seller the commercial injustice to assume that he would purposely send out inferior goods. If both are governed by conscience, an adjustment of their differences should be an easy matter.—Stoves and Hardware Reporter.

GROCERIES.

A rather untoward influence upon the trade transacted between the dates of this and our last week's issue was the stormy weather which ushered in the present week. The tempest damaged the roads to an unusual extent, and travellers were confined to the railway carriages through sheer impossibility to get out into the country. The effect of the storm continued to depress trade almost throughout the week, and although a business has been done that would have been called good a month ago, yet sales have been far in arrears of those which formed the basis of our report a week ago. Sugar-buying has experienced a lull which would have been felt even with the most favorable weather, for retailers have stocked up to the immediate capacity of their estimate of the demand. Remittances have been reasonably satisfactory.

CANNED GOODS.

The prospects of the market are improving. The bugbear of surplus stock has not produced any recent unnerving effects among holders, and there appears now to be a pretty strong faith that the consuming capacities of the season do not need the artificial stimulus of lower prices, to make room for all goods that are yet in stock. There is a very steady and strong demand, the best possible foundation for stable prices. Peas and corn are in strong request, and evince no weakness. There is an occasional irregular movement, but the rule is firm prices. There is a stronger feeling among holders of salmon stocks. The demand is good at present, and the outlook indicates a constantly improving one. The goods that usually share the demand with salmon, namely lobsters and mackerel, are virtually off the market, and the lack of them gives the advantage of the full demand to salmon, which in former seasons had not this advantage so early. Mistrust of the market is not generally entertained by wholesalers, though one or two large retailers have shown uneasiness, some of them offering the Beaver brand at $1.32. The Horse Shoe brand is jobbed at $1.55 to $1.60, and British American at $1.50 to $1.55.

A lot of 200 cases 3-lb canned apples sold the other day at 95c. delivered in Montreal to-day. Jobbing prices here are 80 to 90c. for 1888 pack and $1 to $1.10 for 1889.

A lot of about 300 cases canned beans, age not stated, has been sold by a packer to a Hamilton wholesale house at 50c.

COFFEES.

There is too little of character in the demand to produce any ruling effects upon this market, and outside influences have not been operative upon our market, because stocks in most lines have been self sufficient for some time. This makes the market very regular, and unaffected by changes. Changes, this week there are none. The scarcity of higher grades has been a feature for some time, and will continue to be one until the new crop comes in.

DRIED FRUIT.

The low stocks of Valencias in the country, and the firm position at outside points of supply have for a long time maintained prices where they are. Those prices are getting in a firmer position every day. In England there are scarcely any Valencias, and the English market is one of the great distributing centres of the world. England will shortly have to go to New York for Valencias. That city has a corner in this fruit, as it has in currants, which it has also supplied lately to the English market. The cheaper lines of Valencia raisins have disappeared from the streets and 8c. is the inside figure quoted, with the range to 8½c. for ordinary off stalk. It is confidently held by New York dealers that the prices of currants will go another half or three quarters of a cent in addition to the recent ¼c. Case prunes are scarce and in strong demand. The demand for raisins, prunes, and currants is very steady and active, and must soon result in a depleted market of the former two, unless consumption can survive the high prices that importation would necessitate.

NUTS.

New supplies of Brazil nuts constitute the only feature of the market that was lacking a week ago. Trade is quite and prices are unchanged.

RICE AND SPICES.

Retailers continue to recruit their stocks with bags of rice, and a good quantity has been sold lately. The price has not moved, but the prospect favors the expectation that rice will soon cost more. Tokio is a great centre of supply, and reports from there foreshadow a bad crop and bring news of present famine. There has been a long spell of wet weather there, which has damaged the crop. There is no change in the spice market.

SUGAR.

The trade in sugar this year has been a series of throbs. The demand is gauged for some short period, say one month, ahead, and retail buyers rule the extent of their supplies accordingly. They lay in these supplies usually at moments of excitement, and then during the progress of moderate trade they abstain. This has been the case in the recent spell of buying. A vast amount of sugar was bought, which will now go into consumption very rapidly, and then a steady current of trade will be opened, unless sugar has one or two more surprises in reserve for the trade. Prices have not changed here. One refinery has advanced ⅛c., but the others have not followed. Yellows are unchanged at 5¾ up. Granulated is steady at 7⅛ to 7¼. Raws are 5⅜ to 5⅝.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

There is no change. Trade is dull in both, Prices have not shifted either way. West India advices say that molasses has advanced two cents a gallon, and that stocks are very short.

TEAS.

There is a pretty general demand for tea. All lines feel it. The want of low grade is still a feature of the market. The market has not felt the drift of any outside changes. The demand this week has been very strong, teas under 10d. having advanced ½d. per pound. Ceylons are in fair demand at about the usual prices.

PETROLEUM.

A quiet trade is done. The week's business has experienced no change that affected prices or in any way modified the situation reported last week.

DRUGS AND CHEMICALS.

Business is at about its usual level. There is no ruling cause for a special demand. Prices are unchanged throughout the list.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

The old butter market is now practically over, at all events there are very few dealings in old tub. Most of that undesirable stock has been collected from the dealers throughout the country, and, though long at a standstill here, has at last found its way off this market at the nominal price long current, namely, 5 to 8c. The bulk of it went to the Montreal market in which there was an almost paralyzing congestion last week. The last instalments left here at prices mostly below 7c. New tub butter has not yet begun to come in freely, though the season is here when such packages are expected. The reason for the quantity in this shape being small is that the cool weather favored large rolls until an unusually late moment. These large rolls have not been coming in to speak of for two weeks, but the interim has been spent in packing, not marketing, such butter. The dairy tub is 12 to 14c. The small quantity of large rolls coming in goes at 13 to 15c. The equilibrium of the market is well maintained by the supply and demand of pound rolls. Receipts are liberal and enquiries are numerous. The prices are 15 to 17c. The market for new creamery tub has not yet opened. Creamery rolls are 18 to 22c., the low quality still being due to rank and wild herbage. The proportion of the lower-priced is larger than usual. The character of the butter marketed this week is better than the average of what has been handled in any former part of the season.

Cheese gets more attention. The new sells quite freely at 9 to 9½c., with in some cases, 10 paid. Old yet in the market is 10½ to 11c.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

BEANS—Both stock and buying interest are on the wane, though of the two the demand is equal to more than the apparent resources of the supply. The prices are steady at last week's quotation, $1.60 to $1.70, and relate only to small lots as there is no trade in large ones.

DRIED APPLES—Prices still rule at 5 to 5 1-2c. A steady demand continues, and stock is shrinking into small compass.

EVAPORATED APPLES—Are very scarce, in strong demand, and at firm prices. Old stock is worth 9c,, and new is 12c.

EGGS—Are firm at 13c. The market is open for a liberal supply. Buyers are now caudling, and the supply is rather low.

HAY—runs from $10.50 to $11. Mixed hay is not wanted, except in very small quantities. It brings $6 to $7.

HIDES—The advance on green hides reported last week still holds. No. 1 steers are yet 7c., and No. 2 and No. 3 are each 1c. lower. Cows' are 6c. for No. 1, and 1c. lower for each of the other grades. Cured are 5¾c. There is a fair business doing.

HONEY — The market becomes duller every week. Prices, however, have not fallen. They still stand 11½ to 12½c. for clear, and 14 to 16c. for sections.

HOPS—The crop of '88 is not all sold yet. It brings 8 to 12c. The last crop is 12 to 16c. Prices cannot stimulate the consumption of hops, so that the market is not apt to mend materially. Stocks seem large, and consumption is doing all it can do.

OATS—Are worth 41½c. The demand improves and the supply declines. At this season farmers hold very little more than the reserve necessary to feed their horses until the next crop is thrashed, but the low prices prevailing at the time they usually go on the market, may have determined some growers to hold on to more than this. However, there is a lower rate of supply now kept up.

POTATOES—The druggy state of the market reflected in last week's business has not been improved. There seems to be more stock than there is demand for, but whether buyers currectly take the comparative measure of consumption and stock just now is a question that is not easily answered. The check in the outside market which causes the stagnation here may be merely temporary, and as soon as it is removed there may be an improved demand. Buyers, however, prefer to follow the policy of keeping prices down, and holders cannot for the present keep them up, so many have potatoes. Car loads go now at 50c. Store lots are 70c.

SEEDS—The market is now over.

SKINS—Clipped sheep are 20c., and lamb skins are 35c. No. 1 calf is 7c., and No. 2 is 5c. The number of lambskins marketed is not increasing so fast as the quality of them is. The market will last but a short time, as after a certain stage of growth is reached, farmers prefer to make sheep of them.

STRAW—Is still $5 to $6. The street receipts now preponderate.

TALLOW—Rough is 2c. and rendered is 5¼c.

WOOL—Pulled runs at the following prices: Extra super 30c. super 25 to 26c. and ordinary 24c. Fleeces are not offering, and very little pulled is.

FISH.

Trout and white fish are rather scarce this week, owing to the rough and foggy weather preventing the nets from being found. Sarnia, or blue back herring, which arrived for the first time this season, is larger than the lake herring previously sold, and as they are sold by count they are a little higher in price. Eastern salmon coming has lowered the price of the British Columbia salmon to 14c. There is a fair supply of pickerel on hand, but there seems to be no demand. Prices are :—Trout and white fish 5 1-2 to 6c. Eastern salmon 16c. British Columbia salmon 14c. Sarnia herring $2 to $2.50 per hundred by count. Pickerel 4 1-2 to 5c.

GREEN FRUIT.

Valencia oranges are firm at $10.50 to $11. The Messinas are $5.50. The Palermos are out of stock. Rodi oranges are $6.50. The Riverside oranges are done. All classes of oranges have sold well this week. The high prices seem not to have restrained consumption. The Rodi's received a great deal of attention, and seem to give great satisfaction. The Valencia and Messina stocks in are both in good condition and represent fine fruit. Lemons are $4 to $4.50 for 300's and $3.75 to $4 for 360's. They do not go into trade nearly so fast as do the oranges. Long spells of warm weather are needed to make the lemon trade brisk. Bananas are $1.25 to $2. California apricots are $4.25 per crate of four baskets. Strawberries are 20c. a box, and cherries are $2.25 per crate.

PROVISIONS.

The week's trade has been up that of its forerunners. There is a steady demand for smoked meats which keeps the prices firm and strengthens the prospect of an advance. The hog receipts are liberal for the season, and a trade in barrel pork is still moving.

BACON—Long clear is 8⅝ to 9c. Bellies are 11 1-2 to 12c. Backs are 11 to 11 1-2c., and rolls are 9 1-2c.

DRESSED HOGS—Are still arriving, though in diminished numbers, and at a higher price. They are now $6.50. There are no rail supplies.

HAMS—Sweet pickled are 11 to 11 1-2c., and smoked are 12 to 12 1-2c.

LARD—In tubs is 9 1-2c., and in pails is 10c.

MESS PORK—Heavy is $16, and family is $17.

SALT.

The prices for barrel salt will be higher from now on, owing to the market being well stocked for the hay season. Sacks in small quantity have advance 5c. The following are the sales reported by Toronto Salt Works for the week : 1 car bbl. salt $1.27 ; 1 car sacks 68c; 2 cars dairy $1.18. Small lots sell at $1.45 for bbls. ; 80 to 85c. for sacks, and 45c. for ¼ sacks.

DRY GOODS.

The bad weather at the close of last week had a depressing effect upon trade. Travellers could not get about, and orders have not flowed in as freely as a week ago. Prices are firm in all lines.

Another big advance in the price of cotton is said to have been determined upon. An important meeting of the Grey Cotton Association was held in Montreal the other day, when the report of the inspectors was presented, showing that the stock of goods held by the mills was somewhat smaller than was reported at the last quarterly meeting in March, being 5,300 bales, more than half of which was for orders. The question of prices and terms was discussed, and it was decided that the terms should not be altered, but that owing to the large advance in the price of raw cotton, which is likely to be still further increased in the near future, it was found necessary to advance the price of goods two cents per pound, this advance to take place at once on all goods to be manufactured; but permission was given to mills desirous of doing so to sell off their present stock at old prices within a limited time. It was also decided to stop all the mills for a period of six weeks between now and September, and strong feeling was manifested to maintain the organization.

MONTREAL

MONTREAL MARKETS.

JUNE 19, 1890.

GROCERIES.

Business in Montreal and surrounding country the past week has been very quiet owing to elections, the only feature of the market has been another advance in Barbado molasses. There is no improvement in payments. The warm weather of the past few days, and reports from all over the Dominion of good crop prospects has given a cheerful tone to the market.

SUGAR.

There is no change to note in sugar since our last report. The market continues steady and firm at former prices, viz., 7⅛ to 7¼ for round lots of granulated, and 5⅞ to 6¼ for yellows. Refiners talk of a still further advance.

MOLASSES.

There has been some lively buying of Barbadoes Molasses since the market opened with a continued steady advance. The first lot of new to reach here was per the "Plymonth" and was over sold; the "Flid" is to arrive here about the 20th inst with 800 puncheons nearly all of which has been already sold; and the "Medbor" with 1000 puncheons has sailed and is expected here about the first of the month is also over sold. From this it will be seen what a strong market there is and a likelihood of a still further advance. The last advices from Barbadoes quotes 16c. which is 35 to 36c. here, with a very strong market; advices also state that three fourths of the crop has already left the Islands. There is still a considerable quantity of old crop on the market which is quoted at 34c.

DRIED FRUIT.

There is no new feature in dried fruit. Prices unchanged, except currents which are very strong at 6 to 6½c. Stocks of all kinds are very low particulary prunes which are quoted at 6½ to 7c.

COFFEE.

We report a stiffer coffee market at former prices. Santos have advanced in the home market. Mocha has advanced a ¾c. on the New York market.

CANNED GOODS.

The fresh fruits and vegetables on the market has checked the sale of canned goods, and very little has been done, although there is still a good demand for tomatoes with short supplies. New lobsters have been selling quite freely at $7 per case.

EGGS.

The warm weather has had a bad effect on the demand, we quote at 12 1-2 to 13c.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

GRAIN — There is no change to report. We quote as follows:—Wheat, No. 1 hard Manitoba, $1.22 to $1.23, No. 2, $1.20 to $1.21 ; peas, per 66 pounds, in store, 00 to 77c½. ; peas, afloat, May delivery, 00 to 70c. ; Quebec oats, 00 to 00c. ; Ontario oats, 41 to 42c. ; corn, duty paid, 50 to 51½c; corn, cargoes in bond, 41 to 43c. ; barley, feeding, 00 to 40c. ; barley, good malting, 00 to 52c.

FLOUR—There were no sales on 'Change to-day. Business dull; no demand; values weak We quote:—Patent winter, $5.25 to $5.50 ; patent spring, $5.75 to $5.90; straight roller, $5.00 to $5.15; extra, $4.70; to $4.80 superfine, $4.25 to $4.50; fine, $3.50 to $4.00; city strong bakers, $0.00 to $5.50; strong bakers, $0.00 to $5.50; superfine, bags, $2.00 to $2.01; extra, bags, $2.20 to $2.30; fine, bags, $1.50 to $1.90; oatmeal, standard, per bag $2.15 to $2.25; oatmeal, granulated, $2.30 to $2.50; oatmeal, rolled, $2.30 to $2.50.

HOG PRODUCTS.

Western mess, $16 to $16.50; Chicago short cut, $17; Canada short cut, $17. Lard, 8 to 8½c. per pound; bacon, 10½ to 11c. ; hams, 11½ to 12c.

GREEN FRUIT.

Strawberries are worth 25 to 30c. to-day. There is a good demand for fruit. We quote : Oranges, in cases, repacked, $10; lemons, $2 to $4, in boxes; pineapples, 10 to 25c. according to size and condition; bananas, $1.00 to $1.75 per bunch; Egyptian onions, 4c. per pound; Bermudas, $3.50 per case.

DAIRY PRODUCE.

CHEESE.—The other side has not, as far as can be learned, responded to the recent advance, and neither limits nor orders have been increased. There is no special movement on this market, and, indeed the men who hold cheese are the men who appear to want it more than anybody else. We quote : 8¾ to 9c. for white; 8⅞ to 9¼c. for colored.

BUTTER.—Quiet and unchanged. We quote to-day as follows :—Creamery, 18 to 18½c.; Townships, 14 to 17c.; Western, 14to 15c.

DISHONEST TRAFFIC.

The oft-quoted, but erroneous assertion that honesty interposes too great a barrier to successful mercantile operations, has unfortunately obtained credence to a considerable extent, and its practice has been productive of temporary gain. The proper conduct of business implies rather a careful selection of stock and judicious methods of handling it, than a recourse to misrepresentation and fraud. The system of buying inferior goods and imposing upon the credulity of customers to dispose of them may for a time prevail, but must eventually result in the merchant's discomfiture and failure. The customer of the present has been taught the necessity of investigation, and if unfairly served, will not hesitate to inform his neighbors, who, like himself, will look elsewhere for honorable treatment.

It is poor philosophy to reckon upon present dishonesty as a means of ultimate profit —it is to suppose oneself wise and the rest of mankind fools. The reaction of fraudulent conduct entails odium and disgrace upon the shallow-pated and covetous who entrap themselves in their efforts to entrap others. If all men were guided by the rule of equity and right, as being sureties of the same treatment from one to another, a resort to dishonest transactions would not be reckoned upon as a system of revenge; nor would they be so blinded to their own interests as to seek to subvert those of their fellow men.

The struggle for life, fraught as it is with cares and trials and the calamities of dire results, requires an amount of resolution, caution, integrity and moral rectitude, commensurate with the necessities of living and acting properly. Any departure from a strictly honest business life not only brings disrepute and engenders a feeling of dissatisfaction, but operates against business success, since one false step may continue to divert from the pathway of justice. Habitual dishonesty, like habitual intoxication, is always dangerous, and will sooner or later bring ruin and disgrace.

It is infinitely better to conduct business upon a platform of strict honesty and under moral suasion, than by seeking through dishonest misrepresentation and false maxims to be borne upon the current of success for a day, and then to be plunged into inextricable confusion and defeat. The false doctrines which have obtained root in the human heart, unless overshadowed and crowded out by wise precepts and noble principles, will eventually exert an influence too powerful to grapple with. There is nothing so effective as a proper beginning as, without it, the end will be dubious indeed.

Too much encouragement is being and has been given to an improper, not to say dishonest, course in the conduct of business for the remedy to act speedily and efficaciously. While dishonest traffic is connived at, and in some instances, encouraged in our country, it is made punishable in others—in fact, the conduct of business in some foreign countries is so regulated and controlled by law, as to render a departure from honesty but seldom attempted. When merchants do not serve the wants of the people legitimately and proportionately to pecuniary consideration, the employment of a controlling principle is necessitated and should be used. The disreputable system of unfair dealing, now so unblushingly practised, should be denounced by all honest men, and all honest merchants should unite for its suppression. To regulate the method of business conduct so as to render it subservient to correct, upright and legitimate principles is a "consummation devoutedly to be wished."—Detroit Herald of Commerce.

PETTY MEANNESS.

Permanent trade and good profits are often thrown away by retailers perpetrating little acts of meanness. Even a customer supposed to be a man of small matters, will take offense at a slight display of meanness on the part of a trader. The buyer always expects value received, and whatever looks like an attempt to give as little as possible for the money, results in breeding a feeling of dislike that is inimical to securing the trade of the party thinking himself injured. Exact justice between buyer and seller is all that any fair person expects, but some parties have such a disagreeable or obnoxious way of being fair that it savors of petty mean ness. The grocer who breaks a cracker, or sifts through his fingers rice, tea or other commodity, to secure an exact balance, will surely acquire a reputation with his customers for being close and mean. Exact weight or measure can always be ascertained in a way that will secure for the seller the reputation of giving full weight. Nothing pleases a customer more than an impression received that the grocer is anxious to give the fullest possible return for the money received. Working off stale or unsalable stock without notifying the customer of defects is another common form of meanness. It may be, in the eyes of the grocer or his clerk, a trifling matter to give his lady patron a package of stale yeast cakes. If it spoils a batch of bread and the customer finds that time and materials have been wasted, because the grocer thought to save the value of the yeast cakes by withholding information as to their condition, said customer will feel she has been swindled and be very apt to withdraw patronage.

Standing in a Broadway store some time since, we noticed a clerk sell to a lady customer a dress pattern. As it was about being sent to be wrapped the head of the department asked of the salesman: Did you tell the lady it was damaged and show her to what extent? The reply was: I did. The buyer was informed that it was a positive rule of that store that no damaged goods should be sold, no matter how slight, unless the effect was first made known to the purchaser. In the case referred to, it secured the steady patronage of a new customer. Such policy accounts for the extended permanent trade of the store. The grocer cannot palm off upon his customer poor or damaged stock without detection. To say that the butter is fine, when its quality is medium, or it has some glaring defect, to sell stale eggs for fresh; worm eaten dried fruit for new stock, adulterated spices for pure, whiskey for cider vinegar, common for good tea, poor flavored and stale coffee for fresh roasted aromatic bean, is to invite the customer to stop his trading. Extra attention to please is virtually making every customer a permanent one, beside securing their services as gratuitous advertisers of the store.

A common source of complaint with customers is an unwillingness upon the part of the seller to make good little losses for which the grocer is responsible. If out of a dozen eggs bought, two, four or six prove bad, there should be no hesitation in making good the loss to the buyer. We know of many instances where a refusal to do that very thing has driven away valuable customers. If in the delivery of goods damage has been inflicted or a shortage created, there should be no delay in making the matter thoroughly satisfactory to the buyer.

Failure to serve little children with the same promptness as adults, and in their turn, together with a want of care to fill their orders with the same exactness as if the sender were present, subjects the merchant to a charge of petty meanness. The storekeeper being in one sense dependent upon the public for support is expected, in turn, to give support or aid to schemes such as church fairs, public parades, entertainments, fire companies, church buildings, and various benevolent institutions and kindred matters. These often appear as unwarranted and unjust exactions, nevertheless it requires great tact and judgment to deal with such demands and avoid a reputation for meanness. Compliance with every demand is impracticable, but often a refusal can be made so graciously that the disappointed parties feel as good over it as if their wishes had been gratified. It is well to have some fixed rules for such demands, but what they should be is for each storekeeper to determine. Teasing is a form of meanness particularly detrimental to success in retailing. It is especially so when the victim is a young girl or little child. To some grocers the matters we have referred to are thought to be unimportant. They resent any criticisms on their mode and manner of running the store. They belong to the class that are called "penny wise and pound foolish." A reputation for generosity and square dealing is essential to money-making in any sort of a retail business.—American Grocer.

Soap and water are cheap, but soil on goods is expensive.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

BUSINESS AND PLEASURE.

On the invitation of Mr. T. Kingsford, of the Oswego Starch Factory, several gentlemen representing the interests of that establishment, at various important points have been making a sociable and business visit to this city for several days past as the guests of Mr. Kingsford. The names of those present are as follows :

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. E. Townley, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Campe, Pittsburg, Pa.

Theodore O. Leonard, Detroit, Mich.

Henry M. Leonard, Detroit, Mich.

J. B. Badeau, New York.

Several others were invited, and intended to be here, but were prevented by business engagements. They arrived on Saturday and are entertained at the Doolittle House. They have spent the time in riding about the city, a yacht ride to Fair Haven, visiting the starch works, and other establishments and points of interest here.

These visitors have all the appearance of being wideawake, thorough going business gentlemen, which is fully established by the fact that they are the business agents of T. Kingsford & Son, and they express themselves delighted with Oswego and the very handsome manner in which they have been entertained. They leave to-morrow.—Oswego Daily Times.

The Butcher and Grocery Clerks' Publishing company has been incorporated to publish a paper in this city; capital stock $1,000. The publication, it is supposed, will be limited to one issue, and this will be on the occasion of the butcher and grocery clerks' picnic.—Chicago Grocer.

IMPOSSIBLE!
So say Doctors, to say too much in favour of St. Leon Water. It puts down Bright's Disease and Diabetes, as water quenches fire. Cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, etc., completely if drank freely and rubbed in the skin.

SILVER STAR STOVE PASTE.
The following is the universal verdict of all who have used or sold it:
HAMILTON, APRIL 25th, 1890.
Messrs. F. F. DALLEY & Co.,
GENTLEMEN:—In thus ordering a fresh supply of your SILVER STAR STOVE PASTE we cannot but express our appreciation of the goods and congratulate you on having been able to place on the market an article so superior in every respect to anything we have heretofore been able to get.
As we use it on the stoves in the wareroom, we know personally its good qualities—no dust, a quick polish, always ready and the work is done in the time it would take to prepare the Dome or other hard stove polishes, and one of the best features about it is that it is so clean to handle.
If a man sells us an inferior article we don't forget to tell him about it, and on the same principle when a firm gives us an Extra good one we believe in letting them know that we appreciate it.
We remain,
Respectfully yours,
J. WALLACE & SON.

TO THE WHOLESALE GROCERS & DRUGGISTS OF THE DOMINION OF CANADA.
We take pleasure in announcing that our New Mills are now completed, and we are prepared to fill orders for goods. The capacity of our New Mills is from 250 to 300 barrels per day.
Our specialties, such as DESSICATED WHEAT, DESICCATED ROLLED OATS, ROLLED WHEAT FLAKES, BREAKFAST HOMINY, &c., are improved and put up in handsomely lithographed cartoons. Our GLUTEN FLOUR for Diabetes, BARAVENA MILK FOOD for infants, PREPARED BARLEY, GROATS, PEA FLOUR, &c., are the very choicest, and guaranteed fresh, clean and attractive, healthy, palatable, and nutritious.
We are also manufacturing GRANULATED, STANDARD, & ROLLED OATMEALS, WHEATLETS, SPLIT PEAS, &c., BAKERS' SPECIALTIES, such as GRAHAM FLOUR, RYE FLOUR, WHITE CORN FLOUR, WHOLE WHEAT FLOUR, &c., which are very choice.

IT SAVES LABOR, TIME AND CLOTHING.

As the hands do not come in contact with the water, chapped, scalded and sore hands are avoided. The mop being wrung at arms length there is no stooping or straining of the back or shoulders. The hands are not oiled or disfigured by the wringing of a filthy, greasy cloth. As the clothing is not drenched or disfigured as in ordinary mopping no special preparation is required.

PEDLARS' LICENSES IN TOWNS.

A few weeks ago a correspondent referred in these columns to the fact, that some towns had, and others had not, the power to impose a license fee upon pedlars. The towns which were thus empowered and those which were not, were wrongly stated to be respectively county towns and other towns. There are towns which can regulate the local peddling trade, and there are others quite as large which can not. The difference between them is, that the former are separated municipally from the county, while the latter are not.

The Municipal Act gives counties, cities, and towns municipally separated from the county they are in, the right to fix the fees pedlars are to pay for the privilege of trading in such municipalities. But towns that are not municipally separated from the county, incorporated villages, hamlets, townships, are part of the territory for which license is given by the county council. The county council cannot give a license to any applicant, that will quailfy him to trade in a city or a town municipally separate, that is in such county. The city or the municipally separate town has no representatives in the county council, and so that council can not dispose of any privileges in either municipal community. The city, or the town that is municipally independent is as complete a municipality as is the county itself. It has as full powers. On the other hand, the incorporated village, the township, or the town that is municipally a part of the county, is but a sub-municipality, and is legislated for by the county council on certain matters, one of which is the granting of license to pedlars.

The reasons that some towns have for remaining in the county are usually weighty, and citizens doing a business that is harassed by pedlars on rural licenses are as able as any others to appreciate those reasons. Perhaps, indeed, those very traders would prefer to keep up the connection with the county, and gain other ends, rather than cut the connection with the county and gain for their town the right to keep the rural pedlars out. The county connection is usually maintained because taxes are made lighter by it. When taxes become heavier on account of it, the town usually applies to the provincial legislature for separation. There are many towns thus separated, and there are many not. Those that are not are undoubtedly the prey of pedlars whose license should cover only rural ground. The thing can be mended, only by an alteration in the Municipal Act or a withdrawal of all towns from the county. The first way of mending the matter is not likely to be practicable, and the second will not be adopted, as all towns will keep up the county connection so long as it pays them.

The grievance may be mitigated, however, by the county councils. They can put on higher fees. But they will not be apt to do so until the sense of the community signifies a preference for higher fees. The men to awaken that sense are the retailers. Let them work together, and urge upon the county council the justice of more protection to the stationary trader, and if possible get their unanimous appeal backed up by consumers. This will raise the license and consequently the prices of itinerant trade. This course prevailed with the Toronto Markets and License Committee.

THE DEALER FROM TWO STANDPOINTS.

There are two theories as to the relation in which the dealer stands to the public; he may be regarded as existing for the public, or the public may be regarded as existing for him. It is easy to show which of these views is the more reasonable. If there were no public there certainly would be no dealer; but it does not follow that if there were no dealer, in the sense we use the word in now a-days, there would be no public. The public, when it reached a certain stage of social order, invoked the dealer, and he came at its bidding. He remains, at its will. The dealer, therefore, exists, for the public. But although this is the more reasonable view, it is not necessarily the more useful one for the dealer to fix his mind on, firmly believe in, and slavishly act upon. The other view, as a private article of faith, is perhaps as good a view and as capable of transforming a poor man into a prosperous one. It has been the secret of a great many men's worldly success that they looked upon the public wants as the harvest ready to their hand, that they considered the public as an aggregate of contributors to their ends.

To prevent such a conception of the relation between the dealer and the public carrying a man too far, the other theory, that the dealer exists for the public, ought to be outwardly acted upon. The trader who appears to study every word of the customer, as if it were the one object of his existence to serve well those who came to buy, will do better than the man who leaves the impression that he considers the customer a buying unit which co-operates with other buying units to swell his gains. Although the customer may be considered an instrument of the dealer's purposes, yet the latter would be able to make little use of that instrument if in his dealings he showed himself to be of this belief. The formula, that the public is for the dealer, is all right if held to privately. The outward conduct of business should be according to the reverse of this maxim. It ministers to the practical demonstration of the more selfish belief. It also tempers the effect upon character which the unqualified pursuit of wealth from the other point of view would produce.

A man may hold to what business creed he will, but he must act up to a popular one. That will prevent the narrowing effects of one idea from running him into acts of meanness, from making a small man or a rogue of him. He who proceeds upon the idea that the public is for him, is apt to be not over-scrupulous in his dealings with the public, unless he learns and lives up to a maxim that is as useful for popularity as his favorite one is for thrift. That maxim is the dealer is for the people. One is to be held for private ends, the other is to be acted upon for public policy. One keeps a man from too foolishly trusting the public or giving way to his whims, the other prevents unrestrained greed overreaching itself and driving away trade altogether. The dealer who learns how to seem to concede more than he concedes knows how to make use of both views, and is something of a diplomat.

That the public is for the trader is shown to be the belief of those who produce novelties and give attractive exteriors to packages. For, such manufacturers hold that goods thus takingly presented will not wait on the demand, but will make a demand. The dealer who sells these really moulds the buying mood of the public to suit his ends and thus proceeds on the view that the public exists for him. So he does in every effort he makes to induce trade where no tendency to it is manifested. There is a vast amount of trade done because the trader privately believes the public are for his legitimate advancement, and who publicly acts as if he were for the best interests of the public. And the more both these views are truly exemplified in results, the more will such man deserve credit for honesty and tenacity.

UNDERSTAND MEN AND THINGS.

There would be more business done by some dealers, if they had a broader and deeper acquaintance with men and the things that pertain to their own trade. How many traders there are whose shallow knowledge of human nature leads them to offend sensibilities that they did not know the existence of! There are traders who alienate business involuntarily. They happened to have a good stand to which a strong unsolicited volume of trade came. They were thrown upon no abilities of their own to build the foundations of that trade, and so did not acquire that intimate knowledge of the likes and dislikes of men which is needed to make trading intercourse agreeable. Such dealers generally go down hill very fast. The education which the world gives they had not picked up, and so had not developed that fine essence of it, tact.

We know a dealer who set up business in a place which was a hamlet when he went to it and was a town when he left it. He had traded throughout all the stages of its rapid progress. He was a pioneer in its trading history, and had the monopoly of a fine business which was supported by a large industry employing many workmen. But the biggest end of that man's business was the beginning. As the place grew his trade narrowed, and got more towards a point every year. Other dealers in this line came in and, starting humbly, built out broader and broader. Some of them became rich men. But the pioneer failed. He was wanting in tact. He would talk too much. This made his store the resort, not of customers, but gossips. He never learned to mend his fault, because he had not gone through that training school which the man who builds a business by force of energy has to go through. Tact is a most important, most necessary quality. The man who possesses it will not do or say the wrong thing at the wrong time. He will know too that what would suit one man would not suit another. A quiet pleasant salesman, not over eager to impress some brilliant recollection of himself upon the occasion, is the man who will succeed. If he does not know human nature very well, he will at all events conceal his ignorance of it.

The knowledge of the things in which a trader deals is also most desirable. To know the properties of the finished article or of its constituents is often protection against loss. It is often productive of business, as such knowledge places the dealer in a position to make comparisons between like things, often to the advantage of what he is offering.

CASH TRADE.

EDITOR CANADIAN GROCER.

DEAR SIR,—Allow me space for a few remarks on one of the questions of the day, which is of great importance to all parties in the retail trade, as I have been in the business a long time.

After thirty years' experience in credit business, I have come to the conclusion that the sooner the cash system is established the better for the country and for the farmers. Any person buying goods on credit is paying too much for them, which I can show you in a few words. We will take for example, 12 lbs. of sugar for one dollar credit, and 16 lbs. for one dollar cash ; currants, credit 10c. per lb., cash 6c. per lb. I might go on through all the goods sold and the difference will follow. But now, who is to blame for the credit? There are too many goods brought into the country, there are too many wholesale houses, and goods are forced on the retail trade by too many travellers. I therefore think the wholesale men are to blame for it. You may ask why I say so. In the first place, you will find hundreds of men in business with small capital, and they cannot do business on a cash basis. The only plan I see is for the wholesale man to say, "I will sell for cash only." Now, you will hear merchants say, "I can't do a cash business." This "I can't" talk does for boys, but if every merchant would put down his foot, and say, "I am a cash man," he would do a good sound business. I find it no trouble to do a cash trade, and I live in a hard country to do a cash trade in. I will hold out; if I fail, all right. I have my goods on the shelves. There is another way the wholesale men are to blame. You will find lots of farmers who aim to become traders. They take five hundred dollars, go to Toronto, buy about twelve or fifteen hundred dollars worth of goods. What is the consequence? They must in a short time have a big fire, or they will burst up. The stock is thrown on the market for sale at the small sum of 35 to 50c. on the dollar, and may come to our small village, there to be sold at a reduced price. How can men live who pay one hundred cents on the dollar? Who is to blame? The wholesale men. They are the ones should be bitten. Now, since I started the cash system, in four months my sales were $300 above the same time last year. I don't think the times are any better, but I am giving great bargains. I have put my goods at bottom prices, and the people see it and I have no trouble to sell. The people ask, "How is it that Carl can sell so cheap? I tell them I pay cash for goods, and sell for cash.

A. H. CARL.

Coboconk, 16th June, 1890.

In putting his experience at the service of his fellow traders throughout the country, Mr. Carl has done what every liberal business man should do, who has a sincere interest in the welfare of trade. We are pleased to be enabled to publish his testimony to the success of the cash system. Where one man has succeeded and not revealed the secret of his success, many fail in the attempt to imitate him. But where the successful man has made careful note of the course he took through an unsurveyed system, and prepared a chart by which his path may be found, he has made it easily possible for others to succeed, if he has not been favored with generally unattainable circumstances. Wherever it is possible to make a success of the strictly cash system, that system ought, no doubt, to be adopted. It is better to do a little less trade with no loss than to do a larger trade with much loss.

Credit itself is not a bad thing. It is the admitting of a credit claim where there are no grounds for such claim, or it is the neglecting of credit that is pawned, which is the real cause of loss in a credit business. No claim for credit should be recognized unless it is supported by property, actual or prospective. All property may be considered actual for purposes of credit, a man's skill and honesty combined being acceptable to a limited degree as actual property, because of its being a guarantee of property in prospect. A man's earning capacity alone is not a safe basis of credit. Taken along with a good name for honesty it is an expedient basis for a small credit account. A man's importunateness is not of itself a basis of credit. Neither is sympathy for a man in want. These are bases of risk. Loss through them is often loosely attributed to the credit system. Also, where the basis of a credit is sound, there is often loss. This is usually the fault of the collector. If he had not been remiss in attaching what was attachable, he would not have been a loser. Misplaced credit and neglected credit, then, are the causes of loss. Of course there is also loss through approved credit. But it is the least.

No doubt, if we had not had a credit system, the world would have been far behind what it is. There would have been no banks, with their manifold forms of service to commerce. Commerce itself would have been far behind what it is The world of method that has been called forth by our financial and commercial system would not have been, and civilization would be almost eviscerated if we took all the machinery of that method away. As we have shown, not all that has befallen in the name of credit is to be charged to credit. But much good has to be. Production, in its very nature, involves credit. The farmer plants upon the promise of Nature's fertility, and waits many months for that promise to be realized. In the interim, the farmer is a legitimate object of proportionate credit trust. If he thrives, his credit is supposed to be redeemed. If he fails, the hour of redemption is postponed or never overtaken. So with the manufacturer, whose product is on trial. Throughout the quest for a market, there has to be expense, of which the source must be credit, credit from some fund other than that which is at first derivable from the article, and this other fund may be the projector's own property or some one's else : it is in either case a basis of credit, and the thing which it floats may sink or swim.

While, therefore, credit cannot be dispensed with as a basis of trade, and even of loss, yet its abuses may. If the latter be, loss will be at its minimum, and will always be less to mankind than the loss through the commercial disuse of the system. But there are situations in which a trader may confine himself to a strictly cash trade, as our correspondent has successfully done Such situations, however, involve other dealers, who do a credit trade, and between the cash and the credit dealers there is a division of trade. Each is the complement of the other. The cash trader, unless in very special circumstances, cannot do all the trade that can be done. The man who does the cash trade is willing to let others do the credit trade, and thus "Live and let live" is a respected maxim.

But the credit system should be a regulated system, and its abuses are driving men to the other extreme, a cash system, which, with its advantages, is practicable in certain circumstances.

A SPOKE FROM A TORONTO WHEEL.

Last winter the secretary of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association received a communication from Washington, Ind., asking for particulars of the Toronto delinquent list, and submitting the scheme of one in use in the Indiana town. In his reply, containing the desired information, Mr. Thackray stated that if such details were embraced in the Toronto scheme as were in the constitution of the Washington body, the Toronto Association would often be called upon to defend actions for libel. To this, the following answer was sent a few days ago, which shows how far reaching in good effects a little inter-association courtesy may be.

WASHINGTON, IND., JUNE 19, 1890.
JOHN F. THACKRAY,
Secy. Toronto R. G. Ass'n.
Toronto, Canada.

DEAR SIR,—I will now say something in reply to your kind favor of February 26th. On behalf of our Merchants' Association, of which I was secretary at the time you wrote me, I return thanks for information and suggestions contained in your letter. You said you would like to know the outcome of any suit for damages that might be brought against any member of our Association. On February 24, John H. Sullivan filed a suit for $5,000 damages against a member of our Association who had reported him as bad pay to members of the Association. The case came up for trial May 21, and lasted four days. The best legal talent in this part of the state was engaged on both sides, and a hard fight was pitched. The jury was out about sixteen hours and a verdict of 1 cent damages was returned for the plaintiff, on account of the plaintiff proving that he paid $15.00 on the account which he had no credit for. Still, all are pretty sure witness swore crooked. All in all, we are satisfied with the result and there is no prospects for more suits. We have changed our manner of reporting beats, and in the change we used much of your plan to advantage. We have abandoned the iron-clad agreement, and simply give the information. We are in nice working order and are gradually cleaning out the beats. Our Association works under new by-laws and is called the "Merchants' Association" of Washington, Ind.

Yours very truly,
JNO. T. NEAL.

THE STRAWBERRY CROP.

The reports which we publish below, coming from the most commanding points of observation, warrant the opinion that the strawberry yield will be a large one in this province. If the promise of the crop was correctly estimated at the time of writing from the different centres of production, it is apt to be realized, as there is very little in the probabilities of the climate that can now be menacing to the berry. An index which is even more reliable than the result of a survey of the crop, is the average height of prices. Producers will level this up or down as their general view of the situation is large or small. The prices at which they are willing to deal this season show that they believe the market will be well stocked. So far, each year's pack has been a fairly good fit to the consumption that was depended on. There has been no over-estimate of the capacity of the demand, and it is to be hoped that abundance and cheapness may not lead to one this year. The canning establishments send in the following reports :

AYLMER CANNING COMPANY, AYLMER.—Strawberry crop here very large, yield about two thousand quarts per acre. Prices range from 6c. to 7c. per quart. Can buy seven thousand quarts for immediate shipment.

BAY OF QUINTE CANNING FACTORY, PICTON.—Think the prospect good, will get full report first of week. Feel assured with present continued good weather they will be fully as good if not better than last year—and we had a tremendous output—over 71,000 quarts.

BOWLBY BROS. AND COMPANY, WATERFORD.—The crop of strawberries in this section is large, and you will have to caution packers in general to keep their pack down, otherwise they themselves will suffer.

DELHI CANNING COMPANY, DELHI.—Strawberry crop in this section is extra good. Prices will average about 5c. per quart.

ERIE PRESERVING COMPANY, ST. CATHARINES.—Strawberries give promise of a fair crop in this section, should say four times the quantity of last season. We have only bought two fields thus far, rather preferring to take chances of the market when the rush comes.

LAKEPORT PRESERVING COMPANY.—The prospects are good for strawberries here this season. Expect to buy at 5c. per quart. Average about same as last season.

B. R. NELLES, GRIMSBY.—The strawberry crop is fair, and the production will be about the same as last year. I do not think they could be bought for less than 6 or 7c. per basket.

ONTARIO CANNING COMPANY, HAMILTON.—Strawberries will be a fine crop and will be bought cheap. The season has been remarkably favorable for their growth. Growers are wanting to contract at 5c. The output will be considerably above the average. These remarks apply to the district between Hamilton and Toronto, the most important in Canada.

PHŒNIX CANNING WORKS, WELLAND.—The strawberry crop in this section is much larger than it has been for years. We can safely say it is double what it was one year ago. We expect to get all we will require for 4c. per basket, and probably less.

THE SIMCOE CANNING COMPANY, SIMCOE.—The strawberry crop is enormous, and the berry unusually fine. As to price, they are ranging all the way from 2½ to 20c.

TORONTO PEDLARS' FEES.

The fees of Toronto pedlars have been raised, and the new license rates will rule the issue for the next fiscal year, which begins on the first of July. The pedlars fought the proposal to increase the fees at every point; before the markets and license committee, before the executive committee, and before the council in committee. At every point, too, except before the executive, they were met by the grocers. The Association stayed by the project, and it was finally carried through on Monday night. The following are the license fees now : $40 for a two-horse vehicle ; $30 for a one-horse vehicle; $15 for stationary space at a corner, or street, etc.; $7.50 for a handbarrow or push wagon; $2.50 for an able bodied man carrying a pack, basket, etc.; 10c. for vendors of wares which are not above the value of 10c. each. The license is to protect but one person. Assistants shall pay license as follows: $10 on a wagon; $3 with a barrow; $5 on a corner stand. All shall wear a badge.

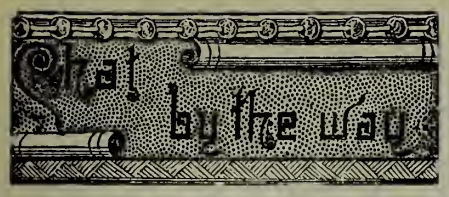
THE LOBSTER FISHERIES.

Persons interested in the lobster fisheries are making persistent representations to the Fisheries Department that the bad weather on the Nova Scotia and Cape Breton coasts has retarded the prosecution of that fishery this year, and for this reason are pressing Hon. Mr. Tupper to extend the duration of the fishing season. The reports furnished by the officers of the department in Nova Scotia show that, notwithstanding the drawback of bad weather, a very large catch of lobsters has been made this year, and, owing to the enforcement of the close season by the Department during the past two years the lobster fishery in many districts shows distinct signs of improvement, although the run of the crustaceans is still small. In some districts the catch will fall short of last year, but in many districts it will be fully equal to the past season and in some cases better. Actually at points where men have gone out of the lobster canning business new men have started up and made money.

C. W. Cheese and H. R. Cox, two young men, have been operating a tea store in London for a couple of weeks, known as the "Provincial Tea Company." The merchandise was generally sold in round boxes, price $1 per can, and in each of these boxes it was announced that a present was to be found. In some of them gold watches and other articles of jewellery were also deposited; hence the remarkable demand for tea. The police thought the young men were guilty of a violation of the Lottery Act and summoned them to appear before the police court. When the magistrate asked for them it was shown that the shop had been closed and the tea merchants had gone west on an early Friday morning train. A number of creditors are left sorrowing.

BUSINESS METHODS, OLD AND NEW.

An interesting tale was told the other day in a trade journal, of a drummer's discovery of a country dealer in West Virginia who steadfastly refused to reduce the prices which he charged his customers a quarter of a century ago. It was added that he has, on the shelves of his store, calicos at 50 cents a yard, cowhide boots at $9.00 a pair, shelf hardware at more than double present prices and other goods, such as are usually kept in a country general store, at like old-time values. The old merchant resolutely closes his eyes to all commercial progress of late years and to the lessening in the cost of necessaries of life. He is particularly averse to modern methods of soliciting trade. "If any one wants to buy of him he will be found at the old stand," he says, "and if they will not come, let them stay away, for he isn't going to run after them, as newer tradesmen do."



Whether the narrative be somewhat enlarged upon in this instance or not, it is undoubted that there are many dealers—and not all of them confined to rural districts, either—who have not kept pace with the progress of trade, and the changes in the business methods that have necessarily accompanied such progress. Years ago it was in order to await the coming of business, with reasonable assurance that it would turn up at the counter sooner or later. The seller took his ease and awaited his customer; the buyer was expected to do the skirmishing. Now the situation is reversed. The seller must bestir himself. Formerly, being sought out, the seller was the dictator as to price, quantity and quality. Now the buyer betrays some interest in those fundamental factors in trade. The old time dealer of whom the foregoing story is told is slow. He is not adapted to getting about or pushing trade. He is not up with the times, which demand quickened commercial methods. His gait is that of the patient, plodding mule, while this is the age of electricity.

In no particular is he more out of harmony with the spirit of the age than in his determination to adhere to old values and refusal to be governed by current prices. He will wait for a readjustment of values that may never come and is certainly not likely to come. He puts no value upon the time consumed in waiting for the "old times that come again no more." How different the course of the modern dealer. He has learned through expediency, or perhaps been forced by necessity, to value time at its increasing worth. He knows that time is now estimated by dollars instead of cents and that trade is sensitive to delays. Business opportunity does not brook postponement. He knows that loss can be reduced, if not wholly avoided, by selling at cost, if needs be, and that such course is better than waiting for a possible turning of the tide. He knows that carrying old stock is never profitable, and often causes interest to eat at both ends. "Learn to labor and to wait" was not written of present methods of business. Besides the two are incompatible. The man who waits for trade doesn't labor, except so far as idleness is labor and of the most unprofitable sort.

In this age, too, profits no longer entirely depend upon possible or probable valuation in prices, but rather upon quick sales and the quantity, quality and modern character of the goods offered. This is an era of improved facilities for transportation, and the very lightning is utilized for intercommunication between maker and seller. Business operations are regular and systematic, and governed by such direct methods and distinct understandings as expediency and necessity determine to be generally applicable. Individual preferences are often sentimental abstractions and interferences, while commercial and industrial success demand the intensely practical, as a governing factor. The man who is unable to keep pace with the conflicts and mutations and displacements of progressive commercial life is as much out of the race as the old time stage-coach would be in competition with electricity. Progress and prosperity go hand in hand. The slow coach is distanced.—Stoves and Hardware Reporter.

Hon. C. H. Tupper, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, has received a letter from a gentleman in Newfoundland deeply interested in fisheries of that colony, in which it is stated that the report of the delegates who last year visited Scotland and Holland in connection with the herring industry has been widely read and much appreciated in Newfoundland, the report having been referred to as "practical and exceedingly valuable." The fishery board for Scotland and a practical pisciculturist in England have also written to the department to convey their appreciation of the valuable information contained in the report.

An all round refusal of retailers to deal with a wholesale firm which was encroaching upon their rights might have some considerable effect, but organisation and unity of purpose and actual policy are essential to anything of the sort, and those, we fear, are not the strong points of grocers even yet, though they are manifestly improving in that direction. Unless we are mistaken something of the sort does exist across the Atlantic, where there is more go-a-headedness among members of the trade than there is here. The particular form which it takes is not present to us just at the moment, but we have a distinct impression that, in connection at any rate with one of the branches of the trade, there is a recognised principle that there shall be no dealing with people who fish in the waters of the traders whom they are supplying with goods, and whose money they are taking. It is a sharp weapon to use, and one which, perhaps, wielded unskilfully, might do mischief to the user, but if retailers are going to do anything, if their discussion of the matter means anything, the Trans-Atlantic suggestion may be worth their consideration.—The Northern Counties Grocers' Review.

Mr. Geo. Williams, grocer, Guelph, was married on the 18th inst. to Miss Maggie Bell of the same city.

The Parkhill salt well, owned by Messrs. W. H. Hutchins & Co., will be in operation by the 1st of July next.

The employees of the Bell cigar factory at St. John, N. B., are out on strike on account of the discharge of two workmen.

Wm. Munro of the well-known firm of Munro Bros., general merchants, of Parkhill, died on Monday of last week, at his home in Parkhill.

The merchants of Winnipeg are greatly exercised because the police are enforcing the by-law and compelling them to take down low signs.

On the 18th inst., Miss Jennie, youngest daughter of Mr. James McCullough, general merchant, Goodwood, was married to Mr. Isaac Graham.

Alex. Angus, formerly of the firm of Robt. Evans & Co., Hamilton, seedmen, has accepted a situation as traveller for Buhl & Co., of Detroit.

Two London West men, named J. Collett and J. Neil, had a banana-eating contest on a wager. Collett ate 25 and Neil managed to dispose of 27.

Mr. J. C. McFarlane, a Toronto commercial man, was fined $3 and costs at the Police Court, Winnipeg, the other day for peddling without a license.

The contract for supplying groceries and fuel to the St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary has been awarded to Dufresne & Mongenais, grocers, Montreal.

The French-Canadian wholesale grocers, grain dealers, hardware and leather merchants, have all agreed to close their places of business up on St. Jean Baptiste day.

Besides recovering about $100 of merchandise stolen from his store about a month ago, Mr. Barrett, of Alexandria, also discovered in a bush near Coteau a waterproof coat.

Charles Bridgeman, formerly head clerk in Emery, Poustie & Co.'s grocery, Aylmer, is now travelling salesman for G. Marshall & Co., of London and Toronto, wholesale tea merchants.

Mr. Frank R. Close, a well-known and highly popular traveller in the employ of Lucas, Park & Co., wholesale grocers, Hamilton, was married last week in St. Thomas church to Miss Margaret Robinson.

The insurance companies threaten to withdraw their business from the Manitoba country towns unless they provide some means of protection from fires. The companies have sustained heavy losses recently.

T. J. Morris, corner of Queen and Kent streets, Charlottown, P. E. I., welcomed THE GROCER representative on his visit east. Mr. Morris takes pride in keeping his store in good order, and hopes soon to be in a larger building.

Mr. Fitzgerald, grocer, corner of Dufferin avenue and Maitland street, London, is the first citizen this season to report the finding of a live tarantula in a bunch of bananas. The insect is now the safe occupant of a water barrel in Mr. F.'s backyard.

J. W. McKeown, treasurer of Euphemia, has sold his store and business at Sutherland's Corners to W. A. Banghart, of Alvinston, and with commendable promptness Mr. McKeown has paid ap all, or very nearly all, of the shortage in the township treasury.

Mr. Murdoch McRae, general merchant, Greenfield, was struck with a sledge hammer used by a man to drive a stake into a car in cours of loading. It accidentally flew of the handle, and struck Mr. McRae, who was below, upon the top of the head. The accident is not likely to prove a fatal one as was at first feared.

The Horse Insurance Fund connected with the New York Retail Grocers' Union is booming. Applications are coming in fast, and in point of numbers of horses insured it will head the list in a short time. Members are beginning to realize that it is one of the best adjuncts connected with their association.—Retail Grocers's Advocate.

The Edwardsburgh Starch Co. gives with every assorted lot of twenty-five boxes of their starch, a handsome wall-picture in a gilt frame. The picture is about 26x18 inches, and will help greatly to relieve the sombreness that stock by itself can not chase away from the walls of a store. The picture discloses a neat laundry maid ironing, a mischievous boy putting on large cuffs and collar, and under him as a platform are boxes of the starch made by the company, all the brands being represented. Mr. Graham is the Company's Toronto agent.

The semi-annual meeting of the Retail Merchants's Association of New Jersey will be held in Atlantic City, July 23. Proceedings have been taken with the view of incorporating the association at that time, under the act passed recently by the Legislature. It is expected that the proceedings will be of great general interest.—American Grocer.

A seller of soap in Brooklyn has hit upon the ingenious expedient of placing in his show window a handsome boy to blow soap bubbles. The lad wears mittens and so tenacious are the bubbles that he is able to bob them up and down half a dozen times before they burst. The window is usually surrounded by an interested crowd.--American Grocer.

The contracts for provisions and light supplies for the mounted police for the fiscal year commencing 1st July next have been awarded as follows: Provisions, etc., other than beef—Regina, Mowat Bros.; Maple Creek, I. C. Power & Bro.; Medicine Hat, Tweed & Ewart; Calgary and Prince Albert, Hudson's Bay Company; Fort MacLeod and Lethbridge, I. G. Baker & Co.; Saskatchewan, Battleford and Edmonton, A. Macdonald.

Professor Robertson, Dominion dairy commissioner, commences this week a lecturing tour throughout the Dominion, which will occupy all the summer months. The professor first proceeds to the province of Quebec, and in company with Mr. Chapais, assistant dairy commissioner, will address a series of meetings, the arrangements for which have been completed. The month of July will be spent in the Maritime Provinces, and afterwords Mr. Robertson will proceed to Manitoba, the territories and British Columbia. The programme which the professor has arranged with the approval of Hon. John Carling is in keeping with the suggestions of the Dominion dairymen's conventions and of several members of Parliament.

One thing in particular should be impressed upon clerks—the necessity of careful attention to small customers.

Every dealer should keep these packages in stock. Good seller. Good profit. Gives satisfaction. Order a dozen from your wholesale house to try.

THE POETRY OF TRADE.

"Your trade is prosy, void of Art, and rough and soulless toil,
"You grind and slave, you buy and sell teas, coffees, spice and oil,
"Your mind is bent on lucre foul, your hands are opened wide
"To catch and hold the pound of flesh, you cut from Labor's side."
Thus spoke an artist friend of mine to me one eve last week,
And loftily he aired his views, while I—just let him speak.

"No Art in Trade!" I then spake up, "No Poetry in Trade!"
"Our toil you say is soulless work, of common clay we're made,
"We grasp and squeeze our fellowmen! Yes, were they all like you
The government would pension us and pay a bounty too.
"No Poetry in Trade!" "Why man you're talking nonsense pure
"And poring over ancient books will not effect your cure."

"There's Poetry in every turn, there's Art in high degree,
Which every earnest tradesman can hardly fail to see.
To gaze around one's store or shop with honest looks of pride,
And see the fruits of Nature brought from lands so far and wide
Is all sufficient in itself to make one's heart beat high,
And raise the mind to purer realms where joy can never die.

Just let your mind a moment rest upon that chest of tea,
And with me ponder whence it comes and where its home might be—
From far-off China's flood-swept plains or Java's sea-girt shores,
Or yet from India's lofty hills, through Kaugra's jungled doors,
Mayhap the great Mikado's realm the blessed plant gave birth,
To shed and spread its soothing breath to all the ends of earth.

Across the sands of Araby the awkward camel strides,
Aud bears the golden coffee-bean to Stamboul's spired sides.
The Indies of our western sphere their thousand treasures send,
While merchants of all shades and tongues in stately ships attend;
To lay the fruits of Nature's lap in homes of great and small,
And spread the favors granted man before the feet of all.

From Montezuma's tragic plains prolific Nature wafts
The essence of her sweetest breath, Vanilla's pleasing draughts,
And from the prairies of the North, our own, grand, fruitful land,
Where leagues of golden grain bow down on every hand,
From every clime and every zone, our shelves and boards are fed.
And true poetic feeling, friend, in Trade is not quite dead.

WM. H. SEYLER.

Toronto, June 17th, 1890.

The Inland Revenue Department has recently issued a bulletin of about thirty pages which is devoted exclusively to the subject of baking powder and which shows that the majority of the goods in the market are adulterated and unfit for use. Prof. A. McGill, who has had charge of this important work for the Government, says that "imperial baking powder is an excellent baking powder." A word to the sensible housekeeper should be sufficient.

TRICKS IN ALL TRADES BUT THE GROCERS'.

There are tricks in all trades but ours, says the jeweler, as he sets a watch going that had been left only a few minutes before by its owner to be cleaned and to have a new main-spring put in. There are tricks in all trades but mine, says the doctor, as he mixes some dough with a little sugar for a patient who has narrowly escaped having a malignant attack of the "hyebro cerebro spinal mem getis." There may be tricks in other trades, says the candy maker, but no one ever saw me put terre alba in my candy. People in other trades may be more or less unscrupulous, says the printer, as he charges up two hours time on a half hour job, but the ever predominating influence of conscience keeps us in the straight and narrow path. Ah yes, sighs the farmer, after he had finished putting sand in his oats, we have always enjoyed the reputation of being simple but honest. Other people cheat us, but we "turn 'tother cheek." People are not suspicious of us, says the preacher. We tell them of their short comings and point out a better way. And he was reminded to go to the public library and select a sermon for next Sunday. We defend people who are cheated, says the lawyer, and thereby win the confidence of everyone—which we use to our own advantage later.

In fact everybody engaged in making a living is honest, more or less, according to competition and the requirements of their trade. Even the honest grocer has been the subject of newspaper jests. They say that he puts sand in his sugar, hay in his tea, burnt beans in his coffee and all such things, but the grocer is the most innocent man in the world. People put all these things in for him, and he is obliged to spend his Sundays and half-holidays picking them out. The grocer is also censured occasionally in a mild way for over-charging, but he can prove himself an unwilling party to that trick. It is the customer's fault, not his. When a lady comes in and asks for a pound of 90 cent tea, and the grocer is just out of that particular grade, he would be ruining his business to confess it. The customer would go across the street and deal with a grocer who had prices to suit her. She wants 90 cent tea and will have it, because she has set her mind on that amount. The grocer has some good 45 cent tea, but he does not say so; that would be just as bad as to say that he did not keep tea at all. The idea of a 90 cent woman using 45 cent tea. In fact, the wise grocer says nothing until he has weighed out the 45 cent article and is putting 90 cents in the drawer, when he politely asks if there is anything else today.

No, the grocer is not full of tricks like some tradesmen. He always gives down weight and heaps his measures, but he charges Mrs. Sampler for all the goods she returns, and deducts 10 per cent. because she always grumbles at the size of her bill. He settles amicably with other tradesmen and professional men who are among his customers, because he has a knack of bringing them out only a few dollars in his debt that is really pleasing to them, and then he is a most accommodating gentleman. He takes orders a day ahead for fresh berries, and fills them with left-over stock at the same prices. This much abused man generously acknowledges every mistake his own fault, and rectifies by giving the child, who is really to blame, a handful of candy.

There may be deception in the dry goods trade, and there may be tricks in tobacco, but there is no mildew on the grocer.—Chicago Grocer.

GROCERIES.

The month has got pretty well on towards its close, and enough business has already been done to justify the verdict that the June trade has been rather satisfactory. The trade of the week has in a greater degree than that of last week, felt the local revival which the settlement of the industrial strike produced. Another local stimulus is the preparation that the hotels, etc., are making for the Carnival. This is expected to double the consuming capacity of the city. The demand from the country was also good, and was not special. It embraced all lines. The activity of country trade has been slightly reduced by the position of agriculture, which is now between tides, as it were, the seed having been planted, and the haying harvest not having yet come in. Payments have been falriy prompt.

CANNED GOODS.

The tension upon prices which a prospective overplus in some lines has for some time exerted is gradually relaxing. The scarcity of tomatoes has not only favored the price of those vegetables, but has checked the development of further weakness in the prices of corn and peas, as corn and peas come in for a greater share of the consumption on account of the diminished stock of tomatoes. There have been a good many enquiries for canned tomatoes for some days past, and holders have been letting them out very sparingly at $1.20 to $1.30. It looks as if everything in the shape of a tomato can would disappear before the new crop is offered. Tomatoes for future delivery are selling at 90c. to $1.05. But buying has not been active on the part of wholesalers. Sales have been made at 95c. to $1.10 for corn ; for future delivery, $1.10 is asked, but no sales have been made. Peas are $1 to $1.10. In fruits there has not been much business ; strawberries promise a good crop and prices may be lower. Apples are steady ; 1888 pack sell at 80 to 90c., and 1889 at 1 to $1.10 in 3's. Salmon is selling slowly ; 100 cases Queen's brand recently changed hands at $1.35 net cash. Horseshoe are offering at $1.50 to $1.60. New lobsters are in, and are selling at $1.90 for ordinary brands to $2.25 for finest Star.

Canners are firm in their prices for lobsters, and will fill no wholesale orders at less than $1.75. Even at this figure orders will not be taken for lots larger than twenty five cases. The catch has been short this year.

Sales of Queen's brand canned salmon were made in small lots to the retail trade to-day at $1.40 and Horse Shoe at $1.50.

A well-known brand of average quality Columbia river stock is offered at prices equivalent to $1.52½ here, and buyers not only intimate that a similar article may be had at 5c. less, or say $1.20, in the primary market, but express a firm belief that the price named will be the general one for standard brands at no distant day. Their belief is based upon reliable information that no less than 160.000 cases had been packed up to the end of the first week of June, and that operations are being carried out on a scale indicating a total pack of 350,000 to 400,000 cases for the season. Of itself this is not a remarkably heavy total, but, in connection with the large extent of current operations on the Fraser river and the prospects for heavy pack of Alaska fish, it indicates a rather unsatisfactory market for Columbia river fish that does not enjoy a strictly first-class reputation, or which may not open satisfactorily to the most exacting buyers. As regards the outlook for Alaska salmon, opinions are expressed cautiously, but it is obvious that low prices this year are looked upon as a certainty. Good brands are openly offered at 95c. in the primary market, and bids of 90c. (equivalent to about $1.17½ here) have been solicited for large lots with poor results. We do not learn that English buyers are manifesting any inclination to take hold of either Columbia river or Alaska fish. They seem more interested in getting rid of stock now on hand.—N. Y. Bulletin.

COFFEES.

Rio coffee is steadily held at 21 to 23c. The better grades are scarce. The scarcity is shared by the outside markets, being quite as distinctively a feature of the New York market. The sales for the week have been slightly in excess of the average ruling in the earlier part of the season, the Carnival supplies having strengthened the demand perceptibly. In all lines prices remain at last week's point.

DRIED FRUIT.

Prunes are getting into very small compass on spot and values are strong; the few hogsheads here are firmly held at 5¾c.; cases rule form 7 to 9c.; owing to the scarcity of other grades quite a few bottled prunes have been worked off at 10 to 12½c. A lot of D in cases were sold to a wholesale house the other day at 7¾c. Currants are unchanged at 5¾ to 6c. Valencia raisins are in good demand at 8 to 8½c., and Sultanas at 11 to 12c. Malagas dull and easy; New York advices report increased offerings and lower prices.

A round lot of "D" prunes in cases sold at 8c. on the street recently.

Letters from Denia, bearing date of June 5 and June 6, confirm previous reports of a prospective large crop of raisins, and also point to moderate prices, for the beginning of the season at least. One prominent firm writes that, "despite the weather having been changeable and rainy, prospects for a large crop are flattering. The vines look healthy, and promise a larger yield this year than last." Another firm of equal prominence writes in similar view, and quote prices for new crop, shipment during the last half of August, that range considerably below the opening figures on last year's crop.

The New York Daily Bulletin says : During the past few days the sale of off-stalk raisins aggregates about 4,000 boxes, and for the past two weeks the distribution, it is believed, foots up a total of fully ten thousand boxes. Interior dealers are buying, and this prompts the local trade to increase their interest, while the larger holders of the goods also appear anxious to increase their stocks. The latter for two days past, have been free to bid 7½c. for quantities, but confidence it seems, is again restored, and the lowest quotation for desirable brands is placed at 7⅝c. while some in the trade are not open to bids below 7¾c. The market has certainly a healthier appearance, and the belief is now expressed that the lowest point for the season has been touched. Layers are quiet but the limited stock of this class of fruit remaining causes a feeling of indifference among this class of holders ; the range of the market is firmly maintained at 9½ to 9¾c.

NUTS.

An improved demand has been set in motion by the approach of the summer recreations. The business which retailers and other vendors expect to do during the Carnival has increased buying. The prices reported last week are yet unchanged.

RICE AND SPICES.

There is no change in the local market. A very good trade is done.

In a recent review of the London market, the Grocer says : "The importations of pearl sago have been treble those in 1889, whilst the clearances have shrunken to 870 tons, against 1,145 tons, and, with a surplus stock still in reserve, quotations remain about on a parity with those noted a year ago.

MARKETS—Continued.

Sago flour presents an excessive stock, being in fact nearly double that in 1889, and can be had at the attenuated figures of 7s. 6d. to 9s. in comparison with 10s. 6d. to 13s. per cwt. last season. Arrowroot has been delivered for home use more extensively than in the five months of last year, and there is not such a glut in the stock now as there was at that period, although to the importer and producer, the price of the leading sort—St. Vincent—is as poor as ever. The curtailed shipments of flake tapioca to this side have enabled the cumbersome stocks once held to be gradually worked off but no improvement has occurred in price. The quantity of pearl tapioca in stock is also a deal lighter, being only 970 tons, against 1,540 tons, with the market rates but partially altered; and tapioca flour, exhibiting an ample supply, is shillings per cwt. easier to purchase than it was about the middle of 1889."

SUGAR.

Trade has been dull. The retailers are for the moment supplied. The instability of the price of yellows has been demonstrated since last week, by the fall to 5⅝c. of the lowest quality. Yellows are easy at this price. Our market has followed that of New York in the case of white more sluggishly than in the prices of yellow. New York whites have yielded ½c. since our last report, while our whites have so far gone down ⅛c. Refiners here say our advance was not in the same proportion as that in New York. The decline has curtailed the demand to some extent. Whites, therefore, hold at 7 to 7⅛c. Raws are 5¼ to 5½c. for dark Porto Ricos.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Syrups are quiet and unchanged. Molasses easy, with a larger supply; ordinary Porto Rico is offering in hogsheads at 32c.

TEAS.

The tea trade has been quiet. Common to medium Japans are in demand, but hard to get. In low grade Young Hysons and Blacks there is a small business doing. There is an increased supply of new season's Japans coming to hand, but prices are high and quality indifferent. Owing to the heavy rains the leaf is very coarse. A few samples of new makes of blacks are being shown. Prices are about the same as a year ago. Indian and Ceylon teas are very quiet. In London prices are steadily improving for all teas with any quality, medium to fine Pekoes showing a marked advance. The first Calcutta auctions passed off with great spirit at high prices, and good quality is reported. All grades of Ceylons are again dearer.

A report received in London from Mr. Consul Gardner, of Hankow, states, with regard to exports, that the increase in the value of tea exported from that district has been entirely to Russia, but Mr. Gardner does not think the increase will be maintained. He is informed that the stocks in Russia are excessive, and that the Russian markets are beginning to be supplied by India and Ceylon. Except with regard to the consumption in Siberia, he does not believe that Hankow will be able to compete with India and Ceylon in the production of tea. He mentions some of the advantages which the producers of tea in India and Ceylon have over-growers in the Hankow region, viz: (1) Easier command of capital; (2) better communication and mode of transport; (3) greater scientific information; (4) more accurate knowledge of the taste and wants of the consumers; (5) freedom from export duty and from octroi levies.

MARKETS—Continued.

PETROLEUM.

This week's trade is without distinguishing features. It has been quiet and steady. Carbon and Canadian have eased slightly in prices.

DRUGS AND CHEMICALS.

The summer ailments that usually give tone to the trade in drugs, etc., have not yet set in. The coming of the fruit season is looked for to aid the demand. Prices are unchanged.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

What remnant of the old tub stock is still on this market is held at 5 to 7c. This price is made rather by the rule of what has been than by what is. It was paid for a great portion of what was put off the market last week, and is asked but not offered. The diminished quantity is expected to handle without any reduction having to be made on these figures. The hot weather and the dearness of ice make storage expensive, and if the quantity were larger, these circumstances would weaken the tenacity of holders. New dairy tub gets more abundant as the hot weather makes large rolls impossible. These new tubs go at 12½ to 15c. There is not a large quantity of them offering, and prices are firm, as the quality of the butter is good. Dairy pound rolls are 16 to 18c., and are scarce. The demand being now thrown on pound rolls and new tubs, neither of which are particularly plentiful, and the clearing of the market of the old butter make prices firm. Creamery tub is arriving in liberal receipt, and sells at 16 to 18c. Creamery rolls are 18 to 20c., the easier prices being a consequence of a slight check in the outside market and an increased production. All classes of butter, made from grass-fed cows, is improved in quality. For immediate consumption the butter now on the market may be pronounced very good, and ahead of last year's supply at the same season.

Cheese is in fair demand and in supply to answer any call. The old is now about completely off the market. New spring cheese is fairly firm at 9½c.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

BEANS—The relation between the supply and the demand, and the comparative relation of both to an earlier season are but slightly changed from what they were last week. Prices are firm at $1.60 to $1.70. The sales are in small lots, the quantity on hand, and the character of the demand at this season both ruling for small deliveries.

DRIED APPLES—Stock continues to shrink into smaller proportions. The demand is not very strong but it is ample to maintain prices.

EVAPORATED APPLES—Are getting very scarce and will soon be off the market. Enquiries are increasing and prices strengthening with the decline in quantity. Old stock is worth 9 to 9½c. and new is 12 to 12½c.

EGGS—Buyers report the market to be inadequately supplied. There is call for all that can be got now at 13c. and the price is very firm. There may be accumulations here and there that speculators are gathering for the American market, but the trade here find not very many moving.

HAY—No. 1 is $10.50 to $11, pressed on track. The state of the demand might justify better prices, were it not that dealers bought and stocked freely at the low prices current in late winter and early spring.

HIDES — Cured are making rapid and strong headway. They now sell at 6¼c., and this price is not met by an active supply. Green are unchanged. Steers are 7c. for No. 1, 6c. for No. 2, 5c. for No. 3. Cows are 1c. lower for each class.

HONEY—The excellent prospect which every week unfolds for the new crop is very unfavorable for business in the residue of the old. The mild winter enabled beekeepers to carry their live stock very safely over the idle part of the year, while the abundance of rain and the absence of frost have favored an abundance of bloom. Further, the incoming of the berry season withdraws the demand from honey. These facts are making holders uneasy, and the prices of clear have accordingly been brought between 9 and 12c. The quantity of comb is but small, and prices are firm at 14 to 18c.

HOPS—Yearlings are 8 to 12c., and the '89 hops are 12 to 16c. Consumption goes on actively, but the full stock works against any improvement in prices.

OATS—Are in good demand and but fair supply at 41½c.

POTATOES—The situation grows problematic. The quantity offering indicates a smaller stock than appeared a week ago. And buyers, yet timid, are confining their purchases to lots of a hundred bags, and thereabout, in preference to car-lots. The car-lots are firm again at 55c., while the broken lots are 57c. Out of store potatoes are 70c. The supply of new Southern potatoes is expected to mend or spoil the market, but these have only begun to reach us at $4 per barrel, and their effect cannot therefore be felt.

POULTRY—The arrival of Spring chickens and ducks reopens the poultry market. Chickens are 50 to 75c. per pair, and ducks are 70 to 90c. a pair. The former are in fair supply, and the latter are scarce. The market is good for more than the present rate of receipts in either line.

SKINS—Pelts are 20 to 25c. They are yet few. Lambskins are 40 to 45c. These are also in low supply. No 1 calf is 8c. and No. 2 is 6c.

STRAW—Is $5 to $5.50. Farmers' loads still take up a good part of the demand, which is therefore weakening for tight pressed.

TALLOW—Is 2c for rough, and 5¼c. for rendered.

WOOL—Fleeces are 20c. and clothing fleeces are 22c. The quantity marketed is increasing. Pulled is 20c. for ordinary, 23½c. for super, and 28c. for extra-super. The coming in of the new growth is rapid and strong enough to weaken prices.

FISH.

Fish have not begun to pick up yet since the rough weather. The scarcity of trout is an embarrassing feature of the market. Orders for trout cannot be filled up to the full volume of the demand, because the wholesale trade cannot get the stock. Last week a Toronto wholesale man received a shipment in response to an order for trout, and in the whole lot there were but four trout, the balance being made up of white fish. A fine supply of British Columbia salmon have arrived averaging from 20 to 24 pounds each. The prices have eased down to 14c., owing to the higher prices checking the consumption and the arrival of the Restigouche salmon making it yield. The first lot of black bass have arrived which is small. The demand is fair. Pickerel seems to have no call in this section of the country. The prices are: Trout and white fish 5½ to 6c.; British Columbia salmon 14c.; lake herring, $2 to $2,50; pickeral, 4 to 4½c.; New Brunswick salmon, 15c.; Sarnia herring, $2 to $2.50; black bass, 7 to 8c.

GREEN FRUIT.

All oranges and lemons are now being repacked, arrivals in original cases being in bad condition and wasty. The price of Valencias (420's) repacked, is $11. The market is very well stocked, Messina oranges in 200's are $6, repacked. Rodi, re-packed, are $6.50. The latter are in the best condition. All oranges at this season, every year, need picking over, and this summer the proportion of wasty stock is lower than it has been for years. In the case of lemons, there is greater loss on some shipments. Three hundreds are $4 to $4.50, and 360's are at the same price. There is a better demand for lemons' a consequence of warmer weather. That in fact mends the demand for all green fruit. The Carnival demand is a ruling special circumstance in the local market. Bananas are $1.25 to $1.75, and are plentiful and good. Callifornia small fruits are selling well. Peaches are $3.50, and apricots the same price. Cherries are $1.50 per basket. They are very scarce, and the stock on the market is now chiefly Canadian. Strawberries are 10 to 11c. Tomatoes are coming in by the car load, and cost retailers $2.50 in large crates.

The lemons which arrived in Montreal per steamers Sicilian and Avlona, and sold there during the first part of last month, are beginning to show signs of frost. The fruit was of exceptionally fine quality, November cut Messina, but the vessels arrived off the mouth of the St. Lawrence earlier than was anticipated, and being hemmed in with ice for some days, their cargoes became touched with frost. The goods were disposed off to all Canadian and western markets, and many buyers now find themselves with a prospective heavy loss upon the stock unsold. One Chicago house is understood to have several thousand boxes in cold storage awaiting a profitable sale, while in Montreal 7,500 boxes are said to yet remain, part of which are in ice-houses.

PROVISIONS.

The trade in cured meats has been very good. The strong tide of consumption that is begun by the opening of the camping season is now running. At the different points at which the militia is now stationed for drill a large quantity is consumed. The large quantities laid in by hotels and boarding houses against the Carnival demand have also told strongly on trade. The hog arrivals are falling off and buyers are thankful, as the hot weather makes handling a slippery matter, and makes curing risky.

BACON—Long clear is 8½ to 9c. Bellies are 12 to 12 1-2c. Backs are 11 to 11 1-2c. Spiced rolls is 9 1-2c.

DRESSED HOGS—Are $6.

HAMS—Sweet pickled are 11 to 11 1-2c. Smoked are 12 to 12 1-2c.

LARD—In 20 lb. pails is 10c., and in 50 lb. tubs is 9 1-2c.

MESS PORK—Heavy is $16.50. Family is $17.

SALT.

The sale this week was larger than was expected. There is no change in last week's prices. They stand according to the following report of sales from the Toronto Salt Works: 1 car bbl. salt $1.38; 2 cars dairy $1.18; 3 cars sacks 68c. Job lots sell at $1.45 for bbls.; 80 to 85c. for sacks, 45c. for ¼ sacks.

DRY GOODS.

The wary attitude of the retail trade has not yet given way to one of confidence. Since last November buying has been cautious and within sight always of a safe demand. The spring trade and the summer trade so far have been mostly limited to the immediate requirements of stock, and buyers would sooner remain bare in some lines than run the risk of carrying a few dollars' worth. Travellers report orders, but they are mostly small. The crops are not yet harvested, and the mischances that may cause them to be a failure are considered by dealers in their purchases. The year between crops seems likely to be throughout a very quiet one for the dry goods trade.

MONTREAL

MONTREAL MARKETS.

JUNE 26, 1890.

As a general rule June is the month of a rich harvest to those who have sugar, and all kinds of canned goods to sell, but this year has proved an exception with the majority of wholesalers. Little or nothing has been done on a whole the past week. The great scarcity of money, together with the uncertainty of the seasons crops and the experience gained by overstocking has led the retailers to buy very conservatively, and they will not buy under any consideration till there is a market for the goods. In Quebec the crops are in fine condition. The continued wet weather owing to the high lands has had no damaging effects.

SUGAR.

The sugar market has again weakened nce last report. In New York the market is ¼c. lower and very weak. Quotations now are: Granulated 7 to 7⅛; Yellows 5¾ to 6¼.

MOLASSES.

There has been no change in molasses, the market at Barbadoes is still quoted at 16c, which is 35 to 36c here. The market here is strong and good lots are being sold.

DRIED FRUIT.

This market is pretty well bare of dried fruit, particularly prunes, which are quoted at 8½ to 8¾c. Other quotations are unchanged. Currants 6¼ to 6¾c. Valencia and Eleme raisins are also of small compass and sell at 8¼ to 8½c.

COFFEE.

We note a stiffer market for coffee at former prices. Following shows stocks of Brazil in New York:—

	1889.	1890.
Stocks in New York	227,000	141,000
Visible supply . .	619,974	413,746
Receipts to June 16th	4121,000	2317,000

TEAS.

New teas have been going very slowly on this market. Prices are considerably higher than last year, and the quality is not as good. Buyers are also holding off for lower grades.

CANNED GOODS.

Very little can be said of canned goods except that the market is clear. In fruit there is no investment. Peas, corn and tomatoes are moving fairly well at $1 to $1.25 for the first two named and $1.25 to $1.35 for the latter. Lobsters $7.25 to $7.50. Mackerel $5.75 to $6. Salmon, which will be late to reach this market is quoted at $1.35 to arrive. There has been considerable check on the sale of new salmon, owing to the large amount of old still on the market.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

GRAIN—There is no change in the market. A fair amount of business is doing for report. We quote as follows:—Wheat, No. 1 hard Manitoba, $1.22 to $1.23, No. 2, $1.20 to $1.21; peas, per 66 pounds, in store, 00 to 77c½.; peas, afloat, May delivery, 00 to 70c.; Quebec oats, 00 to 00c.; Ontario oats, 41 to 42c.; corn, duty paid, 50 to 51½c; corn, cargoes in bond, 41 to 43c.; barley, feeding, 00 to 40c.; barley, good malting, 00 to 52c.

FLOUR—No sales took place on 'Change to-day. Values are unaltered. We quote:—Patent winter, $5.25 to $5.50; patent spring, $5.75 to $5.90; straight roller, $5.00 to $5.15; extra, $4.70; to $4.80 superfine, $4.25 to $4.50; fine, $3.50 to $4.00; city strong bakers, $0.00 to $5.50; strong bakers, $0.00 to $5.50; superfine, bags, $2.00 to $2.01; extra, bags, $2.20 to $2.30; fine, bags, $1.50 to $1.90; oatmeal, standard, per bag $2.15 to $2.25; oatmeal, granulated, $2.30 to $2.50; oatmeal, rolled, $2.30 to $2.50.

EGGS.

We quote at 12 to 12½c.

GREEN FRUIT.

The receipts of strawberries this week were very large indeed, and they sold at 10c. per box. Two carloads which should have come through were left at Trenton, so there was to have been a regular berry glut. Following are the quotations :—Oranges, in cases, repacked, $10; lemons, $2 to $4, in boxes; pineapples, 10 to 25c. according to size and condition; bananas, $1 to $1.75 per bunch; Egyptian onions, 4c. per pound; Bermudas, $3.50 per case.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

CHEESE.—There is no signs of activity on this market and there appears to be a very marked difference of opinion between buyers and sellers as to the value of goods. The prevailing idea seems to be that 8⅝c. is about the basis upon which business can be done.

BUTTER.—Dull and unchanged. We quote to-day as follows :—Creamery, 18 to 18½c. ; Townships, 14c. to 17c.; Western, 14 to 15c.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Last week a representative of one of our large grocery houses in writing to his house said: "Kindly send me an order book, I might want to use it." This is a good illustration of how quiet trade at the present time is.

CONVICTED FOR A SECOND OFFENCE.

Grocer Thomas H. Noble was assessed $50 and costs on a second charge of selling liquor without a license at his store on Queen street west. When the five charges were first laid before Sub-Magistrate Baxter the Crown counsel offered to drop four cases if the defendant would plead guilty to one charge. This offer was refused. At the Police Court on Tuesday a customer deposed that she purchased bottled ale from the defendant, and was under the impression that he had a license to sell spirituous liquors. Among the wares set forth on the grocer's invoices were wines and liquors. Counsel for the defence endeavoured to prove that the agency carried on by Noble did not render him liable to the provisions of the liquor law, but the court ruled against him.

We hope our friends who attend the Carnival next week will remember our whereabouts, and try to snatch from the pleasures of sight-seeing a few minutes of their time in the city to give us a call. We have many personal friends among our readers, and we should be glad to know more of them.

Mr. Lyons, of London, had an interview with Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, on Tuesday, with regard to the duty on packages. Mr. Lyons states that while he pays duty on the value of a barrel at $1, in Toronto the value was placed at 50 cents ; at Hamilton the barrel was appraised as of no value at all, while in other ports the value varies from 02 to 35 cents. The Minister says if it can be shown that the barrels upon which these different values are placed are of precisely the same character the alleged discrepancy will promptly be rectified.

We are pleased to learn from a letter received by Mr. Robert H. Lawder, that Mr. Trostorff, of the firm of Messrs. Langen & Hundhausen, Grevenbroith, Prussia, celebrated manufacturers of sugar-house machinery, will visit Toronto at an early date, for the purpose of enquiring into the adaptability of the soil and climate of this Province for the cultivation of sugar beets. He will meet the promoters of the Ontario beet-sugar enterprise, and furnish them with all necessary information as to size and description of the buildings required for sugar factories, and the cost of the latest and most approved machinery for works of various capacities.—Canadian Manufacturer.

In a circular to the local trade, Mr. R. K. Brace, family grocer, Charlottetown, P.E.I., prints the following directions (Lynch's), for the use of dairy women who have the air-pipe rotary churn :

1st. Clanse the Churn with hot and cold water, (use no cloths).

2nd. Insert the Tin Air Pipe and fill the Churn one inch below the same.

3rd. Be sure the cream is the right temperature, 62 to 65 degrees.

4th. Don't mix new cream with old, should be a little ripened.

5th. Churn till the butter comes the size of Peas and Beans, (no longer).

6th. Strain off the buttermilk with the Strainer.

7th. Remove the cover and pour in a pail of water, rock the churn three or four times and strain off as before.

8th. Do this until the water comes off as clean as it is put in.

9th. Remove Strainer and Air Pipe ; sprinkle one ounce of salt to the pound of butter, put on cover, turn the Churn two or three times and you will find the butter in a few large lumps ready to take out and work the salt in.

10th. Dip the Strainer and Air Pipe in scalding hot water, then hang up to dry. In this way they will not rust.

11th. Always leave cover off Churn to air it.

A WAREHOUSE RECEIPT CASE

Mr. Justice Falconbridge at the Civil Assize Court tried the action of W. T. Costigan & Co. v. H. S. Moore. Maclaren, Q.C., for plaintiffs ; G. T. Blackstock, Q. C. for defendant. The plaintiffs, who are Montreal commission merchants, brought action to recover $1,000 against the defendant, who is a warehouseman carrying on a business in the village of Norwich. The plaintiffs alleged that on Jan. 3, 1889, they received a warehouse receipt from a merchant named Donald doing business at Norwich, signed by the defendant, and calling for 170 boxes of evaporated apples, valued at about $600. The plaintiff further alleges that upon this receipt, believing that the apples were really in store and under the control of the defendant, he advanced $600 to his customer Donald, who afterwards failed, and fled the country without paying his indebtedness of $600, but leaving the warehouse receipt as security. It would appear that when the plaintiffs presented their receipt, expecting to obtain the goods, they found that they were not in store, and in consequence brought suit to recover.

The defence set up was that for some time previous to the making of the warehouse receipt in question the plaintiffs and their customer Donald had been dealing in apples. From time to time Donald would ship a carload of apples to the plaintiffs, and make a draft upon them the day of shipment. Upon this occasion, however, Donald found himself in need of money, but having less than half a car of apples to ship he went to the defendant, placed them in store and obtained a receipt, which was attached to a draft for $600 and forwarded to the plaintiffs, who accepted the draft and subsequently paid the money for it. The defendant claims that on January 26 last the apples were taken out of store and together with another lot shipped to the plaintiffs. Donald, it would appear, invoiced the entire lot of goods at the time, but credited the plaintiffs with the $600, and only drew upon them for the balance.

The jury returned a sealed verdict.

Mr. A. De'Ath, a merchant in Kobe, Japan, last week paid his first visit to Canada since twenty-three years ago. For some years he had a trade with Canada, but eventually a misunderstanding arose with the Custom house authorities in this wise : He had been sending goods here, and the authorities at Ottawa came to the conclusion that, in sending his invoices he was estimating his goods at less than market value, and consequently put on an extra charge. Mr. De'Ath went to Ottawa last week and had an extended interview with Mr. Bowell. He says he convinced the authorities that he was placing his goods at market value, and that the appraisers who judged otherwise were entirely ignorant of the circumstances connected with the manufacture of goods in Japan. As a result of a courteous interview an understanding was arrived at, and he was promised that in the future there would be no future trouble, and also that a return would be made him for the extra moneys paid.

SILVER STAR STOVE PASTE.

The following is the universal verdict of all who have used or sold it:

HAMILTON, APRIL 25th, 1890.

Messrs. F. F. DALLEY & Co.,

GENTLEMEN:—In thus ordering a fresh supply of your SILVER STAR STOVE PASTE we cannot but express our appreciation of the goods and congratulate you on having been able to place on the market an article so superior in every respect to anything we have heretofore been able to get.

As we use it on the stoves in the wareroom, we know personally its good qualities—no dust, a quick polish, always ready and the work is done in the time it would take to prepare the Dome or other hard stove polishes, and one of the best features about it is that it is so clean to handle.

If a man sells us an inferior article we don't forget to tell him about it, and on the same principle when a firm gives us an Extra good one we believe in letting them know that we appreciate it.

We remain,
Respectfully yours,
J. WALLACE & SON.

TO THE WHOLESALE GROCERS & DRUGGISTS OF THE DOMINION OF CANADA.

We take pleasure in announcing that our New Mills are now completed, and we are prepared to fill orders for goods. The capacity of our New Mills is from 250 to 300 barrels per day.

Our specialties, such as DESSICATED WHEAT, DESICCATED ROLLED OATS, ROLLED WHEAT FLAKES, BREAKFAST HOMINY, &c., are improved and put up in handsomely lithographed cartoons. Our GLUTEN FLOUR for Diabetes, BARAVENA MILK FOOD for infants, PREPARED BARLEY, GROATS, PEA FLOUR, &c., are the very choicest, and guaranteed fresh, clean and attractive, healthy, palatable, and nutritious.

We are also manufacturing GRANULATED, STANDARD, & ROLLED OATMEALS, WHEATLETS, SPLIT PEAS, &c., BAKERS' SPECIALTIES, such as GRAHAM FLOUR, RYE FLOUR, WHITE CORN FLOUR, WHOLE WHEAT FLOUR, &c., which are very choice.

BEST SOAP

Which has a world-wide reputation of being the best lard soap made; noted for its PURITY and QUALITY. Hundreds of Soap Manufacturers have tried for years to imitate and discover the process by which it is made—but all have met with signal failure. No soap ever made has the same Washing Powers. Millions of families, mechanics, railroad engineers, railroad men will attest to this fact.

IT SAVES LABOR, TIME AND CLOTHING.

As the hands do not come in contact with the water, chapped, scalded and sore hands are avoided. The mop being wrung at arms length there is no stooping or straining of the back or shoulders. The hands are not soiled or disfigured by the wringing of a filthy, greasy cloth. As the clothing is not drenched or disfigured as in ordinary mopping no special preparation is required.

THE LOBSTER TRADE.

In yesterday's Bulletin reference was made to the fact that the catch of lobster on the Eastern shore of Prince Edward Island has been remarkably good this season. Reports from the Northern shore are just the reverse, however, the late storms, it is claimed, having seriously interfered with operations there. Upon the whole, it would appear that the season's supply will be less than that of last year, however, owing to a variety of unfavorable circumstances experienced, and cheap lobster is, in the opinion of competent judges, no more promising at the present time than it was a month ago. Tall tins, as a matter of fact, cannot be purchased in the primary markets at prices that were accepted early in the month. Within a few weeks a good article was sold at $1 70 per dozen here and in Boston to home and export buyers. Now, $1 80 is considered strictly inside value, and $1 75 can be obtained without the slightest difficulty.—N. Y. Daily Commercial Bulletin, 24th June.

Advices from the north shore counties show that the restrictions imposed in late years on the slaughter of lobsters are producing good results. Lobsters are plentiful this year of good size. The price is good, and the business is carried on this year more profitably than for many seasons.—Empire's Despatch, St. John, N. B., 26th June.

"The lobster fisheries on the east side of Prince Edward Island are affording a bountiful crop this spring, the various factories catching from 15,000 to 19,000 daily. The size is said to be larger than last year."—A Montreal paper.

The packing of lobsters on the Maine coast is progressing slowly but perhaps surely, the quantity will be very small for the reason that there are but few lobsters. Where they have gone, or what has caused the scarcity on the Maine coast must be left to the Fish Commissioner, who professes to know all about it, and the packers who make equal pretensions to determine. Whatever may be the cause, all agree upon the fact that lobsters are not as plenty as they used to be. It is well known, probably, to your readers, that the most of the Maine lobster packers do their packing in the Provinces, using, of course, their Maine labels for the purpose, as the packers are mostly known as Maine packers, they in fact being residents of Maine, and doing their general business in this State. The consumption of lobsters in the United States is estimated to be about five times the pack of Maine, so that Maine could not, as formerly, supply the States.—Wacamo in Baltimore Trade.

The foregoing irreconcilable reports come from leading observatories of the prospect. The two classes of reports agree in one respect, and that is in the opinion that there will not be simply an average stock of raw material for canners to work upon. They predict stringency or liberality in the supply. The very thing not contemplated may happen, there may be simply a good average catch. One thing is clear, whichever of the three probabilities may become the fact, and that is that the market to-day is ruled more by the chances of a deficit than by the chances of a fair average or of an unusually abundant stock. Prices are taking shape in accordance with the view that there will be a short supply. This fact, rather than the above forecasts is what we wish to deal with.

In the first place, the market is now virtually bare of goods of the '89 pack. Dealers are anxious to re-stock in time for the demand which is always strong from mid-summer till mid-autumn. The bareness of the market, and the importance of the trade now maturing, would make a favorable opening for the inauguration of high prices, and thus present the temptation to packers to trade on the report of a theoretic supply. That is an eventuality to be thought of quite as much as the alternative eventuality of progressive prices. Perhaps it is even more important for the dealer to bethink himself of the former possibility and be ruled by it, trusting to be able to buy for fair prices when the demand is at its best. If he should buy at high prices now and find the market become weaker in a short time, he would be in a bad position. But such a risk has to be faced by business men in many lines of stock. For the running of the risk in the present case there is less necessity than in most other problematical situations. Why? Because there is an abundance of salmon on hand which is now selling at easy prices, and which is a much more popular edible than is lobster. The salmon trade comes to the relief of the dealer at an important juncture for both his and its interests. For him it will provide a substitute for the trade in lobsters, which at the outset of its season is hard to calculate upon; for the salmon trade, the dealer by his concentrated attention, will do this service he will help to clear the market for the year's trade which the coming pack will start.

The situation of the lobster trade, whatever it is, need not be a cause of misgiving, we apprehend. There never is a surplus, and consequently prices never greatly descend. The consumption, even in past years, has taken off all that was produced, without any urging from easy prices. If prices have to be stiff, it is likely the output will be absorbed, as the consumers who take to it always come up to the prices. But the general body of consumers will not voluntarily pay 25c. a tin for lobsters while the finest salmon is to be had at 15c. a tin. It is therefore wiser for the trade to run off the old salmon, and then trust consumption to take off all the new lobster in the regular course of trade. If prices ease in the meantime, so much the better.

THE TORONTO GROCERS WILL PIC-NIC.

The Association committee to which was deferred the determination of how the city retail grocers should disport themselves this year, has decided in favor of a pic-nic. An excursion was proposed, a big field day was suggested, but the vote was quite unanimous in favor of a pic-nic, in which enjoyment rather than excitement or effect should be secured. This is right. What the grocers and their assistants want is a holiday. In the tranquil enjoyment of a summer afternoon with liberal choice of pastimes, the grocers should find a cordial and a tonic instead of the debilitating dregs of worry. The latter is what usually remains after a day spent in trying to fit to the occasion a plan that is cut out in an ambitious programme. Such labor is not pleasure; it is a weariness to the flesh, of which a goodly number of tons ornaments the Toronto grocery trade. Why should it be afflicted with the cares of an Olympian field, when the zephyrs are at rest, when the temperature stands at 90 Fahrenheit in the shade, and the managers stand 210 avoirdupois for hours out of the shade? The committee wisely decreed that this thing should not be. A pleasant pic-nic is the diversion prescribed. It is to be held on the 30th of July, on the Exhibition grounds. The lines of last year's pic-nic will be followed in many details, with the avoidance of the laborious service which that successful occasion exacted from all who had any responsibility in getting it up. The Association is not going to overstrain itself in the pursuit of pleasure. It seeks nepenthe from the cares of business, and is determined not to let its pulse get high in the search. That is as it should be, and we hope the Association pic-nic will have fine weather, a large assemblage of the trade, and all the other auspicious circumstances that are needed to second the energy of the committee.

A MISSIONARY ASSOCIATION.

The Retail Grocers' Association in this city is of great service to local trade. That is not gainsaid by any one. But what is taken less note of, is the influence which is diffused in every direction from that body as a centre, and which inoculates the trade of distant towns with the essence of progress and reform. How much of the improvement in the trade of outside towns has got its inception from the Toronto body? Its influence has not been aggressively propagated, but has made its way by the sheer force of its excellence. It has received the highest flattery, that of imitation. Such a body should have from its members the most conscientious, the most punctilious attention. Its meetings should never be neglected. The wide sweep of its influence should be kept ever expanding, and this cannot be done by the generous activity of two or three men. Yeoman's service counts for as much as the veteran's when it performs the same work. Every new man, every member not in office, should labor with hearty will to extend the usefulness and confirm the stability of an Association that has achieved so much.

What has it achieved? The record is a long one, and is moreover filled with victories that involved labor and tenacity, as well as the persistent but quiet progress of a public opinion that had to be and was cultivated. What has become of the wholesale trade with consumers? It has been dissipated with as little disturbance as a mist is cleared away by the risen sun. There the undemonstrative but telling influence of the Association did a great thing for trade. Is the tobacco trade now a persecuted and plundered trade? Are men who inadvertently transgress the excise rules, now heavily fined? No. A concession, wrung from the Inland Revenue Department by the Association, has practically put an end to such arbitrary proceedings. Are Christmas presents now given by the trade, that custom which was the source of an immense annual loss, or the cover for perennial fraud? That custom is an obselete one, and its doom was decreed by the Association. The same is true of the bad debt nuisance. The Association's delinquent list drew the lines about that impoverishing plague of trade. The unequal competition which the trade had to wage against the pedlars was righted, and at the immediate suggestion of the Association and upon the plan laid down by its Secretary. These are some of the benefits which have come to the Toronto grocery trade through the Association. There are many more of which the details need not be entered upon.

A body which has gone so far along the highway of progress becomes an object of interest to traders in outside places. These signify their interest by inquiry for details that may unfold the secret of the Toronto body's success. These details have been freely given, and it is well that they should be, and the imparting of them has been instrumental in starting other organizations. The more the Toronto body thinks of itself as a nucleus about which the provincial traders may finally organize the more will it gain in prestige and real usefulness.

The Secretary of the Toronto Association went to Peterboro' the other day, upon the invitation of the local trade, and helped to set moving in its orbit a retail grocers' Association in that town. We hope this is but the beginning of the Toronto body's identification with the movement for the unification of the Ontario grocery trade. It is in a position to do great service to the cause of commerce, if it but accept its missionary call. Let it be known that its officers will, on the payment of expenses, be ready to aid in the formation of local bodies, and local tradesmen will not be slow to signify their desire to form. The Toronto body should hand on the light.

A CIGAR FRAUD.

Inland Revenue of ficials have unearthed a fraud that has for some time been quietly working off domestic cigars as imported ones, and that by the use of customs stamps pasted over excise stamps. The discovery was made by a Montreal cigar traveller at St. Catharines, who reported the matter to the customs officer there, Mr. J. McClive. Mr. McClive at once seized at the store of J. C. Harris 38 packages of cigars bearing the double stamps. Collector Stratton of this city was notified by the executive of his department upon the receipt of Mr. McClive's report, to proceed to St. Catharines and possess himself of all the facts of the case. This he did, and reported to Ottawa. The Toronto collector's report states that the cigars were all originally manufactured by Alvarez of Toronto, but that it appeared that Nerlich & Co., a Toronto wholesale firm, before selling them put customs stamps and the customary caution notice carefully over the excise stamps in such a manner as to conceal the latter, the branding on the bottom of the box only remaining uncovered. Mr. Stratton also reported to the department that Nerlich & Co., through Mr. Doherty, had acknowledged their having done "the surplus and discreditable stamping." In answer to an enquiry of Mr. Stratton, Acting Customs Collector Douglas stated that the custom stamps had got into the possession of the firm in question through one of the customs officers giving 100 stamps too many, and that Mr. Doherty had not returned them.

The St. Catharines seizure was referred to in our news columns of last week, but the details had not been disclosed, as further seizures were in prospect. One of these, a small one, was in Bollard's cigar store, Yonge st., Toronto, last week. The boxes were stamped doubly, as the St. Catharines goods were, the upper being a Customs stamp, conveying the impression that the cigars were imported. They were also made by the same Toronto maker, which the marks on the bottom of the box clearly showed. The manufacturer had complied with the law and purchased the requisite stamps from the Inland Revenue Department, which were placed on the boxes. From his own statement it appears that he sold the cigars to Nerlich & Co. The customs stamp on one of the boxes bears the number 40,580, and the register at the custom house shows Nerlich & Co. got the stamp from the department.

Other seizures were made of goods kept in retail stocks, and at the wholesale warehouse of M. McConnell, 45 Colborne street. There were 32 boxes containing 25 and four boxes containing 100 cigars seized at this warehouse. The same reason was given for seizure—customs labels on boxes containing Canadian made cigars which previously bore only inland revenue labels. The cigars all came from the manufacturer through the same wholesale establishment.

Neither the manufacturer nor any of the retailers or jobbers whose stock was seized appear to be to blame. The blame has been traced to the door of Nerlich & Co. The Customs officials are gravely to blame for making it possible for that firm to get the stamps. The invoices upon which the firm got the stamps afterwards placed on the seized boxes, and the papers in the case have been sent to Ottawa for the inspection of the authorities there.

The clause of the Inland Revenue Act under which the cigars have been seized, reads as follows :

325. Every manufacturer or other person who puts tobacco or cigars into any such box, bag, vessel, wrapper or envelope, the same having been either emptied or partially emptied, or who has in his possession or sells or offers for sale any box or other package of tobacco or cigars having affixed thereto any fraudulent, spurious imitation or counterfeit stamp, or any stamp that has been previously used, or sells from any such fraudulently stamped box or package as aforesaid, knowing the same to be fraudulently stamped. * * * is guilty of a misdemeanor, and for the first offence shall incur a penalty not exceeding $500 and not less than $100, and in addition to such penalties shall be liable to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months ; and all articles subject to excise on the premises at the time such packages are discovered shall be forfeited to the crown, and shall be seized by any officer of Inland Revenue and dealt with accordingly.

The Customs authorities are tracing the people in their employ, who, to say the least, have been guilty of gross carelessness in allowing any man to get labels and take them out of the warehouse without attaching them there in the presence of officials.

DISREPUTABLE JOURNALISM.

This journal has always refrained from saying anything of a derogatory nature regarding its contemporaries. At the same time most false and malicious statements have been made in the columns and by the representatives of rival journals in this city and in Montreal. We regret that circumstances have arisen which compel us in our own interest, and in the interest of trade journalism generally, to condemn the practices of one of them. We refer to The Merchant, a semi-monthly paper, published in this city. A representative of that paper applied to the directors of a bank for permission to insert as an advertisement, at so much per line, a copy of their annual report. Learning that he could not obtain it he used threats. These had not the desired effect, and in a number issued a few days ago, he devotes three columns of space in endeavoring to show that the affairs of the bank in question are in a very unsatisfactory condition. He does not say that they will not be in a satisfactory shape until he receives an advertisement, but this the directors thoroughly understand. This is blackmail pure and simple and it is the duty of all reputable journals to condemn it. Nothing does us greater injury than such practices as these. While no paper of any standing will resort to such a plan to extort advertising, yet it is quite a common practice with "fakers." By this term we mean those people who publish special "advertising fakes" either in the form of books, calendars, guides, or lithographed hangers. Such for instance as the recent Toronto Board of Trade lithographed hanger with which many members of the Board were stuck. It was only a short time ago a representative of this journal was sitting at dinner in the Rossin House when two of these "fakers" took a seat close by him. In a most cold blooded way they laid plans to extort payment for advertising in some fake they were about to issue from two well known wholesale stationers in this city. When we find our business and our reputation injured by such men we feel confident that our readers will bear with us for expressing our opinions, which we are happy to say are the opinions of all our reputable contemporaries.

JUDGING HONEY.

Among the spurious articles that are circulating in the world of trade these days, perhaps there is none more commonly accepted as genuine than is adulterated honey. But whenever honey is condemned, it is usually upon a test that we have thought it worth our while examining into, to see if it really proves anything. The popular, long-established touchstone of pure honey was the absence of precipitate, that the "expert" called candy. This is now an exploded test. The best authorities upon the subject agree that it is. Many people not having an opportunity of such information or experience regarding the several qualities or purity of honey, are very liable to be misled by the erroneous notions and groundless suspicions of others equally uninformed. It is worth while to use means within reach to find out beyond peradventure how to be quite certain that you get pure honey, and honey of the kind you desire. The several main blooms, clover, linden, etc., yield quite distinct flavors, which persons accustomed to judging are able to readily distinguish, and there are ordinary tests by which anyone may generally, without much trouble, become satisfied of purity.

Extracted honey, of late extensively come into popular favor, is very different from what used to be called "strained honey." In former times combs and honey were mashed together and of course particles of wax and foreign substances unavoidably mixed therein. But the modern "extractor" takes the clear nectar from the moveable comb in the most perfect way, then the comb is returned empty to the hive to be again filled several times. This enables beekeepers to obtain more than double the quantity of honey which could be procured, if, when honey is flowing in the flowers, the bee had to wait to build a new comb to hold it. Now by securing large quantities and storing properly, we have both much more and very much better honey than by old methods.

The natural tendency of extracted honey is to become solid, forming smooth globules somewhat resembling nice lard. This condition is called "granulated" or "candied," but there is a very distinct difference betweeen it and the ordinary formation of candy or sugar grain, and the difference lies in this very readily discovered particular : in honey adulterated by the admixture of sugar syrups, the formation of the crystals is angular, sharp edged, diamond shaped, and the compound will grind between the teeth, whereas honey particles cannot be reduced to dry or sand-like fragments, but will always dissolve with heat, and without the addition of water. Set the vessel containing honey in a vessel containing water, and when heated pure honey will invariably return the consistency as stored by the bees. The solid particles of honey, viewed with a microscope, are distinctly round, in fact, globules readily returning to the liquid condition.

The darker grades of honey gathered from spring flowers, as dandelions and certain kinds of fruit bloom, and again the late blooms as buckwheat etc., are mostly much inferior in both color and flavor, but they will abide by the same tests as to the character of their granulation, etc. The finest varieties are mostly produced during the two months of profuse bloom.

The following is the programme as provisionally arranged for Prof. Robertson's meetings in Manitoba, the Northwest territories and British Columbia ; Winnipeg, August 13 ; Manitou, August 15 ; Glenboro', August 16 ; Brandon, August 19 ; Portage la Prairie, August 20 ; Minnedosa or some other point on the M. and N. W. railway, August 22 ; Moosomin, August 25 ; Broadway, August 26 ; Wolseley, August 27 ; Indian Head, August 28 ; Regina, August 29 and 30 ; Medicine Hat, September 2 ; Calgarry, September 3 ; Banff, September 4 ; Kamloops, B.C., September 9 ; Agassiz, Sep. 10 ; New Westminster, Sept. 11 ; Victoria, Sept. 13 ; Nanaimo, not fixed. At all these points on the dates named Prof. Robertson will lecture on dairy practice.

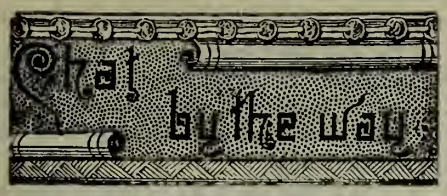
A MODEL DAIRY.

Plans are being prepared for the new dairy building in connection with the Experimental Farm system in Ottawa, and it is expected that everything will be in readiness for the commencement of winter dairying when the cold weather sets in. The main working room will be 30x18, and in this will be tested the different styles and makes of centrifugal cream separators, as well as different styles and makes of churns and other work appertaining to practical butter dairying. A series of refrigerator rooms will be provided, for demonstrating the best treatment for preserving butter in cold storage. The same rooms will be used for discovering the conditions of atmosphere and temperature under which the setting of milk will yield the best quality and largest quantity of butter, leave the skimmed milk in the best condition for feeding stock, and reduce the expense and labor involved in the separation. An ice house will be attached. The dairy will be equipped with butter-making machinery, to illustrate the most economical and serviceable way of putting up a creamery according to modern methods of improved butter making. There will be a cheese-curing room 20x20. The intention is to have quantities of cheese made at one or more of the ordinary factories in different places, and not to make it on the premises. The cheese, after being made at these factories, will be shipped to the curing room at the experimental farm, in order to determine the effect of different methods of making and treatment during the curing process. The reason for having the cheese made at other factories is to ensure similar conditions of milk temperature, etc., to those with which the ordinary cheese maker has to do in his business. In that way it is expected the conclusions will be more useful and acceptable, for the benefit of the average cheesemaker, than any which could be obtained in a purely experimental dairy building with a limited supply of milk. Prof. Robertson intends issuing a bulletin, giving plans and specifications for the construction of creameries and cheese factories, together with a statement of the utensils and general equipment, for the guidance of those intending to establish co-operative factories in sections where that system has not yet been introduced.

It is not proposed to conduct the dairy in such a way as to ascertain how the greatest amount of profit may be secured. That would be a hindrance to genuine experimental work. The product, however, will be used in such a way as to do the most good to the commercial interests of the dairy business in Canada. In view of the growing demand in China and Japan for dairy products which are at present supplied by European shippers, an effort will be made to introduce Canadian butter, packed in suitable tins, into those foreign markets. One advantage which Canada would have in relation to this trade is the cooler route of the C. P. R. as against the heat met with on other routes passing for a considerable distance through equatorial regions. The surplus left from these commercial experiments will be sold in such a way as to foster the market demand for fancy butter of high quality. Canada has much to hope for from the intelligent and prudent developement of her dairying capabilities, and if the lessons of these experiments be applied with the same zeal which marks the conduct of the work by Prof Robertson, no one can estimate the good results which must accrue to the people of this country.



OPPORTUNITIES FOR YOUNG MEN.

A young man asked me the other day if I thought there were as many opportunities for the bright young man of the present day as existed when his father and grandfather were young men. His mind was evidently dwelling upon the conspicuous examples of success which the generation just passing off the stage has presented. I asked him in turn if he knew of any real bright fellow that was out of a job just now—if he knew of any who had real merit that was not in demand in half a dozen different directions. I asked him further if he had reflected upon the daring and enterprise, hard work and unremitting industry in the face of discouragements that build up the establishments that are now his admiration. I asked him also if he realized that in the days of their founders these concerns which are now household words were new departures, enterprises in which the community could see no real good—no success nor usefulness. Then I asked him, as a final quesion, if he for a moment could persuade himself that the same keen insight as the future wants of the people, the same heroic devotion to a principle or line of conduct, and the same persistent energy and industry would not accomplish quite as much at the present time as ever before. He said I had given him some new ideas. For this I was thankful. The trouble is when we look back we see only the giants of the forest that have weathered all the gales. We do not realize that they are the few out of the many who were standing when the first storm came. When we look at the present we see the multitude of common place persons, who, from lack of natural endowment or from disinclination to work, will never amount to anything. We are not bright enough to single out the few who are slowly, but surely, forging ahead in the race, and who a few years hence will stand pre-eminent in the business world, just as a few names of men of a preceding generation now stand for about all that generation accomplished. For my part, I think the present time and the present condition of business in general afford quite as many opportunities to the young man of brains and energy as any other period in our history. There is no reason for holding back. If you have got a good business idea jump into the fray and strike boldly. The best man will win every time.—"Vannant," in Office.

IDEAL SUCCESS IN BUSINESS.

A very interesting question to ask our leading merchants is, to what do you attribute your success? And many and varied are the answers. Let us inquire, for instance, and ask this question, say of three of our equally successful merchants—of course excluding monopolists and patentees, We get such replies as this: My success is due to assiduous labor and executive ability, exercised to an advantage. Another: I attribute my position to wise advertising, putting myself before the public, living in a wide sphere, making my wares as good as possible, reaping my money with a general reputation, associating myself with my business. Third man: I do no advertising, it is useless; nor do I care to pose in my business; advertising is robbery. I make my money by being close, living for myself and grasping all I can. My business is my monument, and I leave it to my heirs.

These are a sample of the answers which we hear. We will suppose our first man accumulates, enjoys as he goes along and gives in proportion to his income. Then let us compare the second and third answers. What has the close man gained in making something and grasping, regardless of his surroundings? We say he is fearless, fearing God and man, pushing by shrewdness ahead. It is true he gives employment to many, though at the same time decreases wages generally by his closeness. He becomes old, we will say, and glories in his ambition and his czarism, is looked upon with awe by his employees. He has, it may be said, led a blind life up to this time, and is dead to laudation by his fellow citizens. In this condition he is to be pitied. How much, then, is a man better than a sheep, if, as Tennyson says, he nourishes a blind life within the brain? Our more liberal minded merchant who has lived in a larger sphere and is known in his business, through all his shrewdness, as one who gives consideration to all, is the ideal citizen. A man never throws away money who spends it in giving employment to those engaged in legitimate business, though the line of occupation is entirely different to the one in which he is engaged, for his ambition to gain is generally followed by liberality in giving, thus encouraging benevolent institutions and crowding out honest efforts. This man naturally receives favorable consideration from his fellow-citizens, and the republic receives him with a cheer. His equally generous competitor is obliged to say you got there and deserve what praise is due one engaged in so laudible a vocation. A contrast between leading business methods must lend confidence to our generous and openhearted merchants.— The American Merchant.

A complaint has been filed at the Customs Department that butterine is being imported into British Columbia contraty to law.

Mr. George J. McKiee, president of the Simcoe board of trade, was married to Miss Archibald, on Thursday, the 25th inst.

Mr. Charles McDonough has the contract for supplying the British Columbia penitentiary with groceries for the year beginning the first of this month.

Mr. Jas. Arnett, grocer, of East London, has sold his stock and good-will to Mr. Mansfield, lately arrived from Kansas. Mr. Mansfield will conduct the business.

J. Newson, Peepabun, was in town this week and called to renew his subscription to THE GROCER. He says he did not want to take it at first but now he would not be without it.

Frogs are caught about Kingston in quantities and shipped to New York for epicures. They are sold retail at 12½c. per lb, and weekly between 600 and 700 lbs. are shipped to the United States. The duty on frogs is 2½c. per lb., and on fish 1c. per lb. It is said that sometimes frogs are marked fish. Frogs are gathered by men who make between $7 and $8 per week.

Our representative of THE GROCER last week dropped into a store kept by a young lady, Miss L. Harley, at Newcastle, N. B., and could not help making a note of the fact that it was a well kept establishment. We do not frequently get a chance to say a word in encouragement to the lady merchants. Here is a store we wish many of our readers could see, everything is so neat, clean and attractive.

A deputation, consisting of Messrs. B. Rosamond, William Thoburn and G. Elliott, of Almonte, accompanied by Mr. Jamieson, M. P., have had an interview with the Minister of Customs, in reference to the duty on waste. They claim that cotton yarn waste should be put on the free list, but as shoddy is a manufacture of waste and is dutiable the Minister holds that cotton yarn waste similarly should pay duty.

The Toronto Pedlars' Association held its regular meeting in Richmond hall, the other evening, in the course of which twelve new members were initiated. Prosecuting Committees were appointed to keep an eye on the Markets and License Commissioner, or grocers who attempt to peddle strawberries, etc. It was decided to adopt strong protective measures. Mr. J. G. Holmes will be asked to act as solicitor to the association.

A company is being organized to establish and operate a glue factory at Mimico. There is none in this city now, and a considerable quantity of glue used here is imported paying a duty of 3c. per lb. The manufacture of glue is said to be very remunerative. Peter R. Lambe, of this city, whose place was burned sometime ago is generally understood to have retired with $200,000 to $250,000 which he made out of glue.

DOES IT PAY TO HANDLE THE BEST GOODS?

In the majority of cases we believe the above question would have to be answered in the affirmative. No matter how small the store, restricted the trade, or indigent the neighborhood, there will be at times a call for the best goods in the market, and as it is always a poor policy to let the demands of regular or even transient customers remain unsatisfied, it naturally follows that every dealer ought to keep a small supply of the finest grade of certain lines of goods. But if there is a spark of ambition in the retailer's soul, if he wishes to advance with the times instead of remaining about where he began, there is no option in the matter. He must be ready at all times to supply the demand for goods above the average quality. Extra goods are almost invariably trade winners, because the supply in most lines, owing to various reasons, is generally limited; whereas it is seldom that the lower grades ever run short, and when every dealer can fill in abundance the demand for the latter class of goods, one has no decided advantage over the other. On the other hand, the smaller supply of extra quality and the timidity of many retailers in stocking up with them gives a splendid opportunity to the sagacious dealer who makes a specialty of several lines of the best goods in market. It is not enough to claim that you sell the finest articles to be got; that plan has been literally worked to death. The public have become so habituated to the habit some dealers have of never acknowledging that they are either out of the finest goods or never had them in stock, that it takes a good deal more than the dealer's word now-a-days to effect a sale of inferior goods in the guise of extra. Success in such endeavors to deceive the public is more fatal to one's prospects than failure would be; "cutting one's own throat" is the only phrase that will describe the folly of the practice, for it invariably recoils upon those addicted to it with disastrous effect. The most successful retailer of whose career we have especial knowledge, is a dealer in a neighboring city who has been in business about fifteen years and began with about as small an equipment financially as perhaps any man who ever entered the trade. His most partial friend would hesitate to describe him as an especially bright man, his ability being of about the average. Yet that man has got together a splendid business, owns several houses and a round sum in bank, is highly respected by the community, and in fact holds an exceptionably enviable position. We have studied as well as we could, with the information at our disposal, the secret of this prosperous trader's success, and have come to the conclusion that it is to be found chiefly in the circumstances that the public can almost always depend upon getting the very best goods at his store, and that, if by one of those oversights that will occur no matter how careful the supervision of the proprietor, the finest grades run out of stock, it is an invariable rule to inform the customer of the fact, instead of attempting to deceive him by selling a little something inferior and calling it the best. The confidence of many of his customers has been won so completely that labels are superfluous and brands as though they were not. The fact that the goods have been sold to them as being of a certain grade is sufficient. In consequence of this dealer's thorough reliability in these respects, special efforts are not needed to push the business; on the contrary, it appears to be growing at a rate which is not relished by his employes, who, in spite of constant additions to their number, are compelled to work at their highest rate of speed and on several days for very long hours. Given these two essentials, viz.: the finest goods and a determination never to deceive customers regarding quality, and there is no reason why nine out of ten retailers should not meet with a success equal to that of the dealer referred to above. —Merchants' Review.

Every dealer should keep these packages in stock. Good seller. Good profit. Gives satisfaction. Order a dozen from your wholesale house to try.

OUR BUYERS AT HOME.

The following from a correspondent of the American Bookseller will be read with interest by many Canadian buyers who go to England and whose experiences are similar.

A young American friend of mine is here paying his first visit; he complains bitterly of the difficulties he experiences in seeing any of the London publishers. Boys in buttons take his card, and see whether the great man is in; usually the great man is engaged, and the American caller is requested to wait. In nine cases out of ten he does not wait; if he does, and finds that the great man has read the papers, or got rid of his chiropodist, the conversation is always of a most non-committal order; "he will think it over," "call in a day or two," etc., etc., which makes the average Yankee, or still more Chicago man, swear. One of the Chicago book men is said to have forced the consigne; he came with a big order. Small boy, as usual, took his card, and came back with his usual answer: "Engaged ; wait a few minutes." The Chicago man said : "I've come 4,000 miles to buy some of his books, and if he does not see me he may go to hell." This message procured an interview.

Mr. Kimball had a very similar experience, which he tells with considerable humor. He was prowling about after some old editions, and stumbled into a store in Holborn. He managed to see the proprietor, or rather one of the partners. "Have you a set of the 12 vol. Waverly, such and such an edition ?"

"Oh yes !"

"Well, can I see it ?"

"Wait, and I'll show it to you."

Away goes the English bibliopole, dives into a cellar, and in ten minutes emerges with a set. Kimball took them. Then he asked for a set of another standard. Again the biblipole disappeared direct into his cellar, and emerged, after the lapse of ten minutes, with a coveted set. Mr. Kimball wanted some other sets, so he said: "In place of your putting yourself to the trouble of fetching the things up stairs, let us go down, and see what you have ?"

"Go down to the cellar ! Impossible, my dear sir, quite impossible."

"Why impossible ?" said the Philadelphian. "You may have books that I want badly, although not on my list. I may take a lot of them."

"Impossible. Never heard of such a thing!"

Then he consulted his partner. "No, no; never allow any one down stairs. Utterly unherd of; quite impossible."

"Do you want to sell your books ?" asked Kimball.

"I think I do not want to sell; in fact, rather not."

Mr. Kimball's language is reported to have been unfit for the Quaker City, and more calculated for the latitude of Harrisburg.

ASSOCIATIONS OF RETAILERS ARE A SUCCESS.

Who is it that says associations of retailers are a failure ? We venture to say that of those who say this, one half are those who have been dissappointed in an effort to use the associations for their own individual and financial benefit. No others ever say such things as this. Of the latter class I met a member the other day, who, once high in authority, now grovels outside of the pale. He said : "I tell you that all retailers' associations are failures and are doomed soon to fade off the face of the earth. They don't rise to the grandeur of the occasion, and fail to improve the opportunities offered them of acquiring renown, etc., etc." Many of our readers have heard all this cant before, so it's hardly worth while to dissect it further than to say, that disappointed ambition lends a gangrene hue to everything.

This kind of man looks always through a glass of his own making—and one should not care for drivelings. Of the other class this much : If a man goes into an association expecting to draw his four per cent. interest as he does in a savings bank, that's where he makes a great mistake. In the savings bank the directors and officers work hard to produce that per cent., but in the associations all the members are directors and officers, and each individual must do his part of the work if he expects to draw a dividend.

The scriptural injunction of "Seek and ye shall find ; knock and it shall be opened unto you," is just as good advice for the member desirous of the benefits of association work as it is to those who seek after heavenly graces. It must amuse, even if it does exasperate, a faithful working member to be stopped in the street once in a while by members who never attend a meeting to be asked: "What have you done ?" It is a fact that such members go home to their cigar and paper, and calmly await the good results that are to flow from the labors of others. We know of a case of that sort right in this city. This member has never attended a meeting since the night he was elected. He closes early, has plenty of help, and has time to attend, but doesn't like the exertion. He is good as far as intentions go, and never kicks at what is done. But he is a bad member, because he does not go and help do. Now, we have the two classes who say that associations are a failure, and we hardly think that they make a very creditable showing as far as they are personally concerned.

One never hears a good, active member say these things. He knows that success always means hard work, and that often hard work does not mean success. Therefore, like a true active citizen and a good business man he labors for what may come. There will always be enough earnest and hard-working men in the trade to make success possible and to discount the croaking of the ravens. If any reader doubts the truth of the success of retailers' associations, let him ask the first intelligent drummer that comes in his place. When manufacturers' men are instructed to keep on the right side of the Retailers' Association, it certainly must not be without cause.

It is true that one meets those men occasionally who know nothing of associations. But that kind is the $10 a week kind, who never hardly know what their price lists tell. They don't count. No ! once for all—retailers' associations ars a success.—Pennsylvania Grocer.

PROFIT!

IT'S what you ; It's what every man in business is after. Profit on what you handle ; that's a living moving question ; you don't get a profit on anything. No profit ! No money ! No business ! The question is then—What shall I handle—what is there profit in ! Handle those goods which are advertised, which give a good profit, which are good in themselves. In the line of Soaps (an important line) "Surprise" is what you want ; it is good ; it is advertised ; it is profitable. By our system of prices we protect all handling "Surprise." You buy at a price ; you sell at a price ; there is a margin, a good margin, and makes "Surprise" Soap profitable for you to handle.

GROCERIES.

The pomp and display of the first four days of the week were at the expense of business to some extent, although collateral and ultimate benefit to business must be credited to the prodigalities which brought so many people to the city. Business, however, for the time was a matter of secondary importance, and the statute holiday on Tuesday confined the moderate current that did run to but five days. Trade was uneventful, either internally or in the effects which outside circumstances impressed upon it. No large sales, no revolutionary movement in prices, no special critical symptoms in the situation of commodities, can be assigned to a date in the past week. A quiet trade was done, money was generally paid upon time, and but little dissappointment was felt, because little was expected this week.

CANNED GOODS.

Corn and peas continue to make their way through the channels of trade at a fairly satisfactory rate of movement. The demand answers rather assuringly to the moderate prices that have been kept to since the break. Dealers are sanguine that the stock will be mostly absorbed before the new crop begins to pour into the market. Prices have not shifted. There has been a good demand for three-pound apples, at 95 to $1.10, and gallons at $2.50. Tomatoes are scarce, very firm, and in demand at $1.20 to $1.30. The market is absolutely bare of lobsters. Very few of the new have yet been received here, though the demand for them is strong. They are taken up as fast as they arrive. They are coming into stock at $1.95 to $2, and that for common brands. Clover leaf will soon be in, meanwhile enquries are numerous and show a strong business to be waiting on stock. Salmon has been fairly active at $1.35 to $1.60, as to brand, top price being for the Maple Leaf.

The canned goods men are pushing corn, peas and tomatoes for future delivery, but are not making numerous sales, as prices are somewhat uncertain.

An Ontario packer reported sales last week for fall delivery at $1.05, Montreal.

The second car of empty cans arrived at the Bay of Quinte Canning Factory from the can-making establishment of "The Norton Manufacturing Company," Hamilton, on Thursday of last week. On Friday, 20th inst., 61,250 cans were stored in the factory there in eight hours. On the following day the car was loaded with 270 cases canned goods for Winnipeg. This makes 3 cars for Winnigeg and one for Vancouver, sent by the Bay of Quinte Canning Company, in May and June, to the cities named.—Picton Gazette.

COFFEES.

All coffees are for the moment 1c. higher. This may not last long. Changes, heretofore, have been followed by rapid return to the average price, and this is not unlikely to be the case with the last change. The demand is fair. The Java coffee crop is expected to be unusually small. In Eastern Java the crop is estimated at about one-quarter that of last year, and it is reported that the Government's crop of coffee in Passaræan will not exceed 62,000 piculs, against 237,170 piculs in 1889. The shipments of Rio on the way will be in this market in two weeks, but the price is expected to be more than 1c. higher.

DRIED FRUIT.

Hogshead prunes are scarce and stiffer; 6c. has been the inside price for some days. Valencia raisins are selling freely at 8 to 8½c for off stalk. Sultanas are firm at 12c. for good medium. Currants are firmly held at 5¾c. for bbls. and 6c. for halves. Vostizzas of ordinary quality can be bought in half cases at 6 3-4 to 7c. Prunes are firm with sales of hhds. at 6c. and "Atlas" B at 8c.

Recent advices from points of production along the Mediterranean say that the prospects for an abundant crop of Valencias are good; that the Malaga fruit promises to be a better yield than it was last year; that the crop of Sultana raisins will exceed that of last year by from 10 to 15 per cent.; that the outlook of the fig crop is less pronounced than is that of any other dried fruit, though there are hopes of a good gathering, last year's being the greatest on record; currants are expected to turn out well; prunes do not bear out the fine expectations of the promise of their first blooming, and the crop is likely to be small.

Mr. W. C. Bevan, Malaga, was in the city on Saturday. Though a stranger here, his brand of Malaga raisins is familiar in this market. He is now making a tour of the United States and Canada. He says he does not fear the competition of California fruit. It has obtained a foothold the past few years owing to the scarcity of Malaga raisins. There will be an increased production this and in future seasons as the new vines are commencing to bear and are taking the place of those which have been killed. Mr. Bevan has established a branch at Denia.

NUTS.

Stocks suffered considerable dimunition on account of the strong special demand that ruled here during the days of the Carnival. Business, however, made no difference in the prices. These remain at last week's level. A slackened trade is now expected, though pic-nics, etc., will give fitful life to it. The strong season demand is the autumn.

RICE AND SPICES.

Rice has not increased in price, but at the long standing figures it is firm. Ordinary rice is selling at 3¾c. with a few sales at 3⅝c. The mills say they cannot buy now to sell at less than 3¾c. f.o.b. at the mills, and it is doubtful if they will be able to get much at that price. They are refusing to make contracts for fear they will not have enough to carry them through. The United States rice crop will need to be largely supplemented from eastern fields to fill that nation's domestic demand. This, added to the lowness of the prospect in Asia, will be apt to raise the prices at which the eastern grain will reach this market. There is no change in the spice market.

SUGAR.

The series of breaks registered in last week's report of the price of whites was followed before the close of the week by one more. All whites fell an eighth on the day of our last issue, so that granulated is now 6⅞ for qualities above fifteen barrels, and 7c. for qualities not above fifteen barrels. Trade has not picked up during the week. It is very dull, and the weakness of the market has been one of the causes, as sugar dealings seem always to be more active when prices are firm and high. Yellows have undergone no change, running from 5⅝ to 6¾c. Raws are 5½ to 5¾c. The yellow grade that is to be had at 5⅝ is a very dark wet sugar, but it sells well. The course of the market is somewhat unusual for this season of the year. Generally we now experience a rising market with the increased demand for sugar for preserving purposes. The consumption this year promises to be larger than usual, owing to the probable abundant supply and low prices of small fruit.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Molasses in fair demand, with prices firmer in Montreal. A round lot of Antiguas lately sold on the street at 32c. in hogsheads; retail lots sold at 35 to 38c. in barrels and 37 to 40c. in halves. A quiet demand for syrups is all that is notable in the market.

TEAS.

At the recent auction sale of teas in New York, day brokers quoted a firm market at the low prices ruling. The Young Hysons, owing to the high prices for the lower grades of new crop Japans, are appreciating in value. Nothing of the new crop Japans offered under 16½c. and at this they are scarce and wanted, grades above fine are wanted and are appreciating in value. The better class of Congous wanted from 25c. up, and the common grades are selling at auction at 9 1-2 to 11c. There has been a good local enquiry for first young Hysons, but there are not many to be got.

Indian teas locally are quiet in London, etc., etc. This market maintains a strong rising tendency, and a further tangible advance in prices has been established. The demand, no doubt, is outstripping the present rate of supply, and as nearly all buyers are anxious to replenish their stocks, the competition for the available parcels in auction daily increases. This week, as last, the quantity appearing at public sale was decidedly moderate, viz., only 11,820 packages, which, as many be premised, met spirited biddings for all descriptions, and were taken off at again stiffer rates, representing for qualities below 1s. another rise of ½d. per lb., and for grades above that figure an improvement of about 1d., especially for broken Pekoes, that not long since were several pence cheaper. From Calcutta, that the first sale was held there on the 6th inst., comprising 6,000 pkgs., which were sold at an advance of 1d. on common, 2d. on medium, and 3d. on fine, above last year's opening rates, the quality being about the same, whilst yesterday's auction showed a further rally of ½d. on common, and of ½d. to 1d. on the finer sorts. The imports into London are insignificant. The demand for Ceylon tea has continued active, and prices have advanced about 1-2d. per lb. Close on 11,350 pkgs. were catalogued, and the quality generally was fair.

We hear that Mr. P. B. Ridout, late assistant in the firm of Messrs. Steel, Hayter & Co., importers of teas, sails by the Vancouver for Liverpool, to-day, en route for India, to take up the appointment of personal assistant to the manager of the Baradora Tea Estate, South Syltet, one of the gardens of Messrs. Steel, Hayter & Co. We wish him every success in his new vocation of tea planter.

PETROLEUM.

No special feature marks the week's trade. Prices are fairly firm and business as good as could be expected.

DRUGS AND CHEMICALS.

Trade has been very quiet at steady prices. Quite a strong run is now experienced upon Paris green, as the potato plants are now at the stage to invite the ravages of bugs.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

The statement in a former report, that the old tub butter had been nearly all attracted to this market at that time, was premature. Reports from the country show that retail dealers are holding in several places yet, in the belief that prices will mend rather than grow worse. In the meantime, the reverse will be the movement of the quality of the butter, so that it will only be extraordinary if the expectations of the retailers are realized. There is also more old tub yet unsold here than transpired at the time of the relief of the market, which was but a partial relief it seems. The old article is worth 4 to 5c. One commission man sold a large quantity on Monday at 5c. to go east. The new dairy tub is in good demand, and in fairly free supply. There is room for more, however. It goes at 13 to 15c. Pound rolls are 15 to 17c., and are in liberal receipt. The quality of them is generally good. There are some prime large rolls still coming in to certain dealers who make a specialty of handling such at this season, if they are really good. They sell at 15 to 16c. Creamery rolls are 20 to 22c. There are some, brought on the market early in the season, that are now being disposed of at 16c. Only very good will now find a good price. Creamery tub is 18 to 20c. There is a very good supply.

MARKETS—Continued.

English buyers are being supplied by Montreal dealers with butter shipped from New York. The Canadian dealers can get cheaper and better butter in the American market, and can thus hold their trade more securely than if they depended on Canadian stock to fill their orders.

Cheese is firm at 9½c. A special demand for the Carnival consumption was felt from the keepers of boarding houses, hotels, restaurants, etc.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

BEANS—Stock continues to get low, and consumption is now almost at a standstill. Only small lots move. They go at $1.50 to $1.70.

DRIED APPLES—The supply seems to answer very readily to the demand, in fact the latter may be blamed if the market is not very active. There is evidently enough stock. The prices are 5 to 5½c.

EVAPORATED APPLES—There is but a light supply here. The old stock predominates. The remaining portion of the year is good for all the evaporated stock there is. Old is 9 to 9½c. and new is 12 to 12½c.

EGGS—Eggs are 13c., and this price shows signs of coming weakness. The American market is declining on account of the strong supply from Canadian dealers, and the price here is expected to follow the movement of that across the border. Shippers are already sending supplies to this market instead of to points in the United States, and this abundance must tell on present prices unless a rise begins in the American markets.

HAY—Choice timothy alone is wanted, and prices for that, pressed on track, are $10 to $10.50. There is a good demand, although street arrivals take up a good deal of the local call.

HIDES—Cured are still sold at 6¼c. The demand is good, the supply rather behind hand. Green steers' are 7c. for No. 1, 6c. for No. 2, and 5c. for No. 3. Cows' are 1c. lower for each class. All hides are now in pretty good condition, the American, as well as our own market is quite receptive, while slaughter, now at its minimum, is too slow to keep prices down.

HONEY—Strawberries now monopolize the place which was partly filled by honey. The demand for it is very low. Prices are same as they were a week ago, 9 to 12c. for clear and 14 to 18c. for sections. The prospects for the season's gathering of the new are excellent. The reports from different parts all agree in the opinion that there will be a good flow. The sultry weather is one of the very best conditions for the realization of the widespread belief that the bees will store very fast and copiously.

HOPS—The yearlings are still plentiful and low priced, as is also the gathering of '89. The demand is active but the weight of the stock still depresses prices. New are 12 to 16c., and yearlings are 8 to 12c.

OATS—The growing scarcity, and the constant demand maintain the price reported last week. They are 41½c. by carload, delivered here.

POTATOES—The belief among buyers is that this week is pretty near the fray end of the year's market. New ones will be here soon, in fact are here from Southern fields, while the old crop is considered about exhausted. This latter opinion may be erroneous, as there may be holders for higher prices who have not yet signified the fact, but the time for selling is so short that it is unlikely any large stocks are so held. The experience of buyers this week brings them to the conclusion that potatoes are scarce. They are now firm at 60c. by the carload. Broken lots are more commonly bought, and business in them suits both buyers and sellers better than in carloads, as stock seems scarce and the demand must soon close. Broken lots are 65 to 67c. Lots out of store are 80c.

POULTRY—Spring chickens arrive freely and command ready sale; this week particularly they are in strong demand. They are 40 to 50c. a pair. Ducks are also plentiful at 50 to 70c. a pair.

SKINS—Pelts are 20 to 25c. Lambskins are also unchanged, bringing 40 to 45c. No. 1 calf is 8c., and No. 2, 6c. The supply, particularly of lambs' is low.

STRAW—Is $5 to $5.50. There is a waning market for it. Tight-pressed is less called for on account of the market being kept stocked by farmers with good loose.

TALLOW—Rough is 2c., and rendered is 5¼c.

WOOL—Fleeces are 20c., clothing fleeces 22c., ordinary pulled is 20c., super 23½c., and extra-super 28c. Easier prices have been followed by lower supplies.

FISH.

There is nothing new to note in the fish market. Prices are the same as last week's. Eastern salmon are reported in very fair demand. The demand for British Columbia salmon still continues good, a supply being received daily. The call for tront and whitefish is about the same as usual. The following are the prices: Trout and whitefish 5½ to 6c.; British Columbia salmon 14c.; lake herring, $2 to $2,50; pickeral, 4 to 4½c.; New Brunswick salmon, 15c.; Sarnia herring, $2 to $2.50; black bass, 7 to 8c.; pike, 4c.

GREEN FRUIT.

The hot weather has given decided strength to the market for all green fruit. Valencia oranges are being rapidly taken up by the consumption that higher temperature has stimulated Prices have accordingly risen, and re-pack Valencias run at $11 to $11.50, with a likelihood that they will be yet dearer before they are all sold. Messina oranges are $6.50, and very firm. Rodi oranges are very scarce, and go at $6.50 to $7. Lemons are gaining strength fast. Ordinary stock goes at $4.50 to $6, while fancies are as high as $750. There is a very strong run on them now, and the market contains some fine stock. Bananas have been rising since the middle of last week, the Carnival needs being the ruling cause. Ordinary are $1.25 to $1.50. Choice large ones are $2 to $2.25. Apricots are $2.25. Peaches are $2. Tomatoes are $2.25. Strawberries at the moment are 6c. a box. Cherries are $1.20 to $1.50 per basket. Gooseberries are 75c. to $1.50 per basket. The receipts of native fruit have no doubt lowered the business in foreign green fruit, but that business is large even as it is. A carload of sugar pine apples was brought on the market late last week and went off at $2.50 to $3 per doz.

PROVISIONS.

Trade has been satisfactory this week. The supply of hogs has decreased, and the call for fresh pork has likewise declined. The business in hogs is now about over. All the cured products have been in active demand at firm prices. Barrel pork has received the least attention, a fact that is always to be looked for at this season.

BACON—Long clear is 8½ to 8¾c. Bellies are 11 1-2 to 12c. Backs are 11 to 11 1-2c. Roll is 9 1-2 to 10c.

DRESSED HOGS—Are druggy at $6 to $6.25.

HAMS—Smoked are 12 to 12 1-2c. Sweet pickled are 11c.

LARD—In 20 lb. pails is 10c., and in 50 lb. tubs is 9 1-2c.

MESS PORK—Heavy is $15 to $15.50. Family is $17.

SALT.

The local salt dealers cannot sell what salt they have on hand owing to the market being over-stocked. They are at present negotiating with the pork packers for the sale of coarse salt. The sales reported by the Toronto Salt Works for the week are: 2 cars bbl. salt $1.38; 2 cars sacks 68c. The prices for small lots are: $1.45 for bbls.; 85c. for sacks, and 45c. for ¼ sacks

DRY GOODS.

The week has been notable more for the numerous inquiries than for the transactions recorded in it. The Carnival brought many traders into the city, but although they called in large numbers upon the wholesale trade, yet their business was mostly confined to sorting orders and inquiries for the fall trade. The fall trade goods not being yet in stock, no business could be expected to be done in them from the warehouse, such goods being yet represented by sample, which are in the hands of the travellers. MARKETS—Continued.

improvement of trade is due to patient waiting for the crops. Two or three bad years have made traders conservative, and nothing suits better the situation than patient conservatism.

GROCERIES.

Business in this line continues rather quiet. Merchants preferring to wait until something definite is known concerning the crops in preference to pushing trade now. The prospects, however, are favorable at the present time for a good average crop. Money is still reported very tight and collections are made with difficulty.

SUGAR.

The feature in sugars during the week was the all-round decline of ⅛c. and ¼c., owing no doubt to the recent drop in New York. The refiners here are quoting yellows at 5½c. to 6¼c. and granulated at 6⅝c. As the fruit season is about opening it is not likely that prices will go any lower and in consequence of the decline large orders are coming in principally from Western men.

MOLASSES.

There is nothing new to note in connection with this brand of trade, no large sales being reported during the week. The latest quotation from Barbadoes is 15c. Spot goods are held firm here at 34 to 34½c. for old and 33c. for new.

SYRUPS.

The chief feature in syrups during the week was the sale of some 1900 bbls. of old American stock, at about 40 to 42½c. per gallon. This stock, which was sold to close out an estate, has been a wet blanket on the market for some time, but now that it has been disposed of trade is expected to improve.

DRIED FRUIT.

There is only a quiet trade doing in dried fruits, but prices continue to hold very firm. Valencia raisins are worth from 8 to 8½c. according to brand, a good sale being made at the inside figure. The demand for Eleme raisins is somewhat better at 8 to 8½c. Currants are still very firm at 6 to 6½c., with only a fair demand, buyers not caring to pay the advance.

TEAS.

The movement in tea is very quiet. Low grade Japans are very scarce here and are in good demand, but there is not much doing in teas to arrive, buyers preferring to wait. Sales are reported of 400 packages of Japan to arrive at 20½c., and a lot of Congo on English account at 17c. On the whole prices are very well maintained and the market is in first rate condition to receive the new crop.

COFFEE.

The demand for coffee continues quiet and of a hand to mouth character. The stocks here are very light and values are well maintained in sympathy with the strong advices from the primary markets.

CANNED GOODS.

Business is very dull in all lines of canned goods. Grocers only buying enough for immediate wants. Lobsters on spot are quoted very firm at $8 to $8.50 and as the supply will likely be less than in former years owing to a variety of unfavorable circumstances, prices will not likely go much lower, orders are being taken however for goods to arrive at $7 to $7.50. Canned Mackeral are in short supply here and holders will not part with their stocks under $5.25 to $5.50. The catch so far this season has been above the average for the past few years, but it remains to be seen whether the pack will be correspondingly large. Salmon are being offered on the coast at $1.05 to $1.15 per dozen. There is every prospect of a general decline in fruits and vegetables owing to the expected large pack. We quote tomatoes $1.17½ to $1.20; strawberries $2.25 to $2.50; peas $1.10 to $1.25; beans, 85 to 90c.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

During the past week the grain market has ruled very quiet with little business doing. Manitoba wheat is scarce and firm, and in the absence of transactions prices are nominal. Peas are steady, with a sale of one cargo reported at 75c. afloat. Oats have been quiet but firm. We quote as follows:—Wheat, No. 1 hard Manitoba, $1.17 to $1.19, No. 2, $1.15 to $1.17; peas, per 66 pounds, 75 to 76c. afloat.; Quebec oats, 40 to 41c.; Ontario oats, 42 to 43c.; corn, duty paid, 50 to 51½c; corn, cargoes in bond, 41 to 43c.; barley, feeding, 40 to 45c.; barley, good malting, 50 to 52c.

FLOUR—The feature of the flour market during the week was the reduction in the price of Manitoba strong bakers, and patent spring of 25c. per brand, quotations now being $5.25 for the former and $5.55 for the latter. In Ontario brands the feeling has also been easier and holders state that in order to induce business they have been compelled to take lower prices. The market on the whole has been a very quiet one and trade has been confined to small lots for local consumption. We quote:—Patent winter, $5.25 to $5.50; patent spring, to $0.00 $5.57; straight roller, $4.90 to $5.00; extra, $4.70; to $4.80 superfine, $4.25 to $4.50; fine, $3.50 to $4.00; city strong bakers, to $0.00 $5.25; strong bakers, $0.00 to $5.25; superfine, bags, $1.50 to $2.00; extra, bags, $2.20 to $2.30; fine, bags, $1.50 to $1.90; oatmeal, standard, per bag $2.15 to $2.25; oatmeal, granulated, $2.30 to $2.50; oatmeal, rolled, $2.30 to $2.50.

HOG PRODUCTS.

There has been a stronger tone to the local provision market, and prices in some cases are higher. The demand for pork has continued slow, but owing to the light stock held here prices have been put up and some holders are now asking $18 for Canadian short cut and $18.50 for boneless. Western clear is also held higer at $17 for small lots. Lard has been in fair request at steady prices. The demand for hams and bacon has been good and an active trade has been accomplished. Hams have advanced to 12½ to 13c. and bacon is 10 to 12c. in round lots. We quote: Western mess, $16.50 to $17; Chicago short cut, $17; Canada short cut, $17.50 to $18; Lard, 8¼ to 8½c. per pound; bacon, 10½ to 12c.; hams, 12½ to 13c.

EGGS.

The egg market is steady, with a fair demand and liberal receipts, and 12c. foi round lots and 12½c. for single cases.

PETERBORO' GROCERS ORGANIZE.

Peterboro Grocers met on the evening of June 17th, and after due deliberation decided to call upon Toronto for assistance, and organize a Grocers' Association.

Accordingly on June 24th, in answer to their request, the Toronto Secretary set out for Peterboro, and after making a few acquaintances the following gentlemen met in the Council Chamber: W. B. Ferguson, Alex. Elliott, M. R. Kidd, John Cameron, A. Allison, Wm. Detcher, G. G. Pape, W. J. Morrow, Charles Marshall, Frank Garvey, Dan Sullivan, James Coughlan, J. Mason, Mr. Waller, Mr. Butler, Mr. Collins.

The By-Laws of the Toronto Association were carefully read over and with some amendments were adopted. Mr. W. B. Ferguson was chosen as President, and Mr. M. R. Kidd as Secretary, and the Peterboro Retail Grocers' Association was launched with great hopes of success. A very cordial vote of thanks to the Toronto Secretary for his assistance and advice brought the proceedings to a close.

Rivalry, open, fair, good natured and enterprising, is the life of business.

Every line of goods embodies a history and a science worth years of study to understand.

KICKS.—BY THE BOSS KICKER.

Upright men shall be astonished at this, and the innocent shall stir himself against the hypocrite.

Though I speak, my grief is not assuaged; and though I forbear what am I eased?

But now he hath made me weary.—Book of Job.

Yes, verily, some buyers in this land make me weary, and if my snap shots will only hit the target the lessons intended for those particular ones may prove a success. I'll push the bottom; you do the rest. Yea, though I offend, yet will I speak. I have had painted a panorama which I propose to unroll, that some may see themselves as others see them.

"Jamsey, turn up the lights and pull the curtain."

Ah, what have we here? This is a life like portrait of a gentleman who is not in want of any new goods. He receives you with a hypocritical smile, invites you to take a seat in the office, but "really don't want to look or purchase anything in your line this time."

You have called for the past ten years and and received the same stereotyped reply.

"Perhaps when you come again it may be different." To this merchant we give the advice, "Don't be a clam."

"Jamsey, turn the crank!"

Well, here we have portrait number two. A good looking face, somewhat hard as to the lines around the mouth, but a passibly pleasant cast of features.

"What does he say?" "Oh, very sorry, but cannot possibly find time to see you today, to-morrow or any day this week. Am very busy, and don't want to take up your time, etc." We have traveled over a thousand miles, with several hundred pounds of extra baggage, but "he really has no time to look you over."

Yet this same person has several salesmen on the road to represent his firm, and when you ask the question: "What would you think, my dear sir, should your customers treat your representatives as you treat me, and what would the result be as to your business?" he begins to think, but, alas, the "seed falls on stony ground," and you leave without an order, as usual. Advice to him: "Do unto others as you would have others do unto you."

"Jamsey, turn the crank!"

Here we have a gentleman who goes willingly with you to your room, armed with a long memorandum book and a foot rule. He measures every sample and enters the same with a pencil sketch in his "log book." The price is also compared with a long list of other manufacturers, together with the number of square inches of the article displayed.

He spends, perhaps, the best part of the day, causing you to go without your dinner, and after raising your expectations to the idea that a very large order will be your just reward for a Job-like patience, he leaves you with the remark:

"Well, I shall visit your city in a few weeks and will call on your house and perhaps leave an order."

For this gentleman I am willing to purchase a copy of the story of Job, and have no objection to throwing in a half dozen of boils to bind the bargain.

"Jamsey, turn the crank!"

This portrait "brings sadness to your heartstrings which they never knew before."

He makes and breaks engagements as a clock ticks the seconds.

A traveler's time is of no importance to him and he cares nothing for the picture of a drummer "cooling his heels" while waiting with impatience at the hotel, oftimes hours together. For him let us all subscribe to a fund and purchase a watch suitably inscribed with the old mottoes: "Time and tide wait for no man," "Procrastination is the thief of time."

"Jamsey, turn the crank quickly!"

Here we have a face not easly forgotten. How we love to look at his genial, loving smile, and with what satisfaction we clasp his hand as it grasps ours in a friendly, hearty shake! Do we love him? Yes; as his friendship is worth its weight in gold, for it is true in every particular. Recognizing as he does that a traveler is a man sent upon the road for business, working with heart and soul in the interests of the employer, separated from all he holds dear at a happy home, this buyer meets us with promptness, transacts his business quickly, and as he bids you "Good bye" you feel the satisfaction that he is numbered among your warmest friends.

"Jamsey, don't turn the crank. Let this portrait remain in sight, that we may feast our eyes upon a true specimen of manhood."

Offer for sale all grades of REFINED SUGARS and SYRUPS of the well-known brand of

Redpath

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,

Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, McGILL UNIVERSITY.

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured.

Yours truly,

G. P. GIRDWOOD.

The creditors of Fred. Lewis & Co., clothing, Montreal, will meet on July 3 ; the creditors of Louis Mayer & Co., wholesale clothing, who skipped out from Montreal a few days ago, will meet on the same date.

The following firms in Montreal have assigned : H. Charron & Fils, coal and wood ; Placide Daoust, groceries ; G. T. Linde, dry goods, etc.; R. Monast, groceries, dry goods, etc.; G. L. Paradis & Co., groceries.

A meeting of the creditors of S. & J. Armstrong, of McKellar, Muskoka, will be held at the Walker house, on July 3, The firm commenced business in 1870, as general dealers and lumber merchants. In 1881 they claimed to be worth over $20,000, but a couple of years later they effected a compromise with their creditors for 50 cents on the dollar. In August last they asked for an extension of time, which was granted. It is said their liabilities are now about $20,000, and in a circular which they have issued they state that they will not be able to pay 100 cents on the dollar. William Beattie, of Parry Sound, is the largest creditor, being interested to the extent of over $4,000, and the others are mostly in Toronto.

Mr. D. M. Rennie, formerly of Eby, Blain & Co., Toronto, but now in Buenos Ayres, writing to Mr. T. G. Williamson, of this city, under date 17th April says : " At the moment there is no business to be done here and the Canadian Government will do well to postpone the sending of a steamer to this port. The crisis is on us in blackest form. The premium on gold on the 12th was 215, to day owing to the resignation of the cabinet it is 167. With such fluctuations it is impossible to figure costs. I understand that there are over 50 vessels lumber-laden for this port, awaiting orders in Monte Video. Consignments of lumber and merchandise of various kinds have been discharged in Monte Video and sold at slaughter prices rather than take the risk here. Some shipments have been recalled. Land can be purchased at an immense reduction on prices of six months ago. Merchants are not remitting. It is impossible to pay three dollars for one and to remit for goods sold when the premium was 90 to 100. As I sell for cash only I am doing little or no business. I have purchased considerable experience, but it may be of service to me later. Congress meets next month, when many changes in the tariff will be made."

Goods conveniently located save time, money and temper in showing.

Work can always be found in a store without double-million microscope.

The Inland Revenue Department has recently issued a bulletin of about thirty pages which is devoted exclusively to the subject of baking powder and which shows that the majority of the goods in the market are adulterated and unfit for use. Prof. A. McGill, who has had charge of this important work for the Government, says that " imperial baking powder is an excellent baking powder." A word to the sensible housekeeper should be sufficient.

A customer secured is a promise of greater salary in time.

IMPOSSIBLE!
So say Doctors, to say too much in favour of St. Leon Water. It puts down Bright's Disease and Diabetes, as water quenches fire. Cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, etc., completely if drank freely and rubbed in the skin.

SILVER STAR STOVE PASTE.
The following is the universal verdict of all who have used or sold it:
HAMILTON, APRIL 25th, 1890.
Messrs. F. F. DALLEY & Co.,
GENTLEMEN:—In thus ordering a fresh supply of your SILVER STAR STOVE PASTE we cannot but express our appreciation of the goods and congratulate you on having been able to place on the market an article so superior in every respect to anything we have heretofore been able to get.
As we use it on the stoves in the wareroom, we know personally its good qualities—no dust, a quick polish, always ready and the work is done in the time it would take to prepare the Dome or other hard stove polishes, and one of the best features about it is that it is so clean to handle.
If a man sells us an inferior article we don't forget to tell him about it, and on the same principle when a firm gives us an Extra good one we believe in letting them know that we appreciate it.
We remain,
Respectfully yours,
J. WALLACE & SON.

SOLUS. SOLE PRESERVER
Will preserve the soles of boots or shoes, and render them perfectly waterproof. One application to a pair of new shoes will double their wearing qualities.
Two-sized tins, 15 and 25 cents. Will cost you $1.20 and $2.00 per dozen.
We also manufacture the best line of Wigwam Slippers, and Lumberman's Oil Tanned foot wear in Canada.
C. N. VROOM,

BEST SOAP

Which has a world-wide reputation of being the best lard soap made; noted for its PURITY and QUALITY. Hundreds of Soap Manufacturers have tried for years to imitate and discover the process by which it is made—but all have met with signal failure. No soap ever made has the same Washing Powers. Millions of families, mechanics, railroad engineers, railroad men will attest to this fact.

ST. LAWRENCE CANALS.

RAPIDE PLAT DIVISION.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for the St. Lawrence Canals," will be received at this office until the arrival of the eastern and western mails on Wednesday, the 23rd day of July next, for the construction of a lift lock, weirs, etc., at Morrisburg, and the deepening and enlargement of the Rapide Plat Canal. The work will be divided into three sections, each about a mile in length.

A map of the locality, together with plans and specifications of the respective works, can be seen on and after Wednesday the 9th day of July next, at this office, and at the Resident Engineer's Office, Morrisburg, where printed forms of tender can be obtained.

In the case of firms there must be attached to the tender, the actual signatures of the full name, the nature of the occupation and residence of each member of the same, and further, an accepted cheque on a chartered bank in Canada for the sum of $6,000, must accompany the tender for Section No. 1, and an accepted cheque on a chartered bank in Canada, for the sum of $2,000 for each of the other sections.

The respective accepted cheques must be endorsed over to the Minister of Railways and Canals, and will be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the works at the rates and on the terms stated in the offer submitted. The cheques thus sent in will be returned to the respective parties whose tenders are not accepted.

This Department does not however, bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,

A. P. BRADLEY,
Secretary.

Changes in advertisements and new advertisements must reach this office not later than Wednesday morning of each week.

LARD AND ITS COMPOUNDS.

The makeweight which the Canadian government has put upon our American competitors in lard production seems to be a fair one. It does not appear to be so large as to secure to the maker or dealer more than a reasonable profit. It is not too small to be a sufficient check upon the tendency of American stock to swamp this market. The duty on tried or rendered is now 3c., while before the revision of the tariff it was 2c. The duty on untried is now 2c., and it was formerly 1½c. The change further requires that packages, when of tin, shall be included in the weight for duty. The effect of this more straitened access to the Canadian market has been the complete withdrawal of American producers from the competition to supply our consumers. That trade is now all supplied by Canadian lard refiners. But though the American competition has disappeared, it has left behind it the demand for cheap lard, and this has invoked the introduction into this country of American methods in the production of cheap lard, that is, of lard compounds. In Montreal, Hamilton, Mitchell, Ingersoll, lard compound is already manufactured, and it is expected that it will be made shortly in Toronto. The existence of factories for the production of lard compound shows that there is a demand for such mixtures.

The mainspring of this demand is the desire for cheap goods. But it is unlikely to be equal to the task of supporting the compound lard industry on a large scale. Already signs of reform in consumption are discernible. The satisfaction with compounds had got pretty well worn out by the time the addition to the duty was made. People were beginning to weary of compositions which had the minimum proportion of real lard that was needed to make the mixture a lard in appearance. They have now got farther along the path of reform. There is an increasing condemnation of adulterated lard. More pure lard has been consumed since the change than in any equal period for a long time. This may be partly because the pure is sold at only 1c., above the compound. It is to some extent, at least, because pure lard in the end is what the people want. The alien element in the sophisticated article is not injurious. Tallow and cotton seed oil are not hurtful. But they are not satisfactory. The flavor of the compound and some faults in its effects are against its attaining permanent popularity. What further militates against the likelihood that there will be a lasting demand for compound is the fact that those who make it in this country are quite as anxious to find a home market for their pure lard as for their compound. If, therefore, there is a demand that wants only pure lard, there shall be pure lard only forthcoming.

There is a duty on cotton seed oil, but the oil itself now is very cheap. Also tallow is cheap. These circumstances work in favor of the complete transition into Canadian hands of all the trade in lard, both that in pure lard and that in compound lard. In the meantime that is desirable. But the perpetuation of a trade in adulterated lard is not desirable. We want a lard trade that will take off all the natural article, and that will stimulate the production of the natural article. We have a sufficient yearly demand to absorb more than all the lard we have so far produced. We need to produce more lard. This, the growing dissatisfaction with compounds is coming to demand. Lard, being one of the products of pork, which our tariff also encourages the native production of, is more likely to be more abundantly produced, because of the inducements to raise pork that the tariff holds out in its protection against American raisers. Canadian lard will not have to be sold any longer at a loss, and will therefore be more liberally produced. A better market for lard and other hog products will raise the demand for hogs, and the greater the production the less will be the need for compounds. The trade in compounds is a constantly shrinking one.

THE ADVANCE ON LIQUOR.

Our Prices Current register an advance in the quotations for Canadian spirits. The advance is inaugurated at the same time as a provision of the Inland Revenue Act. By that provision it becomes necessary for manufacturers to keep all whiskies in bond two years before they shall be deemed lawful commodities of trade. It needs the maturing effect of this period of storage to make whiskies potable. The carrying of all stock for at least two years before it can be realized upon is an addition to the cost of production of two years' interest. This is alleged to be the basis of the advance. The requirement of the Inland Revenue Act to which the advance is attributed, was passed some years ago. The interval between its enactment and its enforcement was no doubt intended for the accumulation of a sufficient stock for the continuous movement of business, the distillers not being supposed under the old order of things to have a two years' supply lying in their warehouses.

Any advance in the price of liquor is undoubtedly a social benefit, but it is not a benefit to trade. An advance on most other articles of merchandise can benefit trade if it is just enough to confine business to a fair number of dealers and is not so great as to check consumption. But the number of traders who shall sell liquor is not a matter that is regulated by prices; it is determined by law, the number of licenses to sell always bearing an unchanging proportion to the population. The advance in prices, therefore, cannot benefit trade. It is likely to reduce it or, if not, to reduce the profit upon it. If a dealer can not sell as much under the prices now ruling, and get his usual rate of profit, he has to be content with fewer sales or less profit. The distillers have for many years reaped a very large profit. It was not too small to compensate them for the extra expense and risk of holding all their stock in bond for two years. That the business was one from which large returns were derived appears evident from the fortunes which have been made in the pursuit of it. The addition to the prices heretofore current does not seem a yielding to an adverse condition imposed on the manufacturers, so much as the laying hold of a favorable circumstance. The manufacturers know that no new competition can disturb their hold upon the demand for at least two years. Existing distillers, and they are not many, have only to work together to keep the present high prices intact. Any manufacturers who enter the field will be barred out of the market by the law for two years. And there is but slight chance of any new distillers entering the field. They would have against them, in addition to the cost of starting, the difficulty of making head against the prestige of the old makers, and the heavy incubus of the legal prohibition to engage in trade for two years. This handicaps competitors with a vengeance, and gives to the present makers a monopoly that is encumbered with scarcely the chance of future disturbance.

Under the new price list very meagre concessions are made to the trade, and those that are made seem more with an eye to luring wholesalers to an assumption of the risk involved in doing business with retailers, than from any consideration of the wholesalers' claim to a share in the profit. The wholesaler needs to invest $3,500 before 10 per cent. of the discount is vouchsafed him. All sales are for cash. The selection of those to whom sales will be made is reserved to the distillers, who have been known in the past to reject the orders of men whose credit was not questioned from any other quarter. All the circumstances go to show that the manufacturers are, and feel themselves to be, in a position that is securely fortified. Prices may therefore be taken to be firm.

SILVER LEGISLATION AND PRICES.

In the first place silver is like any other commodity, it does not amount to much as property unless there is a demand for it. The tension or slackness of demand is what shifts the index up or down along the scale of value. An enormous quantity of silver is annually mined in the north-western quarter of the United States. The supply has been for a long time gradually outstripping the demand, so that between the summit of value reached years ago and the point at which price now rests there is a lengthy void. Silver has sunk in value 30 per cent. in the last twelve years. That shrinkage too has taken place in spite of a greatly increased consumption. A huge artificial demand for silver as coinage was created by the Bland Act in 1878, since which time by the operation of that measure 350,000,000 silver dollars have been coined. This, as we have seen, did not keep the price of silver from falling. If the demand had been confined to the manufacture of articles of jewelry, plate, mountings, and the manifold tasteful applications that we have to day, it would seem that the price would have been lower. So at all events the representatives of the large silver interest maintain, and to mend the market for their commodity, they have for a long time been calling for a free silver coinage. Several bills have been prepared in deference to this demand from the silver interest, but none which would go the length of a free coinage of silver could have any hope of being carried. Two, the Senate Bill, and Secretary Windom's Bill, stand ahead of any others in their chances to be adopted, and of these two Windom's is the more acceptable. It provides for the issue of certificates for bullion deposited with the government, and is not a coinage measure. Its certificates are of the nature of warehouse receipts, and are redeemable in gold at the market price of the silver they represent. It thus answers the demand for the legislative creation of a silver market as the basis of a currency. The Windom Bill, however, does not proceed from an interest that believes in the policy of giving a factitious value to silver. It is a compromise, in which more of eastern conservatism is imported than in any of the other measures. The Senate Bill, on the other hand, represents the wishes of the West. The East is the centre of American commerce, while the West is the centre of American population. The commercial wisdom of the nation would discourage any further inflation of silver, but it has to recognize the strength of numbers if not of financial sagacity to be against it, and therefore concurs in a measure that appears to be the less of two evils. The men from the West never have a transaction with a foreign nation perhaps in the whole course of their lives, and are therefore incapable of seeing in their fulness the effects of an enormous increase in the silver coinage.

The silver bills before Congress would base the increased coinage upon the same comparison between gold and silver as the Bland Act of 1878. That is, 412½ grains troy of silver of standard fineness shall be always legally equal to 25 8-10 grains troy of gold, of standard fineness. This is an arbitrary ratio, and cannot correspond with the fluctuating ratio between the values of the metals that various circumstances shall from time to time determine. Indeed, it does not nearly represent the present market value of silver relatively to that of gold. There was a time when silver was undervalued relatively to gold, but that was many years ago, when the world's supply of gold received a sudden expansion from the opening of the Californian and Australian mines. The later great output of silver has reversed this, and now silver is overvalued relatively to gold, when 412½ grains of it is said to be equal in purchasing power to 25 8-10 grains of gold. In the world's market its value is 30 per cent. below this. Still this old value is given to silver in the coinage, and silver men want the coinage increased that more of their metal may go for this than goes at present. In trade with foreign countries, the basis of all transactions is gold. The intrinsic value is all that is recognized. Therefore, the American who pays in to his own bank to settle a foreign account by a bill of exchange, must deposit as many dollars in gold as there are dollars demanded on his invoice. Every silver dollar he pays is accepted as 70c. at present, and in ten years may be accepted at but 50c., according as the world's market for silver may rule. An English draft for £100 would be paid by a little under $487 in gold, but by above $695 in silver. Yet, in the United States the holder of a silver dollar is legally as rich a man and can buy as much as he who holds a gold dollar.

The free coinage of silver was the thing originally sought, and yet desired but not to be hoped for. By it every man who brought silver bullion to the treasury would be entitled to have it coined free into silver dollars of 412½ grains troy of standard fineness. This would soon sweep the gold coinage out of existence, for there are uses for gold to which it can be more profitably put than to be coined into an equivalent for so low a weight of silver. Therefore, the free coinage idea did not carry when it was boomed twelve years ago, and instead of it a limited coinage bill, Bland's, was adopted. If free coinage had been adopted there would soon be an overflowing circulation, and thus the value of silver would deteriorate in currency, for in the form of currency it is ultimately as much on the market as it is in the bar. The financial sense of the American people, which financial sense is yet chiefly in the East, would have nothing to do with the Bland dollars. They were scarcely touched at the outset. But a place was found for them, and that was in the South, which had not yet entered upon that industrial career which is transforming it. There the Bland dollars went, and were accepted by the East as exchange deposits in southern banks, while the gold gravitated north. In the south, impoverished after the war, the silver was accepted the more readily because of the irredeemable paper money then circulating. A debtor class was made use of for the introduction of silver. In time, the immense growth of population, commercial develop ment, and above all the shrinkage of the national bank note circulation, made room even in the East for silver to pass current, and it does so now. But the East is opposed to any further increase of the coinage, which all the measures except the Windom Bill, contemplate, and that bill provides a market that is to be the security for a great part of the currency.

An increased silver circulation may have no ill effects for some years. If the coinage demand for silver is maintained by the substantial basis of good times, if the American people have several series of fine crops, etc., to make the need for a larger circulation, the coinage may go on increasing for a long time before the bucket slops over. The contracted circulation of the national bank notes has left a gap that silver may be a long time poured into if no bad times come. That gap will swallow $200,000,000 But, the financiers who control the real estate concerns, the trust and loan companies, the insurance companies, banks, etc., insist on a gold basis for all transactions that require a few years to mature. They exact gold contracts, and any man who invests money on a five year loan is wise to do so. This caution shows the watchers of the money market are not sanguine as to the value of silver money in a few years.

As to the effect upon the prices of commodities, an effect supposed to be due to natural workings of the laws of exchange, little can be said. Indirect consequences to prices are more likely than are direct ones from increased silver circulation. First, speculative excitement might be looked for, the same as on the eve of the budget being brought down with some momentous change expected. This would affect prices for the time. But in so large a country as the United States, touching reciprocally the commerce of so many other countries, there could not well be any disturbance of the equilibrium of prices that would not affect outside markets as well. The speculative feeling that was certain to be engendered by pending silver legislation, would be exhibited in the rush for corners, not because of high prices, but because of inflated currency. These movements would give an impulse to buying, which would really raise prices in the country, and would correspondingly affect prices in Japan or India. But these are indirect effects, and accidents, rather than normal consequences of the silver agitation, which may have no important bearings on prices of commodities. Indeed no silver bill may pass this session.

It may be added that dollars are the only coins contemplated in any of the proposed legislation. It is only these that come into competition with gold. For values less than a dollar, gold is unsuitable, as the coin becomes too small for use. On the other hand the silver small pieces need not be intrinsically worth what they circulate for. They are not involved in large sums or to any important extent in international exchange.

TRADE PROSPECTS.

As is usual just at this time of the year, the all-absorbing topic of conversation amongst commercial men is the crop prospects. It is felt that there is need of a really bountiful harvest in Canada to avert a great deal of financial suffering. Our imports for the last three years have considerably exceeded our exports—a state of things which has puzzled some of our astute bankers, who annually look to our foreign balance sheet for an answer to the question : "Has the country made money?" It does not seem to have appeared to any of these gentlemen, judging from their writings and speeches, that this debit balance has been covered by moneys brought into Canada for permanent investment by settlers, loan companies, railways, and other like corporations, manufacturing companies, etc. This money comes into Canada through the mail, over which there is no established check, while the imported goods having to be passed through the various custom houses are all taken account of. For this reason we believe that Canada has been more than holding her own all along, notwithstanding the poor crops she has experienced of late years. We furthermore are of the opinion that the resources of this country are so far-reaching, and her capacity for money-making so great, that with a series of bountiful harvests there would be seen strides in the progress of our towns and cities that are seldom witnessed even in the United States. At the time of our writing. 8th July, it can be safely said that not for many years has the prospect been so bright. While some kinds of fruit are behind in the quantity of their yield, and others are not quite up to the standard of quality, owing to the singular weather of the past winter, the hay, grain, and root crops, are looked upon as being excellent. In Ontario the two things to be feared are drought, and its opposite too much rain, both of which evils, so far, have not shewn themselves, while in the Northwest the terrible bugbear is the early frosts. These frosts, however, are regarded by those who know as easily averted troubles, and as in reality nothing more than a punishment to the careless farmer—it being claimed that healthy grain, growing in well drained and thoroughly tilled soil, experiences no difficulty in withstanding the slight frosts which take place in the summer. In Manitoba, and the adjoining territories, the crop is reported as ahead of all previous records, and it is confidently asserted that owing to the severe lesson of the last two years, the farmers have this year taken much greater pains with their farming. They are sanguine people in our far-west, but they all seem to agree that if the harvest is housed as plentifully as the present would forecast, the whole of their country will be placed in an independent position without a dollar's debt to the eastern loan companies and wholesale merchants. May such indeed be so is our earnest wish. Another month will settle many doubts.

THE CIGAR FRAUD.

Mr. J. T. Waters, of the Department of Customs, who came up from Ottawa a week ago to investigate alleged irregularities in connection with the firm of Nerlich & Co., completed his work on Saturday afternoon. He went over the book of the firm and checked their invoices of imported cigars with the invoices on which the goods were passed at the customs at Toronto. "Some years since, it appears, Nerlich & Co. had a bonded warehouse in which they were entitled to have their tobacco and cigars stamped. About the 1st of July, 1883, amended regulations went into force as to stamping making it the duty of an officer of the customs to affix the stamps to the boxes at the customs warehouse. In the case of Nerlich & Co., after the surrender of their bonded warehouse, this officer, though particular to have the necessary stamps affixed by other firms in Toronto, allowed the continuance of stamping the Nerlich importations at their own warehouse. The officer explained such exception on the ground that he was not aware that the bonded privilege had been given up by Nerlich & Co. While the bonded privilege was held by this firm it was their custom, after passing an entry and submitting the invoice to the appraiser, to obtain from that officer a memorandum of the number of stamps necessary to be affixed to the various packages. On such memorandum being presented the clerk in charge of the stamps would issue to Nerlich & Co.'s. representative the number of stamps called for. These would then be taken to the examing warehouse, and there cancelled with the usual stamp. They would afterwards be taken to the firm's warehouse and affixed to the packages without customs supervision. In each consignment a number of boxes would be opened by the appraiser, and the contents emptied into a scale to ascertain the weight of each particular brand of cigars, and the size of each brand contained in the invoice presented for entry, this being necessary to ensure the collection of the proper specific duty. These boxes could not be properly repacked for sale, and were generally treated as sample boxes and not sold by the importers. Stamps would be issued for such boxes, but it appears that, as they were not intended for sale, Nerlich & Co. did not affix the stamps which were issued and in this way there arose an accumulation of unsued stamps in the hands of that firm. It also transpires that in an entry passed on the first of February last the appraiser in his memo. of stamps required made an error of 100 stamps beyond those actually needed. Altogether there would seem to have been received in this way by Nerlich & Co. about 255 stamps, of which about one-half have since been returned to the authorities. Messrs. Nerlich & Co. claim that the remaining stamps were used upon boxes containing domestic cigars manufactured in Toronto by Alvaraz, and that the number of such cigars on which both customs and excise stamps were used does not exceed 5000

EXTRACTED HONEY.

A prize essay upon the above-named subject was written for the American Bee Journal by Mr. R. McNight, of Owen Sound, who has no superior as an authority on apiarian lore. We re-produce the part of the article that will most interest dealers, that dealing with granulation, as we have not space for the whole of it.

"When honey is first extracted, it is in a liquid state, but under ordinary conditions it will in time change to a semi-solid form. It is then known as 'candied honey.' The length of time that elapses before candying takes place, differs materially in different seasons, and under different circumstances. The slowness with which honey changes from the liquid to the candied form, and the rapidity with which this takes place at other times, may be attributed to the presence or absence of water in quantities favorable or unfavorable to the transformation. So also will the grain be coarse or fine. The less water present, the slower the crystallization, while its entire absence prevents it altogether.

"Grape-sugar," of which honey is mainly composed, combines chemically with water in two proportions—monohydrated glucose and bi-hydrated glucose; both these hydrates loose their crystal water at 212° (Johnston). It follows that if honey be heated to the boiling point until its water of crystalization be expelled, the air then excluded and kept excluded by sealing it down, no crystalization can take place. This should be borne in mind and acted upon when desirable; by doing so, the bee-keeper will be enabled to supply his customers with liquid honey at any season of the year—spring, summer, autumn or winter.

To preserve honey in its liquid form, then, it is only necessary to expel the water it conains by the application of heat (this is best done in a water-bath),bottling while hot, and hermetically sealing the bottles. The common preserve jars, with their rubber rings and screw tops are admirably adapted for this purpose.

This is no vague theory, but one founded on sound chemical principles, and verified in my own practice and experience. At the International Convention held at Brantford, Ont., I produced a sample of liquid honey of the season of 1888, that had not been candied, and those who tasted it pronounced it excellent.

A neighbor of mine never permits his honey to candy, by treating as above described, and I have known him to receive orders from people a hundred miles from his home, because they get honey from him in its liquid state, while at home they cannot procure it in other than a candied condition.

The careful observer will have noticed that granulation may be retarded by keeping in an uniformly high temperature. I believe if honey be kept at say 90°, it will not crystallize so long as this temperature be maintained because the melting point of glucose-sugar crystals is 86°. Cold weather accelerates the candying of honey—this is well known, but little understood. It is not the cold that does it, but the condition of the atmosphere incident to cold. In other words, the point of atmospheric saturation is then low, in which state the air is in a condition favorable to its giving back its moisture to the honey, which has for water a strong affinity.

Let the skeptic who cures his honey by causing it to flow over shallow troughs, or by storing it in shallow tanks, and who refuses to accept this theory, transfer his operations to a cold room, or to the cellar, and he will discover that instead of obtaining cured honey, he will soon have candied honey.

A colorless syrup is sometimes found floating on top of a body ofgranulated honey. This liquid is almost pure levulose, and its presence is not an evidence of unripeness, but a proof that levulose is present in an undue proportion.

It varies in quantity in various samples of honey. It is in itself uncrystallizable glucose, separated from its co-constitutent, dextrose. When it is present in honey in abnormal quantities, a portion of it refuses to combine with the dextrose, and finds its way to the surface, where it floats in the form of the liquid well known to most bee-keepers. At least most of them have had an opportunity of seeing it.

The grocer who uses small bottles of flavoring extracts to make a display with, will find the figure of a wheel well adapted for such use. The base should be of some dark cloth, and the design be carefully laid out, with standing bottles for the hub, flat bottles for the spokes, and bottles laid on side for the rim.—Ex.

THE SONG OF THE GROCERY TRAVELLER.

"Honi soit qui mal y pense."

This is the song of the grocery drummer,
As he wanders through hamlet and town,
While he fills up the shelves of the merchants, and
With catables pure loads them down.

"There are tricks in all trades but the grocer's,
"There's deceit in each ribbon and rag,
"And the boots that are "real" alligator
"With laughter would make that beast wag."

"The "genuine" Scotch tweeds from the looms of Smith Falls
Wad' mak' only Sandy lach' oot,
"While the real Sheffield ware from New England mills
Would justify John Bull to shoot."

"The caps that we wear in the cold wintry days
And paid for as 'fine beaver,—in gold,
"Adorned without doubt some poor sleek Bunny's back,
Or protected Me-ow from the cold."

"But Oh! the goods that we sell are purest of pure;
And a contrary tale's a canard.
There are no cocoanut shells in our pepper,
Nor cotton seed oil in our lard."

"Our coffee would rise in virtuous wrath
Should you breath but the simple word "Peas,"
Our ninety per cent baking powder runs off
When her foe, Terra Alba, she sees."

"And each barrel of sugar, pure saccharine juice
Of the tall wavy plant of the Ind,
Would roll in convulsions of honor outraged,
Should at adulteration you hint.

"Oh Yes, there are tricks, as the trite saying goes
In all trades—I would have you know, sirs,
That though you're deceived in hats, boots and wool goods,
There's no fraud in those of your grocer's."

The above suggested itself on reading the unsatirical and able article taken from last week's Chicago Grocer.

The Retail Grocers' Association of Minneapolis adopted the following sugar card agreement at a recent meeting :

We, the undersigned grocers of the city of Minneapolis, Minnesota, knowing that there should be an equality in all trades, and which, by a ruinous competition, we have been deprived of in the past, do solemnly agree to sell granulated sugar, in future, at an average uniform profit of 10 per cent., and with that end in view appoint Carey Emerson as referee to fix quantities to be sold for one dollar from week to week.

Changes, if any, shall be made on Monday mornings, and price made then shall rule for the balance of that week, except in case of extreme market fluctuation, and in such case referee shall have power to order a change of price, one day's notice to be given to all dealers by mail. This agreement to take effect Monday, June 23, 1890.—Merchants' Review.

The Inland Revenue Department has recently issued a bulletin of about thirty pages which is devoted exclusively to the subject of baking powder and which shows that the majority of the goods in the market are adulterated and unfit for use. Prof. A. McGill, who has had charge of this important work for the Government, says that" imperial baking powder is an excellent baking powder." A word to the sensible housekeeper should be sufficient

A Carleton Place grocer named McCrea committed suicide the other day by blowing his brains out.

Mr. F. W. Fearman, of the pork-packing establishment in Hamilton, is off with his wife to spend a few weeks on the banks of the Saguenay.

The contract for supplying the groceries for the Stony Mountain penitentary has been awarded to A. Perry, who supplies coal oil and meat as well as groceries.

Mr. A. S. Hallman, one of Berlin's successful business men, was in THE GROCER office on Friday last. He is pushing the retail grocers' movement in that town.

Ald. Thomas has purchased from Mr. E. Sutton, of South London, the general store formerly owned by that gentleman, and will continue the business under the management of Mr. S. J. Cook.

The Wheeling Grocers' Association has a rule forbidding any member to trust a new customer, without first receiving a receipt acknowledging payment in full from the grocer with whom he dealt last.—American Grocer.

A destructive fire occurred at Saltford, across the river from Goderich, on the 29th ult. The salt works drying house, derrick and engine house, belonging to Mr. P. McEwan, were reduced to ashes. Loss about $8,000, only partially insured. Cause of fire unknown.

The prospects are good for a more abundant supply of cured mackerel this season than for the two preceding years. The Gloucester fleet had secured 2,425 barrels up to the 21st inst., against 49 barrels same time last year and 2,644 barrels in 1888.—Merchants Review.

Mr. George Grant, a prominent merchant of Trinidad, had an interview with Hon. Mr. Foster, respecting the West India trade with the Dominion. Mr. Grant speaks enthusiastically of the new route opened up with Canada, and believes that a large business can be worked up with the West Indies.

While Mr. Robert Picket, grocer, of Bothwell, was attending to his usual duties in the store on Friday last, he suddenly dropped dead. Mr. Picket had been troubled for same time with neuralgie in the head, which his medical adviser told him might terminate fatally, but otherwise was in good health. He was about sixty years of age, and was well respected.

A thief broke the glass in the front window of Mr. C. H. Moore's grocery in Ashburnham one evening last week and entered the store. He took some sardines and was seen inside eating a lunch. The police were sent for by those who saw the thief, but before the constable arrived he made off with provision for a future lunch, some tobacco and some change out of the till.

The Berlin grocers hope soon to have a good association. Mr. S. Hallman is the secretary, and is now busily engaged in preparing a delinquent list. This list has proved valuable wherever tried, and should benefit the trade of Berlin. This embryo city is, however, more free from bad debts than many more pretentious towns, owing no doubt to the native honesty and integrity of its German population.

The appointment of a committee by the Pittsburg Grocers' Association to see the Chief of the Department of Public Safety in regard to the enforcement of the hucksters' ordinance, has resulted in vigorous warfare against all unlicensed hucksters and peddlers. Nineteen arrests were made in one day, and there was a general rush for licenses. The Association have adopted a resolution against patronizing any one selling produce or the like in short measure baskets.—American Grocer.

The London Free Press says: Last week a grocer in the East End ordered two bags of potatoes from a Caradoc farmer in the market here. The farmer this time was an honest one, but made a mistake, leaving the vegetables at a store one block from the proper place, the store keeper there accepting them as his property. The original purchaser found the farmer, and the mistake was rectified, with the result that store keeper No. 2 has no character to boast of in the minds of those who know the parties.

The Western Fair Directors are evidently determined to make the Western Fair, Sept. 18th to 27th, the best of Canadian fairs from the handsome increase offered in prizes for live stock and agricultural classes and the large amount set apart for the speed programme. Information is received that they are now arranging for the best attractions that money can procure to please their visitors. The principal manufacturers are coming to their assistance by placing in the main building machinery to manufacture their goods, in view of the public, which will be alike pleasing and instructive. They expect a large attendance from this section. Mr. Thos. A. Browne, their new secretary, will be pleased to send prize list to any one on receipt of post card.

A few mornings ago burglars entered the general store of James Stark, Ayr, and blew open the safe. The work was evidently done by professionals. A hole was bored on top of the safe just inside the door, powder poured in and a fuse put down through the hole. The door was blown completely off and partly through a partition. Watson's night watchman, Rutherford, heard the report and went towards Stark's. The robbers fired three shots at him and hurried off north. There was only about $20 in the safe.

Mr. Benjamin Johnson, publisher of the New England Grocer, has visited Montreal, perfecting arrangements for the Grand Grocers' Excursion to that city and Quebec in September next. He describes Montreal as a city of great and peculiar attractions to American tourists and considers the view from Mount Royal well worth a journey to Montreal. The trip to Quebec will be made in the steamer "Quebec," the largest and best boat owned by the Richelieu & Ontario Navigation Company.—New England Grocer.

The Baltimore Trade notes as an offset to the number of new canneries reported as starting up in many sections of the country, the shutting down of a good many old ones. About two hundred canners in Maryland are reported as out of the race for the season, while Maine and Virginia supply a fair quota. Cause, the unremunerative condition of the business. The proposal to double the tin plate duty must seem very idiotic to these retiring canners and calculated to sicken them of the very idea of protection.—Merchants' Review.

Customs authorities say that when a man proves that goods came into his possession honestly nothing is done, but the Inland Revenue Department hold otherwise and chase the unfortunate retailer who happens to have a few plugs of tobacco in other than original packages. Every retailer who was summoned before the Police Magistrate came by the tobacco honestly and the Inland Revenue people knew it. A man can buy a barrel of whiskey and divide it into as many smaller packages as he wishes and he is not molested. Why make the difference in tobacco?

Every dealer should keep these packages in stock. Good seller. Good profit. Gives satisfaction. Order a dozen from your wholesale house to try.

CULTIVATION OF THE SUGAR BEET IN CANADA.

In an article upon this subject, the morning Post (London, Eng.,) says :—There can be no doubt that the efforts that have long been made in the same direction on the other side of the Canadian frontier have roused the people of the Dominion to a fuller appreciation of the capabilities of the Canadian soil for beet culture, and thus provoked a desire among the colonists to raise part of their sugar at home. It is not generally known in this country that for a long time the Yankees of the north-eastern States of the Union have been engaged in the work of introducing and fostering the beet sugar industry, bounties being offered, and other encouragements given to promote the culture of the root by farmers, and the establishment of sugar factories. As far back as the year 1830, a company was formed in Philadelphia to manufacture beet sugar. In 1839 the Northampton Beet Sugar Company was organised under the auspices of the State, but after turning out a ton or so of saccharine, just to show what the factory could do, it was closed. A quarter of a century elapsed before any further attempts of the kind were made in the Republic. But from 1863 to the present day continuous efforts have been in progress to introduce the industry in localities suited for beet growing ; and latterly, it must be owned, with a considerable show of success, if the accounts published are to be relied upon. These attempts have, of course, an important bearing upon similar undertakings projected in the Canadian Dominion, for the soil and climatic conditions in the northern and north-eastern States of the Union, where sugar cultivation is being carried on, are precisely similar to those of the provinces under British rule on the other side of the frontier, where beet growing is now proposed to be followed on an extended scale. If the business answers in one part, it should also pay in the other. Illinois and Maine are the two States in which most appears to have been done for the establishment of the beet sugar industry. In 1863 a small company started operations in Livingstone county, Illinois, but the managers have since tranferred their works to a more suitable locality in Stephenson county —in the same State. Shortly after this venture the German Beet Sugar Company bought a large farm at Chatsworth, Illinois; but the land was found to be too poor to yield roots containing a high percentage of saccharine, so the works were also transferred afterwards to Freeport, Illinois. In 1866 Wisconsin started the manufacture of sugar at Fond-du-lac, but the works were removed to California, where they were reorganised as the "Alvarado Company." But for bad management and the inferior machinery employed this company would have done well. As it was, the shareholders had to abandon the undertaking. The same fate overtook the Sacramento Company. Several small factories have been at work in California for some time; and in 1874 the State produced about 2,000,000 lb. of beet sugar. But attempts of a similar kind were made almost everywhere in the Union, even in the Southern States, which are quite unfit for beet culture. In 1874 the State of New Jersey gave an impetus to beet sugar growing by passing a law exempting all sugar factories from taxation for a period of ten years, while Maine offered a bounty on the establishment of every beet sugar factory within its limits, and, in addition, a premium on every pound of marketable sugar produced. The result was the immediate starting of several establishments for the manufacture of beet sugar in both the States named. And to aid the industry the Federal Government sanctioned the admission from abroad of machinery required for sugar-making and refining free of duty. At the present time beet sugar is manufactured in the States of New York, Maine, Illinois, and New Jersey, to the extent—we take the figures from Messrs. Spon's "Handbook for Sugar-Planters and Refiners," which is brought down to 1888—of about 2,000 tons a year. We are of the opinion that the quantity must be rather greater, for the Maine Beet Sugar Company at Portland alone turned out some 900 tons of sugar and molasses as a result of the first year's working, and this was only an experimental year, too. It is, however, only fair to point out that there is not such a steady increase in the output of beet sugar from the United States factories devoted to its production as would be expected, considering the encouragement they receive from the respective States in which they are located.

The Canadians need not, however, be discouraged on this account. If the European planters had suffered themselves to be browbeaten out of the field by scientists who asserted that beet sugar when manufactured would be unfit for consumption, or by political economists, who strived to demonstrate that the business would never become permanent or be made to pay, one of the greatest industries in modern Europe would have been stifled in its inception. As a matter of fact, the beet, even the best sugar-yielding beet, is one of the easiest plants in the world to cultivate, and the crop is by no means an expensive one to raise, as it entails no excessive outlay for labor, for the ground requires but little preparation to receive the seed, and the plants when up thrive with a minimum of attention. It is as well to remind people in this country, whose ideas of a beet are derived from the red and irregular shaped root used for boiling, and eaten at table as a salad, that the saccharine beet for which the manufacturer looks is a different variety altogether from the beta vulgaris. For making sugar the beet in demand is the beta alba, a distinct species, having white or yellowish flesh, pear-shaped, and nearly all underground when growing. It is commonly known as the white "Silesian," and yields, according to cultivation, and soil, and preparation, from 12 to 14 per cent. of saccharine, or raw sugar, and there are very few countries in the temperate regions of the globe where there is a reasonably warm summer in which the sugar beet, in some variety or other of it, cannot be profitably grown. But moisture is indispensable, and the larger the supply of warm rain it receives, the better and richer the roots. Hence it is that Ireland affords a peculiarly suitable field for experiments in the culture of the sugar beet. Hence, too, the industry is much more likely to prove a success in New Zealand, with its bountiful showers, than in droughty Australia, though New South Wales has done fairly well. Canada, though tolerably hot, is by no means too dry for the root, so that the prospect of successful beet-growing there is anything but unfavorable, so far as climatic conditions are concerned. For the rest much must, of course, depend upon the energy and enterprise which the Canadians show in the matter.

GROCERIES.

The month of July is so far below the average of its usual record. Probably it is because we have had more growing than maturing weather and everything is less advanced than in former years at the same time. Fruits may be slower ripening, and thus delay the sugar-trade by a longer interval between the strawberry season and the season of the next instalment of small fruits. Harvesting will no doubt be later and the consumptive demand which it inaugurates will be slower commencing. At all events there is a dull trade now. There is also a remarkable absence of the speculative temper which is usually active near the approach of harvest, and which leads many dealers to make confident calculations before-hand as to the trade prospects and make big preparations accordingly. Caution is the ruling influence. Buying will most likely be shy until the crops are taken off. A cautious trade takes a little of the bound out of the report, but it is the safest trade at the present juncture.

CANNED GOODS.

The stock continues to move off, though it is yet between limits that taper rather slowly in some lines. Peas and corn are rather quiet, consumption not being progressive enough to make the prospect of a clear market for the 1890 pack so bright as it was a while ago. There is every probability though that the residue will not be large if there is one. The consumptive demand for tomatoes has about overtaken the supply; several houses on the street are completely sold out; for 1888 pack sellers get $1.20 to $1 25 and 1889 at $1.25 to $1.30. Local jobbers have been buying in Montreal and bringing on a few small lots to carry them into the new crop. New crop canned strawberries have been offering for future delivery at $2.10 for the finest packs. Not many sales have been made. A lot of 200 cases was sold by a packer to a wholesale house at $1.85. This is generally regarded as a very close price; most of the packers asking not less than $2. It was reported on the street that the Lynx brand of salmon had sold to arrive at $1.30; there is a fair demand for immediate use at prices varying from $1.35 for cheap brands to $1.65 for Maple Leaf and $1.60 for Horse Shoe.

COFFEES.

Trade has been almost at a standstill in this market. Prices have not moved from the position they were reported in last week.

Warren Bros. & Boomer report the arrival of samples new crop Rio coffees. Prices are slightly higher than last year, but the quality is better.

DRIED FRUIT.

The markets for Valencia raisins everywhere are becoming rapidly depleted. At all points prices are firming, and there are all the signs of a dearth of Valencias before stocks are replenished from the new crop. This new crop, mail advices say, is likely to be a large one, but it will probably be a week late in picking. Sultanas will be a poor crop which intensifies the prospect of higher prices for the remainder of the old that is yet on the market. Elemes are also scarce. Currants are strong at the prices current a week ago. They are quoted generally at 5¾ to 6c. for barrels, with odd sales at 5⅝c. Dates dull and range in price from 4½ to 6c. as to quality, the top being for fine Hallowee. Figs are in fair demand, ordinary Elemes are selling in large boxes at 11½c. net weights; fancy qualities at 13½ to 15½c. Prunes are scarce and firm; most of the street are cleared out; 6c. is asked for hogsheads. There are a few Bosnia plums (bottled) at 11 to 12½c. The demand for them is steady.

Currants are regarded as somewhat easier in tone, but in some quarters doubts are expressed of a real weakness. The stock, it is true, is very large, but it is controlled by two concerns that have an excellent reputation for "staying" qualities, therefore some venture the belief that there is an African hidden in the wood pile, and that the weakness is fictitious. There is, however, no interest of any consequence extended by the trade of the country, and the prospects for a large distribution during the remainder of the season are certainly not favorable. Turkish prunes, on the other hand, are confidently held, as the stock is not excessive, and the indications for the coming crop are unfavorable for an abundant yield; while the growth from other sections of the world are expected to rule high during the coming season.—N. Y. Bulletin.

NUTS.

Nothing specially momentous has transpired to affect the conditions of trade. Sales are not large nor particularly numerous. Cables report an advance in Sicily filberts. This market is fairly well supplied. Trade lots have sold at 9 to 9¼c. and in a small way at 10c.

Peanuts are in a firm position but have not advanced. The visible supply a few weeks ago was only 400,000 bushels, being 500,000 bushels less than at same date last year and 800,000 bushels less than in 1888.

RICE AND SPICES.

Unhulled rice is firm at outside markets. There is a good local demand upon the stock on this market, and prices have not been changed since the summer trade began. Stocks here are but moderate. Spices have not varied for a long time and a steady trade continues to be done in them.

SUGAR.

A fair week's trade has been transacted in sugar. No advance in the price of granulated, however, has been developed by the business done, though the prices yet holding appear to be firm. The tone of the New York market has improved, though scarcely more than to the degree of giving better assurance that further decline need not immediately be apprehended. Granulated remains 6⅞ to 7c. Low grade yellows are down a quarter below the lowest point recorded last week. They are selling now rather freely at 5¾c. the sample being quite dark. Raw Porto Ricos are offering at 5¼ to 5½c. The demand for yellows, indeed for all sugars, has been improving the past few days. The influx of strawberries and of California small fruits has helped business. The strawberry season has reached the point when prices are lowest, and when preserving is therefore more general.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Molasses are rather easier; a very fine sample of Porto Rico is selling at 38c. in hogsheads, 43 to 45c. in barrels and 45 to 47c. in halves; medium to choice West India are held at 33 to 37c. in hogsheads; New Orleans scarce and steady at 70c. In syrups trade is very quiet, the bent of consumption being very strongly towards the early fruits. Prices are unchanged.

TEAS.

Teas are firmer, particularly Japans and Young Hysons. In both, low grades are almost unobtainable.

New medium Japans, not quite as fine in quality as those of former years, are arriving and meeting with a good demand at 18½ to 20 and 21c. Blacks quiet, with the usual number of good values offering. There is a more active enquiry for Japan teas from jobbers. Quite a few little lots have changed hands at fairly satisfactory prices to sellers, and though values are not equal to last year, shippers complain that they are not getting cost.

There is a fair amount of business doing in Indian teas, but prices are hardening. In

MARKETS—Continued.

London the position has changed very little during the week ; the strong demand continues. The competition for new teas being particularly noticable, and exceptional prices were paid for those invoices which possessed strength and flavor. An invoice from the Pooboug Estate realised an average of 1s. 8¼d. per lb, The scanty supply of Indian teas has concentrated attention on the Ceylon auctions, and a further hardening of prices has taken place and competition was very keen. The average price for all Ceylons sold during the week was 11d.

PETROLEUM.

A slight advance in the price of crude oil has not yet been followed by more than a stiffening of the present prices of refined. Trade has been fair.

DRUGS AND CHEMICALS.

There is no variation in the movement of trade. It is fairly active. Camphor has advanced 5c. and hellebore 1c. Otherwise prices are still at the point noted last week.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

There is now an abundance of very good grass butter. It is brought freely upon the market, and this fact being a general one, prices may perhaps be kept lower than if there was more reserve in offering. But reserve in offering is not a very wise course in most circumstances where butter is the article dealt in, and it is least wise in the special circumstances that are now in the ascendant. Those circumstances are hot weather and rich butter. The liberal rains we have had this spring and the good growing weather have brought all herbage into a luxurient developement. Grass of all kinds has grown thick and stout, and the experience of dealers shows that butter which is the product of such feeding does not keep well. It may be toothsome butter, but it lacks in keeping qualities. This week there has been very little done in old tub butter. A transaction involving the turn-over of a hundred tubs of good straight boiling old at 8c. is reported. 480 tubs of selected yellow went off at 13c. New tub moves off at 13 to 14½c., and for some 15c. has been paid. This price is for strictly choice, and the quality eligible for this classification is but small. The average quality, however, is good. There have been more large rolls brought in than was looked for at so warm a part of the year. The market was believed to be over on account of the heat, but they continue to come in and bring 14 to 14½c. The dairy pound rolls are 16 to 18c., though 19c. was given at the beginning of the week. Creamery rolls are 19 to 21c. They were in free supply. Sales of all kinds are these days in small lots of seldom more than ten tubs.

Cheese is easier at 9½c. The demand is as active as usual and the supply good. A shipment from a Front street house went to Vancouver on Tuesday.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

BEANS—The stock is low and the demand is quiet. In the largest quantities they can be bought at $1.50. In small quantities, which are the ruling ones, prices are $1.60 to $1.80.

DRIED APPLES—Are 4⅞ to 5¼c. in lots, and 5¼ to 5½c. for retailers' quantities. There has been no special call for them but the stock has got pretty well taken off.

EVAPORATED APPLES—Have experienced a strong run for several weeks, and have got now all but cleared out. The remains of the old stock are going at 9 to 10c., and those of '89 curing are 12 to 13c. There is scarcely sufficient stock to make quotations upon.

EGGS—They are firmer, though not advanced an assured cent. The price is from 13 to 14c., with the majority of sales at 13c. The scarcity may develop an advance before the week is out. Buyers for outside markets are taking up a good quantity in the ooountry.

HAY—Is unchanged. Bales on track are still $10.50 to $11, only choice timothy being taken. A fair supply continues to arrive, though the street receipts take up a large share of the current demand.

HIDES—Are steady at the quotations of a week ago, except cured. A carload of selected sold on Monday at ¼c. advance, that is, at 6½c. Green rule 7c. for No. 1 steers' 6c. for No. 2, and 5c. for No. 3. Cows' are 1c. lower in each grade.

HONEY—The abated demand keeps prices stationary. Clear is 9 to 12c., and in the comb, honey is 14 to 18c. The trade is mostly in comb honey, which is always a favorite fancy article of consumption.

HOPS—Are 12 to 14c. for the '89 growth, and 8 to 12c. for yearlings. Dulness characterizes the trade.

OATS—Are quiet but steady at 41 to 41½c. for mixed on track.

POTATOES—The revival of the market last week was but the preclude to the strong movement which was made this week. Carloads delivered here are now 70 to 75c. and these figures do not bring large receipts. In broken lots potatoes are 75 to 80c. and in bags out of store they are 90c. to $1. The stock appears to be valuable because of its scarcity, not because some of it is kept invisible for the purpose of propagating prices. The demand is sustained by a steady consumption, and the receipts of southern potatoes so far do not affect the market for the native ones, as the price of the former, $4.50 per barrel, keeps them out of any extensive competition with our stock.

POULTRY—Chickens are 40 to 60c. per pair. Duck's sell at the same prices. Both arrive upon the market pretty well up to the measure of the demand for them, which is fair.

SKINS—Pelt are 30 to 35c., lambs' are 50 to 65c. These prices are firm at present. No. 1 calf is 8c., and No. 2 is 6c.

STRAW—Is $5 to $5.50. It is in declining request, and in plentifal supply. Loose on the street narrows the market for tight-pressed.

TALLOW—Is worth 2c. for rough, and 5¼c. for rendered.

WOOL—The new fleeces are in demand at 21c. The market is better supplied than it was last week.

FISH.

The demand for all classes of fish at this time of the season, is not very good, although trout and white fish have been in very fair request. There is more trout coming in at present than there has been for some time. The demand for British Columbia salmon and New Brunswick salmon is about the same. Lake herring is scare this week, the shipments being of an inferior class. No receipt of Sarnia herring is reported, no doubt on account of scarcity. The daily supply of British Columbia salmon is not so good as it has been, none being received this week. The prices remain about the same as last week's. Trout and white fish 5½ to 6c. British Columbia salmon 14c. to 15c. New Brunswick salmon 16c. Lake herring $2. Sarnia herring $2. Pickerel 4c. Black bass 7 to 8c.

GREEN FRUIT.

The general scarcity of oranges is the ruling feature. A strong trade in them and a considerable shrinkage, through wastiness, in the stock have left the market almost bare. The Valencias are nearly done, and there is no other sort in even so full supply. Messinas are done. So are Rodis. The Valencia oranges are $11 to $11.50. At so advanced a period in the year it is unlikely that the stocks of box-oranges will be recruited. The fruit is scarce at outside points, and importation to this market would bring prices up too far for trade. The barrel-oranges of Jamaica will be next in. They are already on the New York market, and may be expected here in two weeks at most The crop is said to have been a very good one. Lemons have been in favor these hot days, and the prices have been and are very firm. They are $5.50 to $6 for both 300's and 360's. Sales have been good throughout the week. Bananas are $1.25 to $1.50 according to size of bunch. They are selling well. California fruits, apricot, plums, and peaches, are all at $3.75 to $4.25 per crate. A car of Illinois tomatoes is just in. They will cut retailers $2 per crate. Cherries are $1.25 per basket. There is a very good business done in these small fruits.

PROVISIONS.

There has been no falling off in the tra de It continues good for smoked meats and lard, and fair for mess pork. Dressed hogs are yet fairly plentiful, and there seems to be a demand that will not fail the supply. Prices are throughout at about last week's points.

BACON—Long clear is 8½ to 8¾c. Bellies are 11 1-2 to 12c. Backs are 11 to 11 1-2c. Roll is 9 1-2 to 10c.

DRESSED HOGS—Are $6 to $6.25.

HAMS—Smoked are 12 to 12 1-2c. Sweet pickled are 11c.

LARD—In pails is 10c., and in tubs is 9 1-2c.

MESS PORK—Heavy is $15 to $15.50. Short-cut is $16.50 to $17.

SALT.

There is a good demand for salt this week. The sales are much larger. Dairy salt seems to be in good demand. The prices remain the same as usual. The Toronto Salt Works report the following prices : 1 car bbls. at $1.37 ; 1 car sacks at 68c.; 3 cars dairy at $1.18. Smaller quantities sell at $1.45 for bbls. ; 85c. for sacks, and 45c. for ¼ sacks.

DRY GOODS.

Still the course of trade runs slowly. There is little doing. The basis of it was not in last year's production and the co-relative prices of this year. It has been a very flat year's trade for the dry goods men and will scarcely mend till the crops are ripe, harvested, threshed and actually marketed, so strong is the mistrust of appearances. This caution has been good for trade, for although the year was a bad one, yet the proportion of failures has been small. Wholesalers, as a rule, prefer to see the conservative disposition holding out, as the volume of business done is more secure though it is not so large as that which buoyant hopes might rear up for a short time.

MONTREAL

MONTREAL MARKETS.

JULY 10, 1890.

GROCERIES.

There is no change for the better in general business since last report. In the city things are exceedingly quiet owing to the holiday season. The reports of the state of crops has had yet no effect on this market, and until everything is housed goods will be bought sparingly and money continue tight.

SUGAR.

There has been a very dull sugar market the past week at former prices with prospects of no immediate change, though it is generally felt that they cannot be lower on account of the fruit season now on, and this statement is backed up by the fact that stocks are low in the country. Low grade yellows are lower and quoted at 5⅜ to 6c. Advices state English market firmer.

MOLASSES.

Molasses sold easier the past week otherwise there is no change. Quotations are: Barbadoes, old, 34 to 34½, new 35c.

DRIED FRUIT.

The market is bare of dried fruit, with but little demand and quotations are unchanged. Valencias 8 to 8½ and Layers at 9½c. Currents, which are pretty much in the hands of one man are selling at 6 to 6¾c. Eleme raisins, choice 8½ to 8¾.

TEAS.

The sample shown on this market of low grade Japans are much inferior to that of previous years while the price is fully 2c. higher. Quite an advance has taken place in Ceylon and India black teas.

CANNED GOODS.

Prices have opened lower than last season. Quality fully equal with a few exceptions. Buyers are not eager. We learn of one Western packer having disposed of two carloads strawberries at $1.85. This price is very low—and does not give a healthy tone to market. Another large Western packer having through their agent placed new strawberries at $2.00. The same agent also placed some 1700 tomatoes $1.02½, also three carloads of assorted canned goods, peas, pears, red raspberries, apples and gages. We don't look for any push in the canned goods line before middle or end of August. Lobsters are in great demand and all offerings are readily picked up. We quote $7.25 to $8.00 flots 1lb., $7.90 to $8.00 per case. Salmon easy. New Gaspe Dry Cod $4.50 per cwt. Packers have sold at the following prices: Strawberries $2.00; red raspberries $2.10; black $2.00; apples 3 lb. 90c., gal. $2.10; peas $1.00 to $1.15; pears $1.50 to $1.60, tomatoes $1.02½; beans 85 to 90c.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

GRAIN.—The market remains quiet, but firm. No business of any importance was reported. Quotations are unchanged. We quote as follows :—Wheat, No. 1 hard Manitoba, $1.14 to $1.16, No. 2, $1.12 to $1.13; peas, per 66 pounds, 00 to 77½c. Ontario oats, 41 to 42c.; corn, duty paid, 50 to 51½c; Barley, malting, 52c.

FLOUR.—A fair amount of business is now being done, and values are firm. No sales reported on 'Change. We quote as follows: —Patent winter, $5.25 to $5.50; patent spring, to $0.00 $5.55; straight roller, $4.90 to $5.00; extra, $4.70; to $4.80 superfine, $4.25 to $4.50; fine, $3.50 to $4.00; city strong bakers, to $0.00 $5.25; strong bakers, $0.00 to $5.25; superfine, bags, $1.50 to $2.00; extra, bags, $2.20 to $2.30; fine, bags, $1.25 to $1.70; oatmeal, standard, per bag $2.20 to $2.30; oatmeal, granulated, $2.00 to $2.50; oatmeal, rolled, $0.00 to $2.50

EGGS.

Eggs are quoted at 12 to 12½c. to-day.

HOG PRODUCTS.

We quote :—Canada short cut, $17 to $17.50; Western Mess, $17.00 to $17.50; Western Short Cut, $17 to $17.50. Lard, 8 to 8½c. per pound; bacon, 10½ to 11c.; hams, 11½ to 12c.

GREEN FRUIT.

The hot weather made the berries that came in this morning very soft, and they sold at 6c to 8c. Oranges, in cases, repacked, $10 ; lemons, $2.50 to $3.50 for fine, $4 to $5 in boxes for choice ; pineapples, 10c. to 25c.; bananas, $1 to $1.75 per bunch ; Egyptian onions 4c. per pound ; Bermudas, $3.50 per case; Canadian Cherries, $1.50 per basket.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

CHEESE.—The sales at Utica and Little Falls, yesterday, were small ; ruling prices were 7⅝c. and 7½c. On this market there is a decided drag at about the old ideas as to value. We quote at about 8¾c. to 8⅞c. for finest colored ; 8¼c. to 8⅝c. for fair to fine white.

BUTTER.—There is no further movement and the jobbing trade is very dull. We quote as follows :—Creamery 18c. ; Townships, 14 to 17c.; Western, 14 to 15c.

same time was 177, against 154 up to the first of the month last year. The aggregate tonnage shows a large proportionate increase in the size of vessels in the St. Lawrence trade this year.

On Saturday an inquest was held by Coroner Jones at the Notre Dame Hospital on the body of a woman named Marie Scribe, a resident of St. Leonard, Montcalm county. She was taken seriously ill three weeks ago after eating canned lobsters and was brought to the Notre Dame Hospital, where everything possible was done for her, but without avail, and she died on Friday night. The jury rendered the following : "Poisoned by lead in a tin of lobster."

Mr. Grant, grocer, St. Catherine street, received a surprise in the shape of an ugly, large-sized tarantula, which, as a stowaway in a bunch of bananas, had made a trip from some southern country to Montreal. Having awakened from a torpid slumber, the monster spider caught sight of a small dog that runs about the store and began to chase it with murderous intent, its career, however, being cut short by a stout stick in the hands of the dog's proprietor.

Mr. Rose, of Turner, Rose & Co., wholesale grocers, who has just returned from a trip through the Maratime Provinces, speaks very highly of the business men of that part of the Dominion. The grocery stores are not only well, but elegantly fitted up, and the stock carried of the very highest class. He says that Halifax can claim the oldest grocer, in business, in the country, in the person of Mr. James Scott, of the "Army and Navy," who has occupied the same stand for 51 years. Mr. Scott is 69 years of age. His trade is principally with men of war and officers.

MONTREAL RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

A special meeting of the above Association was held in the Mechanics' Hall, Monday, 30th June. President Fraser in the chair. Among others present were: Ald. Gauthier, Vallieres, Soncy, Houle, Richard, O'Shaughnessy, Connaughton, Manning, Demers, and Beauchamp.

The secretary, at the request of the president read the motions adopted at the last meeting regarding the picnic.

Mr. Gauthier, a member of the picnic committee, said he had visited Valleyfield where he was met by the Mayor who took him in tow. Visiting the principal places about there, including the Grove, the latter he thought was too small for their purpose. He had no time to visit Knowlton.

Mr. Connaughton, also of the committee, said that at Valleyfield accommodation could only be had for 700, and he hoped to see the picnic draw fully 2,000. He was much pleased with his visit to Knowlton where there were grass lots, groves, a band stand, and a beautiful lake, on which there were a number of canoes at the disposal of the excursionists. The C. P. R. had offered to take them out in two and a half hours.

Mr. Valliers fully endorsed Mr. Connaughton's views, and said that they could have the use of the exhibition buildings in case of rain.

Mr. Fraser spoke favorably of Knowlton, and said he had written Judge Foster, who owns the ground, asking for its use, and he expected to have a favorable answer. The C. P. R. had given a rate of 85c. for adults and 50c. for children, but he hoped to get much lower rates.

It was then moved, seconded and carried, that the picnic be held at Knowlton, and that the date be 30th July.

It was moved and seconded that Messrs. Fraser and Gauthier be a committee to perfect arrangements.

The meeting then adjourned.

HONOR AND BUSINESS.

The merchant who buys largely from the jobber, and the jobber who purchases heavily from several manufacturers, are, with the latter, supposed to be good judges of the commodities in which they deal, and, as far as the quality is concerned, are all equally concerned. The jobber's purchases are guaranteed by the manufacturer to be perfect in material and make; at least there is a tacit understanding to that effect, even if it is not expressed in the contracts. The jobber is not expected to see every article which he purchases. Samples and the price form the foundation of his transactions. Beyond these there is nothing besides his confidence in the manufacturer.

The goods arrive safely at their destination. The receiving clerk and the buyer of the house may both see the packages, but may not take the time to give their contents a critical examination. The heads of the respective departments to which the goods are assigned in the store for sale and reshipment to customers may see only the original packages from the time they are received until they are shipped to the retail merchant.

The latter may not open them for weeks after their receipt But he is at home, in the midst of a large constituency of consumers, to whom he is impelled to guarantee the quality of their purchases. By-and-by a package, just as it left the factory, is opened and its contents are found inferior or defective. Those articles he cannot sell for more than cost, and perhaps they would not bring even that—so bad, indeed, as to be worthless and unsalable. He cannot sell them. He may claim rebate for them from the jobber ; but the jobber may refuse to receive or pay for them because too long a time has elapsed since they were purchased. (We are referring now to imperishable merchandise.) Rather than lose a good customer, however, the jobber resorts to the manufacturer for redress, and if he refuses to refund the purchase money for the same reason, trouble ensues. The merchant is angry, the jobber is vexed, and the manufacturer is disgruntled more than either of the others, for he finds it very difficult to discover the party most to blame.

If all prove finally unyielding, the foreman or inspector of the factory is in danger of losing his situation unless he can clear his skirts of the error ; the manufacturer loses the patronage of the jobber ; the jobber offends the merchant, and the latter charges the goods to profit and loss ?—no, but to the jobber, and deducts the amount from the next settlement. Who can blame him? On the other hand, the manufacturer may allow the jobber for the amount of the defective goods, and the jobber may refuse to be as honest with the retail merchant.

Thus the difficulty, turning upon a "point of honor," or rather even-handed justice, has created more evil feeling and distrust than years of fair dealing can eradicate. That honesty is said to be the best that has no policy; but in cases like these honesty has a policy, and the true business man will not hesitate to right a wrong even at a sacrifice for the sake of securing peace and to retain a profitable customer. Perhaps, on the whole, it is not best always to trust to the exercise of honor in such transactions, but one does not like to be always asking for written contracts. It may be a foolish feeling, but the written contract is a good business document and may save a world of trouble.

Another case : Two business men in the city have financial transactions. One day A calls up B to the telephone and asks for a loan of a few hundred dollars for a temporay accommodation. "Certainly," replies B ; "but I never loan money on a telephone message. Come yourself, or send your written order, and I shall be pleased to let you have what you want." "Humph," says A, "Curious fellow that ; but he's right after all. He may think it's all square—no doubt fully recognizes my voice ; well, I never thought of it before, but it's 'business' sure enough, and I honor him for it."

Points of honor are valuable at proper times and seasons ; but the written guarantee never comes amiss.—Chicago Journal of Commerce.

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,

Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, McGILL UNIVERSITY.

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured.

Yours truly,

G. P. GIRDWOOD.

THE CARNIVAL.

Toronto has had its Summer Carnival. It was not a success, in fact, it was a positive failure. We have no sympathy with the promoters. Toronto has a good thing in its Industrial Exhibition and it had no right to hold a carnival. It was simply copying Hamilton. Some Toronto people were a little jealous of the great success of Hamilton's meeting last year. The promoters of Hamilton's Carnival had an object in view. They wanted a gathering of business men and the Carnival was chiefly a means of entertaining them. It was a plucky thing for the Hamilton people to do but their Carnival was a big success and everybody went away thoroughly satisfied with it. The Toronto people had not the grit nor the go about them that the Hamilton people had. It was pointed out to them that a Merchants' Convention would make their Carnival a success but the Toronto people are too much given to fakes and their carnival was one of the biggest fakes of the age. A carnival every year for Hamilton may perhaps be more than she could be expected to undertake Why not run a gigantic fair there, say every fourth year, during the time of the Merchants' Convention, and in other years let the Carnival and Convention be held in succession at London, Kingston and Ottawa?

On Wednesday Mr. Alex. Duncan, merchant at Farquhar, drove to Exeter station for the purpose of taking home with him a load of goods, which was composed of boxes and barrels. After getting his load he left for home and when driving through the north end of the village the horse took fright and run away, throwing Mr. Duncau out. He hung to the lines and was dragged a considerable distance before he let go his hold, and when picked up it was found that one of his ears was nearly torn off and his face considerably scratched. He was badly shaken up.

Parlor matches are the most daugerou article sold by retail grocers. When packed on shelves as I have often seen them, they are liable to fall and ignite. I saw a grocer a short time ago who dropped a package out of his wagon ; there was a blaze in an instant, and an entire loss. They are very dangerous for the household as well. I knew a lady who lost the sight of her eye, by the tip of a parlor match flying against the pupil thereof. Every grocer should provide himself with a tin box in which to keep these goods. Kept on shelves or in drawers is inviting danger.—Retail Grocers' Advocate.

EXPORTS OF TOMATOES.

English trade journals state that tomatoes are still gradually gaining favor as a side dish in Great Britain.—N. Y. Bulletin.

Is there not a chance here for our Canadian canned goods packers? We have already succeeded in introducing, and are giving great satisfaction with our apples, pears, and peaches. All we want to boom every branch of the canned goods trade is a slightly discriminating duty in our favor, and the British public are gradually working in that direction. The McKinley Bill by the United States would naturally aid the movement.

IMPOSSIBLE!
So say Doctors, to say too much in favour of St. Leon Water. It puts down Bright's Disease and Diabetes, as water quenches fire. Cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, etc., completely if drank freely and rubbed in the skin.

SILVER STAR STOVE PASTE.
The following is the universal verdict of all who have used or sold it :
HAMILTON, APRIL 25th, 1890.
Messrs. F. F. DALLEY & Co.,
GENTLEMEN :—In thus ordering a fresh supply of your SILVER STAR STOVE PASTE we cannot but express our appreciation of the goods and congratulate you on having been able to place on the market an article so superior in every respect to anything we have heretofore been able to get.
As we use it on the stoves in the wareroom, we know personally its good qualities—no dust, a quick polish, always ready and the work is done in the time it would take to prepare the Dome or other hard stove polishes, and one of the best features about it is that it is so clean to handle.
If a man sells us an inferior article we don't forget to tell him about it, and on the same principle when a firm gives us an Extra good one we believe in letting them know that we appreciate it.
We remain,
Respectfully yours,
J. WALLACE & SON.

SOLUS. SOLE PRESERVER
Will preserve the soles of boots or shoes, and render them perfectly waterproof. One application to a pair of new shoes will double their wearing qualities.
Two-sized tins, 15 and 25 cents. Will cost you $1.20 and $2.00 per dozen.
We also manufacture the best line of Wigwam Slippers, and Lumberman's Oil Tanned foot wear in Canada.
C. N. VROOM,

BEST SOAP

Which has a world-wide reputation of being the best lard soap made; noted for its PURITY and QUALITY. Hundreds of Soap Manufacturers have tried for years to imitate and discover the process by which it is made—but all have met with signal failure. No soap ever made has the same Washing Powers. Millions of families, mechanics, railroad engineers, railroad men will attest to this fact.

RAPIDE PLAT DIVISION.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for the St. Lawrence Canals," will be received at this office until the arrival of the eastern and western mails on Wednesday, the 23rd day of July next, for the construction of a lift lock, weirs, etc., at Morrisburg, and the deepening and enlargement of the Rapide Plat Canal. The work will be divided into three sections, each about a mile in length.

A map of the locality, together with plans and specifications of the respective works, can be seen on and after Wednesday the 9th day of July next, at this office, and at the Resident Engineer's Office, Morrisburg, where printed forms of tender can be obtained.

In the case of firms there must be attached to the tender, the actual signatures of the full name, the nature of the occupation and residence of each member of the same, and further, an accepted cheque on a chartered bank in Canada for the sum of $6,000, must accompany the tender for Section No. 1, and an accepted cheque on a chartered bank in Canada, for the sum of $2,000 for each of the other sections.

The respective accepted cheques must be endorsed over to the Minister of Railways and Canals, and will be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the works at the rates and on the terms stated in the offer submitted. The cheques thus sent in will be returned to the respective parties whose tenders are not accepted.

This Department does not however, bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

SPECIAL TO OUR READERS.

As the design of THE CANADIAN GROCER is to benefit mutually all interested in the business, we would request all parties ordering goods or making purchases of any description from houses advertising with us to mention in their letter that such advertisement was noticed in THE CANADIAN GROCER.

OUR MONTREAL OFFICE.

Our Montreal Office is located at 115 St. Francois Xavier St. Our representative, Mr. Hugh C. McLean, will be pleased to have subscribers and advertisers call upon him there. He will also pay special attention to gathering business items and attending generally to the interests of this paper.

Changes in advertisements and new advertisements must reach this office not later than Wednesday morning of each week.

LARD AND ROUGH GREASE.

Customs house officers are usually zealous enough in the discharge of their duty. They are not long in learning what articles of merchandise are made the cover for the importation of other goods along with them. It is well, however, that they should theorize rather than wait for the lessons of experience, as these might not come until a large amount of fraud had been perpetrated. Coarse grease, for instance, an article that is admitted duty free to soapmakers, might, by a little collusion between the shipper and receiver, be used as a blind for the importation of lard, which is dutiable at 3c. for tried and 2c. for untried. There is a sufficient temptation in the demand there is yet here, in the slow state of the market across the line, the cheapness of American production, and the feasibility of smuggling in the way supposed, to strengthen the chances that the thing may be attempted. The two animal products are so similar that an assortment of both could be sent in one shipment under the name of the free article, the grease. By an arrangement between the buyer and seller the lard packages could bear some private mark, which the ex-warehouser would have no difficulty in catching sight of, and which would guide his officious activity in bringing to the hand of the examining officer packages to be tested. The tested could thus be satisfactorily passed, as only a few packages are ever bored, and the selection of packages of genuine grease is an easy matter to a shrewd active fellow.

This illustrates the fact that an examination which would be considered very thorough for merchandise of one sort would be deemed perfunctory and unsatisfactory for merchandise of another sort. There are goods which have so distinct an individuality that little fraudulent use can be made of the principle of resemblance. For these, the customs examination need not be so exacting. The inspection of a few typical cases should usually suffice. But the case is different where there are resemblances that are strong, along with a difference in the rate of duty that is considerable. Such cases are never acquitted of being covers for smuggling until every package is examined, and this mode of satisfying themselves should be resorted to by customs officials in every shipment of coarse grease.

OUR ORANGE SUPPLY.

In the production of oranges this continent is rapidly overhauling its own demand for them. Each year of late witnesses a further shrinkage in the consumption of old world oranges. There are fewer Maoris, Messinas, Rodis and Valencias consumed on this side of the Atlantic than there were a few years ago. Orange cultivation in Jamaica, Florida and California promises soon to fulfil, so far as the orange trade is concerned, the Munro doctrine of America for the Americans. Spanish and Italian shippers find that trade on this side of the Atlantic has started upon an ebb that will have no succeeding flow. The American fruit has the flavor, size, shipping and keeping qualities that are necessary for trade in the best. Each centre of production has a crop ready at about the time more southern fields need relief from stocking the market. Thus the three crops of the year do not compete with each other, but are a series, fitting in all but quantity pretty well to the character of the continental demand.

In three weeks the barrel oranges will be on this market. In the year that has elapsed since their last season opened there have been many Valencia and Messina oranges consumed here, but not so many as in former years. The decline in the consumption of Mediterranean fruit has no doubt been in an equal proportion in the United States. There were five thousand cases fewer Valencias brought to this market than there were in 1889. The Messinas did not come in so freely as they did a year ago. The demand for all oranges was rather quiet until the only surplus stocks were Mediterranean and Pacific fruit, and the latter has not got up to the point of production to which it will be brought. The fruit situation was therefore in favor of the Mediterranean oranges, which have mostly left the market at high prices.

What makes it desirable that the continent should be self-maintaining in its orange supply, is the diminution of the chance of loss through shipping which would be gained by it. There is more time for damage in transit between a Mediterranean and a Canadian port, than between any American orange shipping port and any point of distribution in this country. There are generally fewer "wasty" oranges in American than in Mediterranean stocks, a fact which is attributable to the shipping disadvantages the latter are at. The new West India steamship line puts us in still closer connection with the centre of production in Jamaica and Florida. The fruit grown on this side of the water is not inferior to that produced in transatlantic groves. The Florida oranges are as toothsome as any in the world, though the California navels took the prize from them at the New Orleans Exposition a few years ago.

The loss in transit was this year (that is the year between Jamaica crops) less than usual upon Florida oranges. Ten or eleven days in passage cannot but be attended by some damage, but that of this year was unusually low. The loss in passage is the more to be considered here because of the narrow margin which is allowed for profit, dealers here keeping pretty close to the cost line. However, oranges will continue to be brought over-sea for some years yet, but in inverse ratio to that of American production.

PORK IMPORTATION.

The fact that American pork still finds a market here is no rebuke to the adherents of an increased duty on that commodity. The tariff is no magician's wand to transform by a wave a shrivelled body of production into one of colossal proportions. The tariff on slaughtered hogs and their products will do all that it is reasonably expected to do, but it is not an automatic pork maker. Its purpose is, not to produce hogs but hog-raisers. This it can do only after it has had time, as the hog raisers are not all forthcoming at once, and even after they are they must be waited for a year to stock the market. If, after a year, the tariff has failed to propagate the hog-raising industry appreciably, then its wisdom might not unreasonably be questioned. But we have sunk as a pork-raising people under the heavy pressure of United States competition. The supply of pork from the west drove Canadians out of hog-raising more and more every year, until but a very low proportion of what was consumed was produced here. And the number of producers would have continued to decline, so long as this market continued to be made the haven of foreign packers seeking refuge from the discernible dangers of over-production. These dangers have been enhanced in late years by the insurmountable customs barrier set up by the German Government, which cuts off the vast consumption within its boundaries from the area of American supply. Repressed as our production was to the low point it reached last year, it could not be expected this summer to be in a condition to fill the whole shell that the American supply had evacuated. The feeding of swine had been growing so unprofitable that but few continued to do anything at it, and nobody followed the industry on a large, or even a moderately large scale. We have, therefore, to be more or less dependent on outside supply until our production shall have recovered. These are transition days between the condition of depressed production and that of encouraged production. The market is rather bare, prices go up, and there is yet a small opening for a temporary and limited trade in American pork.

It will not last, however. Packing houses are being opened which the owners expect to keep running throughout the year. Heretofore, most of our packers shut down in summer, and were but slightly encouraged to keep open in winter, the only encouragement being the special demand for light pork. The American pork coming into competition with our winter-cured meat would drive our packers to sacrifice the bulk of their stock in the summer and autumn. These packers, now with the possibility of a perennial industry in their business, will develop hog raising in due time, to the requisite degree, and to the required quality. We expect to be able to produce a class of pork that will not only suffice in all respects for our own demand, but that will create an outside demand. All these effects will have to get a start. There was not a start supplied to hand by the live, and slaughtered stock in the country when the raised tariff went into effect.

BUCKBOARD SALESMEN.

M'DONALD, HOWARD & CO'Y.,

Woolen Manufacturers and Exporters,

BRADFORD AND HUDDERSFIELD, ENGLAND.

We the above-named manufacturers, beg to announce to

THE FARMERS OF CANADA 2376

That we desire to introduce to you our system of business, which has met with such general satisfactiou during the past seven years from the farmers of England, Ireland and Scotland.

To explain briefly the chief merit of our business we would say that we propose to sell

Dry Goods and Woolens at Fifty per cent. less than what you are now paying your present Storekeeper.

You ask us how we can do this. We answer: Very simply, by stating that the retail man has to pay the wholesale man from 25 to 30 per cent. profit for his goods; the retail man will charge you from 25 to 30 per cent., making a difference of from 50 to 60 per cent. betweeu the manufacturer and consumer. By you buying direct from the manufacturer, you do away with all the middle men and save all the profits that they derive from you.

To show more clearly the vast difference between prices asked by us, and prices demanded by shopkeepers, we quote the following staple goods, showing the comparison:

	Width.	Storekeeper's Prices.	Our Prices.
Factory Cotton,	36 inches,	9c. per yd.,	3c. per yd.
Print "	32 "	10c. "	4c. "
Shirting "	33 "	12c. "	6c. "

Woolen Goods of every description equally as cheap.

These goods are all of our own best make, and the qualities, which are

GUARANTEED FOR WEAR AND DURABILITY,

Are unsurpassed by any manufacturer in England or Canada.

We have established warehouses in the following cities of the Dominion: Toronto, Montreal, Halifax and Winnipeg, which we have stocked complete with full lines of Dry Goods and Woolens.

Orders forwarded by customers to any of these warehouses will receive prompt attention and shipment. Goods will be delivered at nearest railroad station free of charge.

Farm produce of all kinds, if delivered at railroad station, will be accepted in payment for goods, and Toronto market price allowed for same, less cost of transportation.

To assist in canvassing the Province thoroughly we have employed the services of fifty first-class Salesmen, one of which will call upon each family in the county and place before them a set of our samples and explain our system of doing business. Persons desiring to become customers must make application through one of our agents, as we cannot, under any circumstance, recognize applications made personally or by letter.

Any customers desiring to exchange any of the articles contained in original parcel purchased from salesmen for goods of different kinds or patterns is granted the privilege of doing so, providing articles are in as good condition as when sold by agent.

Samples will be forwarded by parcel post to each customer.

As we intend to build up a regular trade with you, you can rest assured we will do our best to satisfy all.

TERMS—COTTON GOODS, 3 Months; WOOLEN GOODS, 6 Months. No Interest.

There will always be lucrative employment for the man who has the natural endowment necessary to make his living by his wits. There are men who have taken to this unproductive calling and have failed in it, not because shrewdness was uncommonly general, but because they were lacking in the stock of wit necessary for their business. The adventurer who has the mental furniture —address, cunning, energy, unscrupulousness and the firm faith that most people are fools —will be able to float any plausible scheme he may choose to launch on the shoreless ocean of human credulity. There is a large proportion of every civilized population that can be made dupes of in the hands of an accomplished fakir. This is a truth that is apprehended by a large number of business parasites. The business fabric is far from completely covered with the hard shell of sagacity, and the vulnerable spaces are the burrowing ground of swindlers and fakirs.

The advertisement which is copied at the beginning of this article shows that the fabricators of it hold strongly to the doctrine that there is an excess of gullibility in this country. It scatters the tidings of great bargains in the van of satisfactory deliveries. It presupposes that the community is in a state of wistful expectation for the coming of a friend of "the people." Among the many oppressors of the people are to be found legitimate traders. The heavy tribute these levy on the suffering public is referred to as "25 or 30 per cent. profit to the wholesaler, and 25 or 30 per cent. profit to the retailer." This bit of extravagance is expected to make the farmers buy cheerfully from the peripatetic traders. If the latter could confidentially drop the hint that they were agents for a band of robbers or a crew of smugglers, they would find themselves able to take great liberties with the intellect and means of those predestinated to be their victims. After stating their mission to be the emancipation of the consumer from the heavy yoke of the stationary trader, the agents begin to quote comparative prices. They show that the storekeeper gets from 200 to 250 per cent. more than the buckboard men for the same class of goods. This could be believed only after the consumer's brain-case had been eviscerated of every atom of intelligence, and to get their man down to this state of imbecility the agents have to talk. They do so, and in perhaps two out of every five cases they succeed. In the other three cases they are usually hurried off the farmers' premises. The victims of these dealers do not read the printed representations critically. They would note, if they did, that the advertisers claim in one place to sell from 50 to 60 per cent. below the prices retailers get, and in another they give quotations 200 to 250 per cent. below retailers' alleged prices. This little inconsistency escapes the buyer's attention. Another oversight on the part of the advertisers is to name their exact address in any of the Ontario cities in which they have the warehouses they lay claim to. Nobody knows the local habitation nor the name of that firm in this city. A similar concern sometime ago too thoughtlessly located its headquarters on the corner of Wellington and Church streets here, but farmers who came to pay their respects at that corner could not find the warehouse nor any one who had ever heard of it. The circulars, which are distributed only to those who have bought, mention factory cotton, print and shirting as their staple imported goods. Surely most Canadians know that we export factory cotton and shirtings. What we produce of these is far in excess of what we use. The duty, therefore, on those goods makes it impossible to import them from England at such prices as are named. Then as to the print, the remark concerning the effect of the duty, is equally applicable. The price of manufacture, freight and duty put it out of the power of the dealer to sell it at 4c. another little anomaly is the fact that the Advertisement alleges the firm to be a Bradford and Huddersfield house, while the only article on its list that is imported into this country, print, is a product of Manchester industry and of no other town in England.

But it should not be necessary to point to the inconsistency, vagueness, extravagance and clumsiness of the circular to demonstrate the unsoundness of the concern. Its mode of trading should be all the assurance necessary to satisfy the farmer that it is safe to leave its bargains alone. Its terms are three months and six months, with no interest. That looks honest. But that is no guarantee that the goods will ever come, or that having come they will be worth anything. It is not necessary for the salesmen or any one associated with them ever to see the farmer again, even for the collecting of the notes or signed orders. These notes may represent no value received, but they are collectable. No one knows this better than the financial agents, loan men, or small note-shavers in or near the locality where the notes were signed. These men know how much a farmer is good for. If paper is brought to them and is acceptable, they buy it, provided, that is, they can get it at a large discount. The salesmen who hold the paper must sell it. They cannot face the farmer to collect it, and are thus forced to concede a good discount, often 30 or 40 per cent. This pays the local financier to incur the odium that attaches to such partnership, though he may feign to be ignorant of the nature of the transaction upon which the paper was originally got. In this we have a dangerous league which is apt to be formed in hard times, that between the fakir and the small local money-broker.

The trade should everywhere expose these people and show them in their true colors to the consuming public. It is in the interest of all genuine traders and all farmers that this predatory business should be extinguished. Retailers throughout the country would do well to refer their local press to this article, in order to have the thing ventilated among the farmers. It is also in the interests of the local press itself that the thing should be discontinued, as the travelling agents are working against the advertising patrons of the town or village paper.

DEPRESSION IN REAL ESTATE

The Toronto real estate market is in a most unsatisfactory condition. This was shown at a meeting of creditors of a retail merchant held recently. The statement presented to the creditors was a most favorable one on paper. It showed assets far in excess of liabilities, and the creditors wondered why they were called together. It was explained that the assets were chiefly real estate, but if the real estate were sold it would not realize enough to pay the mortgage. One of these properties consisted of two houses and about fifty feet of land situated on King street, within 1½ miles of Yonge. It was valued at considerably over the mortgage. When the dealer found himself unable to pay the interest on the mortgage the loan company proposed to sell the property, and found that they could not obtain, as already stated, the amount already advanced on it. The same gentleman had property on Dufferin street which divides Toronto from the old town of Parkdale; here again the property would not sell for the mortgage. Another case is that of a gentleman who bought a suburban property for $4,500; on this he paid $2,400, the balance on time with interest. The interest was due a short time ago and has not yet been paid, and it is said that the holder is contemplating throwing up the property and losing the amount already paid. These are only two cases, but, there are many of them. Too many merchants have gone into real estate and have crippled their business in consequence. Among them are a great many out of town people. This accounts in many instances for the difficulty some of them have found in meeting their payments. It must not be thought that all real estate investments in Toronto are unsafe. There is still a business doing, and a profitable business, too, but it is not in wild cat schemes in the suburbs, but in productive property in the heart of the city. The moral is for business men to let real estate alone unless they have a surplus above all liabilities or probable liabilities. Even then investments should be made with caution. They should not allow themselves to be carried away with agents' promises of big profits.

SOAP MAKERS AND THE DUTY ON GREASE.

A deputation of soap manufacturers, consisting of Messrs. John Taylor, Toronto; A. Savage and D. Strachan, Montreal; Robert Henry, Brantford; D, Ganong, St. Stephen's, N. B.; D. Richards, Woodstock, Ont., and H. D. Long, of London, had an interview with the Minister of Customs on Friday, on the question of the duty on soap grease. Mr. Henry, who acted as spokesman, pointed out that the wording of the item in the free list of the tariff provided that "grease rough, the refuse of animal fat, for the manufacture of soap only," could not be utilized from the fact that rough grease is never imported. The grease used in the manufacture of soap is partially refined. It has gone through some leading processes by which its rancid character is removed and the manufacturers are thus enabled to import it. The manufacturers say the grease could not be imported in the "rough" state as the tariff description is applied to the article, for the reason that it would be like bringing in so much animal matter and would become offensive before it reached its destination; that steamship and railway companies carrying it would render themselves liable to be prosecuted for creating a nuisance. Unless the word "rough" is removed from the item by order-in-council and the manufacturers allowed to import the grease as formerly the item would be a serious tax on their industry. The deputation admitted that grease which came in free under the old tariff when utilized for soap-making purposes only had been manufactured into lard and oils. Hon. Mr. Bowell, in replying to the deputation, said great difficulty had been experienced in the past in carrying out the provisions of the law as applied to this article. The department was aware that grease imported ostensibly for the manufacture of soap had, as the deputation had stated, been used for other purposes, and accordingly the change had been made in the wording of the item expressly to prevent the practice referred to. The Minister promised to lay the matter before his colleagues as soon as they assembled in the fall, and would point out the objection taken by the manufacturers to the wording of the item as it now appears on the statute book. He intimated that if any change were made importations would have to be accompanied by such an affidavit as to prevent the possibility of grease being used for any other purpose than that of the manufacture of soap, otherwise duty would have to be paid.

No young man can possibly have mistaken his calling who finds in it what the world wants done.

One thing in particular should be impressed upon clerks—the necessity of careful attention to small customers.

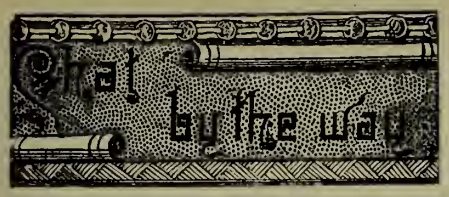
THE PENALTY OF FRAUD.



Another phase has developed itself in connection with the seizure of cigars which had been placed upon the market improperly stamped by the firm of Nerlich, Doherty & Co. of this city. During the investigation by Mr, Waters, of the Customs Department, that gentleman discovered that Nerlich, Doherty & Co. had given instructions by letter to parties in Havana from whom they were purchasing cigars not to place upon the face of the invoices the cash discount allowed by them to the Toronto firm. By this means Nerlich, Doherty & Co. evaded payment of the duty upon the proper value of the cigars. By the Customs Act this practice is declared to be a fraud and punishable by the confiscation of the value of the goods represented by the invoice. Two invoices of this character were found, and the full penalty imposed. Nerlich, Doherty & Co. have paid the duty, paid value of the goods represented by the invoices, and other penalties, amounting to, it is stated, between $700 and $800. The firm acknowledged its offence in writing, abandoned all defence and asked for an immediate decision. This, it is learned, was given, and Messrs. Nerlich, Dougherty & Co doubtless now realize the truth of the adage that the way of the transgressor is hard. To save the duty upon a five per cent. discount on these two invoices, the amount of which would have been about $20, has cost the firm about $800.

The question of the stamps and how they got into the hands of Nerlich, Doherty & Co. is still under investigation by the officers of the custom house. Appraiser Baker has, it is understood, acknowledged having made a mistake in one issue of 100 stamps. Honest importers and dealers may rest assured that more stringent rules will in future be imposed in order to prevent, if possible, a repitition of frauds of this kind, either upon the revenue or upon lovers of the fragrant weed.

RANDOM BUYING.

The people who shop around don't live as cheaply as those who stick to one grocer, if he is a live one, with a good store. There is an occasional trifling difference in prices, but let two men with families of equal size try the experiment—one shopping with cash, and the other dealing at one grocery on the short credit plan, and I will bet money that the latter lives the cheapest. My prompt paying customers always gets the best goods, said a prominent grocer, and when I can shade prices on fruits and produce, I let them know it, so that they can stock up. Sometimes they come in with rather vague ideas as to what they want out of the usual line, but I don't encourage them to buy high-priced things in fancy packages on this account. In such a case one of your trade all-around-for cash men would spend his money for a bottle of French fruit, a costly foreign cheese, or some wine, forgetting staples which would have to come from a high price and light weight suburban store, bought in a hurry after the meal was under way. Then we have people who complain that their monthly bills are too large. Trace them up and you will find that they have lived in some small town where the grocers kept no fancy goods. For instance: A lady called the other day, and among other things, ordered two bouquets and two bottles of French fruit. Then she complained that last month's bill was over $90, whereas in the town she came from her monthly bills never ran over $25. "Did they keep bouquets and French fruits there?" I asked. She said they did not, and I cited her her last purchase, telling her that at the rate she had begun buying this month, her bill would go over $100. She was convinced, and left the store smiling.—Grocer and Manufacturer (Denver.)

Mr. John E. Tuckett, who retired last week from the firm of Geo. E. Tuckett & Son, has now the control of the branch in Danville, Virginia.

The Imperial Baking Powder Co. shipped a full car-load—20,000 pounds—of powder to Winnepeg last week. This is the largest single shipment they have ever made.

Mr. Fred J. Ward, of John P. Mott & Co., chocolates and cocoas, Halifax, is in the city. He has had a number of handsome lithographs of their goods framed and is distributing them among their customers.

Mr. Theo. O. Leonard, of Kingsford's Oswego Starch, is making arrangements to have a large quantity of the order pads so popular with the retail grocer's printed here. Retailers can obtain them from their wholesale grocers.

Toronto was favored last Thursday with a visit from the National Confectioners Association which was in session at Niagara Falls. Mr. J. C. Davison of the Chapman & Smith Co. looked after them generally as he knows Toronto well this city being his birthplace. They drove about the city visiting the points of interest and then dined at McConkey's restaurant.

The other night burglars entered the store of Alexander Grant, Verona. At least three, if not four, were seen by Clerk Quinn, who sleeps in a side room off the store. The noise awoke Quinn and, having no firearms, he shouted. The robbers told him to stop, but he wouldn't, so they fired two shots at him from the store, the bullets entering a post which was right in front of Quinn. As the caretaker made a great racket the men fled, leaving behind them a brace and some chisels. The safe contained a large sum of money, which Mr. Grant received in connection with Division Court work and as treasurer for several concerns.

THE WORLD OF TRADE MENDS

DEAR SIR,—Owing to my illness for the past year I have not been able to take as much part in the various discussions through your valuable journal as I would liked to have done, but I have read them all with considerable interest. Many of them very valuable to the trade and no doubt have borne fruit in many places. The butter quesstion, bankrupt stocks, selling goods on credit, Merchants Convention, etc., have all been very ably discussed, and I believe have done much good in the way of stimulating trade. So ne do say there has been no good results from any of them. I do not agree with them, I notice there is not near as many failures nor so many compromises as there were a year or two ago, nor are the wholesalers crowding goods on the retailers as they were. They are more particular who they sell large bills to. I also find the country merchants are not so reckless in paying 3 to 6 cents per lb. more for butter than they can get for that commodity as they used to do. Then the discussions and the Merchants' Convention realy have done some good. I believe, Sir, that if there was another convention this fall to discuss the questions and report progress from the last year's experience that it would have a telling affect. As you are aware, I had to leave my former place of business on account of my health, and have settled in this northern Ontario, two hundred miles north of Toronto, Parry Sound District, on the G. T. R. As this is a new country we are not troubled much with the many evils of trade that are in the older parts. This is a lumbering country, good for trade, and a very healthy part. I am feeling better than I have for two years. I have a good trade and hope to recover my health fully in a short time. This country is settling up fast, and in a few years will be a good farming country. It is well adapted for stock and dairy business. The farmers in this vicinity have splendid crops and are doing well. They dont know what dull times mean. I get THE GROCER regularly now, though at first it did reach me. I may write you again giving a fuller description of this part of Ontario and and its trade. Meantime I am

Your's respectfully,
MERCHANT.

Barkerton P. O., July 12, 1890.

[We are pleased to hear from our old friend in his new home, and we are sure all our readers will be glad to know that he has fully recovered his health and that he is making such satisfactory progress. As he points out in his letter much good has resulted from the Merchants' Convention and the discussion in these columns of many questions of vital importance to the trade. We hope to hear again and frequently from "Merchant."—ED. GROCER.]

DURHAM, July 14th, 1890.

The CANADIAN GROCER.

MR. EDITOR,—I have much pleasure in enclosing P. O. order for two dollars in renewal of my subscription to THE GROCER. I am exceedingly well pleased with your paper, which is, without a doubt, the best paper in the interests of the trade published in Canada. I am glad to see it is in the hands of so many live wide-awake grocers and general merchants wherever I go, and they all have a good word to say for it. I am glad to see the vexed butter question has been ventilated in your columns. If you could propose a satisfactory solution, and could insist on the remedy being applied, you would be doing a great service to country merchants. In my opinion to state the trouble is to suggest the remedy. I believe it is true that about two-thirds of the farmers' butter that comes into the market is of poor quality, and nearly one-third is unfit for table use. If the bulk of this could be turned over at once for immediate consumption, the loss would not be great, but it is often held and in the end sold for the price of soap grease, as was the case this spring. The trouble is, storekeepers pay too high a price and then do not grade it. In spite of former experiences they continue to pay one and two cents a pound more for all kinds of butter than the market will warrant them in paying for butter of number one quality. They are thus actually holding at a premium bad butter-makers, who, without the exercise of any industry or skill get a high price for the vile stuff they call butter. It scarcely pays to take such an article at any price. Of course I am speaking now in a general way, I am pleased to say there are storekeepers who exercise a wise discrimination in this matter. If such men as Mr. Alex. Taylor, Dromore, Mr Aaron Wenger, Ayton, and others could be persuaded to give their experiences from time to time they could contribute some valuable suggestions. Another great mistake is in holding butter for higher prices. I believe the majority of storekeepers do this, then they market it almost simultaneously, and the result is a glut, and of course it has deteriorated in quality and then down goes the price and everybody is in the soup. Far better would it be to dispose of it, say once a month, and then the market price could be better regulated and storekeepers would know exactly how they stand. I am strongly in favor of merchants organizing themselves into Associations in villages and towns for the purpose of regulating the prices they will pay for farm produce, to fix the selling price of staples and in order the better to protect themselves against dead beats. Such Associations are a great benefit. The present season being favorable to butter-making there is a much larger quantity than usual being put down, and I should like to see a renewed interest being taken in this subject, and I hope some good will result.

Yours respectfully,
F. W. VANLUVEN.

Care Stuart, Harvey & Co.,
Hamilton.

[We wish that all travellers would take the same interest in the welfare of the retail trade that Mr. Vanluven does. There is no better influence of judicious progress and prudent conservatism than that exerted by the many men of breadth and sterling character who are on the road. They are students of the situation as no other class of business men are. Their observations are not often enough reflected in the trade press, however Such men as Mr. Vanluven we and our readers would gladly hear from often. His suggestion that Mr. Taylor, Mr. Wenger, and other leading butter men should give an occasional letter to the cause of the valuable commodity they are handling is one that will we hope be acted upon by our friends in these columns.—ED.]

We believe that the grocers of the country have a great thing in their hands in the sale of cigars and tobacco. We do not doubt but that to-day they are selling sixty per cent. of the amount sold to the consumers, and that it will be their own fault if they don't sell seventy-five per cent.—National Grocer.

The Inland Revenue Department has recently issued a bulletin of about thirty pages which is devoted exclusively to the subject of baking powder and which shows that the majority of the goods in the market are adulterated and unfit for use. Prof. A. McGill, who has had charge of this important work for the Government, says that "imperial baking powder is an excellent baking powder." A word to the sensible housekeeper should be sufficient

GROCERIES.

The market has pursued a very even and tranquil tenor in all departments of the grocery trade. Retail stocks throughout the country appear to have been pretty well filled in most lines during the period of the sugar excitement, so well filled that their supply of sugar often need renewing before any other part of their stock does. The orders that come in now are clearly gauged by the estimated demand that will rule till the crop is taken off. Nobody will buy largely until the harvesting part of the industrial year has been checked off the calendar. Abundance will probably make lower prices as well as make money more plentiful, and nobody wants a large residue of costly goods in a time when cheaper goods are to be had. The absence of excitement in the course of any article of merchandise just now, leaves the cold-blooded temper the supreme influence in the market.

CANNED GOODS.

Reports that the strawberry pack would be lighter than the promise of the vines in early June led us to expect have had a bracing effect. It is freely stated that the crop was much smaller than that of a year ago. One packing firm has put up only one-fourth of what it had a year ago. The market opened towards the end of last week at $2, but declined to $1.75. It recovered again under the influence of the report of the lowness of the pack, and prices run now from $2.10 to $2.50 according to brand. Many of the packers stood off the market during the decline, and thus brought about the recovery. One-half of the Delhi stock has been sold to wholesalers at $2.10, but withholds the other half from the market at present. The stocks of new goods on this market are not large. Canned tomatoes for future delivery have been sold as low as 90c. Some old ones have gone off at $1.20 to $1.25. The quantity of the '89 pack that is yet unsold has been suddenly swelled by the sales of Montreal holders. From some of these wholesalers here have bought and have re-sold to the retail trade at $1.15. Apples, cherries and pears are expected to be a light crop. The Ontario Canning Company has put some new peas on the market this week which will reach retailers at $1.10 to $1.15. The cheapest old peas have never got below $1. Prices will most likely hold for peas unless the new pack at once suddenly and largely stocks the market, as there is no difference in selling or eating qualities between the two packs. Then the prices at which jobbers bought a short time ago make canners feel that it is unwise to force the market now as there must be an abundance in trade. Buyers whose orders have been taken for future delivery of corn and peas have been asked by packers to reduce their orders one half on account of damage done to crops which makes raw material scarcer than it was expected to be. Plums are expected to be a fine crop. New pineapples are $2.80 in 2 pound tins. The cutting of prices has ceased to be the chief feature in the market for salmon. The basis of it was very shadowy and unsupported. Jobbers who had not yielded to the alarm sold throughout the spell of dismay at good prices, and are getting to-day $1.50 to $1.60. It is realized that stocks will be cleared out before they will be replenished and prices have swung back to firmer figures. There is a good demand at the above figures. The prospects for lobsters is one of high prices. The Sterling brand has been selling at $1.90 to $2. Finer brands, such as the Clover Leaf, are worth $2.50. Clark's corned beef is experiencing an extraordinary demand. The market is almost bare.

Williams, Brown & Co's. circular on canned salmon of June 28th says: "British Columbia is quoted at $1.12½ to $1.15 f.o.b Victoria or Fraser River. Sales we think have been more free of British Columbia fish than of any other pack outside the Columbia River being next in quality to the Columbia River. Thirty days from now the English buyers will have been released from their agreement and will no doubt be in the market for the new pack of salmon. The advices on the Columbia River are meagre as to the total output. This river has yet about thirty days in which to pack; and Sacramento River has closed down operations with a pack of about 50 per cent. of last year which was 57,300 cases.

COFFEE.

All grades have advanced a cent. The reason is in the lowness of stocks and the previous extreme narrowness of profit. The trade is fairly active.

DRIED FRUIT.

The abundance of fresh fruit now to be had is displacing dried fruit in the trade demand. The stiffness of prices for the latter is also working against its popularity for the moment. That stiffness shows no signs of relaxing. Stocks are low. There are scarcely any prunes, few Valencias and Sultanas, and a low stock of currants. Currants have advanced ⅝c. in the New York market, but that advance has not reached here. It ultimately will, there is little doubt. There is a better demand for currants than for any other class of dried fruits. There was cutting going on a while ago, but that has been stopped. The slackened demand for Valencia raisins has been met by an easing of prices to 8 and 8¼c. Mail advices report damage to the Sultana raisin crop. The advance on currants in the New York market was brought about by a bit of manipulation on the part of a large holder. Perceiving weakness among other holders and fearing their nervousness might depress prices, he boldly entered the market as a buyer at the current quotation. This caused a general withdrawal of outside stocks and toned up the market, which in a short time rose ⅝c.

vails. There is no change in the prices of anything but Sicily filberts, and these have advanced in New York selling in that market now for about as much as they sell here.

RICE AND SPICES.

The demand for rice continues good and old prices are firm. An advance of 25 per cent. in the Montreal market some time ago has not been followed here yet, as wholesalers here had in their orders before the rise. In spices, tapioca, etc., there is no change. A moderate business is done.

SUGAR.

The demand has been improved by the greater firmness of prices which are yet at their last week's resting-point in this market, but with an upward tendency. The cause of the greater strength is the advance on granulated of 1-16c. in New York on Saturday last. Raws and refined are both in a better position in that market than they were a week ago. The demand has been better here than it was at the time of last report, but it is still below what it usually is in July. A reason for this is the largeness of the stocks laid in at the time of the excitement, and the lightness of the fruit crop this year. Whites are 6⅞ to 7c for granulated, and have remained unchanged also for other kinds. Yellows are 5⅜ to 6½c., the lowest priced being dark and heavy. Raws are 5¼c. The sugar trade just now is largest in yellows, the demand being strongly for berries, etc., prepared for immediate table use.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

There is very little life in the trade in either. Syrups are 51 to 58c. for dark to bright, and molasses is 33 to 38c. in hogsheads.

TEAS.

Business is quiet. There was a very large amount of tea sold during the last two months when the best value was to be had in Japans. The trade is always good at about that season, coming as it does slightly before the time of maximum sugar consumption. Dealers usually prepare for the sugar trade by laying in before it comes on in its greatest stress what supplies of other staples they may want, so as to have their money ready for sugar. Tea is one of the staples that then get strong attention in May and June. This makes trade dull in July. The scarcity of good low grades yet hampers trade. It is unlikely that these will be any higher when they get here than they have usually been, however, new Japans are in fairly good demand, and all goods of low and medium grades near at hand have been readily sold to the jobbing trade. Blacks have been more active on the finer grades. Low grades still neglected. Young Hysons of all grades under first scarce and in demand. Shippers write agents here to withhold Japans from the market, as prices are lower than New York. With exchange at present rates prices are 20 p'c't. below cost of laying them down. The local market for Indian teas is fairly active, and some large orders have been received from Manitoba and the North West, which is fast becoming quite a centre for Indian teas. The demand has extended as far as the Pacific Coast, and one of our local houses has just booked an order for three hundred chests for San Francisco. In London the demand for Indian tea continues fairly good, and prices have been well maintained for the small supply brought forward. A further quantity of the new crop has been offered, comprising about 2,000 packages, mainly from the Darjeeling and Dooars districts. As the improved quality of these early shipments is appreciated by the trade, the bidding for them was brisk, and in most cases good prices were obtained. For the old season's imports there was an active enquiry, but the kinds between 8d. and 1s. attracted the most attention, and fully realised the advance recently established. The finer grades continue comparatively scarce, and prices remain very firm, especially for parcels giving a brisk strong infusion. The telegrams from Calcutta report favorably of the tea coming forward and of the prospect of the crop generally. If the quality throughout the season should prove above or even up to the average, a reasonable increase in the production will be required to meet the consumption. At the public sales 8,585 packages were offered, and about 2,000 withdrawn. Prices generally were very firm.

Ceylon Teas,—Ceylon teas continue to attract attention, and a large business has again been transacted at about late rates. The lower grades of Pekoe Souchong have been rather easier than of late, although prices cannot be quoted lower. Pekoes at from 10d upwards are still in strong demand at late rates; the finest broken teas continue to advance, but the other grades remain very firm. The public sales comprised 15,654 packages, of which 1,655 were withdraw. The public sales of Java teas have amounted to 3,290 packages, but in spite of this somewhat large quantity only 65 packages were withdrawn, and the prices realised were fully up to late quotations.

A Hankow, China, letter of May 26 says all teas of good appearance have been eagerly bought up at extreme prices for the Russian market. The quality and style of this year's crop is much better than last, neat even leaf being very general, and though exchanges ruled much higher the low rate of freights has almost counterbalanced the difference, and you will get a better article than last season at an equivalent lay-down cost. The market was opened on May 8, and immediately, owing to very large Russian orders for fine Ningchows, a tremendous rush took place to secure enough to fill orders, resulting in prices being paid never seen here before. First crop teas expected to total about the same as last year, but a far greater quantity will go direct to Russia and thus ease the London and American markets.

PETROLEUM.

Greater firmness but no advance is the only effect that dearer crude oil has had upon this market. Business has been fairly good.

DRUGS AND CHEMICALS.

Trade has not picked up since last week. Prices have not changed for any articles. The demand for Paris Green is about as large as usual for the potato growing season.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

The old tub butter is far from being all sold yet. Not much has moved within the week, chiefly because there is little wanted and the weather has been unfavorable to shipping in any lots smaller than car-loads. The transactions there have been were in smaller lots than car lots. The prices have run from 4 to 6c. Good straight baring old yellow has been sold at 8c., but there seems to be a very inconsiderable stock to be had. Some holders here have a large amount of butter in old rolls waiting for a market, but the outlook for them is poor in the most favorable circumstances that they are likely to have, and they will most probably be converted into tubs. The receipts of large dairy rolls of new butter have been light, and all that came went at about 15c. Pound rolls go easily at 17 to 18c., though there is a great proportion of the butter made into pound weights, and it is good. There is a scarcity of new tubs which may be owing to dealers holding back for a better market, as it is possible that folly has not yet been abandoned. The tubs are 14 to 15c., with more wanted. Creamery rolls are plentiful at 20 to 21c. Creamery tubs are 19c. and in liberal receipt.

Cheese is yet 9 to 9½c., but these prices are weaker, 9c. being the figure most commonly paid. There is a good demand.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

BEANS—The market continues to be kept up, although the stock is greatly reduced and the demand is but slight. Prices are $1·60 to $1.80. Any very large lots go at $1.50, though there are scarcely any moving.

DRIED APPLES—are 5¼ to 5½c. Trade is fairly active and the remnant of the stock is light.

EVAPORATED APPLES—If there were a stock there would be a good business as inquiries are numerous. But scarcely any one has evaporated apples to sell. What few are moving bring 8 to 10c. for '88, and 11 to 12½ for '89.

EGGS—In cased lots are 13½c. and receipts are fairly large. There is a big trade in eggs delivered in farmers' baskets, which go at 15c. The candling that is now necessary in the buying of eased lots makes a reduction on account of the expense and time involved.

HAY—Bales are $10 to $10.50, with little inquiry, and small sales. Everybody is waiting for the new crop which may make prices easier. There is a large amount of the hay consumed here delivered on the streets. Also, there is a great deal of green feed brought in and sold, while many head of animals that were in stalls a month ago are grazing now. All this makes business dull in baled hay.

HIDES—Cured still go at 6½c. There is a very good outside demand for them, but there is an insufficient supply of green for the trade carried on by the curers. No. 1 green steers are 7c. No. 2 are 6c., and No. 3 5c. Cows' are 1c. lower in each grade. All are wanted that can be had.

HONEY—The new flow is now waited for, and scarcely any business in the old stock is done. Fruits also take from it a portion of the consumption that it would otherwise engage. Clear is 9 to 12c., and comb is 14 to 18c. The trade in comb honey continues fairly good.

HOPS—The '89 growth are 12 to 14c., and yearlings are 8 to 12c.

OATS—Are 40½ to 41c. delivered here in car loads. The supply is low and the demand is comparatively good.

POTATOES—Prices are high and exceedingly firm, supported by an almost bare market, as the situation indicates. Car lots are 90c., though there are few deliveries in full cars. Broken lots of 60 to 70 bags are 1.10. Out of store potatoes are 35 to 40c. a peck. The new Tennesse potatoes are $4 to $4.25 per barrel. They have gone up in St. Louis and may be dearer here. There is a strong demand for potatoes.

POULTRY—Chickens arrive and are taken up freely at 50 to 65c. Ducks are also in good request at 65 to 75c.

SKINS—Pelts are 35c., and are in but moderately large receipt. Lambskins are 55c. and are rather scarce. No. 1 calf is 8c., and No. 2 is 6c.

STRAW—Is $5 to $5.50 and is weak. But little suffices to supply the market.

TALLOW—Rough is 2c., and rendered is 5½c.

WOOL—The trade is almost entirely in new wool, which sells without difficulty at 21c. The receipts have lately been very good.

FISH.

All classes of fish have been in very fair request this week, with a much larger supply, causing the prices in some cases to decline a few cents. Trout and whitefish still have a good sale. The shipments of British Columbia salmon this week are better and are of a finer quality. There is little New Brunswick salmon on the market. Sarnia herring are reported to be very scarce. Pickerel and black bass are scarce at present. The prices reported are: Trout and whitefish, 5½ to 6c.; British Columbia salmon 14c.; Lake herring $1.75 to $2.00 per hundred, by count; Pickerel 4 to 4½c.; Black bass 8c.

GREEN FRUIT.

Oranges are almost entirely off the market. Valencias are $11 to $12, but only the most meagre stock exists here. There are some new Saretto oranges in which sell at $6.50. They are handsome fruit, and go off rapidly. But for staple oranges there is a poor demand, the Sarettos being fancy fruit and in but poor supply went into trade solely in the strength of these facts. But orange consumption has slackened very much since the small fruits have begun to come in. They have taken nearly all the fruit trade to themselves. In lemons, on the other hand, there has been an excellent trade, prices going up and becoming firmer with the advance of the hot season. They are now $5.50 to $6. Bananas are, like oranges, just now suffering from competition with the small fruit, and are less in request. They run from $1 to $2. The Jamaica oranges will not be ready for trade here for several weeks. They are too sour as they have not got fully matured.

PROVISIONS.

Trade has been up to the average. Business has run briskly in small dealings, large transactions being the marked exception. Prices have not lost any of their firmness.

MESS PORK—Heavy is $15 to $15.50. Short-cut is $16.50 to $17.

SALT.

Barrel salt is not in very good demand at present. Other classes are moving off fairly well. Prices remain unchanged. The sales reported by the Toronto Salt Works are small this week and are as follows: 1 car bbls. at $1.37; 1 car sacks at 68c. Small quantities sell at $1.45 for bbls.; 85c. for sacks, and 45c. for ¼ sacks.

DRY GOODS.

The travellers who have been at work upon the fall trade report a dull prospect. Retailers stick to the policy of buying from hand to mouth. The only thing that can stimulate the lethargy of the buying disposition is the taking off of a fine crop, and until that is a realized fact it seems traders will not open the values and let things take their chance. All this speaks well for the outlook of trade when the basis of business is restored.

MONTREAL

MONTREAL MARKETS.

JULY 17, 1890.

GROCERIES.

The past week has been the beginning of the dullest season of the year. City people, both those who can afford and those who cannot, have escaped to the cool shores and breezes of some lake, or to sight seeing on the continent; the farmers are busily engaged with their hay, of which there is an abundant crop; the country merchant sits dozing on the sugar barrel, McCawber like "patiently waiting for something to turn up" while the busy flies are enjoying a repast of plenty among the fruits, and a promenade on the marble-toped head of the said merchant; those who remain in the city, through stress of business and inclination sympathise with each other, try to imagine it is not hot, and grumble because of the slowness of trade and the still slowness of payments; they watch with eager interest the work of the farmer and speculate, to keep their hand in, as to how the crop will turn out, so that there is very little change in the market.

SUGAR.

There is a continued dull sugar market. Granulated here is unchanged, but New York market is better. Reports state better movement in raws. Yellows are weaker. Prices unchanged.

MOLASSES.

There will be nothing done in molasses till the question of duty, now under consideration, is settled. In the meantime, prices are: Barbadoes, old, 34 to 34½c.; new, 35c.

DRIED FRUIT.

Although there is nothing doing in dried fruit the market is firm, which is due to the bareness of the market. Valencias are still quoted at 8 to 8½c. and layers at 9½c. Currants have again advanced, and the lowest price quoted is 6½c., higher prices may be looked for as stocks in sight are very small. Eleme raisins, choice 8½ to 8¾c.

TEAS.

Comparatively speaking there is nothing doing in teas and little to report since last week.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been little movement in canned goods the past week. Packers will not sell strawberries at less than $2.07, while others refuse to sell their pack at the moment. There were a few tomatoes offered at price quoted last week, $1.02½. Packers are holding at the following figures: Strawberries $2.00; red raspberries $2.10; black $2.00; apples 3 lb. 90c., gal. $2.10; peas $1.00 to $1.15; pears $1.50 to $1.60, tomatoes $1.02½; beans 85 to 90c. Lobsters continue in great demand. Salmon easy. Dry Cod $4.50 per cwt.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

GRAIN.—A fair amount of business is being done at good steady prices. We quote as follows:—Wheat, No. 1 hard Manitoba, $1.14 to $1.16, No. 2, $1.12 to $1.13; peas, per 66 pounds, 00 to 77½c. Ontario oats, 41 to 42c.; corn, duty paid, 00 to 52c; Barley, malting, 52c.

FLOUR.—Business is more active, and prices are better. Flour for export was sold a shilling better than last week. On 'Change 1,200 sacks Strong Bakers sold at $5.25; 900 sacks Patent Spring, $5.55; 1000 sacks Patent for export on private terms. We quote:—Patent winter, $5.25 to $5.50; patent spring, to $0.00 $5.55; straight roller, $4.90 to $5.00; extra, $4.70; to $4.80 superfine, $4.25 to $4.50; fine, $3.50 to $4.00; city strong bakers, to $0.00 $5.25; strong bakers, $0.00 to $5.25; superfine, bags, $1.50 to $2.00; extra, bags, $2.20 to $2.30; fine, bags, $1.25 to $1.70; oatmeal, standard, per bag $2.20 to $2.30; oatmeal, granulated, $0.00 to $2.50; oatmeal, rolled, $0.00 to $2.50

EGGS.

Eggs are firm at 13½c. to 14c.

HOG PRODUCTS.

We quote:—Canada short cut, $17 to $17.50; Western Mess, $17.00 to $17.50; Western Short Cut, $17 to $17.50. Lard, 8 to 8½c. per pound; bacon, 10½ to 11c.; hams, 11½ to 12c.

GREEN FRUIT.

Strawberries are over for this year. Raspberries are coming in in small quantities and bring 12c. The following are the quotations to-day: Oranges, in cases, repacked, $10; lemons, $2.50 to $3.50 for good to fine, $4 to $5 in boxes for strictly choice; pineapples, 10c. to 25c., according to size and condition; bananas, $1 to $1.75 per bunch; Egyptian onions 4c. per pound; Bermudas, $3.50 per case; Canadian Cherries, $1.50 per basket.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

CHEESE—Holders are still firm, and there does not appear to be much change in the general condition of this market. At Little Falls colored were at a premium of a quarter, and the ruling price was 7½c. At Utica the ruling price was 7⅜c., and more than 18,000 boxes sold. From 8 to 8½c. is about the range of this market to-day.

The imports of cheese to Liverpool from the United States and Canada from the 26th June to the 2nd July, 1890, were 73,013 boxes, and from the 1st October, 1889, to the same date, 1,096,682 boxes, against 856,939 boxes for the same period last year.

BUTTER—Dull and unchanged. Creamery 18 to 18½c; western, 14 to 15c.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Messers. Dugald Graham, George McGarry and Geo. H. L. Bland have registered in the Court house as pork packers and commission merchants under the name of McGarry, Bland & Co.

Messers. Wm. Carsley of London, England, at present in Montreal, and John Garsley of this city, have filed notices of partnership as wholesale and retail drapers and importers here under the firm name of Carsley Bros.

THE DRUMMER CAUSED TROUBLE.

The trouble that has been caused by people carrying letters about in their pockets and forgetting to mail them has no limit. It has formed the subject for untold novels, and has been the cause of many humorous as well as serious incidents says the Business World. A traveling man tells of a case where he neglected to mail a letter and of the result. He was in a certain Illinois town, in the office of some manufacturing establishment, and had just finished his business with the proprietor and was leaving when he was asked to mail a letter on the train he was about to take. The letter was directed to another manufactory, and contained an order for some machinery needed in a hurry. The traveling man had on a light fall overcoat, and into the pocket of this he put the letter. Catching his train, he became absorbed in a paper or with some of the boys and forgot all about the letter entrusted to his care. It was Saturday and the traveler was on his home run. It being mild weather he did not put his coat on when he reached the city, but carried it on his arm all the way home. The next day it was raw and cold, and the regular fall set in, followed closely by winter, so that the drummer did not need his light coat again, and it was flung away at home in a closet to await the coming of spring. The poetic season was that year a trial to everyone, for cold weather did not let up until about the first of June, when it suddenly came off hot and stayed so all through the summer.

Fall again came around and the traveling man once more pulled out his light coat His first move naturally was to shove his hand down in the pockets and lo! up came the letter he had put there nearly a year before, unsoiled, uncrumpled, but in good mailing condition, all directed and stamped. A sudden impulse seized him, and, when down town, he dropped the letter in a box. The result of that act was a suit between two big concerns, the amount at issue being about $1,000. The letter was received in due time after mailing, and by some oversight the date was not noticed. The goods were such as the concern ordering might need at any time, and they were made ready and shipped The firm to which they were sent naturally "kicked," and the trouble was not fully explained until the case got into the courts. How it was settled cuts no figure, but the neglect of the traveling man to mail the letter gave no end of trouble.—Grocers' and Canners' Gazette.

A novelty in the way of a useful present and advertising medium is Wm. Bishop & Co'ys. vest pocket note book, bearing their name and address, that they give away to their customers at Port Arthur and vicinity.

J. Lockhart Watt & Scott, grocery brokers' Toronto, have issued a little memorandum book for distribution among their friends in the trade. It contains a great deal of valuable information, including an abridged customs tariff for grocers, values of packages not otherwise obtainable, customs value of foreign currencies, exchange and interest tables.

One of the effects of the last storm was to cause a panic amongst the employes of Gurd's broom factory in London West. The building rocked so that it was in danger of falling. One of the young men jumped out of the loft window, while others made the best of their way down stairs. The building still stands but it does not look safe leaning away over to the south side, the walls being some eight inches out of plumb.

Why is it that when one goes in some stores the purchasing instinct immediately develops itself? One can go into many places where merchandise is offered at retail and hardly be able to get out without securing some part of the stock, and this without solicitation on the part of clerks or proprietors. On the other hand, you can go into other places, and your purchasing instinct gives no sign of life.—Ex.

G. F. & J. Galt, Winnipeg, appealed before the Calgary court of revision for a reduction of the assessment upon the wholesale grocery stock the firm has in the latter named town. The chief plea of the firm was that the goods were in transit and were therefore not subject to municipal taxation Evidence was produced to show that wholesale trade was done upon the premises, and the assessment was approved by the court.

A committee of the Port Hope Council has been appointed to consider the propasal of a Toronto man to establish a cigar factory in the town. The candidate for municipal privilege undertakes to employ 50 hands at wages from $6 to $12 per week. A syndicate of local business men would buy a building for the habitation of the industry, if the council would pay the interest on the investment and exempt the building from taxation for ten years.

A meeting of the Glencoe Salt Company was held the other evening, when a company with a capital stock of $10,000 was formed. The company propose to commence a salt block at once. The well was put down for the village in 1887 as a test well for water, but the driller passed through one hundred and four feet of salt, a sample of which has been recently analysed, and the analyst reported that the quality is of the finest kind yet found in Ontario. Pipes are to be laid from Mr. P. J. McAlpnie's flowing well for the purpose of supplying water for the salt block. The company intends pushing the works to completion at once. As Glencoe has now three railways, and will shortly have four, the salt block will be a great boom to the village and the western section of Ontario. The well is situated on the property of Mr. Donald McRae.

The annual meeting of the Ingersoll board of trade was held in the council chamber on Friday evening. President A. H. Ellis, in his report gave statistics showing that Ingersoll is one of the largest export centers in western Ontario, the exports last year amounting to $1,010,496, and the duty collected on our imports amounting to $25,491,47, for the same period. Besides the large cheese industry, Ingersoll has now one of the largest pork packing establishmeuts in Canada, and all the manufacturers are flourishing. The following officers were then elected for the ensuing year: President, A. H. Ellis; first vice-president, Stephen Noxon; second vice-president, John Morrow; secretary, W. H. Jones; treasurer, W. B. Nelles; auditors, J. Podmore and H. Richardson; executive council, the above-named and J. Gayter, Dr. McKay, M. P. P., Dr. Canfield, Dr. Williams, D. White, O. E. Robinson, J. Brady, J. Frezell R. Miller, A. N. Christopher, W. K. Sumner, M. T. Buchanan, J. Gibson, J. Stephens, and W. Partlo.

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,

Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, McGILL UNIVERSITY.

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured.

Yours truly,

G. P. GIRDWOOD.

BE A LEADER, NOT AN IMITATOR.

The trouble with the majority of us is that we either lack in original ideas, or, if we have them, that we have not the sagacity or boldness to adopt them. In either case we ourselves are the losers. Every enterprise does not succeed, nor does every idea possess that power of drawing trade which the originator had hoped for. But the experience gained, the shaking off of the old feeling of timidity which besets so many men, will have been gained by such experience, and the possible money loss is as nothing when compared with this.

There are two ways of receiving benefit from the adoption of new ideas, that is, the direct results, and the indirect. Everyone can see the former and appreciate them; sometimes the latter has to be figured out, but it is always there since no effort is ever entirely without results. And very often these indirect results are far more important than those which have the merit of being absolutely direct.

To illustrate: A retailer invested quite a neat little sum in an idea that he had about pushing certain lines of goods. At first the results he had hoped for did not come and he was very much discouraged. In fact, but very few evidences of direct results ever showed themselves, but after a while he noticed that his general trade had increased and that he was selling goods to people whom he had never before been able to approach. He has never been thoroughly able to understand just how his move in a special direction brought him good results from profits against which no attack whatever had been made, and not being a close student, he didn't care solving as he had the results. The fact was that his originality had attracted his new customers simply, not because they were after bargains in the line in which he was working, but because they thought that if he was enterprising in that line he must be equally good in other lines.

It is painful to note amongst so large a proportion of the trade, the repugnance to the acceptance of new ideas. Most new lines have to be fairly forced on the consumers before the trade will take hold. This is a great business mistake; men who want to win a competency can not afford to be laggards. But they say: "How do we know that this idea is going to take, or these goods, what guarantee have we that they will sell?" The fact is that there is no knowledge except post facto that most will accept.

The broadness of mind which contemplates, but never accepts defeat, is what is needed in small dealings as well as large ones, both operations have their dangers, as well as their profits. Those who do not consider this idea thoroughly can never really understand why so many chances come to their competitors which never seem to come their way. And yet it is entirely their own fault, if they are content to remain with the rear ranks of the schook, they can not expect to reach first those tempting bits which are always meeting the advance guard.

Above all they do not understand that to be known as a leader, as a man who always has a new idea, and is ever ready to put it in the market, that this very fact is a better advertisement to their business than would be a half page of their best paper.

Anybody can be a gleaner after unconsidered odds and ends, or can with safety send his boat close to shore, but the rewards are small as is the effort, and, he who goes boldly on the wide waters, and fights the elements for his booty, has every chance to get the best and biggest fish.

IMPOSSIBLE!
So say Doctors, to say too much in favour of St. Leon Water. It puts down Bright's Disease and Diabetes, as water quenches fire. Cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, etc., completely if drank freely and rubbed in the skin.

SILVER STAR STOVE PASTE.
The following is the universal verdict of all who have used or sold it:
HAMILTON, APRIL 25th, 1890.
Messrs. F. F. DALLEY & Co.,
GENTLEMEN:—In thus ordering a fresh supply of your SILVER STAR STOVE PASTE we cannot but express our appreciation of the goods and congratulate you on having been able to place on the market an article so superior in every respect to anything we have heretofore been able to get.
As we use it on the stoves in the wareroom, we know personally its good qualities—no dust, a quick polish, always ready and the work is done in the time it would take to prepare the Dome or other hard stove polishes, and one of the best features about it is that it is so clean to handle.
If a man sells us an inferior article we don't forget to tell him about it, and on the same principle when a firm gives us an Extra good one we believe in letting them know that we appreciate it.
We remain,
Respectfully yours,
J. WALLACE & SON.

BEST SOAP

Which has a world-wide reputation of being the best lard soap made; noted for its PURITY and QUALITY. Hundreds of Soap Manufacturers have tried for years to imitate and discover the process by which it is made—but all have met with signal failure No soap ever made has the same Washing Powers. Millions of families, mechanics, railroad engineers, railroad men will attest to this fact·

RAPIDE PLAT DIVISION.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for the St. Lawrence Canals," will be received at this office until the arrival of the eastern and western mails on Wednesday, the 23rd day of July next, for the construction of a lift lock, weirs, etc., at Morrisburg, and the deepening and enlargement of the Rapide Plat Canal. The work will be divided into three sections, each about a mile in length.

A map of the locality, together with plans and specifications of the respective works, can be seen on and after Wednesday the 9th day of July next, at this office, and at the Resident Engineer's Office, Morrisburg, where printed forms of tender can be obtained.

In the case of firms there must be attached to the tender, the actual signatures of the full name, the nature of the occupation and residence of each member of the same, and further, an accepted cheque on a chartered bank in Canada for the sum of $6,000, must accompany the tender for Section No. 1, and an accepted cheque on a chartered bank in Canada, for the sum of $2,000 for each of the other sections.

The respective accepted cheques must be endorsed over to the Minister of Railways and Canals, and will be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the works at the rates and on the terms stated in the offer submitted. The cheques thus sent in will be returned to the respective parties whose tenders are not accepted.

This Department does not however, bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,

A. P. BRADLEY,
Secretary.

THE FRUIT CROP AND THE SUGAR TRADE.

Fruit growers this year have at the best very moderate expectations of the orchard yield. There are no reports from any quarter of a large crop in prospect. The strawberries, which on the verge of the ripening were so full of promise, have been gathered in disappointment. The maturing period was unusually short and almost fiercely hot. The berries were withered by the intense heat. Also, the violent rain-storms were an injury to the crop. Among the causes to which the failure is assigned that of faulty culture is believed to be as much to blame as any other. The rust in the vine which was so general this year is attributed to bad cultivation. Where fields have been well fertilized, where rotation has not been neglected the plants have done very well. They have escaped rust and have yielded a very liberal first and second picking. The most auspicious weather cannot make up for the remissness of the growers. If they are not intelligently vigilant our strawberry yield will be an annually declining one.

The apple crop, not only of this country but of the whole continent, has been gauged by eager students of the situation, who agree in an unusually low estimate of it. The crop if not incorrectly anticipated will be even a smaller one than last year's, and it was much below that of the average. It is significant that the fall-off in the yield is confined in this country to our most staple apples, the late ones. The summer apples are likely to be a good crop. The injury that has been done to the fall apples must therefore have been recent; it must have come after a certain critical stage in the formation of the fruit had been passed by the summer apples, and before it had been got through by the fall apples. The greater advance made by the former had been their salvation. The only influence that, at the time supposed, could have frustrated the early promise of the trees, was the heavy rainfall that was the ruling feature in the last fortnight of June weather. This the summer apples were forward enough to survive, but the late apples were not. Last year the destroying agency was frost, which was looked upon as a disguised blessing as a deliverer from another destroying agency, the apple-worm. The frost came at a time favorable for the destruction of these parasites in the pupa-state, and thus shut off the chance of posterity on a very general scale for some years. But although the frost did no harm this year, although the apple-worms were few, yet the apple crop has been reduced to about one-half by another enmity, that of the storm. The early apples of the United States are said to have suffered almost equally with the late. The orchards of the St. Louis district and Michigan are short in their yield of early fruit. Shipments reach here at higher prices, are harder to get, and are characterized by poorer quality than last year.

Prospectors for the fall trade and for the canning industry report the year's outlook for peaches a gloomy one. They are unanimous in pronouncing this in advance the smallest crop ever gathered. The heavy rains in this case also did the damage and caused the miscarriage of a very fine early prospect. The rains soaked the soil too much, caused the leaves to drop off, and removed the shelter from the embryo fruit. This has not been true solely in the Ontario district where peaches are grown. It has been no less a fact in the peach orchards of Delaware, the great peach growing region of this continent. The Lewiston and Youngstown growers, whose nearness to our market has heretofore led to most of their shipments coming here, will be apt this year to look for buyers in Buffalo and other convenient points in their own country, inasmuch as the duty will be an obstacle there will be no inducement for them to pay while there is so good a home market as the failure of the Delaware crop is likely to cause. The duty being imposed this year for the first time will at all events make peaches dearer than they were last year, and will thus add another element to that of scarceness that will reduce consumption. Before quitting the subject it may be added that there are patches in which there will be a fair peach yield. These are the exception, however.

Cherries are far from plentiful. The crop seems to grow less every year, that is comparing good yields. The cherry tree is being allowed to go out of growth in this country because of the difficulty of bringing it to maturity against the black knot. The quantity of cherries grown this year will not bear a proportion to the number of trees standing. It will represent what is left by the rains.

Raspberries will suffer if no gentle showers come to their relief. Those are needed to prevent the parching of the fruit and the withering up of the energy of the shrubs. Raspberries are an important household staple. Any reduction in the annual gathering of them is widely felt.

There are crops, however, that will not be bad. There will be a very good yield of plums on this side of the lake, although in the Niagara district the crop is a poorer one than is the peach crop. It is fairly good in sections. Bartlett pears will be a good but not extraordinary crop. Blackberries are likely to be plentiful. So are cranberries and blueberries. Blackberries and blueberries are the most promising of all the fruits. Currants and gooseberries are a moderate yield. Black currants show no excess over the usual rate of their yield. The demand for them is good, but the supply is never large on account of the tediousness of picking.

The demand this year will run in the groove of the more abundant supply and the greater cheapness in the price. This will take it out of the usual course and will be apt eventually to level up prices that will be low in the outset, so that taken all round fruit need not be looked for to be cheap. Orchards will come high to contractors and shippers. It was generally thought at the beginning of the year's growth that fruit would be plentiful, for the promise of the blooming season was liberal. This deterred contractors from pushing trade early, as they believed fruit would be cheap and there would be in easy prices all the stimulus needed to push business. Now they are on the alert for trade.

A review of the fruit outlook does not lead up to the conclusion that the sugar trade will be a large one. The prospects are that it will be an unusually small one. Easy prices, which the circumstances seem to favor, may promote consumption actively and thus redress in some measure the want of a large demand founded on an abundant fruit yield, but the position seems to be essentially one of weakness for the sugar trade.

AN AVERAGE MOLASSES TEST.

At last session of Parliament the duty on molasses was changed from 15 per cent. ad valorem, which was then practically confined to the tests between 40 and 55 degrees, to 1½ cents specific duty per gallon, or lowering it about one-half when imported direct from the place of production. Under the new change the tests were to be by the polariscope from 30 to 55 degrees. When testing over 55 degrees a duty of 6 cents per gallon was to be charged. Last week Messrs. Charles P. Hebert, John Baird, John Pinder and L. E. Geoffrion, of Chaput, Fils & Co., Montreal, and T. Ladroit, C. A. Langlois and P. T. Bazin, of Quebec, arrived in Ottawa as a delegation representing those in the molasses trade, to interview the Minister of Customs in regard to the changes mentioned. They set forth that when the test was arranged at 55 degrees it was supposed that this would be high enough to cover all the ordinary grades of the article consumed in the raw state. Now, when a number of consignments happened to run, say a degree over the standard, that is, about 56, they were rated at six cents per gallon according to the tariff. The merchants who chanced to own these consignments could get no more for their goods than those parties who only paid 1½ cents per gallon for molasses which stood the test of 55 degrees. As a consequence they were unable to handle the product at a profit in competition with the others. Several cases of this kind were cited. Under these circumstances the delegates asked that the mode of sampling be changed, and that the practice applied to sugar and spirits be applied to molasses. In regard to liquors the average is taken. For instance, some puncheons are a little under the standard, while others are a little over, so that by striking an average of the whole cargo, according to its saccharine strength, a more equitable principle would obtain, and the difficulties in the trade be greatly lessened—in short, that the tests of the strength of the molasses be rated upon the average strength of the whole cargo, provided it comes from the same port, instead of upon each individual test from each puncheon.

The Minister of Customs has since decided, under authority of section 6 of the last amended Tariff Act, to have regulations framed and issued for the better sampling of molasses, by which the average saccharine strength, as shown by polariscope test of each consignment or cargo, shall be accepted as the strength for duty, provided it is shown that such consignment or cargo of molasses comes within the wording and meaning of item 156 of the amended tariff.

THE GROCER AS AN ADVERTISING MEDIUM.

OSWEGO STARCH FACTORY,
T. KINGSFORD & SON,
Oswego, N. Y., July 14, 1890.

DEAR SIR,—We take pleasure in renewing our half-page advertisement in your valuable journal "THE CANADIAN GROCER," and enclose herewith our formal order No. 2 2746 to cover same for one year.

Please make a change in a line of the electro substituting therefor the words "The Standard of Excellence Absolutely Pure." See copy herewith.

Another year's experience is an additional proof of the value of the "THE CANADIAN GROCER" as an advertising medium.

Your's truly,
T. KINGSFORD & SON.

[It is particularly gratifying to have such a letter from the Kingsfords'. They study advertising as carefully as they do any department of their business. They are one of our largest advertisers, and they certainly would not be with us continuously for three years if it did not pay them. There is a moral in this for many other business men. —ED. GROCER.]

KINGSTON GROCERS.

KINGSTON, July 17, 1890.

DEAR GROCER,—You are no doubt wondering why I have not written something of the doings of our city grocers' during the past year. Well, to begin with, our Association went down to the bottom because no other grocer cared to spend his valuable time doing secretary's work. I resigned feeling that I had done my share, giving a year and a half to the building up of the Association, which meant a great deal of time and talk.

The Andrews' Mercantile Protective System is being tried, and so far has been a great success. It is going for deadbeats, and old accounts, many outlawed, are being paid up by parties to screen their names and reputation and to keep them off the fence, hence the expression "Come off the fence." Mr. Andrews deserves to be supported by merchants everywhere, for he is saving them thousands of dollars. His charges are small considering the amount of labor expended and the great saving his system is to the merchant.

There is great dissatisfaction yet over the tobacco seizure. It looks very crooked on the part of Government or its aids, when Gananoque merchants get the fines refunded and Kingston merchants are bluffed, sat on and told to keep quiet. Sir John Macdonald, in answer to a letter from me, promised to give the matter his careful attention. It may be a small matter to him, but it is a great loss to many here, and in some cases it seems nothing more or less than common theft.

If the merchants of Canada would only join hands they would soon get their just rights. At present they are targets for the law and makers of it, and many an unjust dollar is taken from them.

What are they going to do about it? "Grin and bear, I suppose."

Yours respectfully,
JOHN GILBERT.

[We are sorry to learn that the Kingston Association is not in a flourishing condition. They must not be discouraged. Most successful associations had a hard struggle at first. Everything depends on the secretary. We do not believe he should work for nothing, but that he should receive pay—in fact be well paid. If he is enthusiastic he will earn every cent of it, and the Association will be amply repaid in many ways. What member of the Toronto Association will not admit that the time and attention given to the work by the secretary, ably assisted by a few of the officers, has been of great value to the entire trade of this city as well as to that of the Dominion?—ED. GROCER.]

The Inland Revenue Department has recently issued a bulletin of about thirty pages which is devoted exclusively to the subject of baking powder and which shows that the majority of the goods in the market are adulterated and unfit for use. Prof. A. McGill, who has had charge of this important work for the Government, says that "imperial baking powder is an excellent baking powder." A word to the sensible housekeeper should be sufficient.

HAMILTON BOARD OF TRADE.

The annual meeting of the Hamilton Board of Trade took place on the 15th inst., but on account of the holiday season the attendance was not as large as usual. The retiring president, Mr. F. C. Bruce, read his report, which was carefully worded and interesting, and full of information and statistics. Mr. Jonn Knox was chosen president for the current year, Mr. George E. Bristol vice-president, and Mr. C. K. Smith, secretary. The council chosen was as follows :—F. C. Bruce, A. T. Wood, J. J. Mason, H. N. Kittson, J. M. Lottridge, Alex. Turner, Geo. Roach, W. A. Robinson, T. H. Macpherson, Wm. Bowman, Archdale Wilson, Hon. W. E. Sanford, Wm. Hendrie, W. H. Gillard, A. Gartshore, W. H. Glassco, J. J. Stuart, R. Æ. Kennedy, R. B. Skinner, C. Fearman, Geo. E. Tuckett, John Milne. Some objection was taken by Mr. Archdale Wilson to the cut-and-dried system of choosing the members of the council, and it was agreed that next year the strength of the council should be reduced and the members appointed on it be chosen by ballot.

SUGAR BEET CULTURE.

The beet sugar industry which was started at Farnham and Berthier in Quebec province a few year's ago and subsequently failed is now to be revived. A number of French capitalists of experience, with Baron Zilliere at their head, have taken hold of the Farnham establishment, and the greatest energy seems to have been infused into the project. The director-general of the company in question is Mons. A. Mosy, an experienced beet sugar manufacturer from Europe, and this gentleman has made the following interesting proposition to the farmers of Farnham and the province in general. In the first place, the beet seed is supplied to the farmers free by the company in question, which agrees to pay $4.50 per ton for the roots delivered either at the factory or on board cars. In the next place an advance of $10 per acre will be made in the month of June to the farmer who will have at least three acres of beet roots under cultivation. A second advance of $10 per acre will be made by the company in the month of July to every farmer who sccceeds well with his crop. In order to encourage the farmers in the successful culture of the beet root, Mr. Mosy likewise offers prizes of from $50 to $100 for the best culture of three acres or less. It is said that an acre of ground well cultivated will produce ten tons of beet roots, and the managers allege that the establishments at Berthier and Farnham can work up 15,000 tons of beet root per annum, and produce three million pounds of sugar.

The steamers Modjeska and Macassa have for the past few days been bringing to Toronto large cargoes of new potatoes from Hamilton. Mr. Armstrong, the manager of the company in Toronto, says they are grown on the farms at the corners of the Governor's road and the sidelide running up the mountain.

A motion was made on behalf of Messrs. Eby, Blaine & Co., before Mr. Justice Ferguson at Osgoode Hall, asking for speedy judgment against grocer Noble, as he entered no defence in a civil action, and it was rumored that he was about to leave town. The request was denied, and the motion enlarged until Tuesday next.

The action against T. H. Noble of this city, for selling liquor without a license has received a new impetus. A short time ago the cases were, by the mutual consent of the prosecutor and defendant, seemingly brought to an amicable close, but there has been another rupture of friendly relations, and now Mr. Curry declares that he will bring Noble up on all the counts.

Mr. Adam Brown, M. P. for Hamilton, has been appointed by the Dominion Government Honorary Commissioner to represent Canada at the Jamaica Exhibition, which will be held in January next. The idea is to promote trade with the Antilles. The Commissioner purposes ascertaining at once what Canada is capable of economically supplying to the West India Islands, and will take steps to induce Canadian producers and manufacturers to exhibit their products.

Mr. Tilton, Deputy Minister of Fisheries, speaking on Saturday, stated : "The department is advised that throughout almost the whole of the Prince Edward Island coast and on the north shore of Nova Scotia mackerel fishing is reported very good, not only as regards the present catch, but also for future prospects. At Liverpool thirty barrels were taken in one drag scene, and large schools were observed in the harbor. At Tignish the fishermen are doing very well, and also at various points on the Nova Scotia coast, and mackerel are taking the hook freely. There are large schools forming at Roseway and North Island, N.S., and some good takes at Albert, Georgetown, Port Latour and Loo Rock. Last week's catch at John's Island and Publicoo amount to 300 barrels of mackerel.

The order-in-council of the 14th day of May, 1889, authorizing the importation free of customs duty under certain restrictions of second process molasses for the manufacture of blacking is amended so as to read as follows : "Second process molasses, or molasses derived from the manufacture of 'molasses sugar,' testing by polariscope less than 35 degrees, when imported by manufacturers of blacking for use in their own factories in the manufacture of blacking, shall be and the same is hereby added to the list of articles that may be imported into Canada free of customs duty, conditional that the importers shall in addition to making oath at the time of entry that such molasses are imported for such use and will not be used for any other purpose, cause such molasses to be at once mixed in a proper tank made for the purpose, with at least one-fifth of the quantity thereof of cod or other oil, whereby such molasses may be rendered unfit for any other use, mixing to be done in the presence of a customs officer at the expense of the importer, and under such further regulations as may from time to time be considered necessary in the interest and protection of the revenue, and that, until such mixing is done and duly certified on the face of the entry thereof by such customs officer, the entry shall be held to be incomplete and the molasses subject to the usual rates of duty as when imported for any other purpose."

BUSINESS MEN COMBINE.

A meeting was held at Millbank on the 9th of July, when the merchants of North Waterloo organized themselves into a Board of Trade "on the lines suggested by the Merchants' Convention at Hamilton" and adjourned till the 16th, to meet at Linwood, when the following Executive Officers were elected: J. G. Reiner, Wellesley, Pres.; D. J. Nichlin, Morningdale, Vice-Pres.; Jas. Pollock, Linwood, 2nd Vice-Pres.; H. Gleiser, Milverton, Sec-Treas. Executive Committee: A. Bundy, Linwood; Jas. Hall, Hawkesville; Geo. Doering, Wellesley; P. F. Schummer, St. Clements; W. F. Thompson, Millbank.

The following merchants are members of the Board of Trade: J. G. Reiner, J. H. Zinkann, Anthony Starr, Geo. Doering, Wellesley; Reider & Ruby, Appel & Katzenmeir, New Hamburg; Cressman & Co., J. & J. Livingston, Baden; James Hall, D. R. Weber, Hawkesville; P. F. Schummer, St. Clements; John Schnurr, Figh, Kern & Bundy, David Pollock, Linwood; D. N. Nichlin, Morningdale; Peter Zoeger, Newton; Whaley & Loth, F. W. Guenther, H. Gleiser, Milverton; A. Large, Poole; W. F. Thompson, Millbank; J. H. Houston, Cross Hill.

It was agreed that all egg peddling waggons be stopped at once, and the following prices be paid until further notice: For butter and eggs, 12c.; also that no butter be taken on accounts after Nov. 30th, of each year.

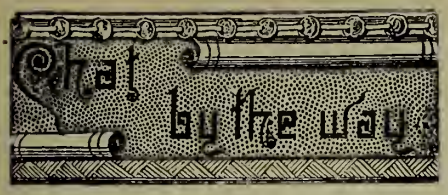
Meeting was adjourned to meet at Wellesly on the 23rd of July, so as to give the merchants of Tavistock and Shakespeare an opportunity to join the Board.

The business men are all very keen for this organization.

The commercial soil of this province appears to be hard, but here and there the vitality of the seed scattered by the Hamilton convention asserts itself, and, breaking its way up through the crust, shows that the principle is a living and propagating influence in trade. We hope that soon there will be not merely here and there an outgrowth of the movement begun at Hamilton, but that there will be a good crop of effects evolved from that movement. The amendment of political conditions is usually undertaken with a will when those conditions become a serious grievance. Why should not the amendment of trade conditions that are oppressive be undertaken with equal heartiness? It needs but robustness of purpose to mend all things that are marred. There is nobody who will argue there is not much that needs mending. It is not conviction that is lacking, it is will. Every step taken along the line of progress will receive our applause and the applause of every one really solicitous for the highest good of trade. The union among the merchants of North Waterloo is such a step. We congratulate those business men that they have taken it, and hope there may be in the sequence of that step all the benefit that would flow from the most ideal harmony and individual loyalty. There is an array of names goodly not only in the number but in the business reputation of the parties, that gives a guarantee of success hardly less assuring than success itself. We say to other business men in similar districts, imitate the example of the North Waterloo dealers.

PICNIC AND EXCURSION DELICACIES.

With apologies to the American Grocer—Now is the time to set your wits at work and arrange an attractive display of groceries suitable for the use of picnics, excursion parties, tourists, campers out, etc. It is hard to form an idea of how much can be accomplished by giving a little special attention to the sale of particular lines of goods in the season best adapted for their use. One of our most prosperous grocers in a thriving town this side of Chicago never hears of an excursion or picnic without sending the people principally interested a price list calling special attention to his ability to supply their wants in the line of edibles. He is full of enterprise and succeeds. Another grocer of our acquaintance places himself in touch with the officers of secret societies who give cold suppers and in this way takes in many a dollar which would otherwise be missed. Our purpose, however, is to suggest the advantage of making a display of these goods and to give a hint of how they might be managed so as to attract attention.



If your store is oblong in shape, clear away a space toward the rear and get as near the centre of the store as may be convenient for your regular business. Take a dozen empty canned goods cases and pile them on their sides with the bottoms facing your front door. Back of these pile a number of empty cases to the same height so as to form a counter or table. Now, cover the top of this and about six inches of the sides with stout manilla paper. We are now ready to arrange the goods and are supposed to be standing in front of the structure, backs to the door. On each corner place a six or fourteen-pound can of corned beef. Along the front edge arrange a row of Clark's ox tongue. It should be borne in mind that we are not advocating any special brands and mentioning only those which are familiar to the trade. If your stock of canned goods does not contain any of the brands mentioned, of course, common sense indicates that you should use those which you have. On top of the cans of rolled ox tongue arrange a row of two-pound cans of corned beef. Now pile up some more miscellaneous stock back of this row so as to form the base of a second row, which can be made up of some of the oval tins of Pickert's soused mackerel, kippered herring, etc. Having fancy labels, they make a very good display. It should be borne in mind that this arrangement is to form the base of a pyramid display, and the subsequent arrangement will depend very largely upon the stock and taste of the grocer making the exhibition. The items which enter most largely into the arrangement are the potted meats, roast and boned chicken and turkey, etc. Huckins' and Cunningham & Du Fourier meat preparations make a very showy display. If you have room enough, and can place at the ends of the boxes a series of other boxes at an angle, the effect will be very much enhansed. On these can be arranged glass goods, such as pickles, catsups, fruit syrups, mineral waters, etc. With a display of this kind at each side, and the handsome labels of the canned goods in the centre, it certainly should attract attention. On the ends, with the bottled goods, can be placed to advantage many of the French fancy groceries, such as olives, olive oil, sardines, mustard, vinegar, brandied fruits, etc. After you have reached the top of the pyramid it can be set off very gracefully by a row of bottles of lime juice; the long, graceful taper of these bottles makes a good finish to any display. So much for the arrangement of the goods.

Now get large sheets of stout manila paper and tack them over the front of your boxes. If you can get any colored paper, cut it in strips about 1½ or 2 inches wide and paste it around the edges of the manila paper. This will at the same time form a frame and cover the tacks in the manila paper. In the spaces surrounded by the colored paper have one of your clerks who can print nicely with a marking brush,(and if he cannot print nicely you had better not attempt it, but get a printer or somebody else to try it), make a price list of the most popular items in the display. On the centre space under the canned goods, a large heading consisting of the words "For Picnic Use," will be apt to attract attention. It is probable that you will have more goods on the stand than you will have room to quote on the paper below, but you can manage this by quoting only those that are in most demand.

A display of this kind is sure to attract a great deal of attention, and will certainly make sales enough to compensate for the time and trouble it takes. Effective display, cleanliness, prompt service, a cheerful courtesy and good goods are the elements of success in the retail grocery business, and every grocer who provides these features is sure to make the thing go.

The Norton Manufacturing Company of Hamilton have placed on the market a one and two quart tin fruit can for domestic use, with a 3-inch opening and cap, to be sealed with wax. They can be had at retail at half the price of glass jars, and for nearly all kinds of fruit and vegetables can be used for years if properly taken care of. Their object in introducing these goods is to overcome any prejudice that may exist in the minds of parties who do their own canning against fruit and vegetables packed in tin. Try the new package, and be convinced that it is the cheapest and best in the market. Orders for a sample gross solicited from the retail trade. A recipe for sealing wax accompanies each gross.

Soap and water are cheap, but soil on goods is expensive.

Some person entered W. E. & C. Stanley's warehouse, Lucan, one night recently and stole a quantity of tobacco.

The Merchants' Tea Company, on Dundas street, London, which has been run on the "prize basis," has suspended operations.

The Furness Line steamer "Ripon City" arrived at Halifax, on Sunday, with 2,300 tons of beet sugar for the Nova Scotia refinery.

Mr. John Macdonald, manager of the Hudson Bay Co., at Elephinston, goes to Ontario shortly where he takes a similar position for the same company.

The new patent barrel factory established in Goderich by Mr. Joseph Williams is in full blast, nearly a dozen hands being employed, and turning out at the rate of 700 barrels a day.

The trade and many friends of Mr. Thomas Kinnear will regret to learn of the death of his son Frank Pearcy. The little fellow was six years of age and was a lad of great promise.

Work has been commenced on the Bell telephone company's new building, Hamilton. Among the contractors are: J. E. Riddell, tinsmith and iron-work; John Clayton, painting; A. Clark, plumbing.

Count de Raffinac has left Winnipeg for France, where he expects to enlist capital sufficient to float a large sugar beet factory at Whitewood. Farmers are interested in the scheme, and have sown a large acreage of beets.

Mrs. Butler, Picton, has bought out the stock of W. A. Ruttan, grocer, for cash. With an additional variety and increase of staple goods, she is doing a very nice trade. She contemplates opening a millinery business also.

In a talk with the manager of Lake of Woods Milling Company, at Keewatin, this week, our representative was informed that crops are in very fair condition this year west. He also says flour will drop when the wheat comes in.

The first shipment of this year's peaches grown in Ontario reached Toronto on Saturday. They were grown by Mr. C. D. Field, of Niagara, and were consigned to Mr. W. H. Smith, commission dealer, of this city. The sample was good.

The other day two small boys went into John Kenrick's grocery store, Hamilton, 91 West avenue north, and made a trifling purchase. A short time afterwards Mrs. Kenrick heard the bell on the till ring and went into the store, where she found one of the boys behind the counter, while the other was keeping watch on the door. The boys ran off without taking anything. One of them carried his arm in a sling.

Mr. F. Sinclair, of the Canada Sugar Refinery, Montreal, interviewed Hon. Mr. Bowell, on Friday, in reference to the adjustment of certain matters between his company and the department arising out of the fire at the refinery last year.

Alderman Hallam, of Toronto, has purchased all of the wool bought in the Sarnia market with the exception of about 20,000 lbs., which is being used in the woolen mills at Sarnia for manufacturing purposes. He has some 20,000 lbs at the station waiting for shipment.

A report reached the Customs Department on Saturday that the inhabitants of the French islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon, in the Gulf, are again engaged in the (to them) lucrative occupation of smuggling whiskey to Canada. The officials of the department are on the alert.

The Act passed two sessions ago providing that all spiritous liquors manufactured in Canada shall remain in bond unsold until two years from the day of manufacture went into effect on Dominion day. Returns to the department show that the enormous amount of eleven million gallons is now in bond.

With the approaching completion of the market building at Vancouver, B. C., a market by-law becomes a necessity. Inspector Huntley has been giving deep study to the subject of city markets recently and after much labor and research, including a perusal of similar measures adopted in the lead-
